WEST OF SCOTLAND CLUB.

West of Scotland N. and B.F.C.M.B. and F.B.A., held usual monthly meeting, on October 9th, in Nelson's Hotel, Glasgow, Mr. C. Hunter presiding. The trophies were balloted. A silver rose bowl is to be given to the Crested section, a silver flower pot to the Mules and Hybrids, and a silver rose bowl to the Border sertion, all to be given for young birds bred 1909. Mr. Lennie then gave an exhibition of rage-making, and in a very short time made a Norwich show cage, and also a small carrying cage. During the progress he showed all the ways of bending and fixing the wires. The books will rlose for membership on the 31st October, and members, both old and new, must he clear by that date, or they will not be eligible to compete at annual show.—Geo. Smart, Scr.

BINGLEY AND DISTRICT O.S.

A very instructive washing exhibition and disrussion took plare on October 19th, when Mr. James Hartley put four birds through in first-rate style. Mr. Hartley has a novel style, using a large bar of soap, on which he plares the bird's tail and flights, using his brush on the soap; in quick time he had the four birds wrapped up and dryiug. While this was going on, a fair amount of questions and discussion followed. Mr. H. contended that providing you had a good specimen, that method was all that was required to make it fit to show. At this juncture Mr. H. took the birds out of the cloths (after being in about 20 minutes), and made special mention of the drying process. A good deal more birds were spoiled, he said, by drying too quickly, than by soap left in the feather. A vote of thanks brought the meeting to a close.—A. Livesey, Hon. Sec.

NELSON AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

A lecture was given in the Assembly Room, Weavers' Institutr, on October 22nd, by Mr. S. W. Birchley, entitled "In Birdland with a Camera." Dr. Jackson, J.P., proved a very capable chairman, and in introduring the lerturer, gave his listeners a very appropriate but short speerh, and at the close expressed his great pleasure in seeing and hearing the lecture, whirh was illustrated by photos taken from Nature, at very great expense and personal risk by Mr. Birchley. The elertric light was used for the first time with the photos, and produced a far better and clearer pirture than the ordinary gas or lime-light rcproduction. The lecturer declared that the Assembly room was the finest hall he had had the pleasure to lecture in. The audience, though not so numerous as desired, was very appreciative, and showed it at the close of the lecture in the usual Lancashire way, by a hearty clap. The lecturer and his operator, Mr. Howard, were kindly entertained, and put up for the night by the secretary of the Nelson C.B.S., whose kindness was very much appreciated.—John England.

LANCASHIRE C.A.

For the meeting arranged in connection with the Rochdale Town Hall Show a large number of members were present, Mr. J. Law taking the chair. The most important business was the appointment of Mr. C. Whitehead to the post of secretary, and I hope members will rally round him. It was decided that our treasurer, Mr. Wm. Hardy, of Oldham, should judge the birds eligible to compete for medal for best bird in champion section, the Rochdale O.C. giving us full permission to remove the required birds, for which we tender our hearty thanks. It was decided that we take the highest bird of any member in every class, which resulted in 10 birds being brought out, and the judge awarded the medal to Mr. W. Adams. This gave satisfaction to all our members. It was also decided to hold our next meeting at Littleborough in connection with their show, which is being held the last Saturday in November. Below is the list of points gained in competitions by our members at the show:—Champion Section: Messrs. W. Lee 24 points, Adams 22, Conaghy 15, Garner 15, Nadin 14, Oldham 14, Lowe 8, and Laycock 3; Novice Section: Messrs. Turner 21 points, Fish 17, Fitton 13, Whitehead 13, Beattie, 7.—Wm. Adams.

The Shows.

BRISTOL.

The 19th show of the Bristol F.A. was held in the Drill Hall on Oct. 27th and 28th, and was again a big success, the entry being good, just over 600, and the quality splendid right through the show; especially was this so in the Crest, Cinnamon and Yorkshire sections, where the handsome challenge bowls drew together some wonderfully fine specimens. The arrangements were splendid. Mr. T. R. Ind was again the superintendent of the section, with Mr. E. A. Lovell as his assistant, and Mrs. A. B. Roberts, with Messrs. A. S. Bann, F. Buckland, S. H. Maggs, and E. G. Screen, as stewards, and a better lot of workers one could not desire. The exhibits were all nicely staged and most carefully fed and watered whilst the room in which they were shown was brilliantly lighted, and made very snug and comfortable by a big heavy curtain, which was thrown across the doorway. The Bristol executive know how to run a show, and they do it. Mr. A. Tottle, the chairman of the general committee, takes more than a passing interest in cage birds, and he was ever ready to help by his advice and guidance, whilst, Mr. G. T. H. Magga, the general secretary, did all that such an official could do in the interests of exhibitors and exhibits. Mr. T. Heath judged Norwich Crests, Cinnamons, A.O.V., and Selling, and Mr. C. A. House the remainder; and their awards gave general satisfaction.

Mr. C. A. House's Classes.

PAIGNTON.

The Torbay O.S. held their third annual show on October 27th, and they must be heartily congratulated upon achieving a great success. The venue was again the Town Hall, a most excellent place for a bird show, being well lighted, roomy, and quite free from draughts. The President (H. Whitley, Esq.) once again kindly lent the Society a splendid collection of palms, ferns and flowers to decorate the hall, and these being nicely grouped, gave a most pleasing appearance. The quality of the exhibits in nearly all the classes was most excellent. Norwich and Yorkshires were particularly good, and the competition most keen. The special for best in these two sections fell to Mr. Easterling's grand clear yellow Yorkshire, after a tough fight with the clear yellow Norwich of Messrs. Gill and Pethick's. The special for best Britisher went to Mr. W. Howe for his Great Grey Shrike, a bird of much merit and nicely put down. In the dark Mule class, the Exeter winning Canary-Bullie of Messrs. Lashbrooke and Son, was easily second, and was looking well. The members' classes contained many nice exhibits; several of the winners would have done well in the open. The exhibits were nicely staged round the hall, and were well looked after by a good working committee of genuine fanciers, of whom Mr. Webber is the popular chairman. Mr. C. Parnell makes an ideal secretary, being most methodical, courteous, and obliging, and the Society should feel fortunate in having such a capable officer at the helm. Catalogues with marginal awards and specials were on sale within half-an-hour of the last slip being handed in, a truly smart performance, reflecting the greatest credit on all concerned. The awards were made by Mr. J. H. Payne, whose awards gave satisfaction.

SHEFFIELD AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

A very successful members' show was held on October 23rd in the Friends' School, Leeds-road, Attercliffe, a very good room for a show, being well lighted by large windows on both sides, as well as being nice and lofty, and having good light on at night. The birds, too, were free from draughts. Entries came up well, 346 birds being staged, while the exhibits were all that could be desired. It is noticeable how the novices are coming up; two of them got the first and second specials for best young Yorkshires in show. The committee are indebted to the following gentlemen for contributing special prizes: Messrs. Bingham, Bradshaw, Crookes, Carl, Dickinson, Garnett, Hodkin, Peace, Scott and Walsh. Winners of specials:—For best young Yorks., F. Jones; 2nd, G. Revell; 3rd, W. H. Champion; for best young Nor., E. Johnson; 2nd, T. Hemmings; 3rd, J. Woolhouse; for best Crest, old, J. W. Crookes; young, J. Evans; Crest-bred, old, G. Moore; young, J. Evans; for most points Crest or C.B., J. W. Crookes; British, P. Walsh; 2nd, H. Bishop; 3rd, A. Hobson. Mr. J. H. Roe judged. The secretaries, Messrs. Lindsay and Bingham, had everything well in hand, and with the help of Mr. A. Hobson, as steward, the arrangements were carried out expeditiously and well.

CLAPHAM.

Held October 27th and 28th, in the Avondale Hall, a splendid venue, which we have before had occasion to praise as being all one could wish for the purpose. A very good entry was received in response to the generous classification and prize money offered, and in every section the quality of the exhibits was grand. The Norwich Plainheads were a very fine lot, while some clinking good Yorkshires were staged. The chief features, however, were the British and Foreign sections. These contained birds of the very highest merit and such as are seldom seen, even at the Glasshouse. There was, however, one disappointment to fanciers and visitors which was occasioned by the absence of Mrs. Frostick's much-talked-of Dartford Warbler, but our representative understood that circumstances had arisen (over which Mrs. F. had no control) which decided her not to exhibit the bird. Mr. Maxwell's old champions, the Chough and Magpie, the only survivors of his disastrous fire of some few seasons ago, were in their usual places, looking as bonny as ever. The insectivorous classes contained some gems, notably the Hon. Mrs. Burke's Nightingale. Mr. Maxwell's Black Redstart and Yellow Wagtail, and Mr. Frostick's Lesser Spotted Woodpecker, claimed their fair share of attention. One Magpie, tired of waiting for the judge, was taking a fly round the hall. The Foreigners, always a centre of interest, were particularly strong in numbers and quality. The now well-known King Bird of Paradise filled the one and only place that could possibly be alloted to such a gem. One new-comer was a very pretty Ruby-throated Flycatcher, exhibited by Mr. Miller, sweet little bird in exquisite condition. Mr. Chas. Cooper's well known Blue and Yellow Macaw was as chirpy as ever. Mr. Maxwell won the challenge cup for most points in the show. The exhibition was opened by the Mayor, who was accompanied by the Mayoress, who was graciously pleased to become a member of the Society, and purchased a bird before leaving. The able and very hard-working Secretary, Mr. A. C. Askew, had made admirable arrangements and well merited the success which met his efforts. He was efficiently assisted by the other officials, comprising: Committee—Canaries: Messrs. S. H. W. Baker, D. T. Barker, A. W. Masters, T. G. Morris, R. A. Newley, A. L. Priest, M. Thorpe, G. J. Warley. British Birds: J. Brighty, F. Clark, W. Francis, E. Hathaway, T. J. Hose. Foreign: C. Cooper. Hybrids: E. Sexton. The judges were Messrs. J. Dobson, W. Mundell, and A. Silver. Their awards seemed to be well received.

GLOUCESTER.

The Gloucester and Dist. C.B.S. held their annual open show on October 27th and 28th in the Northgate Mansions, where a large number of fanciers and the general public met. The hall in which the exhibits were staged is an ideal one in every respect, and a better one it would be hard to find; being electrically lit overhead, the birds could be seen to the best advantage. The show was held under C.B.U. rules, and was favoured with the patronage of the Y.C.C., the S.Y.C.C., and the B.F.C.C. The exhibits were beautifully staged, and the whole exhibition was as attractive as it was possible to make it. For this, and for the capital general management throughout, the hon. sec., Mr. J. Houghton, and his assistants are to be thanked. Mr. Houghton very evidently knows how to manage a show, and he did it admirably on this occasion. His hard-working committee consists of Messrs. Williams, Wasley, Gwilliam, Bishop and Duggan. Mr. J. Houghton won the Norwich bowl, and Mr. T. J. King the "Any Variety Canary" bowl. The S.Y.C.C. specials were won by Messrs. Crisp (2) and Hawes Bros. in the champions, and Mrs. Gill and Mr. H. Rogers in the novices. Sandiford's special went to Mr. H. Duggan. Specials for best birds were won by Miss Gibbons, and Messrs. J. Houghton, Follwell, E. Stephenson, Kings, Amblers, Smith, Jones, Walton, Poole, Wasley, and Grant. The judges were Messrs. H. W. Battye and W. Vardy, whose awards appeared to give perfect satisfaction.

The Critique.

NOR. YELL. (6): 1, spl, Houghton, grand feather, fed to perfection, well staged; 2, Brown, another grand bird, fails only in wing carriage, good 2nd; 3, spl., Wasley, some preferred for 2nd, nice one; 4, Harber; vhc, Williams hc, Folwell. BUFF (8): 1, two spls, 2, Houghton, 1st lovely bird, grandly frosted, well placed, 2nd another grand bird; 3, Stephenson, should be heard of later; 4, Davis; vhc, Williams; hc, Brown; c, Walton and Noakes. YELL. TKD., ETC. (4): 1, Spillman, eye tkd., got a W.C.O.S. (Plymouth) look about it, nice short flights, quality of the best; 2, Houghton, nice, heavier bird; 3, Hitchins, useful Nor.; 4, Colvill and Wright. BUFF (7): 1, Wasley, tkd. both eyes, fed well, deserved 1st position; 2, Williams, another good bird, well put down; 3, Harber, another good one, hardly so nice in feather perhaps; 4, Houghton, grand mealy specimen; vhc, hc, Walton and Noakes; c, Spillman, fed to perfection. YELL. UNFLIGH. (10): 1, spl, Folwell, lovely bird, short flights and tail, beautiful head, true to type; 2, Mortara, again a nice bird, very chubby; 3, Houghton, another good one, wants a little tightening, will improve; 4, Wasley, rich col.; vhc, Spillman; hc, Duggan; c, Spoor, grand stock bird. BUFF: 1, spl, Houghton, grand type of a Nor., good enough to win anywhere; 2, Spoor, not the Bullfinch type of winner perhaps, but a good one nevertheless; 3, Williams, good bird; 4, Mortara, nice bird, fails only in head; vhc, Houghton; hc, Brown. YELL. HEN (9): 1, Wasley, lovely little lady, needs no comment; 2, vhc, Houghton, 2nd another good bird, should do a lot of winning; 3, Harber, could win at some shows, a good one, true to Nor. type; 4, hc, Wasley, 4th had been having a dip when we saw it; c, Lees. BUFF (12): 1, sp., Stephenson, heavy variegated, well frosted, well worth position; 2, vhc, Lawson, 2nd grand bird, not quite so good in head; 3, Spillman, wonderful chest, well shown; 4, Houghton; hc, Davis, bird we liked much; c, Walton and Noakes. YELL., NAT. COL.: 1, spl, Houghton, splendid bird, inclined to be a bit browy, very nice all over; 2, Quarman, grand col., well up, a good 2nd; 3, Spillman, fine bird, will do some winning; 4, Preece vhc, Williams; hc, Spoor. BUFF: 1, Stephenson, a giant, in splendid trim, a credit to its owner; 2, Bateman, grand one, well shown; 3, Barnes, bird which some thought could have gone higher; 4, Soper; vhc, Preece, wants more handling; hc, Williams. NOVICE (20), a really grand class: 1, spl, 2, Duggan, well done, a topper, 2nd another real Nor.; 3, Barnes; 4, Bennett, both good type, well shown; vhc, hc, Colville and Knight; c, Barnes. CREST (2): 2, King, grand bird, well radiated crest, good frontal, lovely feather; 4, spl, King, splendid drooping crest, a capital exhibit; vhc, Peters, another good one. C.-B.: 2, Hands, well placed, a credit to Mr. H.; 4, vhc, King, two grandly horned specimens. CREST HEN (4): 2, Hands, well groomed, in right position, a nice exhibit, well placed; 4, vhc, King; hc, Grant. C.-B. HEN (2): 2, 4, King, 2 grand birds, pity there was not more competition. YORKS. CHAM.—YELL CL., (11): 1, spl, Amblers, straight as a pencil, good feather, stands like a Guardsman; 2, Crisp, rather stouter, grand exhibit; 3, Bishop, fails just a wee bit in head, good one, worth its position; 4, Pattrick, good carriage and tail; vhc, Rennie; hc, Bishop; c, Rorke. BUFF CL. (14): 1, spl, Amblers, a bird we liked much, a grand first; 2, Crisp, another nice one, well placed; 3, hc, Rennie, 3rd good, long-sided bird, will do a lot of winning later; 4, Elsmore, very typical all through; vhc, Hawes Bros. MKD.: 1, Rorke; 2, Pattrick; 3, Rennie; 4, Bishop; vhc, Amblers; c, Hawes Bros., all these were well placed, and were typical, good birds. BUFF HEN (9): 1, Rorke, grand one, perfect model, wins well in a good class; 2, Elsmore, nice pipe tail, well up on leg, good one again; 3, Crisp, clean as a pencil, stands well; 4, Bishop; vhc, hc, Rennie; c, Pattrick. NOVICE YELL. (5): 1, spl, Smith, nice bird, very slim, a credit to its owner; 2, Thomas, looking a bit rough when we saw it, good one however; 3, Rogers; 4, Lohr; vhc, Gill. BUFF (6): 1, spl, Gill, well filled neck and clean cut, grandly feathered, well placed; 2, Whittome, another good one, worth its place; 3, Smith; 4, hc, Rogers, both 3 and 4 were good ones, and well placed; vhc, Lohr. MKD. (3): 2, Gill; 4, Smith; vhc, Whittome. UNFLIG. (4): 1, Merrett, good bird, but not quite finished yet; 3, Lohr; 4, Smith; vhc, Parkyn, all nice ones, and typical. YELL. HEN (5): 1, spl, Rogers; 2, Merrett; 3, Whittome; 4, Lohr; vhc, Smith, all very nicely staged, good ones. BUFF (6): 1, Smith; 2, Thomas; 3, Rogers; 4, Whittome; vhc, Gill; hc, Merrett, all very nicely put down, and well placed. BORD. YELL., CK. (3): 2, Miss Darell, real little gem, grandly feathered; 4, Gwilliam; vhc, Jones, both good ones, well placed. YELL. HEN (3): 2, spl., Jones, perky lady, greatly admired, very sweet; 4, Harrison; vhc, A. King. CL., ETC., BUFF CK. (4): 1, 4, Gwilliam, 1st grandly feathered, perfect little gem, 4th also a topper of a Bord.; vhc, J. Taylor. HEN (4): 1, Edwards; 2, Gwilliam; 4, Taylor, all three were good, and won their awards well. EVEN MKD.: 2, King, good one. UNEVEN MKD.: 1, Gwilliam; 3, Harrison; 4, Jones, again good ones, and were deserving of better competition. GREEN OR CINN.: 2, Harrison, green, tight, compact little gem, a real topper, very creditable; 4, vhc, Middleton, 4th green, also a good one, wins well the 4th prize. vhc a good Cinn. A.O.V. SELL. Entries close for Bo'ness on October 30th. Hurry up with your entries.—(ADVT.)

Will Mr. J. Ward kindly send us his address, and the plates he requires will he sent him by return.

Exhibitors remember, we accept all entries, none returned from the Rochdale Good Intent. —(ADVT.)

Entries for the Cheltenham Show, writes Mr. A. S. Treasure, the hon. secretary, are extended till October 31st.

Bridgend Show report, in the selling class, should have credited me with 3rd and h.c., writes Mr. G. T. Jones (Brecon).

Fraserburgh Show is fixed for January 5th, 1910, with Mr. Alexander Grant (76, Broad Street), as the secretary once again.

The green Border shown at Battersea and gaining 3rd prize, belongs to me, and not as in report.—COURTENEY A. BELLAMY (London, N.W.)

The Rochdale Good Intent Showroom is the best lighted room in Lancashire, and no carrying about of birds; all judged as staged.—(ADVT.)

Kindly note, writes Mrs. Kemp, late of 35, Litehan Street, Kentish Town, that I have removed to 34, Lovey Place, Kentish Town, London, N.W.

Will secretaries kindly note my change of address from Edward Road to The Aviaries, 35, Warner Road, Walthamstow, Essex, writes Mr. S. Boyce.

Will secretaries please note that I have removed from Aldergate, Tamworth, to 95, Cross Street, Kettlebrook, near Tamworth, writes Mr. G. E. Spencer.

Darlington Show report gives to Davey the 3rd prize in the ticked buff class, which is wrong, as I got 3rd, writes Mr. Roht. Dowey (Skelton in Cleveland).

The quarterly statement of accounts of the City and Suburban A.C.B., as sent us by the hon. secretary, Mr. Wynn, shows a cash balance in hand of £28 0s. 4d.

Plymouth Show report in the crestbred 1909 class, gives second as won by Mrs. Turner; it should have been Miss A. Turner.—Miss A. TURNER (Southampton).

We take this opportunity of thanking you for your splendid report of Morpeth Show, and wish your paper all the success it deserves.—E. COWLING, hon. secretary.

Owing to a misunderstanding we said last week that Mr. John McLay (Kirkintilloch), was parting with his crests and cresthreds, as well as his Norwich Plainheads, but we now hear that this well-known Scottish fancier is disposing of his noted stock of Plainheads only, owing to business calls.

Splendid classification at Banbridge. Fanciers should send for schedule to R. J. Hamilton.—(ADVT.)

I have changed my address from Park Road, West Ham, to 7, Bostell Hill, Plumstead (Kent), where I should be glad to receive schedules.—F. A. FORSE.

For high-class Norwich at low prices, see J. W. Ramsden's exhibits at the joint show at Lambeth Baths, Kennington Road, Thursday and Friday next.—(ADVT.)

London Provincial and Dulwich Joint Show. Ramsden's specials are confined to exhibits that have been colour fed solely on Ramsden's Pure Peppers.—(ADVT.)

Entries for Gravesend Open Show are very short. Send on at once, and I will classify. Will receive till 1st post Monday.—E. R. Fox, 12, New Road, Gravesend.—(ADVT.)

Mr. H. E. Wilkinson, of Stockbridge, will judge our members' show at St. George's Schools, on November 13th, writes Mr. J. Chambers, hon. secretary of the Leeds C.B.S.

That progressive metropolitan society, the Poplar and Dis. C.B.S. is holding its next annual show on December 11th, and the members are looking forward to achieving a record success.

Owing to a transposition of a line the schedule review of the Stockton-on-Tees and Dis. C.B.S. Show read wrongly last week. The schedule will be found reviewed again this week.

Plymouth Show report credits Jepp with winning two seconds and two thirds, in the open Norwich section, which is according to catalogue, writes Mr. G. Jeffs (Northampton), but it should read Jeffs.

Will fanciers kindly note, writes Mr. E. W. Johnson, hon. secretary of the Wihsey and Dis. C.B.S., that I have changed my address from Holroyd Hill, Wihsey, to 40, Ivy Terrace, Old Hill Top, Low Moor, Bradford.

The "Rendezvous" for next week is Lambeth Baths, and all good "fanciers" will converge thereon on Thursday and Friday, on the occasion of the Great Combined Show. Tickets 6d.; music, refreshments, comfort.—(ADVT.)

Will fanciers kindly note, writes Mr. W. J. Thomas, hon. secretary of the Millom and Dis. C.B.A., that we are holding our annual show on November 19th and 20th, when 24 classes will be provided, and Mr. J. H. Roe will judge.

I will present to the fancier making most entries throughout the Preston O.S. Show, writes the hon. secretary, Mr. R. Taylor, £2 2s., also 10s. 6d. to the member of the Scottish Norwich P.C. who makes most entries in the Norwich classes.

We have received a sample of medicated bird soap from Mr. John Guy (Lightburn Road, Runcorn), which is really excellent, and while quickly removing grime, does not kill the natural gloss of the plumage. It is very economical, too.

I should like to thank the Western Counties O.S. through CAGE BIRDS for their prompt payment of prize money, writes Mr. W. Hussey (Bath). I may state I received a cheque the second day of show at 8 a.m. I trust their show was a grand success.

Entries for our show, writes Mr. J. H. Willows, hon. secretary of the Midland Roller C.C., are very short indeed. We are extending date, and will accept any posted on Saturday next, October 30th. Roller fanciers please help us along with our first contest.

Our entries close on November 1st, writes Mr. A. E. Allen, joint hon. secretary of the Ramsgate Show, and at time of writing we have no entries whatever for eage-birds, notwithstanding a good classification, excellent prize money, and plenty of specials.

Owing to a committeeman taking some of our show catalogues away, writes Mr. B. Peake, hon. secretary of the Hanley and Dis. C.B.S., I was not able to send all away by post the same night. Our show was a record one for the society.

We sincerely regret to hear that Mr. R. Grant, of Bideford, has been compelled to relinquish his interest in the Fancy owing to being attacked by some disease said to be incurable, but which we trust may yet yield to medical skill.

We much regret that in our report of Darlington Show the name of Mr. F. Marwood (Thornaby-on-Tees), was accidentally omitted as being the judge of the British and Hybrid sections, in which his awards, we hear, were exceedingly well received.

The Selkirkshire P. and P.A. have fixed their show for December 18th, writes Mr. A. J. Brodie, the secretary, and there will be. in the Canary Section, 8 classes for Border Fancies, and 4 for Norwich. Mr. J. Thomson (Newton Grange), will judge.

We beg to thank you for the grand report in your paper, of Battersea Show, write Messrs. Easterling and Allen, the secretaries. We have had a host of letters congratulating us on the care taken of the birds, quick despatch, and prompt payment of prize money.

Kindly allow me to correct an error in CAGE BIRDS. My name should have read Thomas Burns, 30, Hammond Street, Newcastle-on-Tyne, and not M. Burns, as published in the correspondence in relation to the making of moving fronts.—THOMAS BURNS (Newcastle).

Our members have rallied round well since it was announced in CAGE BIRDS that we were going to wind up the society, writes Mr. W. H. Lewis, hon. secretary of the Morriston and Dis. C.B.S. We expect to have a most successful show, and we hope exhibitors will do their best for us. There is no extension of entries, as I think it unfair to committees that entries should be coming in until a day or two before a show.

We have received three cleverly coloured pictures of birds from Master Freddy Giles, of Pimlico, S.W., who, though 8 years old only, is evidently quite skilful with the paint-brush.

Our annual show, writes Mr. F. E. Hawkes, hon. secretary of the Liverpool B.B.A., will be held on November 27th, when 63 classes will be provided, and Messrs. W. A. Cowgill and A. G. Davis will judge. This is the last show for the season's specials, including cups, medals, and rose bowls.

I received an order for a Roller Canary, for £3 10s., from an advertisement in CAGE BIRDS, and my customer has written to me to say he is delighted, writes Mr. Bernard Hollins (Hull). I have just bought a breeder's stock of some of the finest Rollers, which have won several prizes in Germany.

We have extended the date of entries closing, writes Mr. J. E. Wood, hon. secretary of the Leicester and Leicestershire Hand-in-Hand C.B.S., to November 2nd. There is a splendid list of specials, and we hope fanciers will rally round and give us a bumper. The staging will be on the new principle.

Would the party who entered two birds—classes 31 and 34—for competition at the Ayr and Dis. C.B.C. Open Show, but omitted to give name or address on entry, send birds to show with name and address, and labels will be fixed on, writes Mr. C. C. Irvine, the secretary. Post stamp was Bathgate.

NEXT WEEK we shall issue another and would once again impress upon all readers the necessity of ordering copies from their newsagents in advance if they would make certain of obtaining them.

The demand for CAGE BIRDS still grows at a remarkable pace, and this grand special issue will quite likely be early out of print. In its pages will be found many splendid and informative articles dealing with all sides of the hobby of bird-keeping. And in addition to this array of articles this issue will contain an attractive supplement of photographic and other special illustrations, also

A Charming Coloured Plate.

TO ADVERTISERS:

This is the season of quick sales, when buyers are ripe to purchase, and everyone with birds, appliances, etc., for disposal should send along their announcements early to ensure their appearance in this great Double Number. Remember: CAGE BIRDS' special issues are record-breakers as introducers of business—sales are always a certainty from advertisements therein.

The closing date is Tuesday, November 2nd.

Post all advertisements early to reach us on that day certain, or we cannot guarantee insertion in this Mammoth Number.

The secretary of the Blaydon-on-Tyne C.B.S. writes pointing out a printer's error in their schedule, so that the 2 novice classes in our review of the schedule should have read for Yorkshires. The society have decided to add another open foreign class, viz., 46a, smaller than Cardinal. Schedules may he had on application.

The following extra specials were received after schedule was in printers' hands, writes Mr. F. Bowman, hon. secretary of the Glasgow and West of Scotland Show:—2s. 6d. by Mr. Alex. Henderson, for most points in Norwich; 2s. 6d. by Mr. J. Bowman (Forfar), for most points in novice Norwich; and 2s. 6d. by Mr. Alex. Henderson, for most points in Borders.

Allow me to thank you for the most excellent report of Battersea Show, writes Mr. W. J. Honeysett, the chairman. We owe our successful show to many reasons, first of all the grand display of advertisements in the Fancy Press, and the "Dates fixed" column system, with a good classification to suit all, and nice prize money. The London Federation, too, has, in my opinion, played an important part. With that old warrior, secretary Easterling, and his colleague, Mr. Allen, if we have the good fortune to retain them with an increase of members which is sure to follow, four figures will yet be reached at Battersea Town Hall.

Please convey to Mr. G. F. Neve, Mr. J. Cockburn Dyson, and Mr. Watson, my sincere thanks for the birds given me. I am very grateful to them for their kindness and sympathy, and I appreciate the birds very much. All are good ones, and give me every encouragement to try again. Will the other correspondents also please accept my thanks for their sympathy and wishes, and I trust that readers of your paper will now have heard the last of bird fever. May all those who have suffered through the fever this year have something to compensate them next season in the shape of good birds, and many of them.—F. H. SOUTHORN (Tyne Dock).

I am very sorry that owing to rush and hurry to get "marked" catalogues out, several errors in awards have unfortunately crept into our list. In class 44 unflighted Norwich hens, Mr. Winter is credited with 1st and special; it should be Mr. R. Martin, who wins 1st and special c. medal for best hen in section. Also first in class 71, should be Mr. A. W. Watson. —JOHN YOUNG, secretary.

I was very pleased to see my clear Greenie Mule depicted in CAGE BIRDS this week, and congratulate your artist, Mr. Norman, on the likeness. I am afraid he found him none too steady. The grizzle marked back, head, and wings at the Battersea Show, was not a nest brother to this clear, though he was a nest brother to a clear. The printers give my initials as A.C.A.; it should be—H. C. ARCHER (Plaistow, London, E.).

It is "Citizen Sunday" on the 31st inst., and Mr. V. Wynn informs us that on that date the Rev. Rosslyn Bruce is to come up to town to take the 7 p.m. service at St. Anne's Church, Shafteshury Avenue, W.C., a place of worship noted for its famous choir. The Rev. Rosslyn Bruce will be well-known to many metropolitan bird-lovers. He is a great "birdy-man" himself, and a vice-president of both the City and Suburban A.C.B. and the Nottingham O.S., the Midland "lace city" being his present place of residence.

Owing to a printer's error the prize money for Sheffield Show has been left out of schedule, writes Messrs. Lindsay and Bingham, the secretaries. We are paying 10s., 5s., 2s. 6d., also 3 points specials in each section, and other specials to appear in catalogue (including case of fish carvers for best crest or cresthred in show). We have not received a single entry up to time of writing. I hope fanciers will send on their entries, and give us a good show. Exhibits will be sent off in good time to reach home on Saturday night. Enter from review of schedule.

The young birds competition of the British Roller C.C., writes the hon. secretary, Mr. J. W. Norris, is being held in connection with the Wigan and Dis. C.B.S. Show on November 5th and 6th, in the Victoria Hall, Wallgate. A feature of the prizes is the ladies' section, their specials (12 in all) taking the form of umbrellas. We are having the club show at the Royal Horticultural Hall in conjunction with the L.C.B.A. We have five judges—Messrs. F. A. Lester, J. Netherwood, C. Roehl, John C. Schluter, and myself. We ought to have all records broken, as we have over 40 specials for five classes.

The delay in issuing our schedules, writes Mr. H. Smith, secretary, Wimbledon Show, is owing to the Southern Norwich P.C. sending us a request on Saturday last to take the champion section as well as the novice. We have decided to fall in with their wish. I hope the members of the S.N.P.C. will give us their full support. We are offering good specials, and can promise that the birds will be well looked after. On the occasion of our show last year we did not receive a single complaint. We have engaged popular judges, viz., Messrs. H. Norman and J. Robson, and the hall is admitted to be one of the best round London.

Kindly note, writes Mr. Geo. H. Neal, late hon. secretary of the Highgate, Hampstead and Dis. C.B.S., that I have removed from Upper Holloway, to 35, Sawley Road, Long Eaton, Derbyshire. I am sorry to say that the last week before I left London I had the misfortune to lose the whole of my stock of Norwich Plainheads, Yorkshires, and Crests through fever. I had no fresh birds brought into my room during 1909, and had had a good season. The loss of 60 or 70 birds, being left with not a chick, comes as a great blow to me. I have refused £2 and £3 for some of them, it having cost me a lot of self denial to get the strain. I don't think I shall be able to get up again, as I now have other stock that do not grow their own clothes. But I am not downhearted. I started with a 7s. 6d. cock bird and a 2s. 6d. hen in my first year, and with patience and waiting and selling my surplus stock out and buying better, I got to what I was. I intend having another start next spring, and I shall hope, after creeping, to crawl a year later. I still take in CAGE BIRDS weekly.

The Crystal Palace.

I have read paragraphs and letters in many newspapers regarding the winding-up order made by Mr. Justice Swinfen Eady, against the Crystal Palace Company, writes Mr. E. J. Husey (receiver and manager), and I should be grateful if you would allow me to inform the public that the order only refers to the Crystal Palace Company, and does not affect the Crystal Palace itself, or me, its receiver. I should like further to state that it is intended that the business of the Palace will go on as before; in fact, I am at this moment in negotiation with the object of holding at the Palace next year a function of world-wide interest.

Swallows' Homing Instinct.

Several Swallows sent by Mr. Henry Gallimore from Lostock Gralam, Northwich, have flown home successfully from Douglas, Isle of Man, says a daily contemporary, in two and a quarter hours. The journey, which works out at over forty miles an hour, has attracted much attention among naturalists, as it proves that Swallows possess the homing instinct like homing Pigeons. Another interesting experiment of Mr. Gallimore shows that Swallows return to their old nests after the annual migration. A number of Swallows were marked by tying red strands of silk round their legs, and several of the birds returned this April with the cord a little frayed to their old home.

Mr. G. E. Weston has removed from Clevedon Mansions, his address now being 66, Woodsome Road, London, N.W. Will friends (he writes), kindly make a note of this?

I advertised 3 Parrot Finches at £4 5s. writes Miss M. C. Hawke (Tadcaster), and had an answer from a man who said he would take them if suitable for an unheated birdroom. I am writing to say his letter is lost, and I do not know the address. Will he kindly write again?

I must hasten to congratulate you upon, and thank you for, the grand report you gave of our show in your brilliant twopenny issue of October 23rd. It has been the topic amongst the fanciers in the West of Scotland for the week-end. Long life and success to CAGE BIRDS, say I and hosts of others.—JOHN YOUNG, secretary (Norwich Section, City of Glasgow O.A.)

The Bromley fanciers unite in their special thanks to the many exhibitors who so readily responded to their genuine and urgent appeal, writes Mr. H. E. Speller, the hon. secretary. Entries simply rolled in; late, 'tis true, but better late than never, and enabled the Bromley fanciers to close their doors with a bumping entry. It speaks volumes for the importance of advertising in your esteemed journal, CAGE BIRDS.

Messrs. Witherby and Co. (326, High Holborn, London, W.C.), inform us that they will publish this autumn, "A History of the Birds of Kent," by Dr. Norman F. Ticehurst, also "The Home-life of a Golden Eagle," by Mr. H. B. Macpherson, which, it is stated, will contain one of the most wonderful series of bird-photographs ever published. Mr. Macpherson has been able to obtain at close quarters (in Scotland) photographs which show the Golden Eagle at its eyrie, from the time the eggs were laid, until the young fledged; they show the parent Eagles brooding, guarding and feeding, and teaching the young to break up the quarry, and even to fly.

There will be a welcome from many bird-keepers for the useful and ingenious device advertised in our columns this week by the H.D.S. Syndicate (42, Poultry, London, E.C.). It is a very simple yet effective hanger for bird-cages, which enables one to hang the latter in any suitable position on a wall or in a window with a minimum of trouble, and it has the great merit of being instantly removable, so that the position of the cage may be changed at will. This novel feature is sure to be widely appreciated, for any pet bird may be moved from the window on cheerless, cold days, to a snug spot on the wall of the room, and vice-versa, and all at the expenditure of a moment in time. The simplicity and effectiveness of the "Ever-ready Movable Bracket" must be seen to be appreciated. We commend it to the notice of readers.

The "Small Bird Pest."

The increase in the number of small birds in the Mid-Athol district in Scotland, is said to be almost entirely due to the wholesale destruction by game-keepers of the Hawks, Owls, etc., to be found in the neighbourhood. The Sparrow is considered the most ravaging of them all, and the "small bird pest" is held responsible for the complete threshing of acres of oat crops yearly.

Killing the Goose.

The big Solan Goose was at one time used as an article of food. Cliff climbers clubbed the fledged young ones and threw them into the sea, where they were picked up by a boatman. They were then taken to the land and plucked, and roasted in a specially constructed oven. The roasted birds were then hawked through the country in carts, and sold for a shilling each. The fat was sold for the greasing of cart wheels.

A SENSATION AT CLAPHAM SHOW.

Unprecedented Action of the Police.

There will, it is safe to say, be many visitors to Clapham Show disappointed in one thing, at any rate. It was here that the Dartford Warbler—that most uncommon British bird—was to have made its "first and only appearance on the show-bench" (vide the catalogue). But the fates (and the police) willed otherwise. The sensation and the pride of the show was destined to provide a "sensation" of a quite unexpected, and not a little disagreeable, character. On the evening before the exhibition opened, there stalked into the show-room the awe-inspiring form of a Police Inspector, with a Police Sergeant bringing up the rear. They at once evinced a curious interest as to the whereabouts of the Dartford Warbler, and it transpired that someone had laid information that the bird was to be on show, and had pointed out that it had been obtained in contravention of the Wild Birds Protection Act. They were able to supply convincing proof of this from an article which the owner of the Dartford Warbler (Mr. John Frostick) has recently had published, in which he indicated the locality and the time of the taking of the birds! Naturally there was consternation in the hall. But naturally, the police failed to discover the object of their search. Eventually they left. What further action they will take only the future can reveal. We presume the owner of the bird would have had his treasure impounded (poor Warbler! imagine it at the police station on police rations), and we believe the disposal of birds is left in circumstances such as these to the discretion of the presiding magistrate. We are given to understand (we state it with all reserve), that the police acted on information laid by the Society for the Protection of Wild Birds.

ADVERTISERS!

Read this Testimony and Remember our Double Number Next Week.

I am pleased to say I have had good results from my advertisements in "Cage Birde."—W. WALLACE (Workington).

My last advt. in your paper, "Cage Birds," cost me only 5d., and I got 34 replies. I wish your paper every success.—F. BAYLEY (Seacombe).

Kindly thank all who applied for my Norwich hene that I advertised in "Cage Birds" (writes Mr. G. S. Goode). I could not possibly answer them all.

Kindly announce that it was impossible for me to answer all lettere that I had in reply to my advert. in "Cage Birds," on Oct. 2nd.—W. CARR (Mansfield).

Kindly thank all who replied to my advertisement in "Cage Birds." I have had so many replies that it is impossible to answer all.—CHAS. W. BREAM (Grantham).

My advertising in "Cage Birds" has met with great success all over the kingdom for my English Goldfinches. My thanks to "Cage Birds."—E. ELLIS (Welshpool).

Through one small advertisement in "Cage Birds" I have sold all the Yorkshires I have to spare, and these to a gentleman in Switzerland.—F. WHITING (Mitcham).

Kindly thank the numerous applicante in reply to my advt. in "Cage Birds." They came from all parts, and I am unable to answer them all.—J. LOGAN, Hon. Sec., Dysart C.B.S.

It may interest you to know that I have shipped 24 Canaries, various kinds, to Montreal, Canada, on Oct. 13th; this order came through my advt. in "Cage Birds."—J. A. TAYLOR (Frizinghall, Bradford).

Kindly thank all who answered my advertisement in "Cage Birds" last week. The replies I had from all parts of the country were far too numerous for me to answer them all.—W. SALMON (West Hampstead, London, N.W.).

Kindly thank all who answered my last advert. in "Cage Birds." I could only answer those who sent a stamp, as I had so many enquiries; which speaks well for the wide circulation your paper, "Cage Birds," has.—F. J. CHILD (Leeds).

As I have been quite over-run with replies to my advt. in your most valuable paper, "Cage Birds," and they are still coming in, I must sincerely thank all whom I have not answered by post.—"Cage Birds" is absolutely THE Paper. — TOM MOSCROP (Gateshead).

Kindly allow me to thank all who sent me, in reply to my advertisement in "Cage Birds," offers for my Linnets and Redpolls, for I could not find time to answer them all. I wish your most valuable paper, "Cage Birds," all the success it deserves.—GEO. DODDS (Pendleton).

Kindly thank all who answered my advt. in "Cage Birds" of Oct. 2nd. They were by far too numerous for me to be able to answer any of the applications other than those who enclosed a stamp. My advice to all fanciers is, always advertise in "Cage Birds."—WM. J. PARRY (Dinorwig).

"Cage Birds" has indeed helped me a great deal, and as an advertising medium I don't think it has an equal. I have had applications from all over the British Isles for Bullies, which speaks volumes for your well known and much appreciated paper.—NAWTON (Pickering).

My advertisement in "Cage Birds" issue of Oct. 23rd (British Birds) has brought me scores of applications—too many for me to attempt to reply to. A gentleman from Leeds came personally and bought the birds. I would like to thank all applicants. "Cage Birds" for advertisements always means a quick sale.—FRED. TYLER (Baildon, Yorks.).

My advertisement in "Cage Birds" has been a great success, as I received applications for 13 Choughs in all, but only had one bird for sale. Fanciers must rush for your paper directly it is out, as letters started to arrive from different parts of England on the Saturday morning. All success to your paper, "Cage Birds."—E. R. PHILLIPS (Blackrock, Co. Dublin).

It was a pleasant surprise to see our Meadow Bunting pourtrayed on the frontispiece of CAGE BIRDS some weeks ago, and it would be ungrateful if we did not write a few lines in acknowledgement of your kindness and in appreciation of the artist's splendid reproduction. We are young in the Fancy, one might say, and this is the first time we have had the pleasure of seeing a bird of ours depicted in so prominent a place before the Fancy, so that we felt greatly elated. I can assure you this was one of our aspirations in the hobby, not for the love of praise, but for the inward satisfaction and encouragement that every fancier must feel when he puts out a bird which proves worthy of the judges' attention, and is ite own reward. Being in lodgings at present and away from the centre of our late operations in the hobby, I am unable to give you particulars regarding the bird in question, further than that it won for us a good number of prizes here and there throughout Scotland, and was eventually and necessarily sold at a good price. May it prosper and assert its excellent qualities this coming show season for the encouragement and profit of its present owner. Your readers will observe that for the present the name of Milne Bros. is an unknown quantity in the birdy arena, but in the words of a beautiful song, of which I forget the title, "Deem not 'tie for ever." When we are again gathered into the fold under the wing of our guardian angel, CAGE BIRDS, it is our hope to enter the circle with greater vigour and ambition than ever before, and to renew all those old acquaintances and associations which have cast so beautiful a spell on the past. In conclusion, I would add that this most fascinating of hobbies, bird-keeping, in its interminable variety of forms, is the finest tonic ever recommended to the public for all the ills that afflict mankind.—MILNE BROS. (Keith).

Mr. Norman's plates of my Mule and Thrush are to hand, and they are real masterpiecee of the art of illustrating winners. For these please accept my best thanks. The performances of the birds are as follows:—The Light Linnet Mule I name "The Irishman," as he was bred in Ireland, and I claimed him when exhibited at Banbridge Show, Co. Down, which I happened to be present at. Since coming into my possession, he has won the following prizes: 1st Bo'ness, 1st Berwick, 1907; 1st Broughty Ferry, 1st Berwick, 1st Gateshead, 2nd Blaydon, 2nd Kelty, 3rd Dunfermline, 1908; and other honours which at the present I cannot bring to my memory. The Thrush is the well-known "Border Queen," and her name marks her place of identity, as she is a native of Tweedside having been reared in Coldstream. She passed into the hands of that well-known bird-lover, Mr. G. W. McParting, of Newcastle, from whom I had the pleasure of getting her in an exchange. She has had a most successful show career, as the following will testify. Her first turnout was the Crystal Palace Show, where she was placed first under Mr. Hills (1908 show season), 1st Newcastle (Mr. Houlton), 1st Kelso (Mr. Hay), 1st Berwick (Mr. Bewick), 1st and special best British, Carlisle (Mr. Laidlaw), 1st Gateshead (Mr. Robinson), 1st Bathgate (Mr. Ward), 2nd South Shields (Mr. Shephard), 2nd Wallsend (Mr. Dewar), v.h.c S.N. Edinburgh (Mr. Cochrane); after which she again succeeded in winning at the Crystal Palace, 1909, under Mr. Hills. I am pleased to say both birds have made a good moult, and again should well be able to hold their own in competition. I may say, too, that none of these birds has been colour-fed, and when they have been placed down the list have invariably been beaten by colour-fed specimens. I wish CAGE BIRDS every success.—J. W. BRUCE (Coldstream).

A Few of Many.

The Hawfinch plate was just lovely.—J. LONGBOTTOM (Wisheck).

The coloured plate of the Hawfinch is a treat.—HOLKER (Westhoughton).

The plate with the last Double Number is grand, and I am having it framed.—G. H. NEAL (Long Eaton).

I think the coloured plate of Hawfinches is truly grand, and a great credit to your artist, Mr. Norman.—NAWTON (Pickering).

I think your Double Number and plate are a credit to the Fancy, and I wish CAGE BIRDS every success.—R. WHITE (Beeston, Leeds).

Your recent Double Number was quite a treat, and no fancier should miss it. The coloured plate is most life-like.—J. MOOR (Morpeth).

Allow me to thank you for the "Budget" of October 23rd. That Double Number of CAGE BIRDS was excellent.—W. J. HONEYSETT (Clapham, London, S.W.)

CAGE BIRDS Double Number I am delighted with, and also with your splendid plate, which is lifelike, and I cannot praise it enough. I wish your smart paper every success.—W. BOOK (Dublin).

I must again congratulate you on the splendid Double Number you have given us, and upon the excellent plate of the Hawfinches, which I think is unique. You always give us something better every time. I wish CAGE BIRDS every success.—ALF. ROWLES (Peterborough).

Questions and Answers.

DOUBTS AND DIFFICULTIES SOLVED BY SPECIALISTS.

Queries will be answered under the following Conditions:—

(1)—All questions must be clearly written in ink (or typewritten) on one side only of paper, and must conclude with either the correct name of querist, or a pseudonym, or initials.

(2)—The proper name and address in full of querist must always be written on a separate sheet of paper and enclosed with the query. In no case must the address appear on the query.

(3)—Queries intended for different specialists must not be written on the same sheet of paper.

(4)—Queries must not include or be included in orders for books, instructions re advertisements, or any other matter for publication.

(5)—The department to which the queries refer must be stated in bold letters on the left-hand corner of the query.

(6)—If an answer in the same week's issue is desired, queries must be posted to reach us by Monday's first post at latest. Queries will be dealt with in the order in which they are received, and only as space permits. The earlier queries are received the better attention they are likely to have.

(7)—Queries relating to illnesses of birds, except enquiries as to cause of death (for which see Post Mortems) will be answered by return of post on receipt of a postal order for sixpence and an addressed stamped envelope. Queries of an ordinary nature will be answered by post, if desired, on receipt of a postal order for one shilling and a stamped addressed envelope.

(8)—All who require letters of complaints written to advertisers must state grounds for doing so clearly and fully, and enclose a fee of sixpence, otherwise their letters will not receive attention. All the fees received from this source will be handed over in full to the "Referee's" Poor Children's Dinner Fund (London).

(9)—All queries must be addressed the Editor, "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C. Only queries so sent will be answered. Postcards are not admissible.

THE following gentlemen represent CAGE BIRDS staff of ADVISORY EXPERTS. Queries must in no case be addressed to any of them individually, but to the Editor.

Canaries.—Claude St. John. British Birds, Mules and Hybrids—G. E. Weston. Foreign Birds—Wesley T. Page, F.Z.S., M.B.N.H.S., &c., Park and Lake Aviculture—Frank Finn, B.A., F.Z.S. M.B.O.U., &c. Wild Bird Life—H. Norman.

NOTE.—If an answer is required concerning the proper mating, etc. of Norwich, Yorkshires, Crests, Cinnamons, Greens, Borders, Lizards, Scotch or any other variety of the Canary family, we shall, should the querist desire us to do so, be pleased to submit his question for answer to some leading specialist of the day on the variety concerned.

CANARY QUERIES.

Just Beginning.

T. V. Jones.—Your query is quite too vague for me to do more than give a few general hints, and if this does not meet your special requirements, please write again, and give me some idea what kind of aviary it is you have bought, where you wish to keep it—indoors or outdoors—and its dimensions. Without some knowledge on these points it is impossible to give a definite reply to some of your questions. When you supply these particulars I shall be happy to give you all the help I can. The kind of birds that would be suitable depends entirely upon the aviary and its position. As you seem to wish to go in for breeding, you certainly cannot keep a pair of each kind flying together, unless you did not mind the birds mating themselves indiscriminately, and producing all kinds of crossbred mongrel youngsters. You would have to limit yourself to one variety, and it is not necessary to have an equal number of sexes in these circumstances. If the aviary is well built, of good size, and stocked with cold-bred birds, they will certainly live outdoors all the year round without any kind of artificial heat.

Birds Panting Heavily.

Bert.—Your diet is faulty, and I cannot see for what reason you have been giving opium in the water. Certainly you have not been giving this regularly for no definite object. I hope not. Yet this is what your query suggests. Put birds on a diet of plain canary, and give separately every second day, a teaspoonful of bread and milk, slightly sprinkled with soft sugar, to the three birds, and on the alternate days give each half a teaspoonful of summer rape. Twice a week give a pinch of hemp, and for green food for the next fortnight give only half ripe plantain stalks or seed stalks of shepherd's purse, and if these are not obtainable, substitute a little banana. Keep them in a comfortable place, where the air is pure and fresh, but not exposed to draughts or great variations of heat. Stop all other seeds and food of all kinds for the present. In the drinking water give twenty drops of whisky, six of syrup of rhubarb, and as much Epsom salts as will cover a sixpence, daily for three days, and every second day for the remainder of the week. On the alternate days in the latter half of the week give six drops of aromatic sulphuric acid and four of tincture of gentian, and continue this on alternate days for a week. Do not give any other drugs at all.

Winter Diet in an Aviary.

G. Dear.—Your proposed dietary, even in your exposed position, is, I think, likely to err a little on the side of generosity. The trouble you would have to face under such a regimé is that the birds would probably be always in a condition when the least rise in temperature would bring them into fresh breeding condition, and in the early spring this would be very far from a desirable result. The rape may with advantage be reduced a little in the staple diet. Make it two parts canary to one part rape, and a little later on, when the weather gets more severe, alter it to two parts canary, one part rape, and a half part hemp, and omit the hemp from the separate mixture, whilst giving it in the staple diet. This should only be given during the coldest part of winter, and the first-named staple gone back to early in spring. The separate mixture you should give now three times a week, and the soft food twice; for the latter you may give either bread and milk, or the cod liver oil food, or give each kind once a week. Later on give the mixed seeds every second day, and the soft food on the alternate days only. The sunflower, oatmeal, and malt culms, reserve for the severest spells of weather, and then give a little with the soft food. But be sparing with these items. When giving the mixed seeds, every second day cut down the proportion of linseed to a mere sprinkling. The aviary is quite overcrowded now. Twenty-four birds is the limit for safety in this respect. I do not quite understand your postcript about the birds dying, unless there are some other birds which you have separately caged. If this surmise is correct, put them on a diet of plain canary as a staple, with a scrap of bread and milk daily. Keep fairly warm, and in the drinking water give twenty drops of whisky, and six each of syrup of rhubarb and buckthorn daily for three days, and afterwards six drops of aromatic sulphuric acid every second day for a week. If they are not considerably better then write again and say how and where kept.

Two Hens Unwell.

P. P.—1. Put this hen in a fairly warm place, where there is as little variation as possible in the warmth, quite out of reach of draughts, and away from the fumes of burning lamps or gas. Keep a light cover over cage for a few days. Feed on a diet of plain canary, and give separately half a teaspoonful of summer rape every second day, and on the alternate days give the same quantity of egg food or crushed sponge cake, with a slight dusting of flowers of sulphur mixed in it, and a quarter teaspoonful of maw seed. When weather is fair, give a small spray of chickweed or seedy head of groundsel for green food, and omit the dandelion and apple for the present. In the drinking water give six drops syrup of buckthorn and a few blades of saffron every second day for a week, and plain water which has been boiled, on the alternate days. 2. Feed this hen the same as above for a fortnight, but omit the maw seed and sulphur from soft food. Give the same green food also. In the drinking water give ten drops of glycerine, six drops of rhubarb, and as much Epsom Salts as will cover a sixpence, two days in every three for a week. After this give six drops of tincture of gentian and four of aromatic sulphuric acid every second day for another week.

Frayed Wing Feathers.

Perplexed.—There are two probable causes of this, which I should suspect in such a case, viz., that the birds themselves are responsible for the frayed and broken ends of the feathers by nibbling at them, or that it is due to the cages being small, and probably, with some rough surfaces or damaged wires, which either rub the feathers down or engage with the tips as the birds flap about and break them off. In the latter case the remedy is obvious, by thoroughly examining the cages and wires, and looking into the arrangement of the perches, to see if any friction occurs anywhere, as the birds are moving briskly about, and flapping their wings, and removing such cause, if it exists, by giving larger cages, or readjusting the perches, as may be necessary. If you find birds are continually nibbling at these feathers, catch them about every third day for a fortnight, and slightly moisten the tips only of the damaged feathers with castor oil. At the same time tie a bit or two of partly ravelled string to the cage wires to divert the birds' attention from their feathers. Let them bathe freely, but stop spraying them with Jeyes' Fluid, and continue your efforts in all other directions to exterminate red mites. If you want these birds for show, as soon as you are satisfied the cause of the trouble is removed, carefully draw out these damaged feathers and let new ones come in their place. Of course, you must not exhibit them until the new feathers are full grown, or nearly so; and do not forget to give a little colour food whilst they are being produced, if the birds have been already colour fed.

Roller Losing Song.

Brownlow.—I do not remember your former query. It would perhaps have been helpful had you referred to my former reply. It is true, in a sense, that Rollers are rather apt to become more or less seriously affected in the voice. But it is often more a question of injudicious treatment than a peculiarity of the variety. I do not say this is the case with your bird; at the same time, if you keep your birds in open wire cages similar to the design enclosed you are certainly inviting vocal troubles. Place the three-year-old cock in a box cage, open only in front, and give every second day for a month, in the water, ten drops of glycerine, and five each of oxymel of squills and tincture of lobelia. Also take a teaspoonful of honey, as much chlorate of potash as will lie on a shilling, a few drops of warm butter, and make all into a soft paste with a little crushed biscuit powder. Give the bird a piece about the size of a pea twice a week, stuck on the wires. If there is no improvement in a month, I think you may give up any hope of curing him. There is really no reason why you should not get another Roller. With proper care they will retain their singing powers, save in exceptional cases, for a number of years. If you wish to breed with it you must not get a Mule of any kind, as they do not breed. For singing only a Mule is generally very successful, but the song is not to be compared with that of the Roller. This, however, is just a matter of taste. The end of November or December is a good time to buy Rollers, and just after or during the first snap of wintry weather is best for Finches.

First Aid for Travellers.

Enquirer, Fintona, Ireland.—Unless the birds meet with very unfavourable weather conditions on the journey, they should not arrive in such a bad condition as you say many of them do, even if they were delayed a little en route. The following treatment should enable you to save all that are not quite beyond hope on arrival. Remove wrappers from the cages in a comfortably warm room, but leave the birds in the travelling cages for a few hours. Have ready some warm milk, to each ounce of which add a teaspoonful of brandy or whisky—whichever is most handy—and as soon as the wrappers are removed hang on the wires a drinker filled with the lukewarm milk and brandy. Whilst birds are drinking, soak a piece of stale bread in another portion of the milk and brandy, press out surplus fluid, sprinkle with soft sugar and maw seed, and give a good teaspoonful to each bird. Shake the soiled seed out of the cages, and throw in a little plain canary seed. Put the cakes in a warm place—not too warm— and leave the birds to feed and recuperate quietly for an hour or two before transferring them to other cages. Any that seem much exhausted may with advantage be left in the travelling cages under this treatment until the following day. Watch the birds when first putting on the brandy and milk and when they have taken about a dozen beakfuls remove it for ten minutes, then give a drinker of lukewarm water for a few minutes, and replace the milk again for an hour, after which give a drinker of water in which you have mixed twenty drops of port wine and six of malt extract. If any of them should refuse the first drink, dilute it with equal parts of water, and let them take a few beakfuls of lukewarm water with port wine and malt as above in between.

Songster and Disinfection.

J. P. W.—For information, see replies to "Invalid, Huddersfield," and "Brownlow." As a songster, a well-trained Roller is not to be beaten, and it should not always go wrong in its voice if properly cared for. It should be kept in a box cage, in an equable temperature, out of draughts, away from fumes of burning lamps or gas, and in a pure atmosphere. Feed on a mixture of two parts Canary to one part summer rape as a staple. Give a pinch of a mixture of hemp, inga, maw, tenzie, and gold of pleasure, twice a week, a teaspoonful of egg-food, crushed sponge cake, or bread and milk sprinkled with soft sugar once a week. Give one or another of the latter, or each in rotation, but not all in one week. Give green food daily in summer, three times a week in winter when available free from frost. At other times give a bit of sweet fruit instead. No, asthma is not infectious. Still, a cage should always be well washed out with a fairly strong disinfecting fluid—Jeye's or any similar fluid which happens to be handy—and afterwards re-distempered when a bird has died in it from any cause.

Bad Feet and Fits.

Novice.—1. Sore and swollen feet are very often simply the natural result of dirty and neglected cages, but as yours seems to be a very aggravated case, and comparing this with your second query, I think there must be something seriously wrong with your management. As you are quite silent on this point, you cannot do better than get one of our handbooks on Canary management generally, or write again, and say how you keep and feed your birds. Meantime, bathe this bird's feet in tolerably warm water, in which you have dissolved boracic acid in the proportion of a small teaspoonful to half a teacupful of water. After bathing for a few minutes, gently remove all dirt and foreign substances, gently press out any matter that may be present in the sores, wash clean, and dry carefully on a soft rag. Then paint the feet over with a small feather dipped in tincture of benzoin. Keep the cage and perches very clean; do not use sharp, coarse sand on the floor; and bind a strip of soft rag around the perches until the feet are better. Repeat the bathing and painting daily as long as it seems necessary. 2. The cause of the fits is probably a weakly and anæmic condition generally. It is useless treating the fits and ignoring the cause. See that the diet is correct, and you may give six drops of dandelion juice and as much Epsom Salts as will cover a sixpence in the water every second day for a week, and on the alternate days six drops of tincture of gentain and four of aromatic sulphuric acid. When a fit occurs suspend other treatment, and give as much Epsom Salts as will cover a sixpence, and the same quantity of bromide of potassium for a few days. These cases are rarely amenable to any treatment other than proper food and management.

Canary Querists should send to our publisher for "Canary Breeding for Beginners," 7d.; "House's Canary Manual," 1/2; and "Yorkshire Canaries," 1/-, post free.

Half-a-Dozen.

T. N. Z.—1. Without wishing to appear unkind, I am afraid this bird died of turpentine. Only a post-mortem could discover what was really the matter. Probably it had been exposed to a chill or draughts, and was suffering from acute bronchitis. After removing it to the warm room, you should have given it a little bread and milk sprinkled with soft sugar, and added ten drops of glycerine, and five each of oxymel of squills, paregoric and essence of aniseed to its drinking water for a few days. 2. A temperature of forty-five degrees is ample for any save coddled strains of Canaries during the winter. Whether your top attic would be too cold depends upon the locality and the attic. But lots of high-class Canaries are bred and kept in such a position without any heat at all. 3. When frost and snow are about you should omit green food, and substitute pieces of sweet fruit—apple, banana, etc.—or slices of raw or boiled carrot. I do not approve of cabbage leaves myself, though some use the tiny leaves of Brussels sprouts. The top of inner stalks of celery are much appreciated, and very good for them, and watercress may be given when obtainable. Green food may also be grown indoors in pots or boxes. 4. Plain canary seed only as staple—all other seeds as frequently named in this column give separately, as you see advised. 5. The cocks are—well, more "cocky"—holder, more defiant, and swaggering, more graceful curve from lower breast to under tail coverts, and the throat swells and pulsates when the cock sings. Coarse, scaly legs and feet and overgrown claws are an indication of age. A young bird should have fairly smooth feet, and claws with fine, needle-like points. 6. Prevent them catching cold; that will be far better than curing them afterwards. Twenty drops of whisky, six of oxymel of squills, and two of eucalyptus oil well shaken together in the drinking water, if given early, should be all that is required.

Brevities.

Blood Clot on Head (Genial Arthur).—As it is well and lively I do not think the blood clot can be serious. From its position I should say it is immediately over, or upon the edge of, the bird's ear, which is usually hidden by feather, and the hole which you think would result from removing the clot is, in all probability, the external orifice of the ear. It is not impossible for the blood to have come from the ear, but it is far more likely to be simply the result of some slight injury to the skin, such as a peck from another bird if any are caged with it; the rupture of a small quill feather by scratching; or an abrasion of the skin by flying against a jagged end of wire; or by the bird scratching with overgrown claws. You might look into these points to prevent any recurrence. All you need do now is to anoint the clot gently now and again with boracic or zinc ointment until you can easily remove it without using unnecessary force, or causing a renewal of the bleeding.

Soft Moult and Seeds (Noggs).—They are brown millet and linseed, neither of which is of much service in the staple diet of Canaries. When present in any appreciable quantity the linseed—the small flat lozenge-shaped seed—is really harmful to closely-confined birds. Still, the diet would not account for the bird moulting so long; the more likely cause is that you keep it in a position exposed to either draughts or extremes of temperature. Keep it where the warmth is regular and equable. Feed on a staple of three parts Canary to one part summer rape, and give separately a few grains of hemp every second day for a month, and on the alternate days half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion mixed in it, and sprinkled with gold of pleasure seed. Give a small piece of banana three times a week in lieu of green food. In the water give a pinch of Epsom salts for a day or two, and after that twenty drops of chemical food every second day until the feathers cease dropping.

Precocity (Next).—It depends to a great extent upon the management through the winter whether an August-hatched hen would go to nest as early as one hatched in April. Under the same management the August hen might defer nesting a week or two, but probably not more than a month in any case, after the older bird. On the other hand, if the August hen were forced in any way, and the other kept under normal conditions, the younger hen would probably go to nest first.

Variety for Singing (Invalid, Huddersfield).—The variety that will serve your purpose better than any other is a Roller. They get called by all kinds of fancy names, such as Hartz Mountain, Trute, Seifert, St. Andreasberg, etc. As long as you get a trained Roller, the name is of no account. Look up our advertisement columns under heading Rollers, select a dealer of repute who seems to have what you want, but do not expect the best trained birds are sold for the lowest amount, and have a bird on approval, depositing the cash with our Editor until you are satisfied with the bird's song. The bird will not be much to look at in comparison with your Yorkshires, but the song, which is your chief object, will be O.K.

BRITISH BIRDS, MULES AND HYBRIDS.

Three Items.

Novice Exhibitor.—1. I do not "sheet down" my British birds (even when colour-feeding) in the manner adopted by Canary fanciers. But I keep the direct rays of the sun off them (by means of a cream-coloured window blind) until they are beginning to come up well in colour. This applies to Goldfinches and all the others. I let them have sunbaths in plenty afterwards; at the end of the moult the sun, of course, is losing its power. 2. Healthy Canaries certainly ought to come to no harm in an outdoor bird-room, the temperature of which "does not go below temperature in winter," as you put it. Many indoor bird-rooms (my own, for instance) go a long way below temperate. 3. This is partly answered in the reply given question number one. I think it necessary to keep the rays of the sun off any birds which are being colour-fed—whether Canaries, Mules, or British. But I know from practical experience that both Canaries and Mules can be fed hot enough for anything without their cages being actually "sheeted down." Still, some fanciers will not agree with this statement of mine.

An Exhibition Redstart.

Resurgam. By all means try again. The old saying, "If at first you don't" (you know the rest) should be followed by all aspirants to exhibition honours. But if your Redstart is in winter plumage he will stand little chance. They need to be colour-fed, and to have the best of insectivorous food at the moult, so as to get them into spring plumage. Size and shape, of course, are essential points, and these you can only gauge by comparing your bird with other examples when on the show bench. Show Redstarts should be cobby (stoutly-built), with broad heads, and wide well-rounded chests, and perfect feet. The head should be bluish-grey, and the back, also, though tinged with red; the root of the tail should be as fiery a red as possible, and the region of the lower breast and flanks a deep, warm red; the cheeks, throat and upper breast should be a rich glossy black, there being white fringes (or "frosting") hereabouts. There should be on the forehead, and extending round the eyes, a white band, and this should be of nice width and clearly defined (cut) at the edges. There only requires to be a very sparse mottling of white on the breast, by-the-way. The depth of the red depends largely on colour-feeding, which helps very much to attain it. A good Redstart, when in show condition, should shine like a piece of satin. Free bathing helps to attain this.

A Goldfinch for Show.

Fixite.—A Goldfinch can certainly be shown in an ordinary Norwich Plainhead show-cage. There is nothing in any show regulations which compels the exhibitor to adopt one particular pattern of cage. I have often seen Goldies exhibited in all-wire (house) cages, such as singing Canarics are kept in. It does not help one's bird to win, however. A Goldfinch worth exhibiting at all is worth being exhibited properly. Get a proper Finch show-cage, by all means. You cannot well better the pattern and size adopted by the N.B.B. and M.C. All cage makers stock it; see our advertisement columns. 2. I don't advise a pale colour. Use an extremely dark green—not lighter than holly green—for inside and wires of the cage. This shows a Goldie up to perfection. 3. It depends entirely upon whether a Goldfinch is dirty or not whether one needs to "tub" him. I think all birds, however, which do much travelling round the shows should be washed at intervals, as they undoubtedly get soiled, and this slight dirtiness is bound to tell if they run up against spotlessly clean Finches their equal in other respects. You must use your own judgment. If you live in a large town you will probably need to hand-wash oftener than a fancier living in the country. A lesson or two helps one, of course, but a skilful fancier can wash a bird after reading a good article, especially if he tries on some bird of little value at first.

A Disappointing Yellowhammer.

T. Boyle.—Your "experienced" friend (whatever that may signify) may be right when he says that the Yellowhammer had been "touched up" before it was sold to you. But he is much more likely to be quite wrong. The bird would be in summer (breeding) plumage when you bought it, which would account for the richness of colour and the clearness of head, cheeks and throat. But when they moult into winter garb, the yellow is much paler, and on the head, throat and cheeks is obscured by "ticking"—that is, the dark edging on the feathers. In the spring this ticking disappears, and the bird "clears up" in colour (as fanciers term it)—shows more "gold," and both yellow and chestnut acquires a much richer tone. This "clearing-up" process is hastened by rich feeding (plenty of live ants' eggs, mealworms, and other live insects; also good insectivorous food frequently) during the moult, when a little colour food is also helpful. A Yellowhammer is not at its best in colour until it is three years old. The chief colour points of a show Yellowhammer are rich yellow (golden) top of head, cheeks, throat, and breast, especially the two latter, though the breast is usually more or less shaded over (across) with a beautiful warm brown. The back should be a rich deep brown, showing the dark markings (pencilling) distinctly and evenly (also the wing markings). Very important markings are the V-shaped black streaks running along each side of the crown, meeting at the beak, and the somewhat horseshoe-shaped cheek markings. These should both be dense black, thick and well-defined (clear-cut). The centre of the head-mark should be as clear and bright a yellow as possible (free from black ticking), and round about the cheeks also. These parts are generally "cloudy" after the moult.

Scales on the Legs.

P. MacDougall.—I can quite believe that the scales have become more prominent during the moult. Yellowhammers are very subject to "scales," and their legs become most unsightly; have often seen good show birds disfigured in this way. There is no way to prevent the scales forming, I believe. The "cure" for scaly legs is to remove the scales. I have often in this column explained how to do it. It is quite easy, providing one has confidence in the handling of birds; it need cause the bird but very slight pain, and it will bring great relief after it is over. I usually heat a little salad oil fairly hot (put it in a suitable vessel, and immerse the latter in boiling water), soak the legs well in this, and then pick off the scales with my finger-nails, also sometimes using curved nail-scissors or a pair of nail clippers, which occasionally come in handy. Afterwards I wash the feet and legs in warm water, dry them, and anoint them with a little healing ointment—Zambuk, boracic, or mild carbolic. A bird's legs may also be scaled quite easily after soaking them in a lather made with carbolic soap and hot water. It is quite easy, if common care is exercised, so as not to violently wrench a leg or a toe, which, of course, may spell dislocation. If any blood be inadvertently drawn from one or other of the toe joints, touch the spot (after washing) with Friar's Balsam or "New Skin." The soap lather is the simplest; but the oil was the first method I tried, and I believe in sticking to old friends. Some fanciers use hot water only.

About a Tree Creeper.

Anxious.—You are quite right when you say that a Tree Creeper "seems to stand a grand chance in the insectivorous class." So it does; but, as I had occasion to explain before, this bird is highly delicate, and no one should attempt to keep it who is not well skilled in attending to the wants of tiny insectivorous birds, otherwise it is certain to die. The house cage should be a large one (say 24 inches long, by 20 high by 12 to 14 wide), and the back and sides must be lined with bark (called "virginian cork," at shops where it is sold), for the bird to run about on. Get this flat, if possible. Perches are not absolutely necessary, though I generally have one in my own cages. The wire front must be of half-inch gauge, not more, and the best feeding vessels are those which swing in through openings out into the front rail of the cage. If the sides and top of the cage are not bark lined (the back must be), they should be lined with a thick material, such as good quality baize (glued on). For food the bird must have an insectivorous mixture of the finest quality (containing plenty of good ants eggs) prepared in the usual way with finely grated raw carrot or minced greenfood, a little minced hard-boiled egg being frequently added. Live food is essential to the bird's continued well-being—flies, aphides, wasp-grub, small scoured gentles, small (or cut-up) mealworms, live ants' eggs and the like. Unless you can cater for the bird properly, don't attempt to keep it; try a species less delicate. You do not put water in the show-cage while travelling to the show, it would only get spilled over the cage bottom, and make an awful mess. Exhibits are given water as soon as they reach the exhibition; see that they get a drink just before starting—easily ensured by leaving them without water for half-an-hour or so before packing them, and then offering water. I like damped cocoa-nut fibre (obtainable at florists' shops) as a covering for the cage bottoms. Press it down hard, after damping it.

British Bird Querists should purchase our "British Bird Manual," published in two parts, "Hardbills" and "Softbills," price 1/- each, or in cloth cover together, 2/3 post free.

Brevities.

A Jackdaw's Cage (A. A. Savell).—The cage is a fine size, but I do not recommend you to have any part of the roof wired—it will be best completely covered in. Any rain which got inside would make the interior highly unpleasant, and cause it to smell, too.

For a Goldfinch (F. Matthews).—Dissolve in two tablespoonfuls of drinking water as much Epsom salts as will cover a shilling, then stir in six or seven drops of good brandy. Leave in the cage 24 hours. If Canary seed "killed Goldfinches," I should hardly be likely, week in and week out, to recommend its use. Let the bird have Canary and teazle in addition to the hemp, with a pinch of niger, thistle, and maw now and again, and a few sunflower seeds.

With a Cold (Another Thrush Puzzle).—It is not much of a puzzle this time, I fancy. Birds are very liable to catch a cold during the moulting season. Keep the Thrush out of draughts (indoors), and in an equable temperature. In two tablespoonfuls of drinking water stir a teaspoonful of the following medicine (which any chemist will mix for you): Oxymel of squills, liquor tolu, mucilage of gum acacia, and glycerine of each one drachm, water to three fluid ounces. Continue this for a reasonable period; colds can't be cured in a day.

In a Flight (E.H.L.W.).—Seven or eight birds in each flight cage will be ample. It is impossible to say that they will be "likely to agree." Birds differ in disposition. Some Goldies, for instance, are extremely quarrelsome; others do not seem to mind companions. I cannot, of course, foresee the dispositions of the birds you will acquire. Further, some will agree through autumn and winter, and turn quarrelsome in the spring. A very good seed-mixture would be: Canary and teazle three parts each, hemp two parts, summer rape, charlock, sunflower and linseed one part each.

Flight Feathers Missing (J.G.).—This loss of flight feathers is an accident which may happen in the "best regulated family," so to speak. The food had nothing to do with it. Any violent fluttering may serve to dislodge them when they are not fully grown and "set." Your attempt to catch him brought about the disaster. However, new feathers will soon grow, and the bird will be none the worse for the mishap. It certainly will not affect him so far as breeding goes. A good many people, I expect, would not believe Linnets were fond of "maggots"; glad to hear I have "learned you something" on this and other points.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

Answered by WESLEY T. PAGE, F.Z.S. M.B.N.H.S., etc.

Breeding Budgerigars in a Cage.

Novice.—Yes, it is quite possible to breed Budgerigars in a cage; the cage should be 2ft. long by 15 inches deep by 18 to 24 inches high. It is really immaterial, so long as the birds are kept out of draught, whether the cage be box or all wire; in the case of the latter, some kind of screen should ho kept over the breeding husk, so that they may get some little privacy with the domestic arrangements. Their requirements are very simple, viz., canary, white and spray millet seeds, with a few oats, green food (fresh lettuce at this season), with grit, cuttlefish, and water for drinking and bathing. Hang up two husks, one at either end of the cage. Hope you'll have luck, but do not pry much into their nesting economy, or they may refuse to sit their time out. Either of the booklets "Foreign Birds for Beginners," or "Budgerigars" (see advertisement in this column) would give you valuable help in attending to your birds.

Brazilian Siskins, etc.

Experimenter.—Occasionally we get fertile Hybrids with these crosses, but in the great majority of instances they are sterile. The Brazilian or Black-headed Siskin is a very handsome species, and should produce a very handsome hybrid. The hen bird entirely lacks the rich black areas of the male, but the lack of the black head and neck alone is sufficient to distinguish her from the male; nevertheless, though much duller in hue than the male, she is not by any means plain, but a neat and prettily-clad little person . . . the price is about normal. Re Siberian Bullfinch, I should advise you to repeat your query, as I opine either the advertiser in question has either sold out or your letter of inquiry has gone astray. Did you send a stamped addressed envelope for reply? If not, write again and do so. If you succeed in breeding hybrids, pair them up with the species from which they have sprung; you may get a small percentage of fertile hybrids, and my perpetuate the cross with a little inbreeding and careful selection.

Grey Parrot in Bad Plumage.

W. Gerrard.—You can give ripe fruit almost ad lib, and the bird will be the better for it. In addition to the ordinary dietary, steep a little Indian corn, pour boiling water over it overnight, and let it so stand till morning, then after shaking off all superfluous moisture by shaking the corn about in a cloth, well dust it with flower of sulphur; also well colour the drinking water with Parrish's Chemical Food, and continue this till the feathers are all reproduced. You must keep its bowels freely moving, with an occasional dose of Dinneford's Magnesia (one teaspoonful to each ounce of drinking water) as required. Soaked bread is quite permissable if soaked in water, and might with advantage have a few drops of chemical food soaked into it; do not give any slops, table scraps, or any kind of animal food. Seed mixture: Two parts each Canary, white millet and oats, and one part each hemp, paddy rice, and sunflower seeds. Hope there will soon be an improvement, many Parrots are moulting now.

Parrot with Growth by Beak.

C. Smith.—I should advise you to let a "vet." see this bird, as he could probably remove the growth at once, and the trouble would be rapidly over. You do not give me sufficient data to assist you properly. You had better repeat query next week, and tell me how you have been feeding the bird, and a little more of the nature of the growth. Get a box of honey and borax from your chemist, and put a little on and under the tongue once or twice a day till the trouble yields. Keep the bowels moving freely by occasional doses of Dinneford's Magnesia (see other replies in this issue). If the growths are soft you could foment with a hot (not scalding) decoction of camomile flowers, and when the growths appear ripe, prick them, and get rid of the humour by gentle pressure; if the growths are hard, lightly touch each growth daily with tincture of iodide; use a camel hair brush, and clean it after each occasion—do not get the tincture among the feathers more than can be helped.

Brevities.

About Java Sparrows (T. N. Z.).—I. Canary and white millet in equal parts; also a mixture of paddy rice, oats, and a little hemp. At this time of year fresh lettuce is the best green food; when this is unobtainable a little ripe apple makes a good substitute. 2. This is a hardy species, and unless their cage is so small that they cannot take proper exercise, any cold room that is not draughty will suffice. A fly round the room occasionally will certainly add to their well-being. 3. As a rule, aged birds can be told by the legs and feet, these being in aged birds so coarsely and heavily sealed as to appear almost horny. As a rule, also, aged birds are mopey, and less sprightly than young birds; a little observation of living specimens will enable you to readily distinguish such points. You would find "Foreign Birds for Beginners" very helpful in treating your birds.

What Whydah? (G. Watson).—It is a Paradise Whydah, a native of Africa. This species is always the better for a few live insects, and I should certainly try to capture for it such insects as spiders, smooth caterpillars, beetles, etc.; or, failing these, a couple of mealworms per diem will add to their well-being; they should also get a little fresh lettuce or ripe apple. The size of show cage must be sufficient for it to stand on the top perch without getting its tail spoiled, so that its caudal appendage must be above the cage floor when it is so perching. Distemper your cage a deep holly-green inside and black out; such a cage suits most species of birds, and will certainly answer admirably for your Whydah. I should anticipate it would retain its caudal plumes over the period you name.

GENERAL.

Answered by the Editor.

Illustrated Ideas (W. G. Elisha).—We have utilised already a very similar notion. (W. Lovering).—This also applies to the perch you send.

Water Tins at Shows (W. R. Everett).—We thank you for your postcard, and sympathise with your views. We are afraid, however, the losers of tins are entitled to take such steps as seem best to themselves.

Natural Colour (Keppy).—It is against our rules to permit correspondence concerning a judge's awards, unless the circumstances involve something more than just individual differences of opinion. These non-colour-fed classes have been responsible for much disputation.

Alleged Incompetent Judge (Yellow Border). We cannot allow correspondence concerning a judge's awards; after all, everyone—even a judge—is entitled to his own opinion; and often it resolves into a mere question of opinion as to which bird should be first and which bird second. If, as you say, a Scotch Fancy judge was elected to officiate upon Norwich and British, that is a matter for the Society concerned—a matter which you could, if you choose, bring direct to the notice of the officials. If shows choose to imperil their chances of success by engaging incompetent judges, that is their own look-out; they have to "pay the piper," of course. Fanciers have it in their own hands whether they shall make entries or not.

A Thistle Tearing Machine (J. Gosling).—We have not received a reply. Perhaps you would care to repeat your letter.

POST MORTEMS.

Mr. J. North, 435, Oxford Road, Reading, will examine cage birds for a fee of 1s. 6d. each bird; for reply direct, 2s. 6d.; analysis, 21s. Subjects for post mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to J. North, with fee. Any sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

Budgerigar (Athos).—Apoplexy, possibly the result of too much food, and not enough exercise.

Grey Parrot (H. H.).—Chronic softening of liver, recent inflammation and rupture of blood vessels of that organ. More exercise and less food of a stimulating nature would probably have kept it in a healthier condition.

Canary (W. Morris).—Pneumonia. The absence of any item of information as to symptoms and duration of illness, and the crushed condition of the body through not being enclosed in a box, do not conduce to a helpful judgment as to cause of death.

Goldfinch (J. Yeo).—Disease of liver and inflammation, involving kidneys. It was a cock bird, and had the appearance of being cage-reared. It has probably had too much rich food, and not enough exercise.

The Young Naturalist.

Prizes of 1s. and two of 6d. each will be given weekly for the best three anecdotes about birds written on postcards. Competitors must be under sixteen years of age, and state whence stories are taken. Two stars indicate the Winning Contribution; one star the runners up.

The Happy Family.

I had two white mice, an Owl, and a Magpie. One day I let them all out in the house together, never thinking there would be any quarrelling. At once one of the mice ran under the ash-grate, and the Magpie and the Owl were quarrelling which was to have the other mouse. However, neither of them got it because it ran straight after the other one. About a month after I sold the Owl. You would hardly believe how much the Magpie sulked, but it got over that very soon. Every time we were having a meal, it shouted out, as much as to say, "Give me a bit." About a month after I got a Jay. When I used to let that out to clean the cage and then catch it, I used to have to throw a heavy overcoat over it. and then it sometimes slipped me. Now I've got some Canaries and am doing a lot better.—Sent by Thomas Kemp (age 12), 212, Girlington Road, Bradford. (Master Kemp also encloses two clever pencil drawings.—UNCLE PETER.)

*A Tame Cockatoo.

My brother recently exchanged a pair of clapnets for a Cockatoo, through the columns of CAGE BIRDS. We call it Peter, and it shouts "milk," when the milkman comes, whistles the dog, etc., and will take sunflower seeds and monkey nuts from our fingers. It kisses too. But one Sunday, when my brother opened CAGE BIRDS and put the coloured plate at the side of the Cockatoo's cage, the bird pulled it to pieces when he was not looking.—Sent by Willie Watson (age 10), Jessop Street, Codnor, Derbyshire.

*The Birds' Concert.

The birds gave a concert,
One summer day,
In a green tree-top,
Over the way.

Thrushes and Linnets,
And blue Jays together,
Everyone dressed
In his very best feather.

The Larks and the Blackbirds
Came in a crowd,
And gold-crested Kinglets,
Feeling so proud.

The voices of blue Jays
And Blackbirds all blended;
And everyone thought

The Feeding of Softbills Abroad.

SIR,—In reply to Mr. Harrison, in last week's CAGE BIRDS, re Chinese dried flies, I may say I do not think they can be obtained in this country. In appearance they somewhat resemble a dead moth, though the wings differ in texture to those of the moth. The fly in size is about the same as those commonly sold, though of course smaller. I intend sending by this mail for a sample, and if Mr. Harrison will let me have his address, I will be very pleased to send him a few on their arrival.

Glastonbury Show and C.B.U. Rules.

SIR,—Should any intending exhibitor at Glastonbury open show, on November 17th, notice that we have not the declaration notice printed at the foot of our entry forms, also that we have not printed in our schedules that we are under Cage Bird Union Rules (as per our advert), I beg to say that the cause was through the delay of the head office in not replying to our application. We are under the C.B.U. rules, and I trust shall have a good entry.

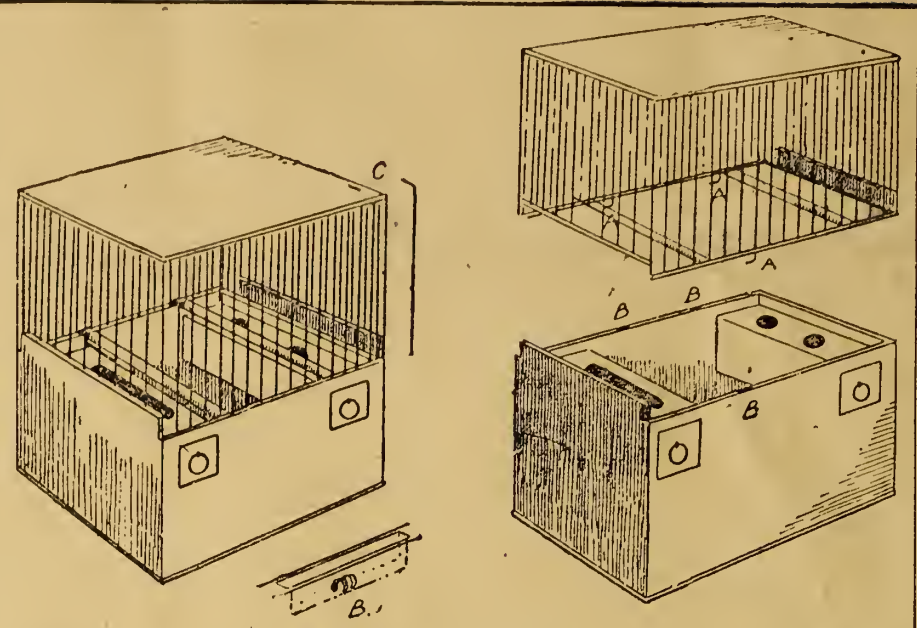
Foreign Birds at Liverpool Show.

SIR,—I should like to call your attention to an error, either on the printer's part or on the part of the Show Committee of the Liverpool O.S., viz., on the front of the schedule received by me it states "Show of Canaries, Mules, British and Foreign Birds"; and yet on looking through the schedule I cannot find a single class for foreign birds. This, to me, is a surprise, as I should have expected six or seven classes for foreigners at a seaport like Liverpool. Look at the number of advertisers of foreign birds in Liverpool in CAGE BIRDS. From these one would expect to see one of the finest collections of foreign birds possible. This error in the schedule also occurred at Pendleton last year. I simply point this out for secretaries' consideration, as it is very misleading and annoying to intending exhibitors.



JOHN ENGLAND.

How I Bred my Champion Winning Yorkshire.

SIR,—Allow me to tender to you my most sincere thanks for the agreeable surprise I had and the honour you conferred upon me in your last issue, in depicting so well my old champion Unevenly Marked Buff. He had the honour of gaining his 23rd first prize at the Crystal Palace Jubilee Show. I must also congratulate your artist, Mr. H. Norman, on his undoubted skill. You can readily understand why I appreciate it when I say I am both the breeder and the exhibitor of this bird. It may interest many of your readers to know that his success has been attained in a class where Yellows and Buffs were combined until this season. He has won all under the most noted Yorkshire judges, viz., Messrs. Mundell, House, Battye, Hadwin, Hirst, Carr, Dawson, Harrison, Cowgill, Cruise, Broadley, Sutcliffe, and Ambler. You will see that I have not followed any judge who has given him a first prize. With one exception—Wallsend—all his honours have been attained at Y.C.C. and Y.U. shows, so that he had to face the keenest competition. Perhaps a few hints as to how he was bred would, no doubt, interest your novice readers, and those who breed for the hobby. His great grandsire was a half-Yorkshire Belgian I bought from Somersetshire. He was not a large one, under 6ins. in fact, but of good feather, type and position. This I mated with a large Yellow Yorkshire hen, 6½ins. good, and thick in the neck. I bred two cocks and three hens from these. I kept the lot, as the hens especially were fine ones. It was from these hens I bred the father, now in my possession. The latter I mated to my Yellow hen, 3rd at Crystal Palace, one of a trio who gained the silver medal in the Amateur and Novice Class for most points, 1905. Neither of these was a large bird, not over 6½ins., but both were well balanced. From these I bred three winners in one season, as well as a Clear Yellow bred the same way. The bird depicted is the sire of my champion Foul-Marked Buff, winner of four firsts and sixteen seconds. You will see that like has produced like in this case. This season I have three promising youngsters from him, all Buffs as usual (two Clear Buffs and one eye-ticked Buff). One young buff is a hot one both in colour, type and quality, and I am hoping he will fill his father's place, whom I intend to pension off after this season. My best advice to the novice and amateur is, if you breed a good bird, stick, and do not be tempted with gold, as from such a bird you may get others. Do not run away with the idea you can breed another next year. You may get a disagreeable surprise. What is even more, you have your model constantly before you. Aim for that, and that only. Note defects in your stock birds, balance these, and note result in progeny. Before showing bring out your model, and compare with those you intend showing, giving points for the different parts then as a whole, according to the table provided by the specialist clubs. Last, but not least, be careful where you buy your stock; be sure the fancier you deal with has bred them. I issue this as a warning—I was gulled when I was young in the Fancy. Be sure your man is a breeder, and one who exhibits his own birds.

The Hoopoe—A Rare Visitor.

SIR,—A short time back a hint was thrown out that a very rare bird was seen in this district (Hunts). At first the bird did not seem to be recognised, as one had never been seen in these parts before. When the shooting season came on, however, the bird fell to the gun; it was then that it was identified as the Hoopoe, and a very fine specimen it was. This is believed to be the first seen in the county and captured. It is now being mounted. How it came to these parts I cannot say; it is possible there may be another one about, and it is hoped its life may be spared. It is, of course, possible that it may have escaped from some aviary, and had not migrated here.

HOOPOE.

A Plea for Novice Lizard Classes.

SIR,—As a constant reader of your valuable paper, I trust you will allow me to very highly compliment all the novices in the Lizard Fancy who exhibited at Rochdale O.C. show, and not only for the splendid display of the Lizards themselves, but more for the sake of obtaining better classification for the novices. I feel sure that after Rochdale O.C., Manchester and N.C.O.S., and Rochdale Good Intent, that the powers that be will be convinced that the novice Lizard fanciers would do justice to three classes—not only a class for Golds and Silvers, but also a class for the hens. As a novice myself, I have a few hens that I would exhibit, providing they would give us a class for them, and there is no doubt that a few of those exhibitors who showed at Rochdale in Novice Lizards are in the same boat, and will absolutely refuse to back up professional classes until they have qualified. However, I feel sure now, after such a success at Rochdale, the L. & L.F.A. will be very strongly induced to insist upon having three classes, viz., Gold (any variety), Silver, ditto, hens, ditto, (for novices), before they give their patronage to any of the shows next year. If they can see the wisdom of adopting this course (and, by the way, there are plenty of shows that would accede to their request), they would no doubt do a very great deal to encourage both the breeding and exhibition of Lizards, and strengthen their society at the same time. In conclusion, just a word to the Novice Lizard fanciers: Buck up for Manchester and Rochdale Good Intent, and any of the other shows where you have been catered for. By doing so, you will not only be doing your duty to the "spangled beauties" that you so dearly cherish, but to a great extent you will give encouragement to the L. & L.F.A., and show committees, and force their hands (or rather their heads) at the same time.

EDWARD THOMPSON.

A Canary with One Wing.

SIR,—In the last issue of CAGE BIRDS, I noticed an enquiry under the above heading as to whether any reader of your paper had such a freak. In reply, I have pleasure in stating that in the season 1908 I bred a green Norwich cock, minus a wing, and he seemed to get on very well without it, except when he was singing, as he very often lost his balance in his excitement, and arrived on the bottom of the cage in rather much of a hurry, wrong side up. The bird is not now in my possession, but a friend has it, and it is doing well.

JOHN MALCOLM, JUN.

SIR,—I am writing to say that I had the same freak (a Canary with one wing) as W. Tansley. I am very sorry to say that the little thing had the misfortune to be drowned. One day I put the dish in for them to have a bath, and left them for a while, and when I returned I found the freak in the dish dead. This might put W. Tansley on his guard to be careful when he gives them the dish to bathe in.

WILLIAM HUTCHINSON.

The Modern Norwich Plainhead.

SIR,—In CAGE BIRDS again I read another letter on the Norwich Plainhead, by Mr. Watson, and I am glad in this case that the gentleman has his ideal bird illustrated. Before this last breeding season commenced I had taken a great liking to this class of bird, and obtained what I thought two really good pairs to start with, but up to the end of the breeding season I continually read letters dealing with this kind in one way or another, so that I seriously thought, after having a good success with stock of young ones, I had better not trouble myself about showing any of them week after week, as probably it would be a waste of money and a likely disappointment. Yet I have sold many to various parts of the British Isles, even though I had not given the birds the required artificial dye—that is nowadays the registered polish of all birds, viz., colour-food. No doubt the birds look well and a little "tasty" with this extra trouble, but I am a great lover of a bird in its natural fine and healthy plumage, so this matter also was left alone in my case, as well as leaving the shows alone. I would gladly send two of my young birds to the Editor of CAGE BIRDS to be photographed, and then illustrated in his valuable paper, for the inspection afterwards of Mr. Watson, who might then give his opinion as to the distance they are "off the mark." I am sure it would be interesting and very instructive to perhaps many like myself to know which are the defective points that still need to be worked up. Also, I should like to hear from any other gentlemen of experience. Should our Editor go to this trouble, I should afterwards gladly accept information on lacking points, and in the next season would set about trying to remedy the defects, and attain something "near the mark," as from Mr. Watson's illustration I am still "off the mark" in my opinion.

JJOHN H. JOWETT.

[We have never yet had the good fortune to see a photograph which correctly rendered the type of a living Canary of position, and have so far found the difficulties in the way of producing the same insurmountable. If, however, Mr. Jowett can send us a photograph which he considers satisfactory, we shall have pleasure in reproducting it.—EDITOR.]

A Linnet Singing Society for Carbrook.

SIR,—A meeting was held on October 24th, at the Fitzwilliam Hotel, to make arrangements for a Linnet Singing Society for Carbrook. The house selected was the Fitzwilliam Hotel, Milford Street, Carbrook. There will be a general meeting at 8 o'clock on November 7th, when all Linnet singers who wish to become members can do so by giving their names in to the Secretary. There will also be a Linnet contest on November 7th, at the Fitzwilliam Hotel, Milford Street, for three good prizes, open to all England, entrance fee 4d. per bird; first pair up at 1 o'clock.

A. BROWN, Sec.

The Return of Exhibits from Perth Show.

SIR,—Will you give me space for a few lines of apology to the fanciers who were exhibiting at Perth show on Saturday last, and who were disappointed at their birds not being despatched earlier than they were? Most of the birds were packed in plenty of time for their trains, and the usual arrangements were made to have them conveyed to the station, but owing to one of the vanmen not turning up, we were left at the last moment with the bulk of the birds, and had to do our best to get them all away with one van; with the result that some of them were sent away by later trains than we meant them to travel by, and those that could not be delivered were returned to my house. I can assure the fanciers who did not receive their birds till Monday that I gave them every attention, and sent them away on the Monday morning, everyone looking in the best of condition. I am sorry that anyone should be disappointed, as I am anxious if my own birds are kept later than usual at a show; and I hope fanciers will accept the thanks of my society for their support of one of the oldest societies in Scotland in the past, and that they will favour us with their entries at our future shows, and we will try our best to avoid any cause of offence.

JAMES KERR, Hon. Sec.

Alleged Mutilation of Exhibition Birds.

SIR,—As I was a steward at Peterborough show, and assisted in the unpacking and packing of the birds, I think it only right that I should say a word re Mr. Hall's buff Norwich hen. It is a mean action for any exhibitor to say that his bird has been mutilated whilst on exhibition at Peterborough show. I would like to ask Mr. Hall if he thinks anyone would really risk mutilating a bird (by plucking all the feathers from the middle of the back) that had not even got in the cards, as it was utterly impossible for anyone to have done so without being seen by some of the stewards. The judge says that the bird was all right at the time of judging, and I might say that when the birds were packed for the return journey there was not a feather to be seen in any of the cages. Did Mr. Hall take the trouble to notice the bottom of his cages when he unpacked his birds? I must say that Mr. Hall is one of the many disappointed exhibitors to try and tax a society like this, that holds a world-wide reputation, and is second to none for its management, I would like to ask a few of the visitors if they saw any birds mutilated at Peterborough show.

ALF. ROWLES.

SIR,—In reply to Mr. Cocks' questions re hen Canary, firstly, he said it was utterly impossible for this bird to have been plucked; secondly, he wants to know if I noticed any missing feathers when unpacking. I was at home when the bird arrived, and took her out of the case myself. It was not a very pleasing sight, I can assure you. On the bottom of the cage were about half the missing feathers. These I picked out and put carefully away, and on the following Thursday I showed these missing feathers, also the hen to Judge Roe, who said there was not the least doubt that the bird had been plucked. Is this not enough to convince you, sir? If not, then I will give you the name of another judge, also the names of four other well-known fanciers who were all of the same opinion. Did Mr. Cocks think I was going to let this matter drop without bringing it before the Fancy? If so, he made a great mistake. As for withdrawing my remarks (which you state are both dirty and ridiculous), I must ask him not to be so personal. His sympathy I do not require. I have plenty of sympathy from gentlemen who saw the bird.

Bournemouth Show and the Cage Bird Union.

SIR,—I enclose you a schedule of Bournemouth Show. They have not paid their subscription this year, consequently have no right to put in front of the schedule what they have done, viz., that "members and affiliated members of the C.B.U. are eligible to exhibit at this show." I am writing them, and perhaps you will insert this notice, that members of the Cage Bird Union cannot exhibit at Bournemouth.

The Alleged Stained Lizards at Rochdale Show.

SIR,—The District Committee met at Rochdale on Saturday afternoon last. After hearing the evidence, and seeing Mr. Howse's reason (left with Mr. Butterworth, the hon. sec.), they decided that the judge's decision be upheld: That Mr. W. Whipp be suspended until March 31st, 1911, and that secretaries of all societies be requested not to accept entries from any of the family during that time. Mr. Whipp was called into the room to offer any explanation he wished to make, which he did, but it was not satisfactory to the Committee.

A New "Comet" Appears at Newcastle.

SIR,—A new "comet" was reported from the Newcastle observatory as to be seen in the constellation Hybrid. Whether it was the small power of the instrument installed there has not been decided, but the "astronomer royal" failed to locate the interesting and brilliant phenomenon. Certain it is that it was seen by other observers in close proximity to the "sun" previous to and during the early hours of October 22nd and 23rd. The "sun" even was denied existence. However, they will both again be seen in conjunction, when it is hoped a better view will be obtained by the astronomer on duty, when the great phenomena will receive its due amount of attention. The discoverer, Mr. MacPartling, states the "sun" to be composed of Greenfinch, with a preponderating amount of Canary; likewise its attendant, the "comet" (first seen about the middle of May) is compounded of the Twite, with its complement of Canary. Its colour is that of shepherd's purse. Its path has not been decided, but there are many suggestions as to the observatory in which it should next be seen. The presence of such unusual visitors caused great surprise at Newcastle, and there is still a golden opportunity for some "astronomer" to be the first to recognise

MAC'S COMET.

[We believe this curiously worded epistle concerns the said to be clear yellow Greenfinch-Canary Hybrid, exhibited by Mr. MacPartling at the recent Newcastle Show, and which was marked "wrong class" by the judge. Apparently, a Twite-Canary Hybrid is also referred to. The future career of these "comets" will be followed with interest by breeders of Hybrids.—EDITOR.]

"Going Light": Can it be Cured?

SIR,—A lot of correspondence with reference to birds going light has appeared, and I write to say I have been troubled with the same malady. I lost fifty grand youngsters in three weeks. I tried all sorts of medicines and charcoal as well, but they all failed to stop the disease. In picking up a local newspaper one day I came across an advert. where it said a free sample of Liquerzone would be given free of charge. I sent for one, and I used a half-teaspoonful for each pair of birds, and the cure was marvellous. I did not lose one more after giving them their first dose.

J. H. H.

SIR,—Since I penned my letter on July 31 many letters have appeared under this heading, but none of them as yet appear to have got at the bottom of the trouble. Some lay it down to the seed. As I have had some experience in seeds, I know, and have known for years, that all seeds are not A1; some are new and good, some have been "well stored"—kept too long—and some are very immature, with no nourishing properties, and nothing left in to give the birds the necessary nourishment to keep them in vigour. But I cannot take it for granted that is the cause. I know good seed from bad, or else my thirty years' experience of birds and their food counts for nothing, and I have badly wasted my time in gaining all that experience. No, since I have taken up birds as a hobby I have given them most serious thought, and have studied their many ways, and how to keep them in health, and to get them to moult in their brightest plumage. Cages may have something to do with it, especially if they are old ones, no matter how they are disinfected. But to do away with these is not a cure; it might be a preventative, however. I am sorry no medical man has taken this subject up, also "The Fatal Disease" and "Septic Fever," and given us his opinions. We should then have something to work upon, for the disease can be checked, if not cured. I have tried the plain Canary seed as suggested by Mr. Jones, and also the wild seeds and berries when in season; but they have not altered the case, neither have boiled, soaked or dry seeds, crushed or uncrushed. Tonics I have given them, also quinine with soft food, and in their water in various strengths; also I have given them medicine through the beak. But no real or certain cure have I been able to find for this fatal disease. Egg cannot be blamed, as I don't us it for British birds, particularly so with the Greenfinches, which have been much the worse sufferers from this disease, as they are the longest recovering. As it is only a common species not much notice is taken of the birds, and if they die one can try others; but mine were good, and when you do have them good you don't want to see them die a lot at a time, especially when you expected to get a decent Hybrid from them. Hand-reared birds have suffered the most, probably because they had not the stamina of the wild ones, no matter how they have been fed. I still hope we yet shall see some remedy for this fatal disease.

A Cup Matter.

SIR,—I confess, Mr. Secretary, that I am acquainted with your rules and the clause relative to cup winners, wherein it states that the member counting most points at last show is to hold cup for the year. It has been won once by Captain A. J. Philp, and once by Mr. John Fairley. My imagination has certainly not been at fault here. According to your letter, this particular cup has not yet been purchased, but it will be "when won." Is this arrangement not unusual? You also in your letter mention that medals are only presented when won. You are quite right there. All associations present medals and cups, etc., only when won. I really did not think your association gave the medals free gratis to all who applied for them. Oh, no. I thank you for your letter, which explains all I asked for. In my former letter the year should have been 1908-9 not 1910, as stated.

ENQUIRER.

Rare Mules and Hybrids.

SIR,—I have been anxiously looking over CAGE BIRDS each week to see if its pages contained any reference to a rare Hybrid or Mule bred during the past season. I suppose we shall have to wait until well in the show season before we get to hear or see one. Perhaps fanciers in Bonnie Scotland have produced some; they are generally in the running most years with something good. I think, however, we should have had a whisper before now if the Siskin-Bullie Hybrid had been reared. No doubt several have tried for it, and I should much like to hear of their success, or even of their experience in trying for it. How long shall we have to wait for another Chaffinch-Bramblefinch Hybrid to appear; and has the Hawfinch this year proved to be a cage or aviary breeder? Are there any more Redpoll-Bullies bred to enter on show bench? Shall we have to record any more Canary-Bullies this year, or have we made another stop for a time? Has the cock Bramblefinch-Chaffinch or Bullie proved the male parent of any coming Mule or Hybrid? If so, this would greatly interest Hybrid breeders, particularly the writer of these notes, who has been a trier of the cock Bullie and cock Chaffinch for over 20 years in various ways. I am also glad to see any notes of any particular success in this hobby, and I hope some of the successful breeders will give us a line or two before the show season gets much more forward of their doings in this line. Are there any good Goldfinch-Bullies to come to light, like the noted one of some years ago from the foreign birds, or the Linnet-Bullies—another beautiful bird when well staged. I expect to hear that the Greenfinch has done well this year, both the male and female, and that some good specimens will appear on the show bench. This bird is a great favourite of mine for crossing purposes in Hybrid breeding. The hens I find generally sit well, especially if hand-reared.

HOUSE'S CANARY MANUAL

By C. A. House. Post free 1/2 (postal order).

A thorough and practical guide to the general management and breeding of Canaries, written by a well-known expert and judge. It contains chapters dealing fully with the breeding, etc., of every member of the Canary family, including the German (or Roller) Canary.

An illustration of each bird, by the master Canary artist, Mr. H. Norman, reproduced in the finest art style.

There are also exhaustive chapters on aviaries and cages, breeding procedure, moulting, exhibiting, diseases and seeds—a compendium of knowledge approached by no other book of its kind at the price.

The Removal of Exhibits at Newcastle Show.

SIR,—Allow me a little space in your valuable paper about Newcastle show. We working men are not done till 12 o'clock, and have to travel perhaps two or three miles, and we have no chance to get down to the show at one o'clock when they start to lift birds. The man that sends a bird to the show and wants it away at one or two o'clock is a bad-hearted bird fancier. The birds that were sent off early belonged to the deck-sweepers and prize snatchers. The birds of the men that get the prizes are taken away in front of your eyes. You have a catalogue in your hand, and try to find a bird; it has gone. It is time there was something done to stop what I term imposing on working men fanciers.

Under the White Rose.

SHIPLEY Society is to be congratulated on the success of the show on Saturday last. The total just topped the 500, which for 27 classes gives an average of over 18, a real good entry considering there were quite a number of shows on the same date, within easy sendable distance. For a few years the officials and members here have worked hard for their show, but could not attract the entries. Last year they had quite a heavy loss, and at one time they were undecided whether to run the risk of another show or not. But enthusiasm prevailed; fancierlike, they couldn't resist, and all are heartily glad they have conquered.

ON Tuesday, the 19th inst., the Bingley members and friends had a real treat of a washing exhibition. Their member and friend, Mr. J. Hartley, put four birds through the process in good style, surprising many of the novices by the quickness and manner of his work. After the birds were dry, a discussion took place, a very large number of questions being put to Mr. Hartley, which were admirably answered. Finally, a hearty vote of thanks was accorded him.

YORKSHIRE County British Bird and Mule Club this week issued a natty little booklet to its members, containing list of officers, rules, list of shows where patronage is given, particulars of special prizes offered to members, and list of members—just the thing to pop in your pocket, and keep for handy reference. Amongst the members' names it is pleasing to see that the number from noted places where British birds are kept is steadily increasing. The subscription for honorary members is 1s., and for exhibiting members, 2s. 6d. Send your names in please. Secretary's address, W. R. Myers, 23, Ingleby Place, Bradford.

WHEN exhibitors have to send their birds away to shows which they cannot attend, it is always a matter of importance as to their safe and early arrival home. Of course, some places are not on a direct route, and this makes it very inconvenient, and the birds are apt to be very late, sometimes not arriving until late on Sunday. Several fanciers on Saturday went down at Bradford Station to meet birds home from Newcastle, and were somewhat surprised to find they were already here. And, as one fancier said, they were decidedly better packed than when sent. What is more interesting, they had put pages of CAGE BIRDS between the cages for the birds to read on the journey.

THE first year-book of the "National Green Marked Yorkshire Canary Club" is really good, and reflects great credit on its author, the secretary. A scrutiny of the names and addresses reveals the fact that the total membership is now over 100 in number, which proves that without doubt the club is on a sound basis, and that the club was absolutely necessary. The book contains a list of officers, rules, bye-laws, notes to judges officiating at shows under their patronage, particulars of prizes and competitions, list of shows and judges, and many other important items.

"STRAIGHT 'UN."

GRIMSBY.

The Grimsby and Dis. O.S. third annual show was held in the Foresters' Hall, Garabaldi Street, on October 27th and 28th. This hall is one of the best in the country for a bird show, being spacious, and having a grand top light, enabling the birds to be judged in their respective positions; it was warm and comfortable too, and free from dust. The chairman is Mr. W. H. Moore, senr., the vice-chairman Mr. H. E. Stubbs, the treasurer Mr. H. Harding, and the committee Messrs. Beaumont, Cotterill, Cartwright, Dowie, Good, Oliver, Pett, Robinson, and Way. The hon. sec. is Mr. W. H. Moore, jun., who is energetic, courteous, and efficient; and for work he is a veritable "chip off the old block." Councillor R. W. Roberts, the Mayor-elect, who has the entire local esteem, generously headed the subscription list, and also opened the show, supported by his wife and Councillor Oliver Best, who was introduced by the vice-chairman, Mr. H. E. Stubbs. After a few well-chosen remarks by the Mayor-elect, the show was declared open. The total entries in 36 classes numbered 276. Judging commenced by 9.30. Judges: for Canaries, Mr. J. H. Roe (Derby); for British and Foreign, Mr. T. Medley.

The Canary Classes.

NOR. CL., ETC., YELL. (11): 1, Moore, senr., good col. and size, nice head and neck; 2, Pepper, large bird, good type and carriage, a wee trifle open in feather; 3, 4, Moore, senr., 3rd not quite so large, but good col., nice bird, 4th grand quality feather, nice type and style, some thought as well as any in class; vhc, Clews; hc, Rippon; c, G. Brumby. BUFF (10): 1, Townshend, large bird, good col. and quality feather, nice pipe tail, grand carriage of wing; 2, Havenhand, another nice bird, some thought lucky, however; 3, Harland, lkd. back of head, good style, chest, and quality of feather, steady, nice carriage of wing; 4, hc, Moore, senr., beautifully mealed, grand under col., nice medium; vhc, Pepper, loses in col., otherwise a really nice bird; c, Stubbs. CL., ETC., YELL., 1909 (9): 1, Harland, good size, nice col., well placed; 2, Moore, junr., mkd. at back of head, good col., small side, somewhat poor head and neck; 3, Stubbs, similar bird to 1st, only stouter, flatter in col.; 4, Moore, junr., cl., good size, col., style and quality, some thought should have won; vhc, Moore, senr.; hc, Pepper, some like as much as 2nd; c, Woodall. BUFF, 1909 (10): 1, Harland, head, wing and neck mkd., nice type and quality, crosses wings, wants tubbing; 2, Woodall, cl., nice type, quality, col. and meal, unsteady and crosses wings at times; 3, 4, Woodhouse, 3rd cl., loses only in col., good style, type and character, 4 another very similar bird, some made a good 2nd; vhc, Moore, junr.; hc, Moore, senr.; c, Townshend. CL., ETC., YELL. HEN (8): 1, Clews, capped head, grand style, type and col., cl. cut, very nice hen; 2 Bailey, cl., a trifle flat in col., good 2nd; 3, Harland, cl., unflig., very large, somewhat open in feather; 4, Moore, senr., lkd. back of head some made 3rd winner; vhc, Stubbs; hc, Havenhand; c, Calem. BUFF (10): 1, Bailey, large cl., grand meal, quality and size, grand hen, wins easily; 2, Stubbs, large cl., good quality and substance, nice head, wants washing; 3, Harland, large, good quality and substance; 4, Moore, senr., large bird, grand quality and style; vhc, Havenhand, large cl., grand hen; hc, Gill and Gee; c, Pepper. NOVICE OPEN, NOR. (£3 limit). —CL., ETC., YELL. (9): 1, Cliff, cl., not the largest but a nice bird all over, grand style, quality and wing carriage; 2, Mason, cl., hot col., good bird, hugs the perches at times, might have won perhaps; 3, Johnson, wing and neck mkd., nice size, style, and quality; 4, Gibson, cl., nice type and style; vhc, Wilson; hc, Gill and Gee; c, Calvard. BUFF (13): 1, Tose, lkd. neck, grand style and quality, easy win 2, Gill and Gee, nice size, quality and col., wee bit flat in head; 3, Potter, very steady, nice type and quality, bit rough on thigh; 4, Angliss, similar bird to 3rd; vhc, Longhorn, cl., nice bird, ought not this to have been in the money?; hc, Belcher; c, Fish. CL., ETC., 1909 (17): 1, Johnson, saddle mkd., good style, type and quality; 2, Bray, cl. buff, somewhat flat in col. otherwise very good; 3, Tose, cl., nice quality and style; 4, Potts, head and wing mkd., grand style, type col. and meal, some made this the winner; vhc, Mason; hc, Wilson; c, Siddall. CL., ETC., HEN (14): 1, Mason, very nice bird, easy win; 2, Tose, cl., ycl., good bird; 3, Calvard, wing and tail mkd., a little rough on rump; 4, Cliff, nice cl., good type; vhc, Chambers; hc, Potter; c, Ridley. YORKS. CL. ETC. (5): 1, Mountain, mkd. both eyes and wings, grand style and length; 2, Stone, cl. yell., but shows a lot of meal; 3, Harrison, variegated buff, not quite so fine drawn, still a really nice bird; 4, Simpson, cl. buff, grand style, finely drawn; vhc, Havenhand. CL. ETC. BRED 1909 (13): 1, Precious, tick neck and wing, buff, grand length and quality; 2, Woolhouse, cl. yell., grand length, finely drawn, grand style; 3, Havenhand, cl. buff, wants tubbing; 4, Harrison, cl. yell., might perhaps have been 3rd; vhc, Mountain; hc, Stone; c, Harrison. CL. ETC. HEN (4): 1, Simpson, cl. buff, grand length, style and quality; 2, Bingham, cl. yell., grand bird, fine good position; 3, Mountain, cl., similar bird to 2nd; 4, Havenhand, buff tick wing. NOVICE OPEN YORKS. CL. ETC. (£3 limit) (20): 1, Smith, cl. yell., grand bird all over, could however do with a wash; 2, Holmes, similar, but cleaner, some made the winner; 3, 4, Precious, 3rd very similar to 2nd; 4th, buff; vhc, Grantham; hc, Smith; c, Sowden. CL. ETC. HEN (9): 1, Bingham, grand hen, good style and position, easy win; 2, Precious, cl. buff, another good one; 3, Holmes, tick wing yell., finely drawn, good bird; 4, Frith; vhc, Potter; hc, Auton; c, Booth. CRESTS OR C.B.: Cancelled. CINN. (5): 1, Nason, buff, nice type and col.; 2, Calem, buff, not quite so stout, but cleaner cut; 3, Ingram, large bird, will probably improve in wing carriage with care; 4, Ingram, nice yell.; vhc, Nason, yell., good in col., very compact in feather. A.O.V. CAN. (5): 1, Hodgson; 2, Pepper; 3, vhc, Bexton; 4, Rawlins. SELL. (15/-), SINGLE OR PAIRS (7): 1, Grantham; 2, Simpson; 3, Booth; 4, Johnson; vhc, Moore, sen.; hc, Calvard; c, Burdett. Some Personal Views on the —— Border Fancy. ——

By A. SHORT (Tweedmouth).

We print Mr. Short's interesting contribution exactly as written, but desire to make it clear that we do not necessarily endorse all his remarks anent the type, the judging, etc.—EDITOR "C.B."

The Border Fancy Canary is, I think, rapidly becoming one of the most popular breeds of Canaries, judging by the way it has been taken up all over the country since the specialist clubs were formed. No other breed offers such advantages to beginners. Borders are the least expensive both to buy and keep, while they do not require "feeders" as do Scotch Fancies, or colour-feeding like the Norwich. They are also about the smallest, and certainly one of the hardiest of Canaries, besides being most prolific breeders.

The Variety at the Shows.

Shows which are well patronised by Border men, usually provide classes for clears, ticks, cinnamons, or greens, even and uneven marks. If a fancier breeds a good bird he need have no difficulty in showing it to the best advantage, and really good birds are not so very plentiful in any of the classes, for, as may be seen from the show reports, certain birds win wherever shown. Although the Border has been brought to a high state of perfection, it can still be greatly improved, and I think some of our judges leave a lot to be desired in the way of judging. If they would all go for a uniform type of bird that would add to one's chance of improving the bird, in type at least. At present there are several variations of type in Borders, as fanciers cannot fail to see in any big classes of Borders, and it puzzles one to know what is the right sort to breed for—especially when it so happens at a show that each class has a different stamp of winner! The Border Fancy Canary Club has its model and standard of points, so why shouldn't the judges go by them? It would simplify matters both for themselves and for fanciers. The judging, considered on the whole, usually gives satisfaction; but in some cases a lot of grumbling is caused by incompetence, and in others by the favouritism shown.

Good condition and feather are all very well, but when they are placed before type, then type becomes secondary to condition, etc., and the result is fanciers do not pay that attention to type they should, thereby running the risk of destroying the chief charm of the Border. No exhibitor will complain of his birds when they win, no matter of what type the birds are, and should he go out judging naturally he will favour his own stamp of bird, and so bring his strain into prominence, to the disadvantage of other and perhaps better strains. That neither improves the breed, nor does it do much good to the Fancy.

The Colour Line.

Colour does not count for many points in a Border, but it is advantageous to have good colour, as when other points are equal colour decides the winner. There are strains of Borders with extremely high colour. These birds have been bred for marks for years, and chiefly with birds that were good in colour. It happens sometimes when they are shown that their colour is questioned as not being genuine (although judges usually "pass" them, knowing the difficulty there is in telling whether a bird has had colour-feed or not). It is rather hard on a fancier when he has got his birds with plenty of colour to have them doubted, while others who may use colour food are seldom suspected.

The buffs of these strains are the ones usually looked on with suspicion, and the reason is, I think, that they have lighter wings and light edging (or mealiness) of the outer feather, which contrasts strongly with the deeper body colour, giving them an uneven appearance in colour. There is a lighter shade of buff, which has a nice waxy look and even appearance, which is very noticeable in one well-known exhibitor's birds. These varying shades of buff, when compared, show us the difference very distinctly.

Some fanciers who may notice the difference in colour of the two shades of buff, would quite likely put the stronger colour down as "colour feed," which mistake would arise out of not knowing the strain from which the birds were bred. The yellow birds of deep colour usually escape criticism, as birds in these classes are mostly good coloured, and are not, therefore, so conspicuous.

Tips about Wing Tips.

To get the best results from birds for showing, each should be treated separately, so that each can have the attention and feeding most suitable. Some birds require a higher kind of feeding than others, while some are nervous and need more handling.

The fewer faults an exhibition bird has the better its chances. Now, there are one or two faults that may be improved by showing, or they may be made worse. A bird that crosses its wings slightly at home should not be sent to a show, where he is certain to cross them to a worse degree through excitement; while a bird that hangs its wings a little may, under similar circumstances, draw them closer together until they are almost in the correct position. Of the two faults the crossed wings is the worse to deal with, and one that it is difficult to breed out of a strain.

It is not advisable to keep a slimly-built bird in too high condition, or when he is shown he will be apt to draw his feathers tightly up to the body and spoil the outline altogether; while a stout bird is better kept in high condition for the same reason. A bird usually looks right enough at home, but its excitement when at a show makes a big difference.

A Border may have a frilled breast—a bad fault if in the strain, but it is sometimes caused by the bird being too thin. The remedy is to get some flesh on the bird by the use of egg food, hemp, etc.; but it must not be overdone, of course, or the bird will get too fat.

Winners Not Easy to Get.

It is not an easy matter to breed winners, although some are lucky enough to get one or two good enough to win before they have themselves been long in the Fancy; but it depends greatly upon how they go about it. It is a bad plan to buy birds here and there, even if they are first-class. Nobody can have much of an idea as to how they will throw young birds. By getting all the birds from one strain one is able to form a better idea of the sort the young will be by reason of the birds having been bred to a certain standard.

The best method is to become acquainted with a fancier who breeds his own winners. Buy two or three pairs off him, not grudging a decent price. Get as many particulars about the strain as possible—what their strong and weak points are, and how they are bred. When a beginner has got his birds, and as many particulars as he can extract, he is on a fair way to success. In one case he will be trying to make a new strain of his own; the other (and easier method) is the better way to become early successful.

Plenty of bathing whenever the weather is suitable is one of the best ways in which to keep the birds healthy and clean; but anyone wishing to exhibit should learn to hand-wash, as birds travelling about shows soon get so dirty that it is almost impossible to get them clean by any other means than by hand-washing. Most experts at that game are always willing to show any novice how it is done, and one or two practical lessons are worth more than a page of writing.

Concluding Hints.

For breeding purposes some Border men use all-wire cages, while others prefer the box pattern. Each sort has its advantages. The box cages are warmer, keep the birds cleaner, and provide the best protection against draughts, while the all-wired sort have no shelter for red mite, etc., are easily cleaned, and the birds are steadier and more at home when first run into show cages. I have tried them both, and have found little difference, having had fair results with each.

When young birds are moulting they should be well covered up to keep clean and to prevent their catching cold. They moult quicker, too, that way, and are not so liable to damage themselves by flying on the wires.

Some fanciers give their birds linseed to help put a gloss on the feather. I prefer gold of pleasure seed, as I think I get better results by its use, and the birds seem to like it better than linseed. A tip from a "crack" Border man is to mix three parts oatmeal and one part sugar together, and make it crumbly moist with cod-liver oil. Give each bird about a teaspoonful once a week; sprinkle it with some maw seed, and they soon take on with it. It is also good for putting flesh on to thin birds; it soon fills out the breast.

Although it is a method not generally adopted, I give the birds all the seeding heads of chickweed, shepherd's purse, plantain, etc., I can get, and have never found any harm result. When young birds get a few sprays of wild seeds to peck at it keeps them out of mischief, and provides both food and amusement for them.

For the general management of Borders I usually follow the methods so often explained in CAGE BIRDS, trying any new idea I see, to find out its value.

The Early History of the Roller Canary.

By MAX JACQUEMIN.

A paper read recently before the Midland Roller Canary Club.

Perhaps the early history of the Roller Canary is not new to you, but I hope my small paper will be of some interest to you, and give you a better idea of our songster, the Roller.

The Introduction of the Canary.

It is now five hundred years since the Canary was first imported into Europe from the Canary Islands. It was in the year 1405 that John Bithincourt brought the first Canaries to Cadiz, a Spanish seaport. He a few years before that date had, with his fleet, taken possession of the largest Canary Island, Lancirota. The newly-imported bird soon made many friends through his nice song, his tameness and his hardiness in captivity.

The Spaniards soon took advantage of the bird's good qualities, and did a good export trade with him. Even in those days they knew the easy breeding and rearing of the bird. The prices were high, and only rich people could afford to have them. The bird was a great favourite, especially with the ladies; in fact, he was the pet of the day. He was trained to sit still on the finger or shoulder, and it was the custom of the lady of the house not to receive visitors or friends without the bird on her finger; also on the old family pictures you can see the Canary painted.

The Spaniards only exported cock birds, so they were able to monopolise the whole market. This is very likely the reason it was quite 100 years later before the bird came to the southern part of France, in the department that is now called Bouches-des-Rhone, and then farther along the coast to North Italy, as far as Livorna, where it was bred with the local Siskins.

The Change from Green to Yellow.

It has often been asked how long it took before the Canary changed to its nice yellow colour. Already in the beginning of the 16th century the yellow and buff were known to exist. In the middle of the 16th century, so history tells us, a ship with many Canaries on board got stranded off the coast of Elba, an island in the Mediterranean Sea, close to Italy. The birds made straight for the Island which suited them so well, then settled down and multiplied in great numbers.

Italy, the land where thousands of birds are slaughtered annually at the present time, was not different in those days, and the inhabitants soon destroyed many of the new immigrants; and when they learned the high value of these birds they did not rest till the island was quite clear of them.

Up to the present time everyone takes it for granted that the Canary came first from Italy to Switzerland (Tyrol district), and from there to Germany in the Hartz Mountains. According to history, at the end of the 17th century and the beginning of the 18th, the townspeople of Joust in the Tyrol bred and exported a great number of Canaries to all parts of Europe. It was from this town that the celebrated Nightingale Rollers came. One man especially had a nest of young Canaries from which, as soon as they chipped, he took the cock away and left the hen to rear the young by herself. As soon as they could do for themselves he put one young cock in a room with a well-singing Nightingale, and to the man's surprise and delight the young bird learned the Nightingale's song to perfection, and when he sang by night as well as any, the man knew he had a small fortune. With this and many other birds he travelled as far as St. Petersberg and Moscow, where he realised a large sum of money for his special trained one, besides making his name, and was the means of bringing money and trade into the poor Tyrol district.

How it Became Famous.

But for all this Nuremberg was the first place where breeding and dealing were carried on on a large scale. The "Chronicle" of Nuremberg states that as early as 1645 the bird was valued for his beautiful song and rich yellow colour. Also at that date the merchants imported the birds direct from the Canary Islands, so the Nuremberg breeders had them first hand at the beginning of the 17th century. They bred and sold over 8,000 birds per annum. Shoemakers, tailors, haberdashers, etc., were the men who mostly bred and sold them to outside dealers, and these men travelled about from town to town with as many birds as they could carry. So the Nuremberg Canary became quite famous.

A number of unprincipled men bought birds of inferior quality and sold them as real Nurembergs, but as the town had such a good business with the Canary the authorities stepped in, and only well-known dealers were allowed to buy, and when leaving the town they were compelled to have a certificate stating how many birds they bought and took with them.

Nuremberg suffered a great deal through the war at the beginning of the 18th century, and all industries and trades were at a standstill for many years, especially such as were carried on as hobbies, which were spoilt altogether. So it came about at the beginning of the 19th century, when the people of the Hartz Mountains first made an attempt to breed Canaries, the late, well-flourishing breeding trade of Nuremberg was entirely forgotten. Only many years after, in the year 1850, when Canary breeding was carried on nearly everywhere in Germany, did Nuremberg start the second time.

Training for Song.

If the song was specially trained in those days history does not say. The honour of cultivating and training the song to its present standard belongs to the breeders of the Hartz Mountains, and the rapid progress they made in training the birds into the Edel Roller was really astonishing. But since, the well-known breeders, such as Trute, Euidgon, and Seifert, have died, the song has not made much progress. In fact, it has gone back in a good many ways. For instance, great depth and variety in song tours, which were plentiful about 20 years ago, are very scarce to-day.

Here I will say a few words about Trute, who was a poor miner of St. Andreasberg, in the Hartz Mountains. His birds were famed for their great variety in song, some having as many as 20 odd tours or changes. The best fancier after this was Seifert, who produced Trute's birds without their defects, birds which were noted for their fulness of tone, deep voice and gentle way of singing their extraordinary number of hollow tours.

ORNITHOLOGICAL ODDMENTS.

By Frank Finn, B.A., F.Z.S.

Author of "The World's Birds."

The Glossy Calornis.

This bird (Calornis metallica) has been distinguishing itself at the Zoo this year by exhibiting a commendable eagerness to nest at very short notice. A pair were brought home by Mr. W. Frost this summer, along with the rest of the consignment from the Aru Islands, and placed in the new aviaries at the front of the Small Birds' House. Here they felt so much at home that they went to nest, or began to—at any rate, I saw them pairing and carrying nesting material. But as they were only on deposit, a private aviculturist bought them from the owner, and their subsequent proceedings will be gone through in the seclusion of his aviaries. The bird is a very handsome one, glossy dark green and purple above, and white streaked with black below, with ruby eyes. It is about the size of a Thrush, and the plumage mentioned is only an immature one, for perfect adults are all dark and glossy below, as well as above, with no white feathering.

The Glossy Calornis.

Two Types of Glossy Starlings.

These species of Calornis, of which there are a good many, ranging from Bengal to New Guinea, are Starlings of a kind, though very different in form and movements from the typical Starlings and Mynahs. In being purely tree-birds, and hopping instead of walking when on the ground, they resemble the Hill-Mynahs, but they have a characteristic Starling flight, as have all birds of the Starling group I have seen—steadier and heavier than those of most birds of the size. The eyes in these Eastern glossy Starlings are usually red, whereas in the glossy Starlings of Africa, which are walkers like our Starlings—they are commonly yellow. The species of Calornis have seldom been on sale over here, but some time ago a specimen of one remained for months unsold in a London bird shop, though one would have thought someone would have picked it up for a rare show bird—not that it could compare for beauty of colour with the rest of the African glossy Starlings which used to be not uncommon at shows.

The Dicaeum Group.

Another interesting Aru bird that Mr. Frost brought home is the Red-breasted Flower-pecker (Dicaeum ignicolle), a wee Wren-sized Softbill, with its red breast set off by a blue-black head and back—though this part was mostly brown when it came. The Flower-peckers are very small birds of the Eastern Tropics, living in the tops of trees, and feeding mostly on fruit; the present individual, its importer told me, was hand-reared by him on banana, showing it to be an easy subject. I have kept a species of Dicaeum myself in India, the crimson-backed Flower-pecker (D. cruentatum), in which the top of the head and the back are scarlet, contrasting with the blue-black upperparts; but there is no red on the underparts, which are all cream colour, much as they are in the Aru bird, except on the breast. This Indian species was smaller even than the Zoo bird, and an intensely greedy little creature and very fearless. Unfortunately, it was excessively pugnacious as well. I had two cocks and a hen, and before I realised what their little jui-jitsu performances on the floor might lead to, I lost both the former.

An Avicultural Experiment.

There is an excessively tiny Flower-pecker in India, the smallest bird in the Old World, which I once possessed for a very short time indeed. This is the Red-billed (D. erythrorhynchus); its bill is really only flesh-coloured, and its plumage is plain, simple drab. I only saw one specimen of it alive; it was in a cage in the bazaar at a shop where betel-nut and other stuff for chewing was sold, and where birds were also often to be had. I offered two annas (2d.) for this midget. "Take, Sahib," said the dusky owner, and I did take it—in my hand, for neither he nor I had a travelling cage or paper bag—and walked over with it to my friend, Mr. E. W. Harper, who lived not far away. "There," said I, "see what you can do with that." He not only kept it successfully, but sent it to the Zoo here, and that specimen, with one of the crimson-backed he also sent, were the only Flower-peckers which have reached England, to my knowledge, so far, until the arrival of this third species from so much further east.

A Valuable Tree for Birds.

This year, as in some years past, I have had the opportunity of watching the great relish with which birds devour the fruit of the white beam (Pyrus aria), of which there is a tree close to the south entrance of the Zoological Gardens. The berries are very like haws, growing in clusters, but are twice the size, and orange-coloured instead of red. Inside they have one pip, and the flesh is mealy in appearance and taste. The Starlings and Blackbirds feast on them continually, and the Woodpigeons cannot even wait till they are ripe, while one year I even saw a Moorhen up in the tree. I concluded at the time it must have been after the berries, and what was published recently in CAGE BIRDS about these birds eating fruit from a tree, makes this practically certain. Not even in India, where fruit-eating birds are so common, have I seen a tree more constantly attractive than is this one, and I mention it here in order to suggest that the fruit would probably be found useful to owners of fruit-eating birds, either British or foreign, where it can be procured. It tastes to me quite insipid, but birds' ideas about good fruit, though they sometimes coincide with ours, very often do not.

Our Handsomest Finch: All about the British Goldie.

By H. TOMKINSON.

A short but pithy article in which is to be found much reliable information concerning this most popular of all British birds.

The Goldfinch is without doubt the handsomest of all the British Finches. He is admired for his beautiful plumage, brightness and intelligence; and he is also a fair songster. In the wild state he is a bird that is fond of company.

Feeding and Breeding in Nature.

His food consists of the seeds of the thistle, hardhead, dandelion, chickweed, groundsel and other plants, and the birds are often seen on waste land in search of same.

Goldfinches are very late breeders, and do not commence until well in the month of May, while they often have young ones in the nest at the end of August. This late breeding is no doubt the cause of so many fresh-caught birds (Greypates) dying, when captured early in the catching season, as they are not only caged but are fed with hard seed (which they have not been accustomed to) before they are hardly able to cope with even their own natural food. If they were not sought after by the catchers until later in the year, the birds would then be more matured, and would stand a better chance of surviving when put on to hard seed.

The Goldfinch's nest is often to be found in orchards, in apple or pear trees. It is composed of wool, moss and other materials, and is lined with horse and cow hair and down. The eggs are usually five in number; they are of a pale greenish-blue colour, streaked and spotted with brown. The Goldfinch has been known to rear three nests of young birds in one season. The young, as most readers will know, are called Greypates until they have moulted out into their proper colour.

Sexing the Species.

The sexing of Goldfinches is not easy, and only comes through experience; and it is a very difficult matter for anyone to guarantee the sex of a Greypate. Of the full-coloured birds the sexes are more easily distinguished, however, and if you have the opportunity of comparing a cock and hen together you will soon be able to discern the one from the other. The cocks have usually larger, flatter skulls, longer and more powerful beaks, and the markings are more distinct, the black markings being denser. The blaze, too, is one of the surest signs; in the cock birds this extends to the far corner of the eye. The hens are usually smaller than the cocks, the feathers over and round the beak are brown instead of black, and the blaze does not extend past the middle of the eye; the black feathers, too, on the head and the wing butts are of a brown cast.

The Goldfinch soon takes to cage life, and will live a good number of years thus if properly cared for. His food should consist of Canary, hemp and teazle seeds, and a little niger and linseed. He should also have given him the seeds of the thistle, hardhead and dandelion when these are obtainable, together with a little maw seed now and again. He is also fond of a little sweet apple and the flowering heads of the dandelion. These two, given to the Finch early in the Spring, are a great help towards bringing him into condition for Mule breeding.

Treatment During the Moult.

During the moult the Goldfinch should be given plenty of his own natural food, and if he is to be moulted for exhibition, he should be kept in an outdoor aviary if possible; the birds can get more light and more fresh air in an aviary, than when kept in a room or kitchen. An outdoor moulting, no doubt, has a great deal to do with the bird's colour; the markings, too, come out clearer, and the birds seem to get through the moult quicker and better. During this time also they should be given more linseed and allowed a frequent use of the bath; if, too, they are occasionally given a dose of Epsom salts (in the drinking water) they will not go far wrong.

I do not believe in colour feeding the Goldfinch, as I am of opinion that if a bird has a good colour to begin with, and is properly fed and looked after while passing through the moult he requires no "feed" to improve his colour.

Goldies for Exhibition.

Goldfinches intended for exhibition must first of all be got steady before moulting, as tameness is one of the most important points; they are of no use for show purposes if they are wild and will not stand being looked at. They must also be of a fair size, have large heads and wide, ing through the moult, he requires no reachos back beyond the eye, and comes well down under the bill; it should be of a pure scarlet colour; as square and clean cut as possible, not rounded off at the sides, and as free as possible from the black (which should be pure) that surrounds the beak and eyes. If there is too much of this black it spoils what may be otherwise a good face.

The cap of a Goldfineh must be of a good black, clean cut, and of nice width, tapering down each side of the neck, and the cheeks should be as pure in colour as possible (just a slight brown tinge), and of nice width. The tanning on the breast should be of rich chestnut in colour, running well down the body from the shoulders, and showing as little of the white down the centre of breast as possible. The yellow wing bars must be large, and bright and deep in colour; the wings should just meet at the ends. The buttons should be large and distinct, running down evenly to the ends of the wings, and the whole of the black on the wings and tail must be of a jet colour. The tail should be nicely folded, and short. The bird should also have a fair length of leg, and should stand well up. The other important points are activity, shape and condition.

There are also what are called the Cheveral and the Peathroat Goldfinches, but these are only mis-marked birds. They are very similar, and only differ in the under-blaze. The Cheveral is known by a pure white mark running clean through the centre of the blaze under the bill. The Peathroat has a white spot in exactly the same place (the middle of the under-blaze). In other respects the Cheveral and the Peathroat are the same as the ordinary Goldfineh.

Wild Bird Life.

The Grasshopper Warbler.

During the winter months students of ornithology are able to carefully study the various species at the shows, and occasionally these include a specimen or two, rare both as a cage bird and as a visitor to these shores. At a recent show a good example of the Grasshopper Warbler was on view. Although this is not the first time this species has been exhibited, it is sufficiently rare as a show bird to attract considerable attention. The Grasshopper Warbler is small, measuring about five and a half inches in length; it is olive brown in colour, and somewhat mottled; the wings and tail are dark brown, the underpart of body whitish. The tail is rounded, the outer feathers being shorter than the centre ones; it is ribbed across with bars, more distinct in some specimens than in others. The demeanour and the dusky colouring of the bird exhibited incline one to think it a hen, the bars on the tail being scarcely discernible. The Grasshopper Warbler is one of our rarer summer migrants, although fairly well distributed, and it is perhaps the least known of any of the Warblers that breed with us.

The bird derives its name from its peculiar note, which is very similar to that of the grasshopper. In general appearance it closely resembles the Reed Warbler, with its pointed head, arched back, long legs, and clinging habits. But it is easily recognised by its rounded tail. In our woods and hedgerows we have not a bird more skulking in its habits, although one may be constantly on the look-out for bird life; still, if it were not for the peculiar trilling song it would frequently escape notice. Even when the sound for a moment has been located, the bird is still far from discovery. From choice it frequents ground well covered with underwood, tall grass and matted weeds. Among these it passes with mouselike movements, flitting across an opening just above the ground, backwards and forwards, clambering up the long stalks of herbage, or low bushing. The bird lover may spend a long summer's afternoon chasing this dainty creature, and scarcely obtain more than a fleeting glimpse of him. I have with a companion gently walked the bird down to a spot where the undergrowth is less dense, and by remaining perfectly quiet the object has been obtained.

The Brainy Sparrow.

A House Sparrow has been seen to take a piece of crusty bread, and hold it in a pool of water to soften before eating.

Where Rooks are Getting Scarce.

Rooks are not nearly so plentiful in London as formerly, but visiting birds, strange to town life, find no difficulty in getting a living. The effect of city life upon birds is quite incalculable, and the unexpected is frequently happening.

In Favour of the Starlings.

On cattle farms Starlings are to be encouraged. Sheep evidently regard them as friends and never object to their perching upon their backs, for they rid them of flies, ticks, etc. In the early summer months they accompany cattle, feeding upon the larvae of injurious insects and worms brought to the surface by the tread of the animals.

A Bird of the Hills.

The arrival of the pretty Dotterell among the hills is the first sign to the shepherd that the winter has past. This species was at one time plentiful, but has sadly diminished in numbers lately. They nest in the most solitary places, and when autumn comes and the young are strong on the wing, they leave their mountain home, and make their way to the sea, forming flocks with others they meet on the journey. The Dotterell is a gregarious bird, excepting during the breeding season.

Blackbirds among the Fruit.

The Blackbird is certainly the most destructive of all birds to the fruit crops. In the spring he is mad after the strawberries, and will force his way through the netting spread to protect them, or dance upon the top until his own weight brings him within reach of them. All day long he is to be found where the ripest red currants grow, scattering nearly as many on the ground as he eats. He is a great admirer of the greengage, and later on shows his partiality for ripe apples. Rich red cherries he cannot resist. In the Kent cherry orchards he is a great nuisance.

THE BLINDING OF SINGING BIRDS.

HARD-HEARTED SCOUNDREL MEETS A WELL-MERITED SENTENCE.

Frederick Collins, 56, a labourer, of Sultan Street, Camberwell, surrendered to his bail, and was charged, on remand, before Mr. Hopkins, at Lambeth Police Court, on October 25th, on a warrant, with unlawfully maiming two Chaffinches, which were kept in confinement.

When he was arrested last week by Sergeant Methuen, chief warrant officer of the court, and the nature of the charge was explained to him, the prisoner replied, "That's not a game of mine, guv'nor."

Mr. S. G. Polhill, who now appeared to prosecute on behalf of the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, said the prisoner was charged with cruelty to two birds by blinding them. It was a practice amongst some of these men in different parts of London to catch wild birds and then blind them with a needle, the reason for doing so being that birds so treated were supposed to be better songsters or warblers, and such birds were frequently used in competitions. The practice, he was sorry to say, had been going on for a number of years, and the society had made many attempts to trace the people who carried it out, but owing to the great secrecy which was observed this was the first occasion upon which they had been in a position to prosecute. A great deal of skill was shown in blinding the birds, and externally there was no sign of injury. The birds adapted themselves to their blind state in a wonderful way. They fed and drank and found their perches in the most natural way, and to the casual observer there would appear to be nothing wrong with them.

Answering a question by the magistrate, Mr. Polhill said the proceedings were taken under the Wild Animals in Captivity Protection Act, 1900.

Twenty Years at the Game.

Mr. Arthur Wilmot, an officer of the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, stated that about 12.30 on the morning of Sunday, the 17th inst., he was in East Street, Walworth, with a man named Boswell. He there saw the defendant Collins. After he had been introduced by Boswell, Collins said to witness, who was in plain clothes, "'Jack' (Boswell) tells me you want some birds. I have got two ready at home which you can have." He accompanied Collins to a house in Sultan Street, and was taken into an upstairs room, which was practically full of birds, all of the finch kind.

Prisoner: I beg to differ. There were some Linnets there.

Proceeding, Inspector Wilmot said Collins, after pointing out several Chaffinches, which were all blinded, showed him the two Chaffinches to which this charge related. Collins said he caught one at Croydon, and the other just outside Orpington, and added, "I put them through it right out." When asked what he meant by "right out," the defendant replied: Blinded; but it is a dangerous word to use. If I was given away it would mean three —— months for me. I played the game on them last Friday week. This one (pointing to the Croydon bird) is just getting over it.

Asked if they were really blind, Collins replied:

Yes, I done them myself. I have been at the game twenty years.

Witness tested the birds by passing his hand in front of them, and found they were undoubtedly blind. There were, at least, eight other Chaffinches hanging in cages in the room, and referring to those, Collins said, "These are splendid songsters on the grass." Witness purchased the two birds in question for 1s. 6d. each. Collins, Boswell, and himself then left the house, and walked back towards East Street. On the way Collins said:

You will always know where to find me if you can do me any good. If anything goes wrong with your birds come to me, and I will give you another for a matter of a few coppers.

Steady Hand Wanted.

They afterwards went to a public-house, where the defendant ordered some cider. Witness said, "I see you are a teetotaler.' Collins replied. "Yes. At my game you have to be. You want a very steady hand for the needle." Witness remarked that it was a very cruel thing to do, and the defendant then said, "Other —— do it, and others haven't got the heart."

Prisoner: You have told the magistrate that I told you I had done this for twenty years. I beg to say that you have committed perjury. I told you I bought two birds in Club Row.

Mr. Hopkins: I want you to understand that there are two points, as I understand it, in the case, and two only—first, are these two birds blind? and, secondly, did you do it?

Prisoner: I bought these birds in Club Row, and did not know they were blind until I was charged on the warrant. If I had known they were blind I would have put my foot on them.

Boswell, the man who was in company with the society's officer, gave some corroborative evidence.

Mr. Alexander Pearce, veterinary surgeon, said he examined the birds in question. In the case of one bird both eyes were disorganised. In the case of the other one eye was disorganised, but the other had apparently not undergone the process. He came to the conclusion that the optic nerve and the artery in the centre of the eye had been severed by inserting a needle at the back of the eye. The process made the birds totally blind, but left the eye to a casual observer much as it was before the operation.

Mr. Polhill: Would that cause suffering?—It would cause very acute suffering when the nerve was severed, and inflammation would follow which would also cause very acute suffering.

Asked by the magistrate what he had to say in defence, Collins replied, "I say I am innocent of what I am charged with. I bought these two birds from a man in Selater Street, Bethnal Green, on a Sunday morning.

Mr. Hopkins: Then it becomes important for you to call the man.

Prisoner: There are so many men down there selling birds, that it would be difficult to find him.

Mr. Hopkins: Is that all you have to say?

Prisoner: Yes.

Mr. Hopkins: Then all I have to say is that you knew what the penalty was, and were very right. It is three months' hard labour.—"Daily Telegraph."

An Editorial View.

A perusal of the above report (taken in extenso from the columns of the "Daily Telegraph") leaves us hot with indignation. It is deplorable that so interesting and entirely uplifting a hobby as that of bird-keeping should be disgraced by callous scoundrels of the type of this brute Collins. That his sentence of three months hard labour was richly merited none can question, and we are sure that the actions of the R.S.P.C.A. and the magistrate will be endorsed by every reader.

Our hobby suffers sufficiently at the hands (or words, rather) of ill-informed sentimentalists, without having attaching to it the stigma of such brutal conduct as the blinding of birds for singing purposes. More power to the arm of the R.S.P.C.A., say we, in a matter of this kind. Anything we can do to help the officials of that society shall be gladly undertaken; and we would, too, ask readers to co-operate with them so far as they are able.

If bird singing contests cannot be conducted without the perpetration of an atrocity such as this, then we unhesitatingly say that the sooner they are suppressed the better. But we know that it is not so; we know that the contests in which birds compete for song one against the other can be carried out without a semblance of cruelty—either in the training of the birds or at the actual contest. We know, too, that the great army of working men who make it their hobby to train their birds—whether Chaffinches, Linnets, or Larks—and take joy in their victories, we know, we repeat, that they do not indulge in such disgraceful acts as the blinding of their pets. Far from it; no bird receives more studied and careful attention than the bird which it is intended shall join in singing contests. This attention, in point of fact, is absolutely the first essential to success.

The sentimental aspect of the question—whether wild birds should be confined in cages—is too wide a subject for us to enter into here. We cannot refrain in passing, however, to venture the opinion that this sport of the humbler classes—contest singing—will compare very, very favourably from any point of view with many of the "sports" indulged in by the leisured well-to-do—take, as an instance, the hunting of tame deer.

One more word on the subject of the blinding of Chaffinches, and we are done.

It might be gathered from the opening statement of the prosecuting solicitor that this diabolical blinding process is quite commonly practised—in fact, an essential to success at the contests. If it was the intention to urge this view, then we meet it with an emphatic denial. We say, further, that the great majority of the winners at the Chaffinch handicaps (as they are called) in London, have the full use of their vision. The object of the blinding is to prevent the bird being distracted by outside influences, and thus "knocked off his song" whilst singing against an opponent. The birds can be, and are, so perfectly trained, however, that when engaged in a "song battle" they are oblivious to everything save the necessity of out-singing their opponents—they even exhibit every sign of enjoyment (we pen the word with full appreciation of its meaning) in the strife.

In short, it is only amongst certain of the "old hands" that the practice of blinding contest birds now obtains. And this abomination ought to be put down with a strong hand. We welcome the efforts of the R.S.P.C.A. to this end, and, as we have indicated above, we will gladly aid the society to attain this consummation. We only hope that every person found to be in the possession of a Chaffinch (or any other bird) which has been so cruelly and shamefully ill-treated, may be brought within the pale of the law and prosecuted.

KELTY & BLAIRADAM

Annual show of the Kelty and Blairadam C.B.A. held October 23rd. Entries were in advance of last year's by about 70. The only section which did not come up to expectations was the Yorkshires, and this, we believe, was owing to the Yorkshire Canary Club of Scotland, who wrote to the secretary drawing attention to the fact that in the schedule the classes were open to all competition, whereas according to their rules and patronage they should have been confined to Scotland only. What were on view in the Yorkshire classes, however, were good, competition was keen, and the judge's (Mr. J. W. Bruce's) awards were well received. Crests and Norwich were good, and some well-known winners were on view. Scotch Fancies, too, were good all round, and the quality in some of the classes was of a very high standard; the special for best was secured by a good alround yellow cock. Borders were extra fine classes, some grand exhibits being on view, and Mr. Hislop, who judged these varieties, seemed to be happy in his selections. Mules and British were the feature of the show, some hot ones being out, many well-known winners being among them. These classes were judged by Mr. G. Marlin, and he spotted the winners well. Mr. Rodger, of Slateford, judged the Scotch Fancies, and Mr. Cameron, of Kelso, the Norwich and Crests. The hall is very suitable for a cage bird show, but a shade on the dark side, though excellently free from draught. The management, as usual, was A1. The committee is composed of sterling fanciers, and had at their helm the ever-obliging Mr. Ford, who is an ideal secretary, and was ably assisted hy Mr. Anderson, treasurer. The show was largely patronised by visitors, and we hope to hear that it was a financial success.

A Great Show on the Tyne-side.

Entries total over 1,700, a distinct advance on last year, while the display in point of quality has never been excelled.

The Newcastle-upon-Tyne C.B.S. held their fourth annual show on October 22nd and 23rd, and it proved a record success, the total entries being over 1,700, or 70 in advance of last year. All the various breeds were well represented, the Canary sections being specially good. Norwich Plainheads, as usual, opened the programme, and were exceedingly strong. Every class was keenly contested. The judge's task was an exceptionally heavy one. In a few cases we heard the comment made that Mr. Vardy had a slight leaning towards size; as usual, this is a matter of taste. They were carefully judged, and the winner for best in the section was indeed an ideal one. Greens and Cinnamons were not so strongly represented as their light-coloured brethren, but they were good in quality. The special winning Green, belonging to Mr. V. Deacon, was a good Yellow, of a nice shade of colour, and good in substance. The Cinnamon special winner (Mr. Godley's) was a slashing buff of rare size, and a lovely tone of colour; it will take something good to beat him.

A Feature of the Show.

Yorkshires were undoubtedly a feature of the show, quality and quantity being here in force. What an array of gems! Such has never been seen in the North before, and every class contained two sets of winners. The special for best was secured by Messrs. Amblers, with a grand ticked Buff, of lovely position, and exceedingly well drawn, slightly broken in colour, but a hot one, which, however, must have been hard pressed by the winning unflighted yellow cock. The Green Yorks. made splendid classes, the special being secured by a sweet Yellow. Scotch Fancies and Borders were numerous, the former being one of the finest collections for quality we have seen at North of England shows for some time. The special for best went to a grand all-round Buff, of lovely position and drive, shown by Mr. Craig; a fine, very free-working bird. In Borders the quality throughout was good. The Scottish breeders took a fair share of the spoils. The special for best in section was secured by Mr. Gilchrist's Yellow hen, a nice all-round Border in lovely feather, but some thought his Buff cock could have secured the premier position, being one of the best out this season.

Where Competition was Keen.

The Norwich Plainheads numbered 256 in 11 classes, an average of over 23 per class. Many grand birds, fit to win at most shows, had to stand cardless here, so keen was the competition. We are pleased to report a most decided improvement in wing carriage, and those long-sided, cross-winged birds that many declare are winning on the show bench at the present time, were certainly not in evidence here, the majority of the birds being of the correct Norwich type. The three unflighted classes contained 101 birds, and the fact that many well-known exhibitors had to stand down is abundant proof of the keenness of the competition. The special for best Norwich went to Mr. J. Trengove with a grand ticked Yellow hen, a regular model for type. Another beautiful exhibit was Mr. Geo. Harland's unflighted Yellow hen, "Queen of Queens," which we thought equal to the section winner in all but size. The Norwich Greens were a grand collection, averaging 11 per class—birds of great size, wonderful type, and brimful of colour, some of the exhibits being delightful in this respect.

Crests had an average here of over 13 per class (eight classes), and without a doubt were the feature of the show. All the champions were out, consequently the quality of the exhibits was simply marvellous, and they were worth going a long way to see. The Crested birds exhibited by Mr. R. Armstrong and Mr. T. Taylor make one wonder if the limit to the size of Crest has now been reached. Mr. Armstrong's "King of Kings" is really a wonderful bird, with a most magnificent crest of tremendous size and of splendid formation. This bird has not been bred with this season, and consequently has had a good moult, and although not quite ready yet, is really better than ever it was, and had no difficulty in securing the special for best bird in the show. The winner of the challenge bowl for best young bird in the show was Mr. Tom Taylor, with a foul tail Green Crest, a bird possessing wonderful crest properties, the crest being of great size, and beautiful formation and droop. Mr. Taylor's bird has been well named, "Emperor," and we are of opinion that he will take some stopping on the show benches this season. Another notable exhibit was Mr. Bewick's well-known Crest-bred "Duchess." The N.C.C. special for best old Crest went to Mr. B. Armstrong; best old Crest-bred, Mr. Jim Taylor (Shildon); best young Crest-bred, Mr. T. Taylor; best novice Crest, Mr. J. M. McDonald; and best novice Crest-bred, Mr. J. Waugh. Mr. T. Heath judged to the general satisfaction.

A Disputed Parentage.

The Mules were the best in the variety sections, which altogether were down in numbers from last year's total. The Mules were strongest, containing many interesting crosses—so interesting, in fact, that some of them were "wrong-classed," though, in every case, the judge's decision was not exactly agreed with by breeders and visitors. This was especially so with No. 5 in Class 62, exhibited by Mr. McPartling, a clear yellow Greenfinch-Canary Mule. Owing to its lovely yellow tone of colour throughout, it probably was a little difficult to decide upon, but, on closer examination, it seems to show two points decidedly in its favour, namely, the strong legs and feet it has got, and also the formation of body and style of action, which, without doubt, appeared to be purely Greenfinch. The bill (which seems to be the great point in deciding new faces and rare crosses in the hybridising world) is also Greenfinch in appearance, but not so pronounced as the other points. The flights are good, and an examination in the hand ought to be the deciding point in recognising this, one of the greatest triumphs in the annals of Mule breeding. These classes were good all over, and difficult to judge, and the winner of the coveted special was a sweet Redpoll-Bullie, a real good Hybrid shown by Messrs. Colton and Dawn.

The British, on the whole, were only fair, but many of the birds are scarcely in bloom yet. The special for best Hardbill went to the winning Linnet, a good Finch, grand in size and beautifully pencilled. It is scarcely up in bloom; still, taken all round, it was well placed. The Softbills were attractive, and here the special was secured by a rather uncommon exhibit, the Grasshopper Warbler, staged in very nice style by Mr. Cocks, but seeming to be minus a good few feathers at back of neck. The Foreigners were a nice collection, the special for best bird being secured by Mr. Taylor's Tricoloured Tanager, in splendid form.

The Ship's Crew.

The present remarkably attractive exhibition was held, as usual, in Cambridge Drill Hall, an ideal place for an exhibition, spacious and comfortable, and it was under the management of Mr. J. Currah, who knows how things should be worked, and who was ably assisted by an enthusiastic committee. Mr. Currah is also president of the society, and they can congratulate themselves on having so whole-hearted a fancier in their ranks. The amount of work he got through was phenomenal, and the excellent arrangements reflected the highest credit upon him and the joint secretaries, Messrs. W. Curry and J. G. Hutchinson, who were always in the thick of the fray, and worked ably and well. A better trio of officials it would be hard to discover. The committee comprised: Mr. J. Mackenzie, as vice-chairman, and Messrs. T. Robson, J. Hubbuck, M. C. Potts, A. Storey, J. Bertram, J. Maddison, J. M. Macdonald, R. Young, J. Coutts, G. Taylor, J. Shepherd, E. White, G. W. MacPartling, J. Currah, jun., G. Allinson, C. G. Petterson, J. E. Atkinson, J. Chapman, G. Ellis, R. Tindale, G. Vanner, and J. Gillespy. All these gentlemen must have felt highly gratified at the record show which rewarded their exertions. The public responded in fine style, and the show-room was crowded during the greater part of the time in which it was open. The judges were Messrs. W. Vardy (Nor.), T. Heath (Crests and Yorks. Greens), W. Mundell (Yorks. and Cinns.), W. C. Duncan (Borders), and J. Robson (Mules, Brit., and For.)

NORWICH CANARIES.

HOW TO BREED, MANAGE AND EXHIBIT.

By C. A. HOUSE.

Price 1/1 (post free).

The young fancier is told all that he needs to know to enable him to become successful as a breeder and exhibitor.

This work, written in a plain, practical manner, contains much of untold value to lovers of the Norwich Plainhead Canary. The shapters on "Forming a Stud," and "How to Produce the Ideal" are worth the cost of the whole book.

CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet St., London, E.C.

Rochdale Keeps Up Its Reputation.

The Rochdale Ornithological Club once again Breaks its own Record.

Yet again have the Rochdale Ornithological Club scored a big success and created another record, the entries at the show in the Town Hall on October 22nd and 23rd totalling 826, just over 50 above last year's figures, whilst the quality was as good as the numbers. Rochdale is the one show in the kingdom that commands the support of the best breeders of Lancashires and Lizards, and here year by year is staged the cream of these two breeds. The giants of the Fancy on this occasion totalled 139 in the classes provided for them, irrespective of a large number staged in the pairs and selling classes, and it was the general opinion that a better lot of Lancashires had never been seen. Those who talk of the deterioration of the Lancashire should see Mr. Barrass's ticked yellow Coppy and Plainhead, and Messrs. Fitton's and Lee's clear yellow and buff Plainheads in the adult classes; they would then hush their voices. But far away and beyond the magnificent specimens shown in the open classes were the young 1909 birds. We have seen every show held at Rochdale for twenty years, and never have we seen two such classes as these. Some of the youngsters, if shown in the open section, would have held their own with the champions, and Messrs. Lee, Turner, Newell, Barrass, Fish, and Entwistle are to be heartily congratulated upon the handsome specimens they staged. Dr. McConaghey, a new hand, put down a grand team of birds in this section, and met with sufficient reward to whet his appetite for greater things.

A Grand Lot of "Dark 'Uns."

The Lizards fell just short of 100, and although many of them showed signs of the cold, damp moulting season having affected them, the collection was well up to the average. The older school were well represented by Messrs. Rukin and Levi Butterworth, whilst of the younger fanciers Mr. J. Dewsnap met with a goodly measure of success. Judging by Rochdale, "the dark 'uns" are not used up yet. We regret to have to record the fact that Mr. House found it necessary to disqualify a clear capped gold and a broken capped gold shown by Mr. W. Whipp, alleged colouring matter being removed from both birds, and the case, we heard, was to be dealt with by the local committee of the Cage Bird Union on the second day of the show.

The eight classes of Yorkshires produced 115 exhibits, and although we missed the names of some prominent exhibitors, the quality generally was splendid. The clear yellows were equal to anything we have seen this season, and Mr. Schofield's winner was, without doubt, the pick of the whole section.

Wonderful Display of Norwich.

Crests were not great in numbers, but they were a very even lot, and most of them birds of grand quality. Norwich had the support of the Norwich Plainhead Club, and the members responded right nobly, no less than 225 exhibits facing Mr. Battye in this section, and amongst them were many that will, ere the season is closed, have earned for themselves the title of "champion." As we looked them over, many of them recalled to our minds the "Prescot Norwich" of the olden days. They would possibly be a shade too bulky for Southern lovers of the breed, but in colour, shape, and quality of feather they were magnificent. Mr. Battye handled them well, and we heard no adverse comments on the awards. The two classes for non-feds contained the best lot we have ever seen, the winners in each class being really high-class representatives of the breed. The amateurs were strongly in evidence, and the exhibits would not have disgraced their owners had they been in competition with the champions.

The Mules and British made a nice show. Mr. Beatty's black Redstart attracted a lot of attention from visitors, as did Mr. Walsh's Wryneck and Great Grey Shrike. The Hardbills, strange to say, were in far better plumage than any we have met at Southern shows this season, many being quite hard in plumage and showing depth of colour. The stuffed specimens are always a feature of Rochdale shows, and this year the competition was more varied than usual, and the class presented some splendid examples of the taxidermist's art.

Not Forgetting the Ladies.

At Rochdale one always expects management of the highest class, and the executive never disappoints. The members do their work in the most thorough and efficient manner, the lead being taken by Messrs. J. Naden (chairman), Levi Butterworth (vice-chairman), and R. Barrass (the treasurer). What would Rochdale Show be without this splendid trio of veterans, who have all grown grey in the service of the R.O.C.? Mr. J. Butterworth, who has been secretary for several years now, is most courteous and indefatigable in the discharge of the duties which fall to his share, and nothing is wanting on his part. The wives of the members also do their share in keeping the finances sound, and the splendid refreshment stall which is managed entirely by a committee of ladies is a strong feature in the arrangements. The ladies responsible were Mesdames Buckley, A. Butterworth, Whitworth, Naden, Leach, Butterworth, Parker, Bamford, Ashworth, Cowan, and Siddall.

The show was opened by Mr. W. B. Boyd-Carpenter, the Conservative candidate for Rochdale, who, in a most admirable speech, exhorted the members to continue in the good work which they had so long and ably carried out. Mr. Councillor Davidson, who occupied the chair, presented Mr. Boyd-Carpenter with a handsome brass cage and a Canary. The judges were Messrs. C. A. House, Lanes., Liz., Yorks., and For.; and H. W. Battye the remainder.

Mr. House's Classes.

LANCS. COPPY YELL. (6): 1, 3, Turner, rare length and shape of body, capital carriage, large, well spread, nicely centred coppy, 3rd very neat and shapely coppy, beautiful quality of feather, and good, shapely body; 2, Garner, not so much spread of coppy, but more densely feathered, and droops somewhat, plenty of feather; 4, Gaskill, full of Lancashire character, capital length, shape, and carriage of body, coppy not ready; vhc, Barrass. BUFF (6): 1, Oldham, great width and spread of coppy, neat centre, grand shape, and length of body, which is beautifully carried, and covered with long, broad feather; 2, 3, Garner, in shape, length, and carriage of body a beauty, coppy is well set, and nicely spread, 3rd is larger in body and carries more feather than 2nd, but lacks the essential Lancashire carriage; 4, Turner, rattling body for shape, size, length and style, well formed coppy; vhc Lowe; hc, Newell. PLHD. YELL. (11): 1, Fitton, great length and substance of body, stands on a good pair of legs and shows well, large, broad skull, well lashed, and covered with broad, heavy feather; 2, Naden, great length and carriage of body, plenty of feather, both on skull and body, hardly so stout in head or neck; 3, Lowe, an immense skulled bird, possessing great width and substance, but not so erect in carriage or long in body; 4, Adams, another tremendous skull, and plenty of feather on body, very stout neck; vhc, Whitehead; he, Oldham; c, Beswick and Gaskill. BUFF (13): 1, Lee, large, broad, overhanging skull of the true Lancashire pattern, great length and substance of body, grand carriage, and an abundance of feather both on body and head; 2, Naden, an immense bodied bird, plentifully covered with broad, long feather, stands well, and is of good length, skull is broad and long, but rises a trifle too much; 3, Vickers, lacks the stoutness of skull of 2nd, but is more the correct shape, being flatter, and more overhanging, grand body, shape, length, and carriage; 4, West, splendid shape and width of skull, brows broad and massive, nice length and carriage of body; vhc, Fish, slashing bird, although, capital head, neck, and back, plenty of feather, nice style, tail not full length; hc, Lord; c, Barrass. TKD. YELL. COPPY (13): 1, Barrass, a really grand all-round Lancashire, very long, wide coppy, tremendous length, with great substance, and an abundance of feather both on head and body, stands splendidly; 2, Turner, shows rather more flatness of skull, and coppy is flat and spreading, but hardly so long, although not so massive in body, in carriage he beats the winner; 3, McConaghey, splendid shape, length and carriage of body, plenty of feather, of rare quality, nice shape and fit of coppy, hardly so full in front; 4, Adams, very stylish, long body, plenty of feather of capital quality, very neat and shapely; vhc, Fish, plenty of length and substance of body, capital feather; hc, Fitton; c, Oldham; absent, 5, Hardy. BUFF (7): 1, 2, Adams, two large, heavily-feathered birds, of nice carriage, and carrying broad, well-shaped skulls, covered with good spread and well-arranged coppies, winner the heaviest, and best-finished coppy; 3, Fish, not so much spread of coppy, but grand length, shape, and style of body; 4, Oldham, great length and substance of body, plenty of body feather, which is dense, wide, and long; vhc, Fitton; hc, Naden; absent, 4, Crossley. TKD. YELL. PLHD. (7): 1, Barrass, again a real giant, and a fitting companion to the tkd. yell. coppy, great width and substance of skull, very densely feathered, grand carriage; 2, Vickers, not so long or broad in skull, nice, shapely, well-carried body, plenty of feather of rare quality, a good showy bird; 3, c, Lord, a stouter and more imposing bird, great length and width of feather, but not so fit, wants about another fortnight; 4, Mills, plenty of length, and an abundance of feather, grand shaped head, well lashed; vhc, Melia, grand shaped body and skull, plenty of feather, nice style; hc, Turner. BUFF (7): 1, 4, hc, Adams, tremendous skull, very heavily lashed, great substance of body, very long, dense feather, both on body and skull, 4th not so flat in skull, but plenty of substance and feather everywhere; 2, Whitehead, grand shaped skull, well lashed, long, stylish body, but lacks the strength and massiveness of winner; 3, Hartley, huge bird, of tremendous length, splendid carriage, rare width and shape of skull; vhc, Gaskill; absent, 3, Adams. HENS, COPPY (10): 1, 4, Garner, a tkd. yell. of wonderful length, shape and carriage of body, well centred, nicely spread coppy, grand quality of feather, 4th nice shaped buff, stands well, neat, shapely, nicely-feathered Coppy; 2, Barrass, an immense tkd. buff, rare substance and strength of feather, splendid shape, and size of body, hardly ready; 3, McConaghey, slashing yell., tkd., rare shape and style of body, shows well, coppy nicely spread; vhc, Hordern, tkd. buff, not so massive, but capital shape, and fit of coppy; hc, c, Laycock. PLHD. (8): 1, Beattie, large, broad, flat-skulled yell., splendid lashing, great length and substance of body, has grand carriage, and shows for all she is worth; 2, Barrass, yell., another giantess, as a bird quite equal if not superior to winner, but not so fit, and condition told its tale; 3, Whitehead, again a yell., rare shape, length and carriage, plenty of feather, but hardly so massive in skull or body; 4, McConaghey, good shape and width of skull, capital body shape and length, plenty of feather, buff, good one; vhc, Garner, grand-headed buff, fine style and shape; hc, Mills; c, Entwistle. BRED 1909, COPPY (10): 1, 3, Lee, the finest young yell. coppy we have ever seen, wonderful length, shape, substance and carriage of body, very neatly centred, well spread coppy, and grand quality right through, 3rd tkd. buff, tremendous size of body, very heavy coppy, dips just a trifle, but is well finished at back, shows wee bit of the Norwich type, but not enough to peg it back; 2, hc, Turner, very handsome buff, rare shape and spread of coppy, great length and substance of body, stands well when handled, and carries a wealth of dense long feather of grand quality; 4, Newell, very long, stylish yell., neat, shapely coppy, good one; vhc, West, another very heavily-feathered buff, coppy, shows a touch of Norwich; c, Garner. PLHD. (21): 1, Barrass, a slashing cl. buff, an immense flat, well-lashed skull of great width and substance, very large, long body, which is carried almost in Yorkshire fashion, a truly noble bird; 2, Fish, cl. yell., and a real good one, too, hard lines to run against such an exceptionally smart buff, rare shape, length, and substance, full of feather; 3, Lee, another very heavily-feathered, massive bird, a tkd. buff, grand shaped skull, plenty of lash, not so neat in body feather or so stylish; 4, Entwistle, a most promising yellow, capital length, shape and substance, plenty of feather; vhc, West, heavily feathered, big-bodied buff, grand shaped skull; hc, Garner; c, McConaghey. NOVICE (20): 1, Beattie, long, stout-bodied yell. coppy, well-formed, spreading coppy, plenty of feather, and stands well up; 2, Entwistle, heavy feathered buff plhd., rare shape and substance of skull, and a wealth of feather; 3, vhc, Bracegirdle, yell. plhd., nice, wide front, broad, massive skull, well lashed; 4, Newell, nice headed yell. coppy, plenty of feather and substance; hc, c, Whitehead. LIZ. GOLD, CL. CAP (9): 1, 3, spl best cock, and best Lizard, Rukin, very neat cap, beautiful col., large broad back, well rowed with fine cl. bold spangling; 3, beautiful shape, col., and spangling, hardly so well finished on shoulders or cap, both good in size; 2, vhc, J. Dewsnap, grand shape, size, and feather, neat, well-finished cap, grand back, full of work, very evenly rowed, and dense and cl.; 4, Holland, very smart in shape, feather, and spangling, nice cap; hc, Barnes; c, W. Dewsnap; No. 4, W. Whipp, disqualified. SILVER (16): 1, L. Butterworth, one of the old-fashioned sort, rare shape and size, back covered with large, cl. spangling, which is beautifully frosted with cl. silver tippings; 2, Oliver, beautiful cap, rare shape and size, sound ground col., hardly so much silvering, splendid dark legs; 3, hc, J. Dewsnap, another grand legged bird, very neat, well cut cap, grand rowing, the spangling being clear and distinct, but hardly so bold; 4, Martin, another most excellent pair of legs, beautifully spangled right through, hardly so neat in finish of cap; vhc, Rukin, shapely, sound-coloured bird, full of work; c, W. Dewsnap. GOLD BROKEN (6): 1, Lees, large, shapely, bold-standing bird, of rich deep col., full of work, grand feather, nice shoulders and breast; 2, J. Dewsnap, hardly so deep in col., but beautifully spangled, and has nice shape, size, and quality; 3, Barnes, large, broad back, full of work, but not quite so evenly laid on, good Col., and feather; 4, vhc, Rukin, but for being a bit open in centre, which may have been due to flashing, was as good as either of the leaders; No. 3, W. Whipp, disqualified. SILVER (10): 1, c, Hampshire, a regular little picture, rich ground col., beautifully frosted, nice, broad back, full of large, bold, cl. spangling; 2, 3, 4, J. Dewsnap, a splendid trio, wonderful col., shape and quality right through, 2nd almost a "no cap," full of grand, rich spangling, 3rd rare spangles and frosting, hardly so much work on shoulders, 4th quite equal in all points, except size; vhc, Lees, grand shape, col., and spangling; hc, Barnes. HEN, GOLD (9): 1, 2, spl best hen, J. Dewsnap, a very handsome cl. cap, rich ground colour, grand wings and tail, full of rich cl. spangling, 2nd grand in feather, shape and col., hardly so bold in spangling, two gems; 3, hc, Barnes, beautifully spangled, hardly so rich in col., but grand shape, size, and quality of feather; 4, W. Dewsnap, a lovely broken cap, rare col. and spangle, nice size; vhc, Rukin; c, Holland. SILVER (17): 1, Whipp, very smart broken cap, large and shapely in body, rich in col., plenty of spangle, and well frosted; 2, vhc, c, Dewsnap, a cl. esp, lovely back and breast, hardly so bold in size and carriage, but rare quality and col., full of work; 3, Rukin, very neat broken cap, beautiful col. and quality, grandly spangled hardly so clear on shoulders; 4, Nuttall, very smart and stylish, capital shape, plenty of spangle; hc, Martin. CREST HEN (7): 1, Radley, very heavy-fronted green, grand quality and droop, dense feather; 2, Hesketh, wing mkd., of capital shape and quality, very shapely; 3, 4, Hardy, varieg. and green, with pied tail, both very shapely, nicely radiated and well drooped, hardly so dense; vhc, Peace; hc, Daniels; c, Ratcliffe. C.-B. (5): 1, Hesketh, nice dome-shaped skull, well carried, with long broad feather, good brow; 2, Peace, rare shaped green, full of quality, yet plenty of substance; 3, Brotherton, varieg., good length of feather, nice top, hardly so wide in entrance; 4, vhc, Hardy, very pretty cl., capital shape and quality. NOR. CL. YELL. (12): 1, 4, Sandiford, two deep fronted birds, of lovely col. and quality, stand well over perch and staged to the minute; 2, Davies, big, bold, bouncing deep-bodied bird, plenty of col.; 3, Trengove, a bird we liked much, rare type, quality, and col.; vhc, Turner; hc, Beswick and Gaskill; c, Lee. BUFF (18): 1, Marsh, nice deep col., nicely frosted, stout and compact, rare close-fitting feather; 2, Lingard, a real good one, beaten by one which excels in wing carriage; 3, Sandiford, hardly fit, but when ready should take some stopping, rare type and col.; 4, Seed, all that one could wish for in col. and feather, with just a wee bit more skull would take stopping; vhc, Huggins; hc, Davies; c, Lees. TKD. YELL. (8): 1, Cook, a beautiful wing tkd., rare shape, full of col. and quality, smart and neat throughout, we heard that Mr. Cook refused an offer of £18 for this gem; 2, Ellison, grizzle neck, grand rich sound col., rare shape and feather; 3, Hayhurst, grizzle neck, not so much substance, but rare depth and evenness of col. and nice feather; 4, Marsh, varieg., just our idea of a breeding Nor., neat and compact, without any superfluity or exaggeration; vhc, Hopkins; hc, Grimes; c, Beswick and Gaskill. BUFF (12): 1, Trengove, very smart and shapely with grand col. and quality, but not the same stamp of head feather as his mate in the cl. yell. class; 2, hc, Evans, head tkd., big bouncing bird with plenty of col. and good feather; 3, Grimes, head tkd., short, neat and compact in body, wings, and tail, stands well, beautifully fed and full of quality; 4, Vardy, head tkd., one of the true Hucknall breed, a little beauty indeed; vhc, Davies; c, Seed. HEN. YELL. (11): 1, Trengove, thigh tkd., a lass calculated to make one love her for her sake alone, she's just a peach; 2, Seed, thigh tkd., rare shape, col., and quality of feather, loses a bit in carriage of flights; 3, McKim, in figure and style a real beauty, but she had not been to the col. pot quite so often; 4, Shore, neat and pretty wing mkd., full of style and quality; vhc, Massey; hc, Dent; c, Lingard. BUFF (20): 1, Sandiford, wing tkd., beautifully proportioned, carries a plentitude of col. which is most delicately frosted, and her clothes evidently are of the Directoire period; 2, Barraclough, for col., size, and closeness of feather she was a beauty, but a trifle less feather behind would improve her; 3, Cleminson and Taylor, lovely little lass, so neat and pretty, full of quality and most beautifully col. and frosted; 4, Cook, grizzle tailed, splendid shape, stands well, rare col. and feather; vhc, Evans; hc, Curwin; c, Dent. UNFLIG. YELL. (18): 1, Davies, varieg. deep chested, good head and neck, rare col., plenty of quality and shows well; 2, Beswick and Gaskill, not so much substance, but all there in shape, feather, and col.; 3, Hopkins, big bouncing, well fed, eye, neck and tail mkd., plenty of col. and well shown; 4, Turner, neck tkd., more after the style of 2nd, and a bird we liked very much indeed; hc, has type, col., and feather in high degree; vhc, Lees; hc, Shore; c, Marsh. BUFF (19): 1, 3, spl., Davies, very smart eye and wing mkd., and a varieg., both of grand type with a wealth of col. and silkiness of feather; 2, Marsh, wing mkd., very shapely, grand col. and meal, shows for all he is worth, a bonny bird; 4, Hayhurst, neat and compact, a Nor. of the right stamp, grand feather and col.; vhc, Grimes; hc, Huggins; c, Lees. N.C. (9): 1, Hopkins, varieg., one of the best nat. col. birds we have ever seen; 2, Hayhurst, was soft when we made our notes, but looked a bird of quality and neatness; 3, Cleminson and Taylor, very close and nice in feather, bit longer; 4, Mapp, small, shapely, nice feathered head tkd.; vhc, Evans; hc, Lees; c, Grey. HEN (11) 1, 2, Cleminson and Taylor, yell. and buff, two most charming lasses, type and feather, both of the highest standard; 3, Law, eye and wing mkd., a big bold forward lassie, dressed in a silky close-fitting costume; 4, Walton, a real gem of a yell., hard to find fault with; vhc, Grey; hc, Curwin; c, Fletcher. NORWICH AMATEUR C.B.A.

The Norwich Amateur C.B.A. held their annual show at The Stadi, Duke-street, on October 18th, when in twenty-seven sections a remarkable lot of feathered specimens were shown. The building is admirably suited for such an exhibition. The birds exhibited were a grand lot, and the judges (Messrs. J. Calver, S. Roberts, and A. Woollard) had a task in placing them. Taken altogether, their awards were well received. Mr. E. Fox proved an efficient secretary. Mr. Jacob Mackley is president, and Mr. R. Roll vice-president, there being a strong committee.

"Cage Birds" 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

PERTH.

City and County of Perth O.S. annual show held on 23rd Oct., in the Co-operative Hall, Canal Street, and received a very nice amount of support. The entries totalled 450, being equal to last year's. The Norwich and Crest sections were a decided improvement both in numbers and quality, some grand birds being exhibited in these sections. The Border Fancy section was much the same as last year, Messrs. Patterson (Chirnside) and P. McKenzie (Kelso) capturing most of the plums in this section. Mules, British and Foreign were back in numbers, owing no doubt to the backward season, while the Scotch Fancy Section was a keen disappointment. The society incurs loss every year on this section, and unless the classes meet with better support, we were informed, the executive will require to cut them out altogether. Let us hope the Scotch Fancy members will see to it that this course is unnecessary by turning out in greater numbers. The Secretary, Mr. J. Kerr, had everything in tip-top order, and the judges were through with their tasks in good time. The efforts of the Secretary were ably seconded by Mr. A. Borrie, the treasurer, Mr. D. Brown, the president, Mr. A. G. Forrest, the vice-president, and the committee—Messrs. G. Wyllie, C. Mitchell, Wm. Sharp, T. Bolt, J Smith, T. B. Gray, Wm. C. Smith, James Watson, A G. McDonald, G. D. Malloch, Jas N. Patton. The New Model Prize Cards were used, and came in for a lot of favourable criticism, the general verdict being that they were a distinct improvement, the models used being all up-to-date. The judges officiating were: for the Scotch Fancy Section, Messrs. G. Fulton (Partick) and G. C. T. Hope (Edinburgh); for the Crests and Crest-breds, Mr. G. F. Adamson (Kilmarnock), for the Norwich Plainheads, Mr. Jas. Sandison (Aberdeen); for the Border Fancies, Mr. John Craig (Brechin); for the British, Mules and Foreign, Mr. John Adams (Dundee). All their awards were well received, few comments being heard.

MORLEY AND DISTRICT C.B.S

First old bird show held October 23rd, when 64 birds were staged. There was a good attendance of the public, and I believe we could make an open show pay its way. There is a good rivalry among leaders for points. The leaders in the novice section are: Booth, 58 points; Dean, 53, Crossley, 35; Wilson, 34. In the open: Pyrah, 39; Ramsden, 33; and J. W. Mitchell, 21. In the British: Fisher, 31; Gledbill, 12; Holliday, 6. There are three medals for novices. Mr. W. Morement judged, and gave every satisfaction.

NORTHAMPTON (Good Intent).

(See also page 261 last week.)

The two missing folios of our reporter's notes on the above show have come to hand. He writes:—The thirty-eighth annual show of the Northampton "Good Intent" Society was held in a hall (the Corn Exchange) most suitable in every respect, being very commodious, and having both side and top light. The committee are well-known fanciers, and throw their heart and soul into the work, being ably led by their genial secretary, Mr. G. M. Larkman. The cage birds were staged on both sides of the room, being placed at a nice height for seeing them. The Norwich (as is customary at Northampton) were the principal feature of the show, and both in quality and quantity were well up to the average, although we noticed a number of the birds were scarcely through the moult. Only one class of Britishers was on view (the other classes being cancelled). This was a very strong one, the winning Goldfinch and Bullfinch being fine specimens, and the winners friend Hobbs, who judged, picked out to his own and other people's satisfaction. Mr. J. H. Roe judged all other classes. NOR. CL. OR TKD. BUFF (9): 1, Felce, good cl. of rare type, grand head, rich col., full of bloom; 2, Hall, tkd. head, nicely modelled and teeming with quality; 3, Griffin, cl., with wonderful body properties, but fails a trifle in head; 4, Mitchel, tkd., nice quality and build, could do with a bit more in front; vhc, Keenes; hc, Cooper; c, Fennell. YELL. (8): 1, Griffin, rare size for a yell., sound in col. throughout, really a very fine specimen; 2, Ette, another good cl., nice type and quality, beaten only in size and col.; 3, Belcher, lovely quality, correct type, shows a bit more brow than winners; 4, Lawrance, very smart bird, red hot, close up; vhc, Cooper; hc, Breitenfield; c, Nason. MKD. OR VARIEG. (6): 1, Keenes, very large varieg. buff, bulldog type, about the biggest Norwich in show; 2, hc, Isom, smart mkd. yell., warm member, of correct type; 3, Cooper, large beavily mkd. buff, nicely moulded throughout; 4, Griffin, mkd. yell., of rare col. and quality; vhc, Packer and Bott.

HANLEY.

Hanley and Dist. C.B.S. held their open show in the large club rooms at the Albion Hotel on Oct. 21. The room is a really excellent one for show purposes. The entries turned up well, over 400 birds being staged. Mr. B. Peake, the hon. secretary, and his committee—Messrs. C. J. Robinson, T. Walker, J. Tennant, A. Dean, S. Pygott, G. Lawton, G. Evans, A. Scott, J. Toplass, J. Smith, S. Wild, J. Johns, J. Williamson, W. Bickerton, J. Bloor, and A. Muitland—had the birds well staged, and looked after their wards in the best possible manner. A great number of the public visited the show during the afternoon and evening, and everything passed off successfully. Mr. W. Mundell, of Bradford, judged.

HINCKLEY (Leicester).

The Hinckley and Dis. C.B.S. held their 17th annual show on October 22nd and 23rd. The Drill Hall, in which the exhibits were nicely staged, is large and well lighted. Unfortunately, the entry was a failure, only seven classes standing out of 18. We cannot at all understand this, as the management is all that can be desired. Mr. H. Towers makes a really ideal secretary, and he was ably assisted by a band of willing helpers, namely: Messrs. S. H. Pilgrim (president), A. Pickerings (vice-president), Colledge, Cubley, Growdridge and Son, R. Hill, McNaughton, C. Mills, T. Towers, and W. Warner. In the few classes that stood there were some fine birds. The outstanding birds were the three Linnets exhibited by Mr. W. Judd, which won very easily. Also there were one or two fine Norwich shown by Messrs. Dipple and Broadhurst. Mr. J. H. Roe judged. The classes cancelled were Norwich Nat. Col., Nor. Yell., Buff, Unflig. Yell., A.O. Yorks., A.O.V. Mule, etc, Goldfinch, A.O.V. Finch, A.S. smaller than Thrush, and Foreign (2).

CAGE BIRD: 1, no name in catalogue, cl. yell., good size and shape, wonderful col. and condition; 2, no name again, Bramblefinch, good feather markings and condition; 3, no name again, cl. yell. Nor., in nice form; res., No. 6; vhc, 3; hc, 2; c, 8.

Nests of birds, Poultry, etc., should be regularly sprinkled with KEATING'S POWDER, especially when hens are sitting. Don't forget to do this just previous to the eggs hatching, to destroy the Red Mite. It kills all Insects, harmless to everything else.

KIRKCUDBRIGHT.

Annual show of the Kirkcudbright F.A. was held on October 21st, in the Drill Hall. The hall is large, well lighted, free from draughts, and an ideal place. The arrangements were carried through by a large and energetic committee, the Secretary, Mr. W. R. Cruickshank, and his assistant, Mr. James Murphy, doing everything in their power for the comfort alike of exhibits and exhibitors. In the cage bird section there was an increase of over 50 entries, including some of the principal winners of the season. Mr. J. Hannay (Maxwelltown) judged, and his awards were well received.

A Library For Bird-Lovers.

Brief particulars of some of "Cage Birds" SPECIAL PUBLICATIONS for keepers of birds, with post free prices.

THE HYGIENE OF BIRD-KEEPING, 1/1.—By W. Geo. Creswell, M.D. Thoroughly treats of modern hygiene (the science of health) in bird-keeping.

SEPTIC FEVER OR CANARY PLAGUE, 7d.—By R. H. Clarke, M.D. The only booklet published concerning this dread disease, which Dr. Clarke has given very special study.

THE NORWICH PLAINHEAD CANARY, 1½d.—By J. H. Payne. Pronounced by all experts to be a most valuable pamphlet concerning the breeding of the variety; written by one of our leading judges.

CANARY BREEDING FOR BEGINNERS, 7d.—By Claude St. John. A Practical, up-to-date guide to Canary breeding, designed specially for the use of the beginner. Deals very fully with the choice, sexing, and mating of the birds, feeding for condition, the cages and their fittings, the bird-room, egg-food, nest-building, rearing and moulting the young, colour-feeding, training for show, and all the difficulties likely to confront the breeder.

MEATING-OFF AND FEEDING SOFTBILLS, 6½d.—By John Frostick. No fancier of Insectivorous Birds who wishes to succeed in his hobby can afford to be without a copy. It also contains notes on Bird Trapping, Cages, etc.

SEEDS, FOODS, AND WILD PLANTS FOR CAGE BIRDS, 1/2.—By various leading authors. Full information on the seeds suitable for all cage birds, their food values, uses, etc., with descriptions and illustrations of the wild plants indispensable to the successful keeping of British and other birds.

HOUSE'S CANARY MANUAL, 1/2.—By C. A. House. A thorough, practical guide to the general management and breeding of Canaries, dealing fully with the breeding, etc., of every member of the Canary family, including the Roller (or Singing) Canary. An illustration of each bird, by the master Canary artist, Mr. H. Norman; exhaustive chapters on aviaries and cages, breeding procedure, moulting, exhibiting, diseases, and seeds—a compendium of knowledge.

BUDGERIGARS AND COCKATEELS, 6d.—By C. P. Arthur. The breeding of Budgerigars and Cockatеels is recognised as one of the most profitable and pleasure-giving sides of foreign bird-keeping. This eminent authority gives very full details upon how to keep, feed, breed, tame, and teach them to talk.

PET RABBITS, CAVIES, AND MICE, 1/1½.—By George Gardner. Full information on housing, feeding, breeding, exhibiting, and keeping for profit. A complete practical guide, with illustrations from photographs.

FOREIGN BIRDS FOR BEGINNERS, 1/1.—By W. T. Page, F.Z.S., etc., Foreign Bird Expert to "Cage Birds." A highly instructive Manual. It contains a magnificent coloured plate and a number of black and white illustrations. Indispensable to all keepers of Foreign Birds. Replete with useful hints.

BRITISH BIRD MANUAL, 2/3 (cloth bound).—By H. Norman; or may be had in two parts. Part 1: "Hardbills," and Part 2: "Softhills." Either Part, price 1/1, post free. Each part contains a beautiful and life-like coloured plate and numerous illustrations of birds and cages. Up-to-date information on the keeping of British Birds; full of extremely valuable hints.

COLOUR FEEDING OF CANARIES AND OTHER BIRDS, 3½d.—By J. W. Ramsden. Tells you how to mix the colour-food, and how to moult the birds to get the richest possible colour.

THE STOCK BOOK, 7d.—By G. E. Weston. Of our invaluable "Breeding Room Register" a well-known fancier has said:—"It makes bird-breeding easy." No breeder of birds can possibly afford to be without it. It simplifies the operations in the bird-room and makes it possible for everyone, even the veriest novice, to breed his birds as they should be bred. Contains both Pedigree, Breeding, Young Bird, and Show Registers of simple and unique character, in addition to useful account pages, and many invaluable "Hints for Emergencies."

AVIARIES, BIRD-ROOMS, AND CAGES, 2/3 (cloth gilt).—By H. Norman. Contains ten lovely full-page photographic plates. A practical guide which deals thoroughly with the proper Building, Fitting, and Management of Aviaries and Bird-rooms, and the making of Cages.

YORKSHIRE CANARIES, 1/1½.—By H. W. Battye (Past President of the Yorkshire Union). Absolutely the very best Handbook dealing with the Yorkshire and its sub-varieties. Contains complete instructions upon Pairing, Breeding, Moulting, and successful Exhibiting, also how to treat in both health and disease.

NORWICH CANARIES, 1/1.—By C. A. House. Tells the fancier all that he needs to know to enable him to become successful as a breeder, and exhibitor of the Norwich Plainhead. The chapters on "Forming a Stud," and "How to Produce the Ideal" are worth the cost of the whole book many times over.

BIRDS OF THE COUNTRYSIDE, 5/4.—By Frank Finn, B.A., F.Z.S. A handbook to the wild life of all our familiar British birds; their appearance and habits accurately described. With 12 beautiful coloured plates, and 118 photographic illustrations. A charming gift book.

SHIPLEY.

Very successful show held under the auspices of the Shipley O.S. on October 23rd, in the Central Schools, Saltaire Road, when in response to a very generous schedule a total entry of 501 exhibits from 155 exhibitors was secured, an average of over 18 throughout the 27 classes. The show was held under the rules of the Yorkshire Union and the patronages of the Y.C.C., C.M.Y.C.C., and N.G.M.Y.C.C, with Mr. W. H. Shackleton as judge, his awards meeting with general satisfaction. The principal winners of sectional specials in the open were Messrs. Ogden Bros., J. Bailey, and A. Cooper, and in novice sections Messrs. Grayshon, Stables, Priestley, Thomas, and Naylor. Mr. H. Martin is an earnest and enthusiastic secretary, and he had things well in hand, being ably seconded by his assistant, Mr. J. Robinson, and a very hard-working committee, which included Messrs. Broadley, Towers, Bradshaw, Crossland, Grange, Marsden, and Hudson. The committee are fortunate to be able to secure so good and pleasant a room, quite an ideal one for a show, fully capable of holding 700 to 800 birds, and still leave plenty of room for visitors. There was a very good gate considering the adverse state of the weather. Some grand birds were staged, and appear to be getting into splendid condition. The novices staged some toppers, no less than three being claimed at catalogue price of £5 5s. Mr. M. Broadley assisted in the judging by taking the novice and selling classes.

TUNBRIDGE WELLS.

Fifth annual show of the Tunbridge Wells and District F.A. (open to Kent, Sussex, and Surrey) was held in the Sussex Assembly Rooms on Oct. 21st and 22nd. The exhibition was opened by the Mayor, and the day being favoured with plenty of sunshine it is hoped the "gate" receipts were satisfactory. Mr. North judged, and his awards were well received. Mr. H. G. Whibley makes a most excellent secretary, and to his indefatigable efforts, coupled with those of his assistants on his committee, is due in great part the success of the exhibition.

BURTON-ON-TRENT.

Annual show of the Burton-on-Trent C.B.S. held on October 23rd, in the Staffordshire Knot Auction Rooms. It proved a great success, entries being capital in all classes. Quality was of the best, and many noted fanciers were present; and as so many classes had more than 12 entries, the Society decided to give an extra 4th prize of 1/6. How pleased everyone was with the grand display, and how well fanciers turned out to appreciate it! We noticed Messrs. T. Fox (looking very much better), Eckersley, Hakes, Andrews, and many others we cannot at the moment think of. The Norwich were a capital display, and all classes were keenly contested. The winning mkd. unflg. buff of Mr. W. R. Nutt is a topper, and looks like one of those Norwich that cannot go wrong. Yorkshires made a nice display and contained some champion exhibits, Mr. L. Dykes carrying off three 1sts with three rattling good birds. The A.O.V. also brought together one or two fine Crests, the winner being worthy of special note. The British birds were a fine success, and a very nice entry was obtained, the quality, too, being wonderful. The Foreign birds were, as usual, a grand collection, and every attention was paid to them by Mr. Hadley, who attended to their wants. In fact, the arrangements all through were all that could be desired for the comfort of the birds and public. A good staff of willing helpers worked well under the Secretaries' (Messrs. Elliott and Wood) guidance, and not a hitch occurred in any direction. Messrs. Elliott and Wood are the right men in the right place, being very quick, courteous, and obliging. Others who put in long hours in packing and unpacking the exhibits were Dr. Docherty (Chairman), Messrs. R. H. Coltman, T. R. Hadley, A. Ford, H. Hathaway, J. England, T. Kirkland, A. Emery, S. Hakes, H. Hawkins, W. Freeman, and W. Lane. Mr. J. Robson judged. Sandiford's special was won by Mr. Hathaway, and the Foreign Bird Club medal went to Mr. S. H Hadley. Other special winners were Messrs. F. Howe, R. Bond, W. Hester, W. R. Nutt, L. Dykes, S. Hakes, J. England, W. Elliott (2), T. Kirkland, and J. Cameron.

"CAGE BIRDS,"

Nov. 6th, 1909.

Two coupons of the same date entitle you to a free advertisement of 12 words in our "Sale and Exchange." All coupons of this date to be sent in by 1st post Friday, Nov. 12th (latest).

"SALE AND EXCHANGE" ADVERTISEMENTS FOR READERS WHO DISTRIBUTE ONE COPY OF "CAGE BIRDS" GRAND DOUBLE NO.

Novel Scheme to Benefit Our Readers and Ourselves.

Everyone at some time or another wants to sell some article for which he has no further use, or to exchange it for something he wants. Amongst the 50,000 other readers of "CAGE BIRDS" there must be some who are ready to buy from, or exchange with you.

To enable our readers to dispose of, purchase, or exchange various articles, we have decided to insert private advertisements free of charge for those who are willing to promote the circulation of "CAGE BIRDS." All you have to do is to get one extra copy of this week's issue, and give it to a friend who you know would be interested, tell him what your opinion of the paper is, and how much he too can benefit by the articles and advice contained in each issue. Send the coupon which appears on this page, from the one extra copy and your own—two coupons in all—together with the advertisement you want inserted. For two coupons sent bearing the same date, we will insert twelve words free of charge. Every additional word will be charged at ½d. per word. Not more than two coupons can be accepted for any single advertisement.

This plan benefits you by finding a market for anything you wish to dispose of, at a cost of only three-pence, including postage, and benefits us by bringing "CAGE BIRDS" before new readers. We are helping you in return for your help towards the increase of our circulation.

If you have anything to Sell or Exchange fill in and post this Form, sending two coupons of the same date, for free insertion of twelve words, and stamps to cover additional words (½d. per word).

Please insert the following Advertisement in your next issue.

Coupon advertisers must have replies addressed direct to them and not to a box number at this office. Two coupons of the same date pay for twelve words. One halfpenny is charged for each additional word.

Not more than two coupons may be used for any single advertisement. Coupons cannot be accepted for Trade advertisements, the charge for these being 20 words for 1/-. The proprietor reserves the right to decline any advertisement that seems to him undesirable.

ALWAYS USE OUR

DEPOSIT SYSTEM.

We are not responsible for the statements made in advertisements, nor of the bona-fides of either buyers or sellers In all transactions the adoption of our Deposit System should be insistedupon.

IMPORTANT.

SEND THE FULL COMMISSION.—If the full commission does not accompany the deposit, the vendor will not be notified of its receipt until the amount deficient, plus the extra postage incurred, has been paid to us.

HOW TO REMIT.—Under no circumstances will Cheques or Post-dated Money Orders be accepted as deposits. Uncrossed Postal Orders must be sent and the numbers taken for safety.

RULES.

1.—PROCEDURE.—The intending purchaser should send to this office the amount of the purchase (our deposit fee included), and at the same time he should communicate with the seller, stating what it is he requires sent on approval. We acknowledge receipt of the deposit to both parties. In all cases the depositor should give his name and address, and also that of the vendor, and must write same clearly and distinctly.

2.—END OF TRANSACTION.—The deposit is retained by us until we hear from both parties that the transaction has been completed. If a sale has been effected, we hand the amount deposited to the seller. If a sale has not been effected, we return the amount to the depositor. The transaction must be conducted by the parties themselves. We merely hold the deposit.

3.—AMOUNT OF COMMISSION.—The fee is 6d. for each £1, or fraction of £1, and it must be sent at same time as the deposit.

4.—IMPORTANT POINTS.—The depositor must decide within forty-eight hours of the receipt of the goods whether he will keep or return the same, unless, that is, some other period of approval (of which we must be advised) is agreed upon by both parties. The depositor must at the same time notify us of the fact that he has returned the goods. If the goods are not returned within the said forty-eight hours, we reserve the right to send the deposit to the seller after the expiration of that period. And should the seller fail within three days to notify us of the receipt of his goods back again, the transaction will be treated as ended, and the deposit be returned to the depositor.

5.—A SATISFACTORY PURCHASE.—When a transaction has been completed to the satisfaction of both depositor and seller, both parties must at once return the deposit receipts as a guarantee of its completion. The depositor must at the same time instruct us to pay over the deposit to the seller.

6.—GOODS ALREADY SOLD.—If the goods are sold before our deposit note reaches the seller, or, if for any other reason he declines to do business, he must at once return the deposit note to us. Failing its receipt, we reserve the right to return the deposit to the sender after the expiration of three days.

7.—FRESH TRANSACTION.—In case no sale be effected, a deposit is available for purposes of a fresh transaction, provided another deposit fee be paid.

8.—GOODS IN TRANSIT.—Goods in transit are at the seller's risk, and any damage or loss sustained on the journey must be borne by the seller. But goods not approved of must be properly packed and returned by the same means as were used in sending the same.

9.—PAYMENT OF CARRIAGE.—The payment of carriage must be a matter for arrangement between the vendor and depositor. We do not undertake to settle disputes affecting questions of carriage. But in the absence of other arrangements the purchaser is liable for the carriage of the goods, and if the goods are sent on approval and returned, each party pays the carriage one way.

10.—DISPUTES.—In case of a dispute, the decision of the Editor is final.

PREPAID ADVERTISEMENTS

UNDISPLAYED.—Three Words a Penny up to eighteen words. One Halfpenny per Word for each word over eighteen. MINIMUM, 12 words, 4d.

IMPORTANT NOTE.—Two or more Advertisements coming from the same advertiser, even if sent in different names, are reckoned together, and, after the first eighteen words, are charged at two words a penny, but no single advertisement, even if accompanied by others, will be charged at less than the minimum price viz., Fourpence.

Headlines or Footlines 6d., 9d., 1/-, 1/6 according to size.

Small prepaid advertisements of a general nature and not connected in any way with the Cage Bird Trade are inserted at the rate of ½d. per word throughout. Minimum 12 words 6d.

Advertisements must in all cases bear the bona fide name and address of the advertiser, and no advertisement will be inserted if addressed to a receiving office, or similar place of call.

Postal Orders must be sent as far as possible. All moneys should be made payable to F. CARL.

The Proprietor reserves the right to refuse any advertisement, or to cancel any advertisement ordered for a series, at any time, without assigning any reason for so doing.

I WANT YOU

to particularly notice the entirely unsolicited letters given below. These testimonials are from professional catchers who depend upon the appliances they use for their living, and consequently will have nothing but the very best obtainable. You will see what they say, so if I can please them so well, surely I can give you the same satisfaction. A glance at my prices will show that they are far lower than others, and to prove that goods are better, I invite you to have anything you like on approval and test it side by side with a similar article from elsewhere, and if mine is not by far the best, return it and I will refund every penny of your money. Could I afford to say this unless I knew what I was talking about? Clap nets, made from ¾in. mesh, genuine thread netting, 3 yards long, 4/- pair, 4 yards long 5/-, 5 yards 6/-, 6 yards 7/-, 7 yards 8/-, 8 yards 9/-, 9 yards 10/- 10 yards 11/- per pair; all guaranteed 5½ft. deep and 4ft. fly; price includes two nets to the pair, pegs, poles, lines, etc., all complete ready for immediate use. Sparrow nets, fitted on 15ft. bamboo poles, 5/6 pair, ditto 17ft. 6/-, ditto 19ft. 6/6 pair. Loose thread netting, same as used in all my clap nets, ¾in. mesh, 7ft. deep, 3d. yard; ditto 9ft. deep, 4d. yard; ditto 12ft. deep, 5d. yard, post free. Lark netting, 1½in. mesh, 10ft. deep, 4d. yard, post free. This netting is specially made for bird netting, and must not be confused with the cheap American cotton fishing netting often sold as bird netting for sake of extra profit. Self-acting spring net traps, 18in. long, 9d. each; ditto, 24in. long, 18in. wide, 1/- each. These net traps are by far largest and best traps on the market, and will catch and hold any bird from Wren to Rook without injury. They can be baited for Hard or Softbills at same time, and call bird can be used inside them if required. The only trap of its kind on the market. (Imitators please copy as usual.) Single trap cages, 6d. each, double ditto 1/- each, treble ditto 1/3 each, all with separate compartment for call bird, in addition to the one, two, or three traps as stated. Round-topped call cages, 3d. each, 2/6 dozen; square-topped ditto, 4d. each, 3/- dozen. All with all-wire tops and wood bottoms. The real Japanese birdlime, guaranteed absolutely strongest made, ¼lb. 6d., ½lb. 10d.; 1lb. 1/6; sample 3d., all post free. Kindly note, mine is the genuine Japanese lime, not merely a copied name. I guarantee it to hold in all weathers, even in rain or frost, and will leave birds' feathers as clean as a whistle; will hold any Hawk or Rook that flies. Bird brace swivels, three 3d., twelve 6d., post free. Pull lines, specially spun from soft Italian hemp, without snarl or back twist, strong enough to pull a boat along, 68 yards long, 1/4 each, post free. Cheaper Russian hemp lines, 80 yards long, 1/- each post free. (These are not recommended for hard wear.) Hundreds upon hundreds of clap nets, Lark nets, Sparrow nets, side nets, and everything else required by catchers kept in stock. Send stamp for full printed list, which also gives hints on net-making.

"Gedney, Holbeach, Lines. Oct. 4th. Sir,—20 yard pair clap nets to hand. They are exactly right. I tried them to-day and they worked lovely, even although there was a big wind blowing. Please send a 12 yard pair same width.—Yours, C. Cubley." On Oct. 11th Mr. Cubley again writes: "Sir,—I received 12 yard clap nets safely and am highly pleased with them. Many thanks for sending so promptly. They are made of very fine thread, almost invisible when set, and just what are required for catching.—Yours, C. Cubley." "72, Denmark-rd., Beccles. Oct. 15th. Sir,—Nets, etc., to hand. I am exceedingly pleased with them, as they are excellent quality for price paid. I received them in perfect condition.—Yours, H. Barber." "Garrion Gill, Pit Cottage, Overtown. Oct. 16th. Sir,—Please send 2lbs. birdlime. I got 1lb. from you last year and found it best in frosty weather.—Yours, R. Wyper." "Church-st., Garmouth. Oct. 12th. Sir,—Please send ½lb. lime. I had some last season, and it was splendid stuff.—Yours, A. Clarke." "Wardkmills-by-Arbroath. Oct. 12th. Sir, —Please send ½lb. lime. I got some last year from ——, and it was just like syrup, it ran off the sticks. —Yours, J. Smart." "Redding, Polmont Station. Oct. 11th. Sir,—Please send following. I had a pair clap nets from you 2½ years ago, and they are as good as ever, and have been out in all kinds of weather, so I know who I am dealing with.—Yours, Alex Rennie." "15, Bourne-rd., Bromley Common. Oct. 9th. Sir,—Please send following. The 20 yards netting pleased me very well.—Yours, A. Knott." "Holbrook-rd., Belper. Oct. 10th. Sir,—Please send ½lb. lime. I had some last year and found it best I ever had.—Yours, T. Alton." "3, Hydney-st., Eastbourne. Oct. 8th. Sir,—Lime to hand; it is best I ever had. Please send pair 12 yards clap nets.—Yours, G. Hunt." "Byards Leap, Sleaford. Oct. 5th. Sir,—Received trap cage, net trap, and birdlime all safe, and am very pleased with them all. Thanks for quick dispatch.—Yours, G. Christian." "35, Higher Bellevue, Redruth. Oct. 4th. Sir,—Trap cages are giving me every satisfaction.—Yours, F. Faulkner." "Brinsley Moor, nr. Eastwood. Oct. 1st. Sir,—Received clap nets quite safe and am very well pleased with them. Please send following. —Yours, C. Hewes." "20, Vernou-st., Shirebrook. Oct. 1st. Sir,—Please send following. I received netting all right and am quite satisfied.—Yours, G. Goodwin." Please note that I have sent to Editor of CAGE BIRDS sixty unsolicited testimonials received by me during past few days for his inspection to prove their genuineness. These letters prove without shadow of doubt who is the best man to supply anything in fanciers or catchers' line. All nets sent out are properly "armed" or "geared," not merely line run through the netting, and I have a staff of fully competent workmen making up nets. These are men who thoroughly understand exactly what is required for successful catching, and nothing is spared in order to make my appliances most useful and durable on the market. I send all on approval, and cordially invite customers to put them to any test within reason, and if not in every way satisfactory, return them to me. Terms: Cash or CAGE BIRDS deposit system. Send stamp for full list. See British Bird and Roller Canary columns for further advts.

MEDICINES.

RESTORINE, the acknowledged remedy for diarrhœa, acts like magic, 7d., 1/-, 2/-, and 4/6.—William Bishop, Beeston Regis, Sheringham.

PANNASSINA prevents and cures wheezing, colds, diarrhœa, loss of song, grand winter tonic; tins, 7d. and 1/2, with convincing testimonials.—W. J. Hammond, Sunningvale-avenue, Biggin-hill, Kent.

CANARIES and cage birds moulting require a dose of Welham's wonderful Canarydine tonic, grandest reviver known, sample bottle 7d.; read our National Cage Birds, 2½d.—Welham and Co., Coldharbour-lane, Brixton, London.

MARYELINE, The Puzzle Remedy; Wanted and Found, 1/1 per bottle. Reg. 314738. Maryeline will cure Inflammation, Going Light, Loss of Appetite, and Diarrhœa of Canaries, Pigeons, British and Foreign Birds.—W. H. THOMAS, 6, Christopher Street, Llanelly, S. Wales.

KELSO'S BRONCHOLIA.
Absolutely the safest, purest, and most effective remedy on the market for asthma, bronchitis, colds, wheezing, hoarseness, etc., in all cage birds, used by leading fanciers all over the world. Mr. Stanley Berry, 13, Spring Bank, Mew Mills, near Stockport, writes:—Dear sir, would you please send me another bottle of your Broncholia, for it has done my birds a power of good, both for singing and colds too. I shall recommend it whenever I can.—Bottles 7d. and 1/1, post free.—Kelso and Co., 62, Western-hill, Durham.

"ASTHMARINE" IS not a cure-all, neither is anything else, but it is what is claimed for it, namely, the most marvellous remedy for wheezing, and all lung affections ever known, and without any exaggeration whatever, thousands of testimonials have been received for this one remedy only. "Asthmarine" is 9d. (ninepence) per bottle; large bottles, 2/6 post free.

Rudd's Norwich Tonic Drops are the best pick-me-up and "Finisher" to plumage that has yet been discovered, prices same as Asthmarine. Inflammation remedy also same prices.

MANY WILL TAKE COLD!

Now the cold snap of weather has started, many birds will take cold. Is the following not sufficient to demonstrate beyond all doubt that Asthmarine will cure colds and asthma?—E. A. Langridge, Esq., Coal Merchant, of Badshot, Lea, writes on October 26th, 1909: "Please send large bottle of your celebrated Asthmarine, as I fine it the best I can get for Canaries with bad colds. Another—W. Woodhouse, Esq., writes on same date, October 26th, 1909: "Will you send me another bottle of your Asthmarine? The last one I had done my birds the world of good. Now for the Tonic Drops, still another writes on October 17th, 1909, from 12, Thirapia Road, Honor Oak:—Will you send me the 2/6 size bottle of Tonic Drops. As I had run out of this, I tried two or three other remedies that are in the market. But, absolutely, in my opinion, there is none like yours. It is simply marvellous! After two or three doses the birds are really better—not seemingly so.

BIRD WASH & BRUSHES.

The best and most effective wash in existence, post free, 1/6 per bottle. Brushes, 2d., 4d., 6d., postage 1d. extra. Every brush guaranteed genuine, and worth treble.

SPRAYS! SPRAYS!!

Largest stock in Europe. Note prices, nickel sprays, worked with pipe and ball, 1/8. The new glass spray, best and cleanest ever invented, cannot get out of order, with box case, 1/3. Bright Metal Atmospheric, 7d., all post free.

W. RUDD, THE BIRD Specialist, NORWICH.

Perhaps You Wonder

why I am at all times willing to send birds on approval at my own risk. The reason is this. My birds are correctly described in advt., and are well on seed and in perfect health and condition; therefore customers not only expect what they get, but get exactly what they expect. My system of trading is this: I send everything on approval at my own risk, either on receipt of cash or deposit system of CAGE BIRDS, and unless perfect satisfaction is given, birds have only to be returned and back comes the whole of your money. Could you imagine more straightforward terms than these? I have grand lot cock Goldfinches, in perfect health and condition, at 1/6 each, three 4/-, six 7/-, twelve 12/-; specially selected larger cocks to moult for show or Muling, 2/- each, three 5/-, six 9/-, twelve 10/-; few extra special clean moulted cocks, in full colour and superb condition, fit for keen competition, 3/- each, three 7/6; hen Goldfinches, 1/- each, three 2/0, six 4/-, twelve 7/-. Grand lot cock Siskins, in perfect health and feather, 2/- each, three 5/-, six 9/-; few selected yellow exhibition specimens, with full bibs, 3/- each; hen Siskins, 1/- each, three 2/6, six 4/-. Splendid lot cock Bullfinches, in perfect health, 1/6 and 2/- each; exhibition specimens 2/6 each; hen Bullfinches, 1/- each; few extra large steady rich coloured hens, 1/6 each. Grand lot cock brown Linnets, everyone guaranteed to have nut brown backs and rose-red breasts, 8d. each, three 1/6, six 2/6, twelve 4/-; specially selected larger cocks for show, Muling, or contest, singing, 1/- each, three 2/6, six 3/6, twelve 6/-; scores of dozens of these Linnets sent every week to contest singers of Yorkshire, Lancashire, Durham, Northumberland, London, etc. Remember, I hold record for cheap contest winners, having supplied one for 4d. that won the cup in Yorkshire, beating, among others, a Leeds bird that cost nearly as many pounds as mine cost pence. Cock Chaffinches 8d. each, three 1/6, six 2/6, twelve 4/-; exhibition specimens 1/- each; cock Greenfinches 6d. each, three 1/-, six 1/6, twelve 2/-; exhibition specimens, 1/- each. Redpolls, 6d. each, three 1/-, six 1/6, twelve 2/6; exhibition specimens, 1/- each. Splendid lot cock Skylarks, 8d. each, three 1/6, six 2/6, twelve 3/6; few specially selected birds, very steady and in song, 1/6, 2/-, and 2/6 each. Hand-reared cock Song Thrush, 2/6. Two-year-old cock Blackbird, splendid songster, 2/-. Goldfinch, Linnet, or Bullfinch cages, 6d. each, 4/6 dozen. Lark runner cages, 6d., 8d., and 10d. each, 3/6, 4/6, and 7/- dozen. Dealers send stamp for wholesale cage list; price will astonish you. The following letters prove quality of birds sent out: "Water Works, Balfron Station. Sir,—Goldfinch arrived in pink of condition. Many thanks for despatching bird so quickly and such a good bird for money.—Yours, W. McAdam." "14, Temple-ter., Morriston. Sir,—Goldfinches arrived in pink or condition. They are a fine lot, and I am perfectly satisfied with my purchase.—Yours, T. Evans." "22, Union-ter., Clarence-st., York. Sir,—Goldfinches arrived safe, and am very much pleased with them. I am surprised at your turning out such nice birds so cheap as compared with other dealers.—Yours, H. Brough." "82, George-st., Whiteinch, Glasgow. Sir, —Linnets arrived in lovely condition and are the best Linnets I ever had sent. I have told all my friends to send to Gore for their birds. Please send me another dozen.—Yours, R. Rough." "12, Exeter-st., West Hartlepool. Oct. 15th. Sir,—Received Bullfinch and Goldfinch, and am very pleased with them. I have tried other dealers, but find yours are the best.—Yours, G. Robson." "5, Bellefield-ter., Ford Croft, St. Mary Cray, Oct. 16th. Sir,—Please send four Goldfinches as follows. I have spent 25/- on Goldfinches from other dealers this season, and only have one left, and that not worth 1/-. My cousin recommended me to you. He still has four left out of six he had from you three years ago, and two of those are prize winners.—Yours, F. Smith." "124, Southwoodside-rd., Glasgow. Oct. 13th. Sir,—Received birds in good order and am very pleased with them; they are good value. Our first deal being satisfactory, will lead to future business. For prompt attention and value for money you cannot be beaten, and deserve the confidence of all intending purchasers of birds.—Yours, R. J. Jago." "71, Amity Grove, Raynes Park. Oct. 13th. Sir,—Bullfinch arrived safe and am very pleased with it. Thanks for honest dealing; you set an example for others.—Yours, R. Chastney." "40, Brunel-st., Ferryhill, Co. Durham, October 9th. Sir,—Received Linnets all right. I never had better for the money in my life. I was told you was an honest and upright man, and I am thankful to say you are. Please send another dozen cocks.—Yours, Frederick Curry." "48, Church-st., Seaham Harbour. Oct. 7th. Sir,—Linnets arrived in first-class health and condition. Many thanks for promptitude.—Yours, G. Craggs." "Broughton, Stokesley, Oct. 5th. Sir,—Received birds quite safe and am well pleased with both. The Linnet is a good call bird and knows his work. I am pleased to get hold of a straightforward man at last, having been taken down so much.—Yours, A. Jackson." "29, Handel-st., Halifax. Oct. 9th. Sir, —Received Lark safe and he is a grand bird. I am very proud of my two birds. No one need be afraid to send to you for birds; they will get what they pay for—good value for money. If all were like you we should want no approval with our birds.—Yours, B. Holmes." As some people may be doubtful of the genuineness of these letters, I have sent 60 unsolicited testimonials, including the above, all bearing Government postmarks, to Editor of CAGE BIRDS for his inspection, and will give £10 to anyone that can prove that any letter I publish is not genuine and entirely unsolicited. See Appliance column and also Roller Canary column for further statements of facts.

HARRY ALLEN.
GOLDIES, BULLFINCHES, LINNETS, LARKS.

I stand alone for high-class British Goldfinches, Goldfinches; real English Peartree cock Goldfinches, the largest in England, with grand broad heads and beautiful square cut scarlet blaze, with splendid wings bars and richly tanned on breasts and beautifully buttoned, a credit to send out, 2/-, 2/6, and 3/6; a few that can win in keen competition, 5/-; Goldfinches, used to catching, both for netting and liming, 3/- each; Goldfinches, singing very hard and showing splendid colour, 2/- and 2/6; exhibition British show cage, with one of my best Goldfinches, 6/6. I have over 300 of the nicest and largest cock Bullfinches in England, with beautiful black cap and most perfect in bib, and splendid wing bars, double rich colour on breasts, ready at once for the show bench, these are prize winners, 4/6 each. Believe me, gentlemen, these are gems. Other grand Bullfinches, 2/6 and 3/-; beautiful hen Bullfinches, 1/6 and 2/-; they are in grand condition; 100 beautiful red-breasted Redpolls, very large birds, 1/6 each; beautiful Greenfinches, the nicest I have seen this season, like paint, in show condition, 1/-; a few toppers, 1/6; beautiful cock Yellowhammers, 1/-; Linnets, my A1 specials, can beat the world for steadiness, size, colour, and markings, 2/6; these birds are winning all over; Linnets, singing grand, with a beautiful polished contest cage, and my new book of secrets, and a packet of my special mixture, 3/6, worth double. Look! Fierce singing cock Linnets, with blood-red breasts and extra loud voices, with cage and my book of secrets, right for catching or contest singing, only 2/6; Linnets, taught by the champion Linnet of the world, will sing anywhere, only 1/6; a few specials, 2/-; Linnets, from the same place as the world's champion, only 1/-; the same as I have supplied most of the leading Linnet clubs of England. I defy any dealer in the world to supply the same for the money. Deposit your money with the Editor of this paper for honest stuff; all on seven days' approval. Look! the finest cock Larks in England, singing daylight and gaslight, and as straight as arrows and as steady as rocks, 1/- and 1/6; a few singing extra loud, 2/6; exhibition British show cages, 2/- each; polished singing contest cages, 1/6 each. My new book of secrets, 9d. For proof, read what others say:—"85, High-st., Edzell, Forfarshire.—Dear Sir,—Received bird all right, and am quite satisfied with it.—Yours, W. Beattie to H. Allen." "23, Fife-rd., Kingston-on-Thames, Surrey.—Dear Sir,—Received bird safe and in splendid condition; he is a beauty and easily worth the money.—Yours truly, H. Burrows to H. Allen." "3, Tabernacle-row, Carmarthen.—Dear Sir,—I received the bird safe, also cage; I am well pleased with them, so I have wrote to Editor to tell him to hand over the deposit to you. —William Thomas to H. Allen." "50, Ashville-terrace, Morton, Manchester.—Dear Sir,—I have received the Linnet and Goldfinch quite safe, and am very pleased with them.—Yours truly, A. Coupe to H. Allen." "1, Walter-terrace, Aberfan, Merthyr Vale.—Dear Sir,—Goldfinch and cage arrived safe, and I am well satisfied; you shall have all my future orders.—Yours truly, Edw. Jones to H. Allen." "168, Wilncote, Tamworth.—Sir,—Have received cock Goldfinch safe and in pink of condition; he looks as if he had not been on rail at all.—S. Allsopp to H. Allen." "19, High Westwood, Medomsley, R.S.O.—Dear Sir,—I received the bird all right; he is a very bonny bird, and I am sending to CAGE BIRDS for them to send you the money.—Yours truly, Geo. Barker to H. Allen." Ladies and gentlemen, the above birds are all in the pink of condition, and are ready for sending away at once. For 16 months I have not had one bird returned to me. Proof, the Editor of this paper. This clearly shows my honest way of dealing. Send to the original at once, as I glory in sending a good bird out. Postcard before birds. Over 3,000 in stock; no waiting, so write to the largest British bird dealer in the world.—Harry Allen, Bird Specialist and Judge, City Aviaries, 40 Beckett-st., Leeds.

DO YOU THINK

that a man who has never shown a bird is the sort of advertiser to send to? You must know that it is one thing to say you have winners, and another to prove it. See reports of all leading shows. Now, I have to offer this week, Bullfinches, Goldfinches, Linnets, Redpolls, Greenfinches, picked birds, to show now (not next year), I have the finest stock of Bullfinches, cocks, 1/6, 2/-, fit for any show, 2/6, 3/-, 4/-; hens, for Hybrid breeding, 7d., 9d., 1/-, 1/6; Goldfinches, with real good blazes, 2/-, 2/6; toppers, 3/-, 4/-; hens, 1/- each; Redpolls, 2/3; hens, three for 1/-; mealy breast like Robin, 1/-; Greenfinches, extra fine, yellow, 1/-; others 6d. and 8d. pair; Linnets, for showing, muling, or singing, 8d., 1/-, 1/6; extra fine bird, fit for any field-moulted class, 2/6; Siskin, very fine cock, 2/6; birdlime, 6d. and 1/- tins, post paid; all birds on approval; cash or deposit.—Enoch Tams, Church-st., Longton, Staffs.

MATTHEWS SAYS, "STOP HERE!"
THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND.

Gentlemen, why I keep sending prize-winners out every day is because I have the largest stock in the world to select from; this is well known by all leading exhibitors, contest siugers, and Mule breeders; also the finest aviaries; mine are not old hencotes (same as most backyard dealers when you come to inspect them). Over 1,000 British birds on hand; also refreshments and teas supplied at any hour for all clients, so don't be gulled by so-called specialists. Send for a team of my A1 specials if you want to win on the show bench or singing contests; they are the finest and largest British birds in the world, har none; all guaranteed in perfect show condition and in full song; not fresh-caught rubbish, same as most dealers send out. All at seven days' approval, and at my own risk. Linnets, Linnets, Linnets, steady as rocks, ready for show bench, real giants, well-pencilled, good nut colour, Norwich type, real gems, same sort of Linnets that are winning first prizes all over England, which I have sent out this last 10 years, 2/- each; a few extra special giants 2/6 each; Linnets ready for contest singing, in full song, finger tamed, taught under the champion Linnets of Cheshire, 1/6 and 2/- each; a few extra special moulted Linnets, in full wild song, 2/6 and 3/- each, ready to win a singing contest, with book of instructions; new polished singing cage, packet of special singing seed, 1/- extra. I can also dispose of a few catching Linnets, all well worked, used to the hedge and nets, in full song, real stoppers, 2/- and 2/6 each, these are bargains. Goldfinches, Goldfinches, real English peartree Goldfinches, guaranteed over 700 in stock, all netted from the Cheshire fruit gardens, not little foreign birdlime rubbish, all steady and in full show condition, a few massive large giants, with good broad square scarlet blazes, well tanned on breast, extra well buttoned, long Yorkshire type, ready to win in keen competition at once, 2/6 and 3/- each; a few extra specials, prize winners, 4/- and 4/6 each, guaranteed the finest in England. I can dispose of 30 Goldfinches, in full song, been used to the nets and hedge since July, all in full song, sure stoppers, 2/6 each; 6 special Goldfinches, been worked to nets 12 months, 3/6 each, real bargains; yellow giant Greenfinches, as large as Thrushes, like Canaries, 1/- each; 2 specials 1/6 each; large Yellowhammers, 1/- each; a few specials 1/6 each, sure winners; Bullfinches, Bullfinches, 500 on hand, real Norwich type, breasts like blood, good black cap and bib, splendid wing bars, real beauties, 2/6; a few extra specials 3/- each, sure winners; over 100 nestling Larks, in full wild song, finger tame, 1/6 and 2/- each; also 100 house-moulted Larks, in full song, 2/6 each; 40 hand-reared young Larks, ready to win any singing contest, taught under the champion Larks of Cheshire, 3/- each, real bargains. Please write for any other British birds you require; clubs, parks, aviaries supplied by return of post; also my special book of secrets, which has been circulated for the last seven years all over the world, 1/2 post free. No British fancier should be without one of these special hooks. Gentlemen, all I send out is on seven days' approval, all at my own risk, cash or deposit, with Editor of "Cage Birds," so, gentlemen, send at once to Matthews, Linnet King and Judge, 24, Avenue-st. Aviaries, Portwood, Stockport, Cheshire (late of Hyde).

WHAT IS CHEAPNESS?

"I hold Testimonials from all parts of the civilised world."

There is only one answer to that:—Best value for the money you spend. This, I profess to give you, whether in a pair at 6/6 or a pair at £20. Most people are aware I never myself "show" any birds. That is no reason others in the business should not; we all have a right to do as we like; but, when people advertise winners 8 or 9 months out of 12 and say they breed them ALL, I say, for heavens sake let's have something a little more sensible. How many pairs would it take to breed sufficient to supply orders for 9 months; and who is the man that can breed winners by the hundred annually? If he could, his fortune would soon be made. What a Happy Life it would be! I do, however, assert that I have had more winners pass through my hands for many years than any other living man (I refer to Canaries). I give here a few prices, all are on approval, and I would far sooner have them returned than not give entire satisfaction; besides, I pay all carriage back—do others? If you do not see in following prices what you require, send for full Illustrated List, post free.

You may have seen advertisements of Hartz Mountain Rollers with all kinds of what may be termed "fancy" names, although such are absolute nonsense and positively meaningless, and I question if the people who use them were ever in Germany in their livee, or have any special knowldge of Canaries at all. If you require special strains, the very best known in Germany, I can supply them.

N.B.—Persons not liking much noise, and wanting low and sweet singing birds, can be supplied by mentioning the fact with order.

are this season better than ever, which is saying a great deal, seeing the large number of prizes these Rollers have won of late years, and the hundreds of testimonials we have received for their excellence of song. Many and varied changes with their long runs, and real musical notes. The price is still the same to all, 15/- each, and they cannot be beat at double the money.

We send them on 14 day's trial at Our Risk.

DEPOSIT YOUR MONEY WITH EDITOR,

and don't buy Rollers on any other terms from anyone, then you can't be imposed on. Real St. Andresberg Schoolmasters are only 10/6 and 12/6 each; Hartz Mountain cock Canarics, in full song, 4/6 and 5/6 each, all on approval. Send for catalogue, post free. We have been patronised by Royalty.

Northern Aviaries, Ormskirk Road, Preston.

when reading my advertisement last week, in which I said I frequently received letters from customers saying that my Leipzig Rollers were better birds than those that cost twice and even three times more money from elsewhere, would probably think I was drawing the long-bow, but among the testimonials given below is one that almost repeats my words. For years past I have said that nowhere else can be had the same value at the price I offer, and to prove this I ask all intending purchasers of a Roller to have one from me on a week's trial, and one from elsewhere at any higher price on same terms. Test them side by side for a week and keep the one that suits best. I shall be quite satisfied with result. I have a grand stock of the genuine Leipzig Rollers, all in full song day and gaslight, with long hollow and double rolls, sweet silvery trills, water bubble runs, soft rouladcs, hollow bell rolls, piccolo trills, jug-jug of Nightingale, harp gong and flute notes, etc., etc., guaranteed quite free from any harsh or chopping notes whatever. Price 6/- and 7/- each. I also have a splendid lot of loud-singing Hartz cocks in full, free, vigorous song, all real ceiling lifters, at 4/6 each, seven 28/-. All birds properly packed free of extra charge and sent on full week's trial at my risk on receipt of cash or CAGE BIRDS deposit system, and if fullest satisfaction not given, money is promptly and cheerfully refunded in full. Now, please notice dates of following: "51, York-st., London. October 24th. Sir,—Many thanks for Canaries safely received and am very plessed with them.—Yours, T. Hollins." "Milber House, Highweek, Newton Abbot, Octoher 23rd. Sir,—Many thanks for Leipzig Roller received on Thursday. It is a beauty. I have had many at higher prices from other dealers, and can say yours beats them all for purity of song. Tbe Linnet I had from you is singing splendidly. I hope to get you many more orders.—Yours, W. Harris." "64, Hafod-y-coed, Llanbilleth. Octoher 23rd. Sir,—Received Leipzig Roller in pink of condition, and a gem he is. Thanks for your promptness. As soon as he was on table and unpacked he started his music.—Yours, A. Morgan." "Inveresk, Bournemouth. Oct. 22nd. Sir,—Birds arrived quite safe and I am very pleased with them. —Yours, F. Bartlett." "11, Wade-avenue, Larklands, Ilkestone. Oct. 22nd. Sir,—Roller to hand; thanks for your selection he gives very satisfaction. I shall send for another shortly.—Yours, E. Aldred." "13, Brandwood-street, Daubhill. Oct. 25th. Sir,—Received Roller on Friday, and is giving every satisfaction. Thanking you for selecting me so good a hird. I shall most certainly deal with you again.—Yours, Tom Speakman." "140, High-st., Newry, Ireland. Oct. 23rd. Sir,—Received Canarles on 22nd, and must say that such value for money I never saw. They were in pink of condition, so please keep two more like them for next week. I must congratulate you on your splendid way of packing birds.—Yours, P. O'Reilly." "London-road, Alderley Edge. Oct. 23rd. Sir,—Roller arrived safe on Thursday and sang hefore it was unpacked. It is a good bird, and I am most satisfied with same. I have had several Rollers from you hefore and always found them good ones, and can recommend anyone wanting a good Roller to send to you. Thanking you for sending such a good bird.—Yours, G. Birkin." The ahove testimonials, with hundreds of others, open to inspection at any time. Don't forget, full week's trial allowed and all your money back if not fully satisfied. See British Bird and also Appliance column for further adverts.

Nine 1sts, Seven 2nds, Four 3rds, Four 4ths, etc.

It is needless for me to give you any better proof of the quality of my Yorkshires, which have won, in addition to the above, during the last two weeks, at Burton, Hanley, Coventry, Longton and Peterborough, three specials for best Yorkshire, and four other specials, etc., and is without doubt second to none. If you want to win, or stock birds with plenty of length, and right type, etc., to breed own winners, send your orders to the old reliable breeder, exhibitor and judge, who breeds his own winners, and can therefore give you the best satisfaction.

Long, slim, yellow cocks, at 5/-, 7/-, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-1 buff cocks, at 5/-, 6/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/- each; specially selected, unrelated pairs at 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/- per pair; long, slim, racy hens, all colours, at 3/6, 4/6, 6/6, 8/6, 10/6 each; travelling cages 3d. extra.

Few that have won in keen competition at reasonable prices, or others that can win at members' shows, all guaranteed cold-room bred and kept, and trained ready for immediate exhibition, and all cocks on full song, and 7 inches long, and remember I send all on seven days' approval, at my risk, either for cash or deposit with Editor. State wants, or come and judge for yourself, as I shall be only too pleased to show you my stock at any time. Illustrated price list, containing scores of winning testimonials, post free; and remember, more winners bred and sold by me during the few years than any other advertiser. Only address—

GEORGE TAYLOR,

Successor to

E. TAYLOR,

The Bradford Bird Specialist,

The Value I Offer You

is exceptionally good, my stock is large, varied and choice. I have no room for mongrel specimens, neither do I keep a team of birds for exhibition to enable me to advertise recent winnings. I prefer to let my clients do the winning, and for this reason I would emphasise the fact that every bird in my stock is for sale. I keep none in the background. I would remind clients that my aviaries are the most modern in the country, and contain no artificial heat, and are lighted throughout by electricity. Customers, therefore, can rest assured that only healthy, hardy, and robust specimens are sent out. Inspection invited. Splendid value.

Typical Yorkshires.

All of correct type and quality, including grand young cocks that can win at local or member's shows, at 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, and 25/-; buff and yellow Yorkshire cocks, for breeding or song, at 5/6, 6/6, 7/6, 10/-, 12/6, and 15/-; hens, 2/-, 3/-, 4/-, 6/- and 7/6 each; matched pairs, to breed winners, at 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/- and 21/-. Splendid value in Plainhead Norwich, at same prices as Yorkshires; also Crests, and Crest-Bred, Cinnamons, Lancashires, and Lizards.

Constant arrivals direct from the breeders of the genuine Seifert Rollers: cocks, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-. Remember, full week's approval, and satisfaction guaranteed. Travelling boxes, 3d. extra.

solved. For full proofs send postcard at once for my large book, "Parrot Prattle," now containing 168 pages. This is the most wonderful book ever offered free of all charge to all Parrot fanciers. (This "Parrot Prattle" is registered copyright, and all infringers and imitators will be proceeded against). It contains hundreds of testimonials from all parts with full names and addresses, many interesting facts, and gives valuable advice and hints to all Parrot buyers. Full details of our original system of selling Parrots on four weeks' trial, at our risk, which we were the first to introduce. We sell Parrots of all descriptions on four weeks' trial, at our risk, before settlement. Cheapest and best in the Kingdom, and any Parrot sold by us and not giving full satisfaction, will be exchanged any time within twelve months. Remember we lead and others try to follow. Write to other dealers as well as us, and judge for yourselves. Lists of Parrots for sale and above book post free on receipt of postcard.

Bird Medicines:

Their Value and Proper Uses Explained.

By R. SMALLEY, M.P.S.

A Contribution which will be welcomed by all Bird-keepers.

Notwithstanding the numerous books published in the interest of bird-keepers and the mine of useful information at their disposal in CAGE BIRDS, there are good reasons for believing that the difficulties of beginners are almost, if not quite, as numerous as when information was less widely diffused. But with the altered conditions when troubles do occur they are more readily understood and more frequently overcome.

The Selection of Medicines.

Departures from health in the bird-room are common sources of anxiety to fanciers. In many cases, on the cause of the trouble being removed, Nature speedily restores the natural order of things; in others the fancier may well puzzle his brains to find the best remedial agent, such a multitude of reputed remedies is at his command. Care must be exercised in the selection of medicines, if successful results are to be obtained. As a rule those medicines producing mild effects are to be preferred to more drastic drugs.

Having decided on the drug or preparation to be used, the next consideration is the dose. Definite doses should be regarded as the quantities which may be employed for an average case, concerning a bird of average size. It will be evident to readers that the dose of a medicine which would be ample for a Lancashire Canary might be more than sufficient for one of the smaller varieties.

The Folly of Using Spoons.

In speaking of medicines, it is quite the usual thing to describe quantities by the spoonful. The folly of using these domestic implements for medicine only needs to be pointed out to be appreciated. Both teaspoons and tablespoons vary so much in capacity that it would be a good thing for the sake of uniformity if fanciers when preparing medicines would use either a glass medicine measure graduated to measure teaspoonfuls and tablespoonfuls, or a graduated measure to hold two ounces. The latter are sold cheaply for photographic purposes, and although not absolutely accurate, are decidedly preferable to metal spoons. Not only do these vary in capacity to a considerable extent, but metal goods, whether for use as measures or drinkers, are not to be tolerated for holding medicinal preparations.

In measuring doses of most medicines a certain amount of latitude is permissible At the same time, abuse of this liberty should be guarded against, as most unexpected results may be obtained by merely increasing or reducing the dose of some drugs. For instance, ipecacuanha wine is recommended to be given in doses of two or three drops for dispelling sickness in the human individual. Given in teaspoonful doses, the same drug is a well-known agent for promoting vomiting. This case is mentioned to show the desirability of adhering somewhere near the dose that has been found to answer the purpose required.

It is well to bear in mind that sixty drops and one drachm are about the same quantity as one teaspoonful. One ounce is equal to two tablespoonfuls, and in the imperial pint there are twenty ounces.

The Value of Chalk.

A few of the medicines in common use are enumerated below. The method by which each may be prepared at home (where this can be done conveniently); also some of the properties and peculiarities, are briefly described.

Chalk being of an absorbent, antacid and astringent nature, is found to be useful in cases of diarrhœa, especially where the fluid excretions are of an offensive character. It is usual to mix a few grains of prepared chalk with a moderately dry milk sop, which is then given to the birds. The chalk used in schools and "French" chalk are quite different from prepared chalk, and should not be used for the above purpose.

Dandelion Juice is a tonic and a liver stimulant. It is obtained from the recently gathered roots of the dandelion, by means of pressure. Roots gathered in the autumn are considered to possess more pronounced medicinal properties than those gathered at other times of the year. The juice is best when freshly prepared. It may be procured from the chemist, and a suitable quantity should be mixed with three times as much water, which is then given in place of drinking water.

A Valuable Tonic.

Infusion of gentian is a valuable tonic and stomachic. For old or young birds it may be used with perfect safety. It is very useful after diarrhœa. The infusion is made on a commercial scale from the roots of plants which have been grown in Central or Southern Europe. A quarter of a ounce of the dried root, a little dried orange peel, and a small quantity of fresh lemon peel, are all thinly sliced and cut into small pieces. These are brewed for a quarter of an hour with a pint of boiling water.

The clear liquid or infusion is to be decanted, and when mixed with an equal quantity of water, may be supplied in place of drinking water. A concentrated infusion eight times the strength of the above may be bought, and is very convenient. Of the lattor, one teaspoonful may be made up to four tablespoonfuls with water.

Infusion of quassia is used in the bird-room for destroying red mite. One ounce of the chips should be mixed with a pint of water and stirred occasionally for a quarter of an hour, when the clear liquid may be poured off and is ready for use. Directions are sometimes given to use boiling water. This is not necessary, as the wood readily yields its active principle to cold water. As in the case of infusion of gentian, a convenient concentrated infusion is sold by chemists.

Quassia preparations, although capable of destroying small insect life, are not poisonous in the ordinary sense. The infusion may be used as a tonic in the same way as infusion of gentian. The wooden tonic cups occasionally met with and formerly very common, are made of quassia wood. It is a product of Jamaica.

A Useful Aperient.

Infusion of senna is a useful ordinary aperient, and may be prepared from senna leaves or senna pods, both of which are imported from Northern Africa and also India. Place in a cup half a dozen pods or about twenty of the leaves. Add a quarter of a pint of warm water, stir well, and allow to stand for eight hours. The clear liquid is to be given in place of drinking water.

In making this medicine, the addition of a little sliced ginger would be an improvement, inasmuch as it would reduce the griping which accompanies the use of senna. In using aperients, it is well to remember that, as a rule, they should not be given on consecutive days.

Iron Preparations.

Citrate of iron and quinine is sold in small glass-like yellowish-green scales. Dissolved in the proportion of one grain to each ounce of drinking water, it forms a valuable bitter tonic, which is largely used during the period of moulting. It increases the appetite.

Citrate of iron and ammonia would be similar in appearance to the last-named, but for the colour. In this case the scales are very dark red, in fact, almost black. It is a useful tonic which is not bitter. It may be given in precisely the same manner as that recommended in the case of citrate of iron and quinine, and, like the latter, is advocated for moulting birds.

Sulphate of iron is a third preparation of iron used for birds during moulting. It occurs in crystals of pale green colour. Half an ounce may be dissolved in three pints of drinking water.

The iron preparations referred to are all used as tonics. They possess astringent properties, the citrate of iron and ammonia in the least, and the sulphate in the highest degree. This property, I have an opinion, has much to do with their relative popularity as mordants during colour-feeding. For this purpose it is usually deemed sufficient to give one of the preparations mentioned two or three times a week during the latter half of the moult.

Iron preparations are liable to discolour glass and earthenware vessels in which they are kept. The stains may be removed with a hot solution of oxalic acid, using an ounce of the acid and half a pint of boiling water. After using this the drinkers should be well washed before being put into use again.

Lime Water and Castor and Olive Oils.

Lime water possesses feeble antacid and astringent properties, and has been recommended for diarrhœa. It should be prepared from selected limestone, which has been burnt, slaked and well washed. Two ounces of this are used for a gallon of lime water (which is made with distilled water). It may be used in place of drinking water, either alone or mixed with an equal quantity of ordinary water.

Castor oil is used for birds as a laxative. It is prepared in France, Italy and India, from the seeds of the castor oil plant. It is usually recommended for birds threatened with inflammation of the bowels, and also in the preliminary treatment of diarrhœa, where this is supposed to be due to the partaking of unsuitable food. It is variously appreciated by fanciers; some swearing by it, others at it. One or two drops are given to a bird the size of a Canary from a taper or warm knitting needle directly into the beak.

Olive oil, also a laxative, is imported from Italy, France and Spain, where it is prepared from the fruit of the olive tree by means of pressure. The dose and method of using are the same as described under castor oil, in place of which it is often employed. Of the two it is preferred by many fanciers. Samples differ considerably in quality, the better varieties being paler and brighter in colour, and having a mild odour and flavour, which are by no means disagreeable.

Breeding and Exhibiting Crests and Crest-breds.

SOME ADVICE ADDRESSED TO THE BEGINNER.

By W. HARDIE.

I should like to give a little advice to novices with regard to the exhibition and breeding of the Crested Canary. Nowadays, with such a paper as CAGE BIRDS, I don't see what is to hinder a beginner from being successful on the show-bench right away. The Crested Canary is my special favourite, and for a novice it will be found to form a fascinating as well as a paying hobby. You will always find a ready sale for good Crests; and you have also your Crestbred from which to derive income.

The Buying of Birds.

My first advice to the beginner is that he should buy in two sections—his exhibition birds and his stock birds. That puts him on the show-bench right away. Never buy a low-priced inferior bird, as you will never get good results from it. Buy from an experienced fancier, and upon CAGE BIRD'S deposit system; by so doing you will see the bird you are buying.

To buy a winning Crest and keep it in proper show condition will be the first experience of the beginner. It is a fact that some fanciers believe if anything goes wrong with their birds that they have not been fairly dealt with, when the fault is really their own; so I advise you, when buying your birds, to get the fancier's "line of treatment" sent along with them.

Handling and Washing the Birds.

Many fanciers are afraid to handle their Canaries. Just put that fear from you right at the start; and a Crest is, I believe, the easiest Canary to handle of any. If you watch your opportunity when your bird is settling on a low perch, you can place your hand on it in a moment.

In keen competition, where the points are equal, the bird that is in condition takes first place. To obtain that condition you must have recourse to the tub. A Crest should be washed four or five days before being sent to a show, and should be taken out every morning after, and every slight soil on the crest carefully brushed off. A crest that is what fanciers call horny (that is, with the feathers standing out behind), can be made to lie down by the following method:—Take a small soft sponge, dip it in warm water, and soak the feathers of the crest well; then take a camel hair brush, warm it before the fire, and then well brush the crest down behind until it is quite dry; the crest will then lie quite even all round.

This is the method I recommend for the washing of a Crest. Use nothing but pure soap and water; first bring your water to boiling point, fill two small basins with it, and then allow it to stand until cool enough for washing (the heat not more than blood heat). Upon no account add cold water, as by doing so you harden the water again; also, instead of using a badger hair brush, I recommend you to use a nice soft sponge; you will find this gets into all the dirtiest places with ease.

Keeping to the Standard.

Having got your birds for exhibition you want to keep them up to the standard. You must look to your best bird as your standard, and your aim should be to breed a better. This is where you will require to learn from experience. Your first lesson will be to learn what a Crested Canary should be. First, you want a large mushroom-shaped crest, coming well to the tip of beak, perfect in formation, with dense broad feather, equally radiating from a well-defined centre; good stout body; and tight, compact body feather.

Having now some idea of what is wanted, the next thing is to learn how to breed Crests. Mate a Plainhead with a Crest first. The object for doing so is to maintain the crest. The necessity of this can be proved by successively mating two Crests, which will be found to result in the birds' having mere tufts of feathers on the tops of their heads, with no formation at all. My own experience of double-cresting was that it was very unsuccessful, an occasional good bird only turning up, which convinced me I was on the wrong track. If you do double-crest, the produce must not be paired again with a Crest. If you do happen to get a good bird from the double-cresting, you will generally find that your paired birds were nearly equal in merits.

Where Great Care is Necessary.

Coming now to ordinary pairing, it is necessary that your Plainhead should be a bird bred from at least one Crested parent. You will require to exercise great care in the selection of this bird, as the formation of the crest on the progeny depends upon it. As it is used in conjunction with the Crest (the point of which is size and density of feathers), it stands to reason it should have as large an amount of feather on its head as can possibly be got there.

Next comes the shape of the head. Avoid above all things a bird with a flat skull, as it is impossible to breed a Crest with a nice droop from a flat-headed parent. The head should be nicely arched so that the feather, instead of lying flat on the head, naturally falls over the eyes. Mind that it is equally wide in front. Avoid birds that are narrow in the head. It is not necessary to discard one having a small head, that is if the head is of a right shape; it will surprise you sometimes the amount of feather to be found on a small head.

By mating in this way, say, with two pairs, you will got an equal infusion of Crest and Plainhead blood, the Plainhead being important in order to the maintenance of the formation of the Crest —No. 1 pair, Plainhead hen bred from a Crested hen, paired to a Crested cock bred from a Plainhead cock. Your 2nd pair will then be reversed—Crested hen bred from a Plainhead hen, paired with a Plainhead cock bred from a Crested cock.

I hope these few remarks may be of use to young fanciers, and I wish all success who take up the delightful hobby of Canary rearing and management. I might also say, by way of warning, that Crested birds bred from Crested birds should always be paired with mates bred from Crestbreds.

Nests of Birds, Poultry, etc., should be regularly sprinkled with KEATING'S POWDER, especially when hens are sitting. Don't forget to do this just previous to the eggs hatching, to destroy the Red Mite. It kills all insects, harmless to everything else.

Questions and Answers.

DOUBTS AND DIFFICULTIES SOLVED BY SPECIALISTS.

Queries will be answered under the following Conditions:—

(1)—All questions must be clearly written in Ink (or typewritten) on one side only of paper, and must conclude with either the correct name of querist, or a pseudonym, or initials.

(2)—The proper name and address in full of querist must always be written on a separate sheet of paper and enclosed with the query. In no case must the address appear on the query.

(3)—Queries intended for different specialists must not be written on the same sheet of paper.

(4)—Queries must not include or be included in orders for books, instructions re advertisements, or any other matter for publication.

(5)—The department to which the queries refer must be stated in bold letters on the left-hand corner of the query.

(6)—If an answer in the same week's issue is desired, queries must be posted to reach us by Monday's first post at latest. Queries will be dealt with in the order in which they are received, and only as space permits. The earlier queries are received the better attention they are likely to have.

(7)—Queries relating to illnesses of birds, except enquiries as to cause of death (for which see Post Mortems) will be answered by return of post on receipt of a postal order for sixpence and an addressed stamped envelope. Queries of an ordinary nature will be answered by post, if desired, on receipt of a postal order for one shilling and a stamped addressed envelope.

(8)—All who require letters of complaints written to advertisers must state grounds for doing so clearly and fully, and enclose a fee of sixpence, otherwise their letters will not receive attention. All the fees received from this source will be handed over in full to the "Referee's" Poor Children's Dinner Fund (London).

(9)—All queries must be addressed the Editor, "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C. Only queries so sent will be answered. Postcards are not admissible.

THE following gentlemen represent CAGE BIRDS staff of ADVISORY EXPERTS. Queries must in no case be addressed to any of them individually, but to the Editor.

NOTE.—If an answer is required concerning the proper mating, etc. of Norwich, Yorkshires, Crests, Cinnamons, Greens, Borders, Lizards, Scotch or any other variety of the Canary family, we shall, should the querist desire us to do so, be pleased to submit his question for answer to some leading specialist of the day on this variety concerned.

CANARY QUERIES.

Crest-bred Lumpy.

A.E.J.—You ought to have said how the bird was fed and treated, and whether it had moulted, or was now moulting. Try following treatment for a few weeks, and if it is not better in two or three weeks, write again and give above particulars, referring to this reply. Keep bird in a comfortable temperature, not necessarily a high one, but equable and regular, and see it is free from draughts, and is not pestered by red mite. Keep cage floor strewn with clean, gritty sand. Feed on a staple of plain Canary only, and give separately every second day half a teaspoonful of summer rape, and on the alternate days the same quantity of crushed sponge cake, with three drops of sherry mixed in it. Vary the latter occasionally with a small piece of bread soaked in milk, squeezed nearly dry, and sprinkled with a little soft sugar. Twice a week give a pinch of a mixture parts hemp, niger, and gold of pleasure seeds, and three times a week give a spray of green food, or a bit of sweet fruit when green stuff is not obtainable in good condition. Limit the diet to this for a month. In the drinking water give six drops each syrup of buckthorn and syrup of rhubarb, and a pinch of Epsom salts daily for three days, and every alternate day for the rest of the week. On the alternate days in the latter period give six drops of tincture of gentian and four of aromatic sulphuric acid, and continue this every second day for week.

Obstinate Redmites.

In Despair.—Your efforts at exterminating red mites must certainly have left a loose screw somewhere, or they would not have been so ineffectual. The probability is that although you seem to have been very thorough in dealing with the birds and cages, you have omitted to give the same attention to the wall, and the nails or hooks upon which the cages hang. If the wall is covered with paper there is also a great probability the mites find harbourage beneath loose edges or damaged pieces of the wall-paper in the vicinity of the cages. If hanging by a cord from a hook in the ceiling, both cord and hook should have careful attention. Now try washing out your cages in the same thorough manner as before with a fairly strong solution of Jeyes' Fluid, and, bearing the above hints in mind, extend your operations down the last possible harbour for the pest, either upon the cages, cage fittings, wall, or, in short, anywhere in the vicinity, or in contact, with the cages. Get the birds to bathe, if possible, by removing the drinkers when they begin bathing in them, and inserting a bath in the cage to which a few drops of essence of quassia have been added. The example of a free bathing bird would doubtless incite them to emulation. If they still refuse, spray them lightly twice a week for a time, and add a few drops of quassia to the sprayer. Your suspicion that the mites which restock the cages are upon the birds is not very feasible, as red mites rarely remain upon the body of the bird.

Mopy Norwich and Diarrhœa.

W.H.L.—(1) You ought to have said how and where bird is kept. It is possible its age may largely account for its condition, and its wheeziness is probably due to exposure to draughts or extreme variations of temperature. Try following treatment for a few weeks. First of all place it in a position where it is quite free from draughts, and where the temperature is as equable as possible, though not necessarily very high. Feed on a staple diet of three parts Canary to one part summer rape, and twice a week give a pinch of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, and gold of pleasure seed. Every second day for the next two or three weeks give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake, with four drops of sherry mixed in it. Two or three times a week give a little green food, or a bit of banana as a substitute. In the drinking water give six drops syrup of rhubarb and as much Epsom salts as will cover a sixpence daily for three days, and every alternate day for the rest of the week, and on the alternate days in the latter period, six drops of tincture of gentian and four of aromatic sulphuric acid. After this give twenty drops of whisky, ten of glycerine, and two of eucalyptus oil, well shaken together, every second day for a fortnight, if necessary. (2) The remedy depends too much upon the cause for a general treatment to be given for all cases without any knowledge on this point. Better write again and say how the birds in question are fed and treated. Meantime, give them a pinch of Epsom salts in the water for a day or two, and follow this with a small piece of gum arabic the size of a hemp seed.

Baldness and Death.

Ignorant.—It would have been a help in solving this trouble had you said how old the birds affected probably are, and whether kept in an outdoor or indoor aviary. But I think you may at once dismiss this idea that the baldness is a legacy of some infectious disease left by the bird that died two months ago. I rather suspect the bird died from blood poisoning due to absorption of putrid matter from the abscess, and its curious behaviour before the abscess burst was undoubtedly due to cranial pressure. Only a post-mortem could have cleared up the matter satisfactorily. Keep these two birds in a fairly comfortable temperature, free from extreme variation, or draughts, and in a pure atmosphere. Exterminate all trace of red mites from the cages—In this respect look up another reply under heading "Obstinate Red Mite Attacks." Feed on a staple of three parts Canary to one part summer rape. Twice a week give a pinch of a mixture of hemp, inga, maw, and gold of pleasure seeds, and every second day for a month give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with two drops of cod liver oil emulsion mixed in it, and twice a week slightly dust it with a mixture of two parts flowers of sulphur to one part chlorate of potash. Give a little chickweed, watercress, or a bit of banana three or four times a week as long as the weather keeps open. Encourage them to bathe freely. Slightly anoint the bare places twice a week with a little warm olive oil or sulphur ointment.

Breeding Yorkshires.

P. C., Paris.—If you carefully study the books sent you, I have no doubt you will find the information you ask for in greater detail than is possible here; all the points are fully dealt with. Should you, however, find any point not sufficiently clear, do not hesitate to write and state difficulties. In mating, you must not persistently pair a deep yellow to another; nor should you adhere strictly to all clear birds and ignore those with markings. In either case, your stock would soon begin to deteriorate in colour and quality of feather. The usual method—and it is far better for a novice to observe this strictly until some experience has been gained—is to mate a yellow to a buff. The sex of each colour is unimportant; it may either be a yellow cock and buff hen, or vice versa. It is usual, also, to mate a bird with more or less markings with one that is clear, as unless a sufficient proportion of green blood is kept in the birds, the natural deep rich yellow you want to breed will certainly lose tone and depth. The birds you refer to on our front page are both buffs, not yellows, and both are also marked birds. As you may see, one has several dark feathers in the wing—a green mark—and the other a rather smaller mark not quite so dark in colour, which is a cinnamon-mark. It is not true that a Goldfinch will never produce young with a Canary hen that has already bred with a Canary cock. A rather closely inbred clear buff hen is probably about the best to mate up for light Mules. This, however, is a question you should send to our Mr. Weston.

A Possible Clue.

G. Dear.—It seems your last letter gives the clue to all your troubles when you first say that you now find there is a draught from the N.W. quarter, and then ask whether it is advisable to "always have a rush of fresh air right through." That north-west draught—probably a damp, moisture-laden one, too—must be shut out, as also must any other cutting current of air, and there must by no means be a rush of fresh air right through. I would advise you to thoroughly overhaul the structure of the shed, and see that it is really weather-proof. Provide proper inlets for the ingress of fresh air near the floor, arranged so that the current of air is directed away from the birds when roosting, and outlets for foul air near the roof. Fit sliding shutters over each so that you can regulate the ventilation to suit the season. If you carry out this suggestion properly, I have no doubt you will soon find the birds improve. Whilst you are attending to this matter, move the birds indoors, and they will have a better chance to throw off the effect of the last few weeks, and be in a better condition to go back. Do not put them in a warm room, or it would not be safe to return them to the aviary afterwards. After carrying out this work, if you still think they seem to require more warmth, then you may set up a small stove and boiler under a separate cover, outside the shed, and carry hot-water pipes through the wall and around the inside of the shed. Placed in such a position an oil stove will be quite suitable to heat the boiler, but it must be well protected from the weather, so that it does not get blown out by the wind unawares. When you set this going, you must remember that it must be kept up continuously through the winter, or it will increase rather than diminish your troubles. About forty-five degrees will be sufficient to keep the shed at. Do not apply heat until you have obliterated the draught. There is no book such as you require, but "Cage Birds Annual," and the book on Seeds, etc., which you will see advertised in our columns weekly, might fill your want for the time being.

Young Canaries Unwell.

W Coates.—I fear your birds are in a very bad way, and that there must be something radically wrong with your general treatment. On the latter point, however, you do not give sufficient information to enable me to form any opinion as to where or how you go wrong. Under these circumstances I can only ask you to adopt the following treatment and adhere strictly to it for a month, and then report result and refer to this reply. Also say next time how you have been treating the birds prior to this. Put each bird in a moderate-sized box cage, such as you would keep them in for singing purposes. See that these cages are quite clean and perfectly free from insect pests. Cover the floor with gritty sand, and keep the supply clean and fresh. Place in a nice comfortable temperature—not very warm, nor yet on the cold side—where the heat will not show extreme variations, and quite out of reach of draughts. See that all seeds are sound and clean. Feed on a staple of plain Canary seed only, and give separately every second day half a teaspoonful of summer rape. On the alternate days give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of port wine and two of cod liver oil emulsion well mixed in it. About once a week, or three times in a fortnight, you may omit the sponge cake and give instead a small piece of bread and milk sprinkled with soft sugar. Twice a week give a pinch of a mixture of equal parts of hemp, inga, and gold of pleasure seeds, and a scrap of green food or bit of banana, three times a week; give no other foods at all for a month. In the drinking water give six drops of syrup of rhubarb and as much Epsom salts as will cover a sixpence daily for three days, and then give six drops of tincture of gentain and four of aromatic sulphuric acid every second day for the rest of the week. In the second week give twenty drops of whisky, five each of tincture of lobelia, and oxymal of squills, and two of eucalyptus oil, well shaken together, every second day. In the third and fourth weeks repeat the same medicines as in the first and second, respectively.

Losing Feathers.

A.D.—Although you say you have examined the bird and cannot find any Insects, I am inclined to think these pests are chiefly responsible for the condition. Overhaul cage and examine thoroughly for red mites. It is useless looking on the bird for this pest, as it harbours by day in secret hiding places about the cage, or in its immediate vicinity. Scrape out any cracks, holes, or open joints with a pin, and if any mites are discovered thoroughly exterminate them. You might also look carefully around the base of the bird's neck, under the wings, and around the root of the tail, for signs of grey lice. Keep cage and perches perfectly clean, the floor strewn with clean gritty sand, and encourage the bird to bathe freely. As a staple diet give a mixture of three parts Canary to one part summer rape. Twice a week for a month give a small piece of bread and milk, sprinkled with soft sugar, and on two other days give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake sprinkled with a mixture of two parts flowers of sulphur to one part chlorate of potash. Give these two items alternately every second day. Give a spray of chickweed or watercress on the intervening days as long as it is obtainable in good condition, then substitute a bit of banana. In the drinking water give six drops each of dandelion juice and lemon juice, and a pinch of Epsom salts every second day for a week. Slightly anoint the bare places with sulphur ointment, but avoid soiling the feathers as much as possible.

Canary Querists should send to our publisher for "Canary Breeding for Beginners," 7d.; "House's Canary Manual," 1/2; and "Yorkshire Canaries," 1/-, post free.

Crest or Crestbred Unwell.

Querist.—You do not say to which variety the bird belongs. I am afraid the bird will be beyond help when this reply reaches you. If she is not, keep her in a rather warm place, quite free from any draught, and give a staple diet of plain Canary seed only. Every second day give a half teaspoonful of summer rape, and on the alternate days about the same quantity, not more, of crushed sponge cake, with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion mixed in it, and sprinkled with a pinch of gold of pleasure seed. Give a fair-sized spray of chickweed, watercress, or flowering tips of groundsel daily as long as obtainable in good condition, and afterwards substitute a bit of banana or sweet apple. Limit the diet to this for a month, and in the drinking water give six drops each of syrup of buckthorn and syrup of rhubarb, and a small pinch of Epsom salts daily for three days, and every second day for the rest of the first week, and on the alternate days during the latter period give six drops of tincture of gentain and four of aromatic sulpburic acid. In the second week give twenty drops of port wine and six of malt extract every second day. In the third and fourth weeks repeat the same medicines as in the first and second respectively. If you have any mealworms handy, give the bird one each day all through the treatment. Report progress at end of month, and I will advise further if necessary.

Brevities.

Mating Yorkshires (E. Godry).—Save in exceptional cases, where same specific object is in view, it is undoubtedly a bad practice to mate yellow with yellow. For further details on this point read reply to "P.C., Paris."

Diet for Outdoor Aviary (Fred. Horn).—It is always best to give each seed separately in aviaries where there is plenty of space for a divided seed-hopper or several separate hoppers, as this helps to prevent waste. Give an unlimited supply of Canary and summer rape in separate hoppers, and in a third vessel give a mixture of two parts hemp, one part each millet, and black rape, a half part niga, and a quarter part each of maw, gold of pleasure, sesame, split groats, safflower (cracked), and linseed. This mixture is not to be given ad lib, but used in small quantities from two to four, or five times a week, increasing the frequency and also the quantity given at a time according to the severity of the weather. In all ordinary conditions of weather, a small teaspoonful per bird twice a week of this mixture is amply sufficient. A little crushed dry biscuit or sponge cake occasionally may be given, and may take the place of egg food.

To Finish a Cage (R.N.S.T.).—The best way is very much a matter of individual taste. You will find a detailed reply in these columns two or three weeks ago, to which you might refer. But to prevent insect pests, and make the inside "scrubbable," you cannot do better than leave the wood in its natural condition, sandpaper it smoothly all over, paint it over with a liberal dose of creosote oil, let it stand in the open air until smell has passed off, by which time the oil will have penetrated into the surface and joints of the wood, and the wood will have had time to dry. Now give it three or four coats of thin shellac dissolved in methylated spirit until of the consistency of thin cream. Allow each application to dry before applying another. This will make the wood practically waterproof, and the cage will bear the maximum amount of scrubbing. Good enamel makes a very good finish for cages, and is quite washable, but you must not expect it to withstand scrubbing. If the cages are well put together, washing with a fairly strong disinfectant, without vigorous scrubbing, should be effective. Sky blue is a nice colour for variegated green, or dark plumaged birds, so is a light pea-green. Autumn green or a medium blue is better to show up clear birds.

Colour d'rose (V.M.M.T.).—I am not aware of any variety of Canary that could be properly termed rose coloured. It is just possible you may have in mind some such terms as "red fed," "red hot colour," "a hot one," etc., which are often applied to colour-fed specimen. These terms, however, do not imply that the specimen is really red, or even rose coloured. Colour-feeding can only be done whilst a bird is moulting, and it is now too late to start the process, even if you wished to do so. If you keep your eye on our columns next July and August, you will glean lots of particulars about the process, and can then carry it out.

Not a Hustler (Harry Giffard).—I rather fear you would like to reach the summit of the ladder of fame with the minimum of effort or trouble. If you have reared very successfully, and now cannot see the profitable side of the hobby, simply because you cannot sell your stock, you should hustle a little and make them go. Why not advertise them? The very fact that our advertisement columns are so well patronised is proof that a market exists for your stock. There is no very practical way of allowing birds to fly loose, and breed indiscriminately, and yet keep them select—not even if you bought prize winners to start with. The price of a pair depends much upon the vendor and his knowledge of the bird. It is not essential, though undoubtedly helpful, to be an exhibitor at shows in order to be able to sell your birds.

Crest-Bred Thick (T. Remmett).—As you seem satisfied the bird is not exposed to draughts, note also whether it is subject to fluctuation, such as being near the heat from a fire by day which is extinguished at night. If so, move it further away from the source of heat, but still keep well out of draughts, so the temperature is more equable. See it is not troubled with red mites, and reduce it to a plain diet for a fortnight or so—give plain canary seed only, and every second day separately half a teaspoonful of summer rape, and on the alternate days the same quantity of bread and milk, pressed very dry, and sprinkled with a little soft sugar. Give a little green food, or a bit of banana or boiled carrot as substitutes three or four times a week. In the drinking water give six drops each dandelion juice, syrup of rhubarb, and a small pinch of Epsom Salts daily for three days, and every second day for the remainder of the week, and on the alternate days in the latter period six drops tincture of gentain and four of aromatic sulphuric acid. During second week give twenty drops chemical food in the water each day.

Roller Matters (J. P. W.).—A nicely trained bird for ordinary singing purpose would cost about 10s. 6d.; better trained specimens, usually termed schoolmasters, from 15s. to 25s. The more highly-trained specimens, such as contest singers, may run up to £5 or more. As an ordinary singing pet, the half-guinea bird should prove satisfactory. I do not think there is any preference. On the other hand, the Teuton pays such great heed to song, and song alone, and has so much greater and better facilities for scientific training, that, save in exceptional cases, I should be inclined to give the preference to imported birds. As before stated, a box cage is decidedly preferable. You may, however, make a very fair substitute by covering the ends and one side. One objection to the method is that the bird will probably spend a good portion of its time in playing with the cloth and trying to unravel it instead of singing. If you adopt this method, remove cloth once a week and immerse it in boiling water. This will help to prevent red mites getting a footing. Sorry I cannot name any dealer, for reasons which must be obvious. Wait another month, until the birds have had a little more tuition, then have one on approval, and deposit cash with our Editor. I advise a 1909 bird.

BRITISH BIRDS, MULES AND HYBRIDS.

Hybrid Breeding.

A Bird Lover.—1. A hen Siskin has been known to bring up her young successfully in a cage. But this is the exception rather than the rule. As I have often said, no hen British bird can be depended on in this respect. It is always safest to transfer the eggs to a hen Canary. I have found cock Redpolls good fathers, many of them helping to feed the young; sometimes they are mischievous and pull the nest about when being built. 2. CAGE BIRDS will very soon have such a book out on sale. 3. There are several crosses you can try for with the cock Redpoll, viz., with Bullfinch, Siskin, Goldfinch, Linnet, Twite and Greenfinch hens. I, personally, think the three first-mentioned matings produce the handsomest Hybrids.

A Trio.

Spivinix.—1. I think the Linnet-Goldfinch Hybrid well worth trying for, the young being handsome birds (the males). You are feeding very "high"; niger should not be given in the stock mixture. They might rear their young in a cage. Hen Goldies have many times been known to succeed. Note reply to "A Bird Lover." 2. As I am not the Canary specialist, I thought the hen Bullie was the bird emulating Johnny Trundley. However, treatment mentioned will answer for either. You ought to give at least six doses of syrup of buckthorn (4 or 5 drops) with a day's interval between each. The seed mixture will make a very good one for the winter. 3. The Linnet may fill the eggs this next season with another hen Canary. I suppose you saw to it that he was in full breeding condition?—blue beak, fierce song, etc. It is but seldom that a steady Linnet will not breed Mules, if he is in the right condition. In fact, I always recommend the beginner to try his prentice hand upon Linnet Mules.

Keeping a Jay.

A Young Beginner.—The two essential things to ensure perfect plumage are (1) a very big cage, with the perches placed well away from the sides, to prevent fraying or breaking of the wing and tail feathers: and (2) a very large and suitably deep bath (dish) filled with clean water every morning. I might add a third item, which is, keeping the cage scrupulously clean. "Sharps and bread, mixed," can be improved upon as a food, I think. Try this method. Any good brand of dog meal (such as Spratt's, or Clarke's "Meiox") makes an excellent stock food. It should be soaked with hot water, and then reduced to a crumbly consistency by the addition of a little packet Thrush or Lark food. Also, of course, give the table scraps (including meat and greens), as at present, dead mice, Sparrows, etc.; a raw (or cooked) egg now and again is a great treat. These members of the Crow family must have flesh food fairly frequently if they are going to live and really thrive in captivity—for instance, mice, Sparrows, and other small birds, beetles, pieces of rabbit, the "innards" of fowls, etc., scraps of raw beef or mutton, etc.

Concerns a Thrush.

Loco. H.B.—It is curious to hear of a Thrush which "will not bathe." It is usually difficult to keep them out of the water. My own Thrush is always eager for a "tub." I should certainly spray the bird lightly; he will soon get used to it. Instead of the bread-crumbs, use scalded "Melox" in the way so frequently recommended by me. You will find it by far the best. Probably you would find peat moss litter (that broken up very finely) the best for use on the cage bottom. It is obtainable from any good corn dealers, or poultry food stores. Do you give the bird a little live food now and again? They are also fond of ripe berries, many kinds of which are now obtainable. All birds are the better for variety in their food. I have never tried using plaster of paris to fill up the cracks in a breeding cage. Have found some good putty answer every purpose, especially with a good thick coat of enamel or distemper put on top of it.

A Chaffinch.

L. Pryer.—It may be quite correct that the bird has not yet moulted, though it is, as you say, late in the season. A "box exhibition cage" is not suitable for continual use, for it will, of course, be rather small. A Finch stock cage (all makers supply them) about 16ins. long will be far better for everyday use. The Chaffinch will sing and thrive well in this. However, as you will know, you cannot expect the plumage to come right until the bird has moulted. You could improve its food by adopting the following stock mixture: Canary and teazle, two pints each; summer rape, charlock, and linseed, half a pint each. To this a half-plot of sunflower could be added. Wild seed mixture, and some good maker's special packet Finch mixture, can be occasionally offered for a change, while sunflower heads (gathered from the garden), full of seed, thistle, and hardheads, seeding chickweed, groundsel, and shepherd's purse, should be freely given as in season. An occasional mealworm, flies, etc., are relished.

Black Mules.

G. Dodd.—I do not think you will find the "black" Goldfinch-Mules bring you any particular high price. They are of no use for exhibition purposes (not being "rare-feathered British birds" within the meaning of the show schedules); in fact, are purely and simply freaks, for which you may find purchasers willing to give a few shillings more than ordinary dark Mule price. "Black" Mules are not particularly uncommon either. I have seen and heard of a good number during my career in the Faocy. It is said that improper feeding will induce melanism (as it is called) or a bad moult. It this is so, then the birds may moult into normal colour next season. The black coloration must be due, it is fair to assume, to some disordered condition of the colour-producing pigments of the blood.

About Two Blackbirds.

E. M. Roberts.—If you need a recipe for a cold cure, I gave one last week in reply to "A Thrush Puzzle." It is not necessarily "dangerous" for any bird to miss a moult. I have known many do so, and nothing serious happen afterwards. At the same time, it is unnatural, hence is always more or less disquieting. You certainly have nothing to worry over, however, so long as your Blackie keeps in full song and seems so healthy. The menu you detail is a good one, and no doubt meets their wants thoroughly—this, indeed, is evidenced by the fact that you have kept them five years. For the second bird mentioned, you should get a little flowers of sulphur from a chemist, and mix amongst its soft food daily as much as will cover a shilling. Continue this for ten to fourteen days. If the place seems scurfy-looking, anoint it two or three times at daily intervals with a light touch of carbolic ointment.

Ailing Linnet-Mule.

F. Yardley.—Am glad to know that the treatment advised has helped the bird to pull itself together. You should not have given the Epsom Salts after the syrup of buckthorn, however; to keep on purging a bird is calculated to weaken it. It would have been far better to have kept on with the syrup in tiny doses (three or four drops). I am of opinion that it is always best to keep ailing birds in a heated room—it need not necessarily be a hot room. Try the Mule now with a little thistle and maw seed daily, in addition to the canary seed, and also give half a teaspoonful of cracked hemp. You could give this one day, and a little soft food the next day. Probably a tonic would aid complete recovery—say Parrish's Chemical Food (from a good chemist), a small teaspoonful in two tablespoonsful of drinking water. Don't let the bird become costive; resort to the buckthorn on any sign of this.

Goldfinches & a Heating Problem.

J.C.L.—Did you not see the coloured plate issued in our last Birthday Number (in January) on which were depicted both cock, hen and young Greypates)? This and the accompanying article by that well-known fancier, Mr. Prior, should supply the answer to many of your questions. The wing butts of the cock Goldie are a jet-black, sometimes with a greenish cast, whereas in the hen they are brownish (or greyish) black, and her blaze is much smaller, hardly ever extending backwards to the middle of the eye, while she is shorter and rounder in the head, when viewed in profile. The food when moulting I dealt with fully some two weeks ago. Here it is in brief. Let the stock food be good, sound teazle seed three parts, Canary and linseed one part each. In a separate dish give a teaspoonful of good old hemp seed one day, and a dessertspoonful of cracked sunflower seed the next day, with a good pinch of maw and niger seeds now and again, as a further change. Don't give hemp freely until the moult is drawing to a close. A little wild seed mixture is also excellent. Above all, however, the bird must have a free daily supply of knapweed, thistle heads (especially any with tiny maggots at the centre), milk thistle, seeding chickweed, groundsel, and shepherd's purse (not the coarse leaves), any cornflower heads which you can get full of seed—all, or any, of these are liked by the Goldie, when in season, and help to get him through his moult in exhibition form. Many like a tiny white mealworm (just cast its skin) or two now and again. He should have provision for a bath whenever he feels inclined to take it. That he should bathe freely is important. Failing this he must be sprayed on all suitable days. You cannot use a common oil lamp without more-or-less smell unless a "jacket" connecting with a fume pipe is placed over it, and the latter carried outside the bird-room. It would cost but little.

Use Our Picture Postcards.

Brevities.

Song of Young Thrushes (Mrs. Evans).—The young cock Song Thrush practically always commences to warble (just to try over) his song while still in nestling plumage. I have always found them do so. When they are moulting they go off song, of course, until the plumage has been fully reproduced, when they soon start to whistle in earnest.

Soft Moult (Novice).—You cannot do anything with a bird that is well advanced in "soft moult," except to let him go through with it. Feed him well, and keep him out of draughts, for preference in a comfortably warm (not dead cold) room. Try the following medicine for a week or so. Get one ounce of citrate of iron crystals from a chemist, and in two tablespoonfuls of drinking water dissolve (fresh daily) as much as will just cover a threepennybit. Use a glass or earthenware vessel only to give it in.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

Answered by Wesley T. Page, F.Z.S. M.B.N.H.S., etc.

A Non-talking Amazon.

Ruabon.—Of course, individuals do turn up occasionally that will not trouble to interest their owners by speechifying, but such are not the rule, and exceptional. As the passive method appears to have failed with your bird, I should most certainly try the constant repetition method. Try it with a word to begin with and keep at this till it is thoroughly learned before beginning another. The best time to talk to a bird is when it is restful after a meal; it may not respond then, but it cogitates, and they usually come out with the word or sentence when least expected. I should also whistle to it and generally make a fuss of it. It is a Blue-front, and most of these birds make excellent mimics and talkers, though their articulation is not so clear as that of a Grey. I should say, judging from past experience, that you will yet be as gratified with your bird as you are now disappointed.

Another Feather Puller.

G. G.—It is tiresome work checking one of these birds which has become confirmed in this most annoying habit. Some never give it up once it is fully assumed; but I hope it will not be so with your bird. You must continue with the treatment already advised. Try it with a little boiled maize daily, over which you must dust flowers of sulphur. Note, the boiled maize only keeps fresh one day. Also continue to use the pyrethrum powder; but on all warm genial days, when you can safely do so, spray it with chilled quassia solution. In the course of a few months the heated condition of the blood may yield to the treatment, and the habit be gradually laid aside, possibly disappearing entirely with the following moult. I shall be glad to hear later how the bird is progressing, and hope to hear of an improvement. Give it cotton reels, sticks of wood, etc., to play with and chip up instead of its plumage.

Foreign Birds for Cage.

E. H. L. W.—I am assuming from the manner in which your query is worded, that you do not desire to breed, but merely to have a mixed series of pleasing little birds in your cage. Common and Green Avadavats are charming little birds, and have a low, sweet little song that is very charming. The same applies to the Zebra, Waxbill, also the St. Helena Waxbill and the Grey. You could have a pair each of these charming birds in your cage, also a pair of Grey Singing Finches, and you would then have plenty of song. The above birds would thrive on canary, white and spray millet seeds, with lettuce and a little ripe apple as green foods. Of course, grit, cuttlefish, and water must be supplied. Stretch some twigy branches along the back of your cage and put up a row of, say, half-a-dozen cokernut shell nests; push a little hay into each, and the birds will make these snug nesting and sleeping places. Get "Foreign Birds for Beginners" (see advert in this column); it will help you greatly.

Foreign Bird Queriists will find in our handbook, "Foreign Birds for Beginners," 1/1, and "Budgerigars and Cockatiels," 6d. post free; a mine of information of use and interest.

Budgerigars Sneezing.

T. J. C.—Get the following mixture from your chemist: ipecacuanha wine, oxymal of squills, and glycerine. For use, take two parts of water to one of the mixture, and do not give any plain drinking water till the birds have had a good drink of the medicated water; as a rule, if the drinking water is removed overnight, the birds will readily drink in the morning. Also get a small camel-hair brush and bathe the birds' nostrils with diluted glyco-thymoline. I very much fear the cock bird will not recover, as it very much looks as if it had pneumonia; in such case it will not last long. A greenhouse is a very unsuitable place for birds on account of the variable temperature, and it is positively dangerous unless draught and damp be eliminated. Give it a little lettuce (fresh), supply a few oats, but keep for the staple diet canary, white and spray millet seeds. This species is better without heat, but even the hardiest species cannot be subjected to draughts with impunity.

A Feather Puller.

W. E. Hawley.—Give this bird, so long as its voidings are not watery, one teaspoonful of Dinneford's Magnesia to each ounce of the drinking water (one ounce of water to one teaspoonful of magnesia should be sufficient for each dose) every third day, and give no other drinking water till this has been consumed. Steep or boil some maize (it only keeps one day after boiling), drain off all water and well dust with flowers of sulphur; also when not giving the magnesia, well colour the drinking water with Parrish's Chemical Food. You will have to persevere with the treatment, as this annoying vice is very difficult to cure once it has been taken up. You do not give me details of diet, but seed mixture, boiled maize, ripe fruit, with plain biscuit, cuttlefish and grit should all be given; but do not on any account give tea, coffee, or milk slops, table scraps, or any kind of animal food. If you suspect parasites, the remedies are, dusting with pyrethrum powder or spraying with quassia solution, preferably use both till the pests are eradicated. Hope the bird will soon improve.

Birds for Profit.

Bill Sykes.—I am sure nothing in this life is certain, much less profit on Foreign bird breeding. Nevertheless, you get plenty of interest, and with ordinary luck should manage to pay your seed bills. Re Budgerigars, these with ordinary luck should more than pay their own keep. Either or both the booklets "Budgerigars and Cockatiels" and "Foreign Birds for Beginners" (see advert. in this column) should prove of great assistance to you. I fear again exhibiting birds for profit is very much of a lottery, and unless you are prepared to buy rare and beautiful birds at a high figure, in certain classes your success would be but small. To be quite plain, if you can manage either two aviaries or two indoor flights (cold room), and keep one for Yellow, the other for Green, Budgerigars, this would be your best procedure, and you should do very well with them, providing you have a market for them in your locality. In large box cages you should have fair success with Zebra Finches, White Java Sparrows, Cutthroats, and the like, all of which are cheap. From the nature of your query I should advise you to make a start with the Budgerigars, and to gradually increase your stock and "feel your way" with other species gradually.

Brevities.

Alexandrine Ceasing to Talk (Avis).—I cannot answer fully till I have more data to go upon. Please inform me how you have been treating this bird—diet, etc. In the meantime, give it two doses Dinneford's Magnesia (one teaspoonful to each ounce of the drinking water), with two days between each. It is not safe to pass mopiness by, as it is mostly caused by indisposition of some degree. At the same time, birds, like humans, are out of sorts at times, and on such occasions lose their vivacity and speech for a short period. But if you supply me with full information. I can advise you more satisfactorily.

Zebra Doves Wintering (C. C. Brown).—I cannot answer till I know your county and the kind of aviary. Speaking roughly, if you have a good weather and damp-proof shed for them to retire to at nights, providing your county is not too Northern, they should be safe. With a proper shelter I should have no hesitation in keeping them out-of-doors in London. They would agree well enough with the Weavers and Cardinals, but would be the better for a little Dove mixture in addition to the canary and millet. A piece of rock salt is very wholesome. All conifers, spruce, bamboo, and fruit trees do well in an aviary, providing the birds are not too numerous; but Cardinals, Canaries, and the like make sad havoc with growing bushes. However, those named survive well, as also do hops up the standards, besides being very ornamental when in fruit. Grass and weeds should be sown underneath the bushes and left to run wild.

Budgerigars With Canaries, Etc. (Novice).—No, I cannot advise you to keep Budgerigars with your other birds, unless your aviary is very much more extensive, and even then there is a risk of slaughter and mutilation. By far your better plan would be to get pairs of Zebra Finches, Cutthroats, and White Java Sparrows. You would probably meet with fair breeding luck with them, and with the exception of the White Javas, the sexes can be readily told and their treatment is very simple, all being hardy. The male Zebra has chestnut-coloured ear coverts and flanks, and a black and white barred throat and chest, all of which features the female lacks. The male Cutthroat can be distinguished by his crimson collar; and the hen White Java has a narrower and more pointed beak than the male. "Foreign Birds for Beginners," 1/1 from this office, post free, should be a great help to you.

What Jay? (Quong Sing).—The plumage of the various species, especially the Mexican and Brazilian species, varies to such an extent in the arrangement of the colour areas as to make identification very difficult, and I am a little in doubt. However, I will try and settle the point for you next week. These birds are almost omnivorous, and can have almost anything they will take—coarse seeds, ripe fruit, table scraps, little cooked meat, and as much live food as you can collect, milk puddings, sops, etc. I should hesitate to subject them to frost without carefully testing them. At the same time, if they were not kept in too confined a place, I should imagine they would fare well enough in a cold room. I consider their cage should not be less than 2½ft. long by 18in. wide by 2ft. high. Their value is roughly 30/- to 35/- each.

POST MORTEMS.

Mr. J. North, 435, Oxford Road, Reading, will examine cage birds for a fee of 1s. 6d. each bird; for reply direct, 2s. 6d.; analysis, 21s. Subjects for post mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to J. North, with fee. Any sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

Singing Contests.

NEWTOWN (Leeds).

Linnet singing contest held at Price Albert Hotel, October 31st, when 16 birds faced the judges, Messrs. G. Towers and J. Smith. 1, 3, Madden; 2, A. Binner.

A LEEDS CHALLENGE.

Seeing a challenge in CAGE BIRDS by Mr. W. Sisson, I was agreeably surprised at such a declaration, writes Mr. N. Solomon, as when I meet them they simply put a bold face on it and get out of it the best way possible, as you will see by Mr. Sisson's apology. I call this bad sportsmanship, so I wish them please to desist with their boastfulness. Once and for all I say, as I challenged before, I am open to sing any quality singing Linnet in England, from £1 to £20.

The apology referred to by Mr. Solomon is signed, W. Sisson, and reads:—Last week an argument arose re quality Linnet singing, and according to my statement, I said I would sing any bird in Leeds, Solomon's bird preferred. I apologise through your valuable paper to Mr. Solomon, as it was a mistake, and should have read:—"I am open to sing any bird in Leeds, 1 hour's sing, from a £1 to £5, Solomon's bird barred."

LEEDS.

Contest held at the Plasterers' Arms, Skinner Lane, on October 30th, visitors coming from all parts. Result: 1, Soloman; 2, 3, Butler. Judges, Messrs. Summers and another. Smoking concert held after, when Mr. Stanley Wilcock (tenor) and the Belmore Bros. (vocalists and dancers) contributed. Contest on October 31st resulted in a win for W. Sissons; he also receiving 2nd prize, N. Solomon 3rd. Judges, Messrs. Alf. Lorriman and T. Summers. Match between N. Soloman and T. Laycock was anxiously looked forward to, with the expected result of Soloman winning easily.—JOE. HARGREAVES, hon. secretary.

AYR.

Second Annual Show of the Ayr and Dist. C.B.S., held in Masonic Hall, Nile Court, on October 30th. The day was cold, miserable and showery. We wondered, in fact, what remarks Bobbie Burns would have passed on the clerk of the weather. However, on arriving at the hall we had a royal welcome from one and all of the committee, who are fanciers of the first and foremost type; everything was in tip-top order, and passed off without a hitch, under the splendid management of Messrs. R. McKay, John Forbes, James Hyslop, as Hon. President, President, and Vice-President respectively. In their secretary, Mr. Irvine, they have the right man in the right place; he left no stone unturned to bring the show to a successful finish, being ably assisted by a hard-working, level-headed host of stewards. Taking the entry all through, it was splendid, seeing there were so many shows in the district—nearly 200 entries more than last year; and the quality was of a very high-class order, each section being a show in itself. The special for best Scotch Fancy fell to a rare good one, owned by Mr. Hainey, closely pressed by a young Yellow shown by Mr. Hannah. Special for best Crest fell to a real monster, shown by Messrs. Currah and Son. Norwich Plainheads were also of a very high merit; special for best fell to a grand Yellow hen shown by Mr. Mitchell. Yorkshires were a show in themselves, and quite astonished us to see how many long 'uns there are in Bonnie Scotland. Borders came next, again the competition being exceptionally keen. The B.F.C.C. medal was won by a rare Buff, shown by Mr. McKenzie. The runner-up was a Clear Buff hen, shown by Mr. Craig. The Variety Class contained some grand Lizards. Mules, British and Foreign Birds were all well represented, a splendid Canary-Bullie shown by Mr. W. McQuinton came on top, in the Light Mule or Hybrid. The Hall is large and roomy, and well ventilated, although a shade dark, on such a dull day. Judges, for Canaries, Mr. J. Patterson (Chirnside), for British and Foreign, Mr. J. Clark (Rothesay), and their awards were well received.

LAISTERDYKE.

This show was held on October 30th in the Tyersal Board School, under the rules of the Y.U., the patronage of the C.M.Y.C.C., and the leading gentry of the district, including Sir W. E. B. Priestley, M.P. Mr. James Barley (Allerton) was the official judge elected by the Yorkshire Union, and the Society were fortunate to obtain Mr. R. Sutcliffe, of Windhill, as assistant, the former, of course, taking all the open classes and also the novice buff Yorkshire hens and Norwich hens, and Mr. Sutcliffe the selling classes and remainder of novice classes. The awards of both were well received. The schedule provided 27 classes, and 411 entries from 131 exhibitors were obtained, an average of over 15 per class. This year the Society have returned to their old room, and without doubt it is one of the best, there being plenty of space and light. The arrangements were in the hands of an old veteran, Mr. A. Bottomley, their esteemed secretary, who, with an able bodyguard of fanciers, including Messrs. Casey, Turner, Shoesmith, Pudgett, and Elsegood, carried out the work in first-class style. Messrs. Ogden Bros. won special for most points in show, Mr. W. H. Shackleton being 2nd; Mr. J. Thomas secured special for most points in novice, with Mr. J. Nayler in second place. Other point specials were won by Messrs. Wilcock, Charlesworth, Cooper, Ellis, Robinson and Sharp, Richmond, Casey, etc.

HARRINGTON.

Held in Temperance Institute on October 28th and 29th. The show of Canaries was not large, although some good birds were on view. The British birds were splendid, especially Linnets and Bramblefinches. A real treat of a Pekin Nightingale won the small Foreign class. The entry was similar to last year, and the society would find it to their advantage to advertise their show in CAGE BIRDS, as we came across many fanciers who knew nothing about a show being held. The able secretary of the cage bird section, Mr. Irwin, had everything in tip-top order, and he was well assisted by a hard-working committee. Mr. J. Patterson (Chirnside) judged all classes, and his awards were well received.

HARTLEPOOLS.

The Hartlepools C.B.S. 11th annual show was held as the Christ Church Hall on October 30th. The committee had prepared a capital schedule with special for every class, and a good special for most points. The hall is an ideal place for a show of this kind, being well lighted and lofty, and yet, in spite of their best efforts, they unfortunately did not command a very good entry. The Norwich were nice in quality, but many of the birds do not yet seem so well up in condition as they might be. The Yorkshires, though not very numerous, were excellent in quality, and were much better in condition than the Norwich. In the British bird section some really nice birds were staged, and the Mules and Hybrids were perhaps the strongest section in the show. The members' classes contained some very nice exhibits, and we noticed a great improvement in the staging of the birds in these classes. The new secretary, Mr. Papple, had everything in absolutely perfect order. He has an efficient and hard-working committee under him, consisting of the whole of the members, who one and all worked admirably to make the show a success. And their efforts were not in vain, for despite the fact that the entries might perhaps have been better, the show, taken on the whole, was a credit to the society, and the birds staged were not only greatly admired by the large number of visitors, but reflected much credit on their respective owners. Mr. W. A. Cowgill judged the Canaries, and Mr. J. Wilkinson the British and Foreign birds, and both gave every satisfaction. Messrs. Nicholson and Son won special for most points in classes 1 to 26; Mr. G. W. Cuthbertson that for classes 1 to 37. Mr. J. W. Papple won special for second most points in classes 1 to 37. Sir Christopher Furness's challenge trophy was won by Mr. E. Woodhead, who also won special for best members' exhibit. Mr. I. Robinson won Sir Christopher Furness's junior cup for British birds, also special for most points in classes 27 to 37.

LEITH.

The jubilee year of the Leith O.S. was celebrated by the holding of an annual exhibition on October 23rd. The show was held in the Duke-street halls, which were very comfortable and very free from draughts, the only drawback being in their not having better top light. The society has always been widely known as one of the principal quarters for Scotch Fancy breeders. Both quantity and quality were well maintained in this variety, and 82 birds were staged. Mr. W. Thornton won special for best bird. In the Norwich there were some really good specimens. Plainheads and Crests and Crest-breds mustered 117 strong. Here Mr. W. R. Finnie captured the cup for this season. Borders came out in strong force as usual, and a few very choice birds were staged. The best here turned up in a grand model owned by Mr. W. Hcok, who won special for best hen also, and B.F.C. medal. There were 132 Borders in the various classes. In the British bird section there was a grand turn-out, 140 in the different classes. The Goldfinch class contained a number of grand ones, and no less than six specials went here. The winning bird belonging to Mr. John Baxter secured the cup for this season for best British bird or Mule. The office-bearers were: President, Mr. James Hendry; secretary and treasurer, Mr. Geo. Brown; managing committee, Messrs. J. Baxter, J. Dalgleish, and T. Todd. Judges for Scotch Fancies, Messrs. D. Brown and J. Carson; for Norwich, J. McLay; for Borders, Mr. H. Bennet; and for British, etc., J. F. Dewar. In Mr. Brown the society have an able and efficient worker, and both he and his committee deserve great praise for the businesslike manner in which all the details of management were carried out. The show was well patrouised by the public, and many were the eager glances of the visitors at the collection of really valuable and useful special prizes.

DYSART (Fifeshire).

The Dysart and Dis. C.B.S. held their annual show on October 30th, and, taken all over, it was a great success. Entries totalled 473, being 23 in advance of last year's, and the quality was of a very high order, especially in the British bird and Mule classes, which were a feature of the show. Norwich and Borders were a choice collection, and comprised all the noted Scotch winners, while Scotch Fancies were a fine display. These classes were down in entries, but the quality throughout was good, some real good ones being on view. Unfortunately, owing to the small number of entries, the executive are wondering whether to curtail the number of classes, or to exclude the "King of the Fancy" from the schedule. Fanciers cannot, of course, expect show committees to cater for them at a continual loss, to the detraction of other and more popular varieties. The Wryneck exhibited by Mr. Gilmour was a beauty. The Mules were a grand lot, but when you see the name of Mr. Arrighi among the winners, you always expect some good stuff. Norwich, all over, were good, and here we must congratulate the judge, Mr. Holmes, on his selection; he went throughout for birds of the pure Norwich type, nice and round, and free as possible from roughness. His awards were well received. The Crests and Crest-breds were not as numerous as in past years, but quality was well maintained. The Borders were a marvellous collection, containing some of the best on the North-East Coast. Here Mr. Hamilton's noted yellow hen, although winning her class easily, had to knuckle down to a lovely buff hen, which seemed the special for best in show. The judge, Mr. Hislop, was again well-patronised, and the entry he received shows that fanciers in general have full confidence in his awards. Mr. Low judged the Scotch Fancies, Mr. Hislop the Borders, Yorkshires, etc.; Mr. Holmes the Norwich and Crests; and Mr. J. Brown the British, Mules, etc. Their awards were well received. The management was of the best. The genial secretary, Mr. Logan, and Mr. Hutchison, the treasurer, were at the helm, and they were ably assisted by one of the most enthusiastic committees we have had the pleasure of meeting—all genuine fanciers and vieing with each other in their efforts to guard the welfare of their charges. The hall is very comfortable, and the show was largely patronised.

BEDFORD.

The 7th annual show of the Bedford and Bedfordshire C.B.S. was held in the Town Hall, on October 28th, when there were over 400 birds on view, several of which could hold their own in many of the All England shows. The show was opened by W. A. Attenborough, Esq. (Parliamentary candidate for the Borough), who congratulated the Secretary (Mr. Wiggins) and the Committee upon the continued success of the Society. Mr. Wiggins does indeed make a capital Secretary. Mr. J. Robson judged. Many of the Norwich classes contained a bumping entry, and some choice exhibits, while the British and Foreign bird classes were very much admired by the visitors. The stuffed specimens were also greatly admired, Mr Nicholls being first in the small class with a beautifully staged Kingfisher, while Mr. Clark captured first in the large class with a very fine specimen of the Shefford Otter. The attendance was satisfactory, especially in the evening, when a string band discoursed sweet music to the accompaniment of the song and twitter of birds.

The Critique.

CL. YELL., ETC., NOR. (21): 1, 2, two spls., Millard, type and quality the great points of both, the former excelling in head; 3, Corrie, trifle bigger than winners, of excellent type, nice quality; res., he, Osborn, very fine typical bird; vhc, Wilmot, Keech; he, Keech; c, Markham TKD., ETC. (10): 1, 3, Bloomfield and Rose, lovely young Crest, rich quality feather, crest of nice size, good centre and radiation, 3rd green, very fine, large crest of excellent formation; 2, res., vhc (2) Mrs. E. Galloway, 2nd variegated. C.-B., abundance of feather, should make a grand stock bird; he, c, Smith. NOVICE (open to those who had never won a prize) excellent class of 16: 1, 10/6 spl. given by Mr. J. Smith (late of Cambridge); 2, res., vhc, Livermore, excellent team for a beginner, we must congratulate you, Mr. L.; 3, he (2), Parrott, very nice trio for a novice; vhc, Garrod, Bennett; c, Garrod. AVIARY OF 12 CAN. (8), an excellent show in themselves, and were much admired: 1, Keech, 12 choice Plainheads; 2, 3, Smith, Plainheads and Crests respectively, both lots really good; res., Notley; vhc, Osborn; c, Miss Collins. A.O.V. CAN. OR MULE (13): 1, Thring, smart unev. mkd. Goldfinch, his fourth consecutive win at Bedford; 2, vhc, he, Wilmot, 2nd dark Linnet, of brilliant plumage, well laced; 3, Bushby, Cinn., looks like a nice bird, but thick when we took our notes; res., Smith, very smart Twite Mule; vhc, F. Webb; he, Cherry; c, Beanland. GOLDFINCH: 1, 2, Wilmot, well up in col., rich square blaze, one of the best we have seen this season, 2nd smart Finch, good col., but not quite finished yet; 3, Timœus, has excellent square blaze and nice polish; res., Wiggins, smart Finch, not yet ready; vhc, Smith. BULLFINCH: 1, res., Wilmot, excellent house-moulted Bullie, good col., well cut dark cap; 2, Turnbeer, fine col. and cap; 3, Finding, field-moulted bird, nice col; vhc, Smith; he, Thompson. LINNET, ETC.: 1, Turnber, rich col. Linnet, nicely pencilled; 2, W. Smith, very smart Twite, rich col.; 3, Cherry, bonny Lesser Redpoll, good col.; res., vhc, c, Wilmot; he, Savage. A.O.S. (14): 1, Cherry, very fine, brilliant col., steady Chaffinch; 2, Thring, very smart Whitethroat, in excellent feather; 3, W. Smith, good Blackcap, a trifle rough in plumage, or would have been higher; res., Bloomfield and Rose, really very fine Snow Bunting, cage not quite suitable; vhc, Wilmot, Turnber; he, Swann, Wilmot, Fawcett; c, Fawcett. A.O.S. LARGE (8): 1, spl., Cherry, lovely Hawfinch, caught (so Mr. C. informed us) in his own garden at Luton, rich in col., excellent bib, grand condition; 2, Ayres, very nice, well mkd. Thrush; 3, Spring, also good Thrush; res., Thompson; vhc, Smith; he, Gannt; c, Rayner. FOR. SMALL (10): 1, spl., res., vhc (2), he, Timœus, Superb Tanager, rich in its many cols., but hardly so good as we have seen him, some preferred the same owner's Racket-tailed Whydah, put up in splendid condition, with perfect tail, and not a feather awry; 2, he, c, Miss Galloway, lovely pair of Red-headed Gouldians, in prime condition; 3, Mrs. Galloway, brilliant-col. pair of rare Parrot Finches; very strong class. FOR. LARGE (8): 1, Meadow, very fine pair of Barnard's Parrakeets; 2, 3, res., Timœus, 2nd rich col. Peruvian Jay, Scaly-breasted Lorrikeet, in brilliant plumage of green and gold, like satin (some preferred this for winner); he, Millman; c, Miss Harpur. STUFFED SMALL (10), these made a very fine show, occupying one side of hall: 1, 2, vhc, he (2) Nichols; 3, res., c, Young. LARGE: 1, Clark; 2, 3, vhc, Nichols; res, Young. YORKS (11): 1, 3, F. Webb, two grand typical birds, yell. and buff, not much between the two; 2, res., Cherry, very lengthy yell, and good buff, close up; vhc, Webb; c, Smith.

GALSTON.

Galston O.S. held their annual show on 30th Oct. They tried the experiment this year of having cage birds; the first time for 26 years that there has been a cage bird show in Galston. But owing to so many other similar shows on the same date, the entries were none too strong. The Scotch Fancy classes were very poorly patronised, and six classes had to be cancelled. But what birds were there were good, some well-known winners being again to the front. Mr. J. Ward, jun. (Shettleston) and Mr. W. Urquhart (Paisley) were the judges for this section, and their awards met with approval. The Borders were out in stronger numbers, and there were some real nice beauties there. The Norwich were also choice. Mr. W. G. Muir (Kilmarnock) placed the awards in these classes, and placed them well, no grumbling being heard. The secretary, Mr. Frew, is a hard worker, being here, there, and everywhere, while a more courteous secretary could not be found. To Mr. Hopkins (the president) the same remarks apply. The hall is comfortable, although if cage birds are again to be there, we would suggest their being placed in the large room, as this hall was very crowded in the afternoon.

SCOTS. YELL. CK. (3): 1, Paton, nice head and great length of neck, grand drive, splendid position, well placed; 2, Campbell, fine neck and shoulders, good drive; 3, Rabston, good head and neck, fine shoulders, tail well under, pressing 2nd hard. BUFF (5): 1, Findlay, clinker for size, grand head, neck and shoulders, splendid drive and position, wings well placed, tail well on perch, good win; 2, Nisbet, nice head and shoulders, lacks size and substance of winner; 3, Paton, good size, nice drive and position; 4, Bruce; 5, Pollock. BUFF PIED HEN (8): 1, 5, Smith, fine neck and back, good drive, splendid position; 2, McGeachie, grand body and substance, good drive; 3, Findlay, grand head, neck and shoulders, splendid drive, tail well under, lovely worker; 4, Pearsen; 5, Campbell. FOUL, ETC., HEN (3): 1, Findlay, good head and neck, fine shoulders, grand filled back, splendid drive, easy win; 2, Nisbet, good body and wings, tail well under, nice size and position; 3, Borland, nice head and neck, good back, fails substance. A Curious Parrot:

The Hawk-headed Caique.

By WESLEY T. PAGE, F.Z.S.

This singular, droll, intelligent and interesting Parrot inhabits the Brazils and Honduras, where, judging by the numbers that leak through to this country, it cannot be at all common. The bird whose picture adorns this article was placed on deposit at the Zoo (July, 1906) by my esteemed friend and fellow-aviculturist, Mr. E. W. Harper, from whom I purchased it in the following October.

Their scarcity in British Guiana is well illustrated by the fact that Mr. Harper was there for about three years and only succeeded in obtaining two, one of which, unfortunately, escaped. Very little is known as to their wild life. Mr. Harper informs me that they seem to be only procurable from the aborigines in the interior. I only know of three other specimens in the United Kingdom at the present time (December, 1908), viz., one each owned by Mrs. K. L. Miller (1st L.C.B.A.), Mr. O. Millsum, and the London Zoo. Of these four specimens, three were imported by Mr. Harper.

Description of Plumage.

Plumage: Adult male—Head, with the exception of the crown, brown; the crown is creamy-buff, and the feathers of the sides of the face have shaft streaks of the same colour, but slightly darker; the ruff or long feathers of the nape, breast and abdomen are deep red, each feather being edged with opaline-blue; the entire back, upper tail coverts and wings are rich grass-green; the bastard wing, primaries and coverts are black; the secondaries, green tipped with blue-black; the tail feathers, with the exception of the two outer ones on each side, are green, bluish at the tips; the extreme outer feathers are black, with a portion of their outer webs edged with blue; the next feather on each side has its inner webs black and its outer ones green; the underside of the tail feathers is black, with the lateral feathers splashed with red at the base of the inner webs; the iris is brown (my bird is only in its third year, and possibly not yet fully mature), said to vary from brown to rich yellow (this is probably sexual); the beak is a dusky-horn colour, lighter on the culmen and edges of the mandibles: the legs and feet are blackish-grey. Total length, 14in.; tail, 6½in.

Adult female: As to this I can only give secondary information. Count Salvadori thinks the female lacks the red areas at the base of the lateral tail feathers. It would appear as if he is correct, as the bird figured in Greene's "Parrots in Captivity" was afterwards ascertained to be a female. The said figure has the underside of tail entirely black, and I cannot think the artist would have overlooked this, the colouring being quite distinct, and not at all obscured.

The late Dr. Greene had an undoubted male later, which he describes as having the head, face and pointed nuchal feathers, creamy white; also that his female was smaller, and had the same portions of her plumage duller and grayer than those of the male. It would therefore appear as if these distinctions were fairly accurate, and that the accompanying figure is that of the male. In confirmation of this, I may say my bird favours the ladies, which is quite usual with Parrots of all species of the male sex.

Before leaving the description of plumage, I must point out that this varies considerably according to the position from which the bird is viewed. When the light shines upon its back the plumage appears a rich, shining grass-green; reverse this position, and the green portion of its plumage appears to be overlaid with bronzy-gold. Again, in the full light the red and blue of nape and underparts are very bright and beautiful, and also very sharply defined; vary the positions, and these appear at one time almost all red, and at another blue appears to predominate; and yet again these portions have a purplish appearance. I may say, too, that the beak of my bird has become darker since it has been in my possession, so that it is quite possible that when fully mature it will be blackish-horn, or perhaps blackish in colour. Whichever of the conditions or variations, according to position, under which the bird is viewed, it has a beautiful and striking appearance.

Remarkable Head and Neck Feathers.

This striking bird has the power of not merely raising the feathers of the crown, but of controlling the whole of the feathers of the head and neck in this respect to a greater or lesser degree; but it is in regard to the lovely feathers of the nape and sides of the neck that this is most remarkable, for they are not merely erected perpendicularly, but so that they lean forward at a fairly sharp angle. The movement could not be more striking if each feather had a joint beneath the skin. The feathers are raised simultaneously, but yet when watched each feather appears to pivot itself upwards and forwards individually. The feathers of the head and sides of face are only slightly raised, not fully to a horizontal position. They are better described as being shaken out, and separated one from the other, and partially extended upwards.

The erection of the ruff takes place either when the bird is excited, or when the back of its neck is rubbed, and at such times the wings are slightly raised and the plumage of the underparts shaken loose. On such occasions the beautiful markings and colours of the underparts are fully brought out, the spangling being very clear.

Attractive Qualities.

Dr. Butler (in "Foreign Bird Keeping"), quoting Schomburgk, says "that it is less abundant than the typical Parrots; it lives chiefly in pairs, more rarely in little companies, affects the lower woods in the vicinity of settlements, is confiding, easily tameable, but delicate and unteachable. Its cry sounds like Nia-nia (the English equivalent would be Hea-hea); it, moreover, nests in tree-holes, and lays more than two eggs, occasionally four." As regards the above, I can only say that it is neither delicate nor yet unteachable; in fact, just the opposite, for I consider it robust, and certainly to be numbered among the most intelligent of Parrots.

The Hon. and Rev. F. G. Dutton considers the bird treacherous and inclined to bite. This writer must have been unfortunate in his specimen. At the same time, it proves that cantankerous and malicious individuals occur in this species. My own experience coincides with that of the late Drs. Greene and Russ; but at the same time it will be seen later that it is not perfect. To my mind, however, it is the Parrot for a pet.

The attractive qualities are numerous, quite apart from its beauty and interesting manner of raising the feathers of the nape. It is nothing less than libel to describe this bird as delicate and unteachable. It is quite the reverse. But my specimen would have nothing to do with constant repetition, but has picked up such phrases as the following:—"Ernest," "Ernie," "Ernest's here," "Ernest's come," "What's the matter?" "What yer doing?" "Whatever are you doing?" besides the usual "Polly," "Nice Polly," "Very nice Polly," and others which it does not yet articulate clearly.

AND THE HAPPY RESULT.
Young Blackbirds Calling Out for Dinner.

When he wishes to come out of his cage he comes to the front and makes quite a noise with his mandibles against the wires of the cage, and calls out, "Open the door."

It is only noisy when left alone for a time, and then it calls out loudly to attract attention. Fortunately, even this noise (which is going on as I write this), is neither a discordant screech nor yet unmusical; and its screams, for the above cannot be counted as such, are of the same character; they are not often indulged in, and an entire lack of harshness robs them of their terror.

My bird is also quite a talented whistler, and imitates at times the Thrush with marvellous fidelity, and also persons and passers-by in the road; a boy whistling as he passes wakes him up at once, and he nearly always responds, and practically in the same key. Unfortunately, he often declines to display his talents before strangers. He is also an accomplished acrobat. The way he throws himself about in his cage (22ins. square by 30in. high), hanging from one foot, is both interesting and little short of marvellous. And, again, it is amusing to see him grip his perch with his feet and twirl round like a boy on the horizontal bar; and then turn round and look at you with an expression that is equivalent to: What do you think of that?

Another of its droll habits is to whine like an infant in trouble, and when he was being carried home from the Zoo (in a closed box), he was responsible, both in the train and roadway, for many glances round by his indulging in this drollery; the sound is most realistic.

Nursed, Cuddled, and Tickled.

He is very tame, and delights in coming out of his cage (though when he came into my possession in November, 1906, he did not speak a word, nor yet show any evidence of knowing how to use his wings) for a good fly round, and to be nursed, cuddled and tickled. He will lie for an hour or more in one's lap while gentle friction is applied to his person, purring with intense satisfaction the whole of the time. When he has had a fly round it is amusing to notice him when he settles on the table (whether a cloth is on or not); he will bend forward and rest his upper mandible on the table, and with wings slightly raised and tail outspread will run round the table, sometimes several times without lifting his beak therefrom. While taking exercise he will alight either on the uplifted hand or shoulder, and fly from one to the other. Frequently he will ignore the hand, and alight on the head instead. I may say the ladies (though they count him rare fun) most decidedly object to being so crowned.

He is also fearless and very fond of his own way (very human this), and when checked he most decidedly resents being interfered with, and would certainly protest with his mandibles if permitted. Anyone he objects to he "goes for," just as a bull-dog would, and just as fearlessly, but no harm is done, providing hands are kept out of the way. He will follow such an one round the room, frequently charging and worrying trousers or skirts as a terrier would a rat. At such times I am bound to admit that if the individual concerned were to be so careless as to let him lay hold it would need the surgeon's stitches to repair the damage.

It has one rather objectionable habit; when specially pleased, and with anyone he approves of, he will try to feed them by bringing up the half-digested food from his crop. However, if the one concerned permits him to lay hold of their fingers (he never even pinches on such occasions), he immediately re-swallows the regurgitated food. But occasionally he is so energetic that some is thrown out. This habit is common to many other species of Parrots, but is very pronounced in this species.

THE PRETTY OUTDOOR AVIARY OF MR. J. W. GREEN (DARLASTON).

This pretty and eminently practical outdoor aviary is tenanted, Mr. Green informs us, by a mixed collection of British and Foreign birds. The outside flight is 12 feet long, 10 feet wide and 8 feet high. The sleeping shed is 12 feet long, 4 feet wide and 6 feet high. Mr. Green states that his first venture in the way of an aviary was a flight 6 feet long made entirely out of old boxes.

The Bird's Diet.

I fear I have already wearied my readers, and must bring this long and somewhat rambling account to a close. Diet: He gets a mixture of canary, millet, rice in the husk, wheat, dari, hemp and sunflower; and has for variety, for "afternoon tea," a piece of dry toast, also at intervals ripe fruit as in season, nuts and green food (the latter is seldom eaten). He is very fond of cuttlefish, and soon demolishes a good-sized piece.

He is a frequent but not a large drinker, taking a few sips after each meal. It is rather amusing to watch him with his toast; after he has eaten two or three pieces, dry as given, with the next he will descend from his perch with it in his mouth, go to the water vessel, and dip it in three or four times, then climb to his perch and quietly eat same, apparently with great satisfaction. It is also called the Ruffed Parrot; its native name is "Hia-Hia," which resembles its call note.

A CANDID OPINION.

Some Humours of Aviculture.

By WILLIAM R. SMELLIE, M.A.

A gentle "dig" at certain foibles of fanciers and of their birds, with a word for the visitors.

There is no doubt that bird fanciers, like other enthusiasts, get so engrossed in their hobby that they often lose sight of some of the aspects of it. And the humorous aspect is generally the one fated to fall into oblivion, ousted by the very seriousness and devotion given to the practical side of the hobby. This, surely, is hardly desirable, the more so since it is unnecessary; in fact, if fanciers would just give a little scope to their sense of humour, it would be found that their hobby is as prolific in respect of fun as any other; for not only do we find wags and practical jokers among the birds themselves, but our hobby throws us amongst such strange characters and into such strange circumstances that he would be a veritable Owl who could not find ample food for mirth and jest.

Ignorance is (?) Bliss.

Our brother fanciers relate with great gusto their success on the show bench or in the breeding room; on the other hand, they may drone forth a tale of devastation and woe dire enough to make a novice leave the Fancy and "take to drink"; but seldom or never do we hear of the side-splitting merriment the Fancy has brought them.

Let us first consider humour gleaned from the visitor who comes to inspect our pets. It is strange but true that no one ever lays claim to ignorance regarding birdy matters: all and sundry assume an expression of profound wisdom and make suggestions by the score, to all of which the tactful aviculturist with the laws of hospitality inculcated in him has to answer with a gentle "Yes, I believe that might be a good idea," etc. This agreeable lie the aviculturist tells while all the time he knows the ideas are fundamentally rotten, and the outcome only of unfathomable ignorance. He may even go further and thank the brainy one for thinking out such marvels of ingenuity, while all the time his hands are itching to reach for his gun. Many people know the Sparrow, the domestic hen, and one other kind of bird; and this one they serve up on all occasions and upon the slightest provocation.

Several of these wise naturalists have visited the writer, who has an aviary of small hardbills. One person had at some time in his life seen some miserable, decrepit specimen of a Java Sparrow in some dealer's window, doubtlessly marked "Beauty, very rare, splendid whistler, etc."; so he straightway advised that a "Jerusalem" Sparrow should be procured. Another thought that a Kingfisher was the one bird required to make the collection complete; while a third had a hankering after a cock Golden Pheasant, which he was sure would look well and get on well with the other birds. Doubtless it would have been entertaining to see a few rounds between the latter and a cock Redpoll, especially if the Redpoll had been under instruction from a Japanese wrestler. I am now waiting (with my gun) for some "cheerful idiot" to come around asking why there is not a Sparrow Hawk or a Golden Eagle included in the collection, as they make the best of foster-parents for Hybrids, taking them completely into their care!

The "Superior Person."

Again, when these visitors come in pairs, one of them generally assumes superior knowledge, and takes a fiendish delight in dilating upon the different birds, their names, habits, etc., and his information is generally new to the fancier himself, who previously was ignorant that he possessed such prodigies.

The Bullfinch will be pointed to, and the "superior person" will remark: "That's a wee Robin, grand whistler, but I didn't think it would live shut up." This sage remark will probably be followed by a query as to what blood-thirsty villain gave the Cutthroat the slash from ear to ear, or how much bigger the Avadavat would grow in another year. The birdy man has recourse to noise- and invisible laughter, but soon ceases making a lifelong enemy by disillusioning his sapient guests.

They departed delighted and feeling one the fancier owes them much; while the fancier thoroughly enjoys it, too, unless a favourite hen has deserted a clutch of valuable eggs on account of the "cackle" of the visitors.

Fanciers' Foibles.

Apart from one's own bird room in pursuing the hobby out and about, one meets with no queerer, funnier fellows than some of the bird fanciers. All sorts and conditions are found and all, if seen aright, are truly and naturally humorous. At the shows, if you have a sympathetic countenance, you will hear how the villainous hard hearted judge actually passed over the best bird in the show—nay, in Britain—and preferred a bird that would not be allowed to whistle in the same wood, to speak. Oh! the blind and foolish judge!

Again, a bird sale is teeming with laughable incident and opportunities for character study. Have you seen birds sold by auction? Everyone who has done so is familiar with the bibulous individual whom you have never seen before, but who is, nevertheless, your very good friend, and persists in shaking you by the hand, clapping you on the back, and weeping on your neck by turns, meanwhile advising you what to buy and what not to buy. When a buff Canary is put up for sale, your thirsty friend will tell you in a stage whisper that it is only a painted Sparrow and will become as black as the ace of spades inside three days. Perhaps he will even convey these glad tidings to the auctioneer himself, at the same time telling him his opinion of him and his ancestors, even unto the third generation.

Then we have the very smart man, who knows all the dodges, and persists in taking the bird he buys out of the cage himself lest the dealer intentionally give it a surreptitious squeeze of just sufficient force that it may die exactly 10 minutes 45½ seconds after the smart purchaser would have reached home with it. We have also the man who has the public weal at heart, and who persists, therefore, in loudly denouncing the dealer for his numerous frauds—e.g., selling hens for cocks, etc.—until his persistency and importunity earn for him his reward. He is cast forth amid the jeers of the multitude, and such is the ingratitude of mankind that those he was trying to assist and save, aid him to depart. He is sped on his way by many boots. Then by contrast we have the toady of the auctioneer, who denounces his revilers and aids and abets him so ostentatiously and noisily that he generally has to be assisted to the outer air shortly after his predecessor.

Lastly, the auctioneer himself is generally a character worth studying. His caustic answers to awkward questions are very amusing, as also are his remarks on the birds.

A HANDFUL OF BIRD LIFE.
Young Wrens taking a first view of the outside world.

THE INDOOR BIRD-ROOM OF MR. W. YOUNG (BARNSTAPLE).
The inmates of this handsome apartment have won many first and other prizes for their owner at the great Barnstaple Show.

At the time this photograph was taken Mr. Young had in the room the following small Foreign Birds:—Red and Black-headed Gouldians, Crimson, Orange and Yellow Bishops, Paradise and Pin-tail Whydahs, Long and Rufous-tail Grass Finches, Masked, Yellow-rumped, Diamond, Zebra, Spice, Jacarini, Chestnut-breasted, Pileated and African Fire Finches, Combasous, Cordon Bleus, Orange-cheeked, Zebra, and Amaduvade Waxbills, White, Black-headed, Three-coloured Mannikins, Madagascar and Red-billed Weavers. The larger birds were:—Red and Mealy Rosellas, White-eared Conures, Blossom Head, Yellow Collar, Blue Bonnet, Alexandrine, and Many-colour Parakeets and Cockateels.

THE HERON AT HOME.

Their good points assume gigantic proportions when described by his glib tongue, whereas, when he comes to a bird with death "writ large" all over its countenance, he euphemistically says that it is just a "little soft," like himself. Such is business.

Some Birdie Humorists.

Now, what about the birds themselves? In every community of birds, just as in every community of men, you are almost bound to find at least one or two real humorists. The bird lover can pick them out at once and diagnose their case. You cannot look at such without feeling an inclination to laugh or throw something at them. One antiquated specimen of the Canary tribe comes to mind. He is the funny man of the aviary. He glories in a fight of the kind that is mainly made up of noise and outstretching of wings, and he is not particular whom he gets to fight with. He will sit for five minutes at a time with a sunflower seed husk in his beak, at one time making it whirl round and round, as if it were pivoted on his tongue, at another time holding it as if it were a cigar (and by the expression on his face he seems to enjoy his "smoke"). Again, the benevolent old fellow has been seen feeding four hens, all in a row at one time, and has thus called down upon his head the just wrath of their jealous husbands. Such are a few of his vagaries, and his serio-comic expression enhances his antics while he seems to thoroughly enjoy his own jokes.

Robbing Peter to Pay Paul.

Again, is it not irresistibly funny to see an enterprising hen when building, go quietly up, pluck a loose feather from some sober, unsuspecting individual, and make off with it, leaving the victim with a stony stare of annoyance and surprise on his face? In fact, what with petty jealousies and free fights, a person can depend on soon getting his morbid interest awakened and his risible faculties set a going.

The hobby of aviculture provides a great deal of legitimate humour. When it concerns the birds, however, it takes a real fancier to see and enjoy it. Thus aviculturists are the exclusive participants in this phase of humour, and can, therefore, extract so much more enjoyment out of life than their neighbour. And that is something to swear by in this "vale of tears."

OUR PHOTOGRAPHS.

The clever series of small photographs in this issue are the work of Mr. Stanley Crook (Scarborough). Comprised in it are the admirable pictures of Blackbird and young, Great Tit and young, the Hooded Crows, the handful of young Wrens, the Heron at home, and the study of snow-bound woodland. Concerning the photograph of the hen Blackbird, we may point out how faithfully the camera shows up the mottled surface of the throat (the breast, of course, is also more or less similarly marked), a peculiarity of the female Blackbird, which often leads to her being confused with the Song Thrush, and is no doubt responsible for many of the accounts one reads respecting the mating of these two species and the production of "Thrush-Blackbird Hybrids."

BIRDLAND IN WINTER GARB.

The excellent reproduction of the interior of Mr. W. Young's birdroom is by Messrs. Darker and Loraine (Barnstaple); the qually admirable picture of an outdoor aviary is the work of Mr. J. W. Green (Darlaston). The photographs which make up the first page of the supplement are by Mr. James Reid (Kilmarnock), the outing of the Kilmarnock C.B.S.; Clark's Studios (Brecon), the Welsh Cage Bird Club; R. G. Hood (Grangemouth), the Grangemouth and District O.S.; Mr. H. E Tonge (Latchford), Stockton Heath O.S.; the name of the photographer concerned in the production of the Coventry Godiva C.B.S. has not reached us.

DERWENT VALLEY.

The third annual show of the Derwent Valley C.B.S. was held on October 30th in the Church Hall, Ilkmsterley. The hall is an ideal place for the purpose. Entries came up very well, totalling 340, an increase of 120 over last year. Norwich, Borders, and Yorkshires made a good display, but four out of the five Clear classes had to be cancelled owing to lack of support. British also came up very well and many good birds were to be found in these classes. Members' classes filled well, and contained some very fine exhibits. Special for most points in the Canary section went to Mr. J. Lindsay, while Mr. H. Griffiths secured medal for most points in British classes. The arrangements were ably carried out by Mr. J. Brown, who makes an ideal secretary, being courteous and obliging to all, and continually on the look out for the welfare of the exhibits under his care; and the Society is to be congratulated upon having such a capable fancier at the head of affairs. He was ably backed up in his duties by a most efficient staff of fanciers, comprised of the Rev. Father Rickaby, Messrs. G. Burkass, W. Marsh, W. Tomlinson, W. Cury, M. Armstrong, W. Marsh, T. Betton, J. Moore, T. Fletcher, H. Griffiths, F. Dixon, and R. Johnson. Splendid weather favoured the event, and we were pleased to see the show so well patronised by the public. The show was not held under C.B.U. rules, yet we found several one-time strong adherents of the C.B.U. exhibiting here. The judges were Messrs. T. Dixon (Beddington Station), for Canaries; and J. Maddison (Newcastle), for British birds and Mules; and their awards gave every satisfaction.

LUTTERWORTH AND DISTRICT CAGE BIRD SOCIETY.

Annual members' show held at Angel Inn, October 23rd. On the proposal of that well-known fancier (Mr. H. Dickens) it was decided that the society make it so that every member can take a prize, the member totalling most points to take first prize, and so on down to the last prize. Those members not taking a prize in first show will have to compete in monthly shows following till they have won a prize. By that means it gives the novice a better chance of winning than by having to compete against the best birds. Sixty-four birds faced the judge, which speaks well for a new society. The notable features were the grand specimens staged by Mr. H. Dickens, and the Linnet-Bullfinch of Mr. W. Matthews, the British class, which was a strong one, being headed by the well-known hen Linnet. Mr. T. H. Ride judged, and gave entire satisfaction. He also gave a lecture, which was much appreciated.

CARLISLE (Border City).

The Border City (Carlisle) C.B.S. held their 1st show on October 27th and 28th. It came up to the expectations of the executive, the entries totalling 378. The Canaries were good throughout, the Borders being the best. The Foreign and British birds were a grand collection, all the noted cracks being present. The management was in the hands of genuine fanciers, and they worked hard to make the show the success it was. Mr. Bell had the secretarial reins in hand; he makes an ideal secretary. The show was held in the Mart Hall, an ideal place for an exhibition, being free from draughts, well lighted, and very suitable for an exhibition. Mr. J. Robson judged the Canaries and Mules, and Mr. Nicholson the British and Foreign.

The Canaries and Mules.

SCOTCH CK. (5): 1, Thomson, yell., good stamp, fine top end and drive, stylish; 2, 3, 4, Sloan, 2nd yell. piebald, also well up in top end and free, 3rd yell., lengthy side, nice worker, not quite so reachy as winner, 4th buff, nice length, good drive, inclined to raise head; vhc, J. YORK.

The York C.B.S. held their 4th annual open show in the exhibition buildings on Oct. 29 and 30. The buildings are an ideal place for a cage bird show, being very spacious, with an excellent top light, and being free from draughts. The building is capable of holding double the number of entries. The birds were staged round the walls three-deep, so that the public could see every one without disturbing any. The entries were a record—a grand total of 450 in the 33 classes. The Cinnamon classes had to be cancelled for want of entries; it was thought on account of Manchester being the same day. The Norwich section were quite a show in themselves, being well supported by the members of the O.N.P.C. Some noted winners were on view. The Yorkshires were well represented—120 entries in 8 classes, and some grand birds were staged. The show was opened by the Lord Mayor, who said how pleased he was to open such a beautiful exhibition. When a boy, he said, he was interested in the birds, and when looking round it reminded him of his boyish days. It was also gratifying to know what progress they had made during the year, also to know that they had secured 50 more entries than last year. A hearty vote of thanks to the Lord Mayor was proposed by Councillor Boddy, seconded by the president, Mr. A. Richardson, which was well appreciated by all. The local cup for best young bird bred by a member was won by Mr. Humphries with a clear yellow Norwich, 2nd in the open section. Mr. W. P. Barnes (Grantham) judged the open Norwich Mules and foreign bird classes, and Mr. W. A. Cowgill the remainder, their awards appearing to give every satisfaction. Mr. Waud, the hon. sec., had the arrangements well in hand, and is to be congratulated on his able management of affairs.

LARKHALL (Lanarkshire).

Annual show of the Larkhall C.B.A. was held in the Miners' Hall, Raploch Street, on 30th October, and it proved a gigantic success. Some rattling good Norwich Plainheads were staged, and Border Fancies made a grand display. Crests and Crestbreds made quite a nice show, and the winners were of exceptional merit. Common Canaries, or what one might call "Cottar's Canaries," helped to add a tone to the exhibition. Mr. W. Johnstone had it all his own way. British birds were a show in themselves, and were quite the outstanding feature. But isn't "Larkie" famed for Britishers? The foreign classes, too, contained some grand exhibits, Mr. C. Smith again winning with his well-known Grey Parrot, a bird with a most wonderful vocabulary. The Society is composed of fanciers of the true order. The principal office-bearers were:—President, Mr. J. Rundell; vice-president, Mr. R. McEwan; treasurer, Mr. D. Clarkson; and secretary, Mr. James Pollock. President Rundell was ably backed by a strong working committee, and the show passed off satisfactorily. The young bird cup was won by Mr. Joe Nimmo, with a very smart Norwich, the runner-up being Mr. Walter Johnstone, with a grand Linnet-Bullie. The novice medal was won by Mr. R. Mitchell with a very neat Green Border Fancy. Special for best British bird was won by Mr. W. Clark. The cup for most points and special for best old Canary were both won by Mr. Johnstone, the Canary being a grand Yell. Norwich, the runner-up being Mr. C. Smith. Mr. Pollock makes an ideal secretary, being kind, courteous, and obliging; he has, too, a thorough grasp of the duties entailed, and is the right man in the right place. The following fanciers placed the cards:—For Canaries, Mr. G. Marlin (Hamilton); for Mules, British and Foreign, Mr. Peter Pettigrew (Glasgow); and their awards in general met with approval. A large number of visitors patronised the record exhibition, and we are glad to chronicle the show of 1909 as an unqualified success.

BROMLEY (Kent).

The Bromley F.A. held their Eighteenth Annual Show (£5 Limit), on October 28th, at the Drill Hall, one of the best halls in Kent for such a fixture, having good top light, and being comfortable in every way. It was fairly well patronised by the elete of this neighbourhood. Unfortunately, the weather was wet and boisterous, or their gate would have been better. Local fanciers turned up in good numbers, however, during the evening. The cage bird section was far in advance of previous years, containing 261 exhibits, a prominent feature being "Dell's" class, which contained some real champion Thrushes, fit for the keenest competition, a pied Blackbird in excellent fettle winning, a grand Missel Thrush splendidly marked standing second. Mr. E. Jordon wins cup for the third time for best bird bred by a member. Mr. Edwards won the special for best Yorkshire, with a slashing "Guardsman on Parade." The British classes contained some tip-top specimens. The hon. sec., Mr. H. E. Speller, had everything well in hand, and his courteous treatment of all was commented upon by many visitors. He was ably supported by Mr. Heasman, assistant sec., Messrs. Edwards, Faux, Bellinger and other committeemen, not forgetting Mr. Wraight, the sectional and jovial assistant sec. Their worthy chairman, Mr. Harrington, held a watching brief over all. Mr. J. Dobson judged the cage bird section owing to the unfortunate absence of Mr. C. A. House, who had been subpœned to appear as a witness at the High Court. The cards were up in good time, and the awards gave satisfaction.

CHELTENHAM.

Annual show of the Cheltenham C.B.S. was held on November 3rd. The venue was the promenade Auction Rooms instead of the Drill Hall, as advertised. The committee did their best with the rooms at their disposal, and staged the exhibits to the nicest possible advantage on the modern system. The quality and entries in most of the classes were good. Crests and Crest-breds made a really fine display, many of the cracks being staged. Norwich were also a grand lot, and made a good show. The light Mule class was also good, and the British birds were capital in quality, the winning Goldfinch of Mr. Herbert's being much admired. Mr. T. Taylor won the ten-guinea bowl for best C.B. 1909, Mr. Bale taking that for best Crest. Mr. T. J. King won points special for Crests, Mr. Godley Cinn., Mr. T. Irons Nor., Mr. Millincamp Yorkshires, Mr. Blaikie Borders, and Mr. Edwards for Mules. The hon sec., Mr. Treasure, was again at the helm, and worked like a Trojan, his hard work only being equalled by his courtesy, tact, and thoroughness, and, we might add, his criticism of the late entry nuisance. Mr. W. Pounsett makes a most admirable show manager, and seemed to revel in his work. The committee, of whom the popular chairman is that well-known Crest enthusiast, Mr. G. Grant, looked after the welfare of the exhibits, and all were most obliging to visitors. The members' classes contained some good exhibits. Mr. J. Robson judged Crests and Crest-breds, Borders, and selling classes, and Mr. W. Vardy the remainder.

YARMOUTH.

The Great Yarmouth F.S. held their 21st annual show on November 3rd and 4th in the famous Winter Gardens, which is a grand place for such a function, being all glass, large, and not in the least draughty. The show was opened by the Mayor C. A. Campling, Esq., by a few words to the effect that fanciers in Yarmouth are making great strides in the proper direction, viz., the breeding of the stock true to type. Mr. J. G. Shearman, the hon sec., knows the road well, and makes a capital organiser. The judge's (Mr. W. E. Greeves) awards appeared to give entire satisfaction.

DOVER.

This society held their annual show Nov. 3rd, in the Market Hall, a fine place indeed for cage bird shows, being well lighted. Entries numbered 188, and the quality was A1. Mr. Taylor won special for best young bird. Mr. Gibbs won the Bowl for Yorkies with a fine team. Crests were not numerous, but those shown were good. The secretaries, Messrs. Ahhott and Austen, were very capable, and the show was well managed throughout. Mr. T. Heath judged, and his awards gave general satisfaction.

Will fanciers please note that I am removing from Lisbon Street, to 234, Edenfield Road, Rochdale, writes Mr. S. Entwistle.

Please accept our thanks for your fine report of our show, writes Mr. C. Parnell, hon. secretary of the Torbay (Paignton) O.S.

Entries for Luton Show are very short; in fact, we have only two in ten classes, writes Mr. Albert C. Pilbeam, the hon. secretary.

The two buff Norwich that gained 3rd prizes at Leamington, and 2nd at Hanley, belonged to us.—DALLMAN AND SON (Melbourne, Derby).

Owing to insufficient entries, writes Mr. H. J. Fincher, hon. secretary, of the Tring F.A. Show, all cage-bird classes have had to be cancelled.

Gloucester Show report, Norwich yellow hens, credits Wasley with 1st, whereas we stood first in this class.—WALTON AND NOAKES (Leicester).

Bristol show report credits Bond with winning 1st prize in the buff Yorkshire cock class, writes Mr. W. Ellis (Hayle); this should have been credited to me.

Kindly thank all exhibitors for their support, which enabled us to have such a very grand display.—ELLIOTT AND WOOD, joint secretaries, Burton-on-Trent.

Cramlington and Dis. C.B.S. are holding a members' show on November 27th, we hear, with Mr. J. Grey (Bedlington) as the judge. There will be 26 classes.

Kindly note my change of address from Western Road, writes Mr. T. G. Jeffery, secretary of the Southall and Dis. C.B.S., to 2, Station Approach, Southall.

By an oversight the word "Norwich" was omitted from before classes 206 to 209 in our schedule, writes Mr. W. G. Inward, secretary of the Cirencester F. F. and C.A.

Entries are urgently wanted for the North Berks (Ahingdon) Show, writes Mr. T. Bowen, the hon. secretary, as a week before the show we only average one entry per class.

Schedules for Musselhurgh O.S. Show, on November 27th, have been sent out; any member having been missed, please apply to me.—WM. NISBET, 101, High Street, Musselburgh.

As an old fancier, I may say I have taken your valuable publication, CAGE BIRDS, from the first number, and I always find great pleasure and delight therein.—W. W. BELLAMY.

The half-yearly balance-sheet of the Queen's Park and Dis. C.B.A. (London), sent us by Mr. J. C. Birch, the hon. secretary, is a very satisfactory one, showing a cash balance of £13 8s. 8d.

The sender of the novel Linnet cage illustrated in last week's issue was Mr. H. Fenn, of Sheffield, and it was made by Mr. H. Spotswood, of that city. To these fanciers we tender our thanks.

The young bird show of the British Roller C.C. is to be held in conjunction with the forthcoming Horticultural Hall Show, and not at Wigan, as by an error was stated last week in this column.

I should like to know the name and address of the gentleman who sent to me from Weyhridge, enclosing a postal order, as these were omitted, writes Mr. C. Barwell (Glendon, Northamptonshire).

Since having our schedules printed, writes Mr. N. H. Reed, secretary of the Launceston F.A., we have arranged to have the Drill Hall for the cage birds. The show is being held under C.B.U. rules.

Entries are very short indeed, and we are obliged to extend until November 8th, writes Mr. W. Minty, hon. secretary of the Frome C.B.S. We have a splendid classification, and hope fanciers will support us.

I must apologise, writes Mr. A. C. Askew, hon. secretary of the Clapham and Dis. C.B.A., for omitting to notify members that there would be no meeting on Novemher 1st, owing to over-pressure of work at the show.

R.A. Newley, the well-known cage specialist, of 24, Stockwell Green, S.W., will he present at the Wimhledon Bird Show during the evening of November 16th, when he will be pleased to hook orders of old and new customers.—(ADVT.)

The Crested Canary Club Handbook for 1909-10, reaches us from the hon. secretary, Mr. J. S. Clarke. The good work done hy the C.C.C., and the support they are giving the shows, will be found detailed in its pages. Lovers of the noble Crest desirous of becoming members should communicate with Mr. Clarke, at "Sunnyside," Prospect Road, Woodford Green, Essex.

We have received an advertisement on one of our special coupon forms, offering Turhits and Crested Canaries for sale or exchange. If sender will forward his name and address, we will insert the advertisement in our next issue.

Kindly note that Mr. Robinson, of Albany Road, Old Windsor, has resigned the secretaryship of the Windsor and Dis. C.B.A., writes Mr. E. A. Stickland, of 16, Alma Road, Windsor, and that I have been appointed to that office.

Will persons writing for schedules kindly note, write Messrs. McLucas and James, hon. secretaries of the Pontypridd, Pwllgwaun and Dis. C.B.S., that all communications written and placed in open envelopes require a penny stamp.

Our entries close on November 9th, writes Mr. E. W. Radford, Hon. Sec. of the Glastonbury Show, and at the time of writing we have no entries for cage birds, notwithstanding a good classification, excellent prize-money, and a popular judge.

This being my first year as secretary of the Lancaster Primrose C.B.A., fanciers will greatly oblige by sending entries early, writes Mr. J. H. Nayler. Schedules were sent out a week ago. I will send others on application to me at 6, Mary Street, Lancaster.

I have won: at Kelty, 1st and special for best Norwich, 4th Border hen; at Dysart, 1st and special for best Norwich; at Haddington, 2nd Yel. tick Border cock, and v.h.c. buff Border hen—not a bad start for the season with three hens?—WM. NISBET (Musselhurgh).

Entries for the Malton Show, November 11th, are absolutely "nil" at time of writing, and 14 classes are provided for cage birds, writes Mr. G. M. Horsley, the hon. secretary. Under the circumstances, therefore, I am compelled to extend entries to first post, November 8th.

The silver cups which are to he competed for at our show on November 10th and 11th, are to be won outright, writes Mr. Alf. Hetchings, secretary of the Swansea and Dis. C.B.A. Cup specials Nos. 12 and 17 in schedule should read over Mules and British classes respectively. Will exhibitors please note?

We are giving our second table show (five classes) on November 9th, writes Mr. F. Washbourne, secretary, South Manchester C.B.S. Special points are to count for medals. Mr. R. B. Fryer has kindly consented to judge, and it is hoped novices will give us a good entry. Birds are to he staged hy 7 p.m.

Border and Crest fanciers are being particularly well catered for at the Cambridge Show, on Novemher 11th and 12th, writes Mr. T. S. Moore, the hon. secretary. British, and in fact, all other classes are also to he well looked after, and fanciers sending here (entries close Nov. 8th), may rest assured their hirds will he well treated.

Six Bells and District Fanciers' Society prize drawing. Winning numhers:—840, 626, 393, 985, 128, 2,323, 1,238, 1,279, 2,452, 1,265, 777, 869, 339. Prizes not claimed within 14 days will he forfeited. Apply, secretary, W. J. Edwards, 5, Upper Griffin Street, Six Bells, Ahertillery.—(ADVT.)

We have decided to accept entries up till first post, November 13th, instead of Novemher 9th, as originally fixed, writes Mr. H. Smith, hon. secretary, Wimhledon and Dis. C.B.S. As secretary I shall esteem it a favour if exhihitors will please send entries as early as possihle, as it saves a deal of trouble and possihle annoyance.

I received an entry for two Border Fancies too late to accept, writes Mr. W. Irwin, joint secretary of the Harrington Show, so returned them same day to the address on entry form; hut I received them back from the Post Office stating "not to he found." Would the sender of these entries (Mr. Jos. Graham) please write, so that I can return postal order?

Penzance and Dis. F.A. (who are giving four money prizes) have had to extend date of entries closing to November 6th, owing to entries not averaging one per class, writes Mr. J. Pearce Sampson, the hon. secretary. Exhihitors, do not forget this show, which is the only one affiliated to the C.B.U. in the county, with Mr. C. A. House as judge.

The third annual show of the Dundalk C.B. and P.A. will he held in the Town Hall, Dundalk, on November 17th and 18th, writes Mr. P. J. Gaskin, the hon. secretary. Forty-one classes are provided for cage hirds. Judge, Mr. J. Wilcock (Eccleshill). Entries extended to November 10th. Schedules may be had of me at the Crescent, Dundalk.

The fanciers of Uddingston are evincing commendahle pluck, writes a Scottish correspondent, in starting an open show, which is to be held in that place in Decemher. All varieties are to he provided for, while the Scotch Fancy Canary has the sensihle numher of eight classes. Fanciers should keep a look-out for this enterprising show and support it.

We hear that Mr. Nicholas Shaw, an old and respected Furness fancier, has had to part with the whole of his stock of Norwich Plainheads, owing to his departure for South Africa. Mr. T. C. Hoskins (Dalton-in-Furness), has purchased the same, and not having accommodation in his own room, is advertising the greater portion of the hirds and hird-room accessories.

Blackwood (N.B.) Show is to be held on Novemher 20th, with Mr. Allardyce as judge for the Scotch Fancy section, to which Arthur Kirk, Esq., has granted a silver cup for hest young hird, writes Mr. J. Hamilton, hon. secretary. No extra is charged for entry. Mr. Patterson judges the Borders, for which a handsome silver cup is given as usual, and medals and specials. And Mr. McLay judges all other classes, for which there is a good number of specials. This should bring us success.

I have given a copy of CAGE BIRDS' last Douhle Numher to a fancier friend of mine, who is simply delighted with it, and he is handing it on to a family of hrothers, all fanciers in this district.—E. V. NAWTON (Pickering).

I take this opportunity of congratulating you upon the splendid plate of Hawfinches. It is a magnificent picture, and reflects great credit on CAGE BIRDS. I always do my utmost to introduce your paper to others.—A. GALE (Bromsgrove).

Our schedules are now in the hands of exhihitors, writes Mr. W. Reid, hon. secretary, Sunderland C.B.A. I do not think many fanciers will have received two, hut in case they have, will they oblige me hy giving one to an exhihiting friend, and thus help us to ohtain a good entry? Should any fancier have been overlooked, I shall be pleased to oblige, my address heing 14, Plantation Road, Pallion, Sundorland.

On Saturday last I was surprised and delighted, writes Mr. W. Phillips (Swansea), at espying in a shop window the goodly and valuahle array of silver and cut-glass ware, which the Swansea and Dis. C.B.S. intend presenting as prizes at their forthcoming annual show. I am not connected with the society, although an exhihitor who intends competing. in the hope of securing one of the heautiful challenge cups.

The special offered by the S.Y.C.C. for competition at Maesteg Show, on November 17th, will be for most points gained hy three hirds—two in the cock classes, and one in the hen class (champion section), provided there are four members competing. Also a Norwich Plainhead cup will be competed for by members of the Welsh C.B.C.—the most points gained hy the three highest hirds during the season.—W. JENKINS, hon. secretary, Maesteg and Dis. C.B.S.

The following are the judges appointed for our 22nd annual show, on December 4th, writes Mr. W. Ruddiman, secretary of the Cupar and Dis. O.S.: for Scotch Fancy, Mr. W. Rodger (Slateford); for Norwich Mr. J. Adams (Dundee); for Borders, Mr. J. Patterson (Chirnside); and for Mules, British, and foreign, Mr. A. C. Dandie (president of Scottish National, Edinhurgh). We have every hope of receiving a larger entry than usual, and I can guarantee that every care will be taken of the exhihits entrusted to us.

Mr. Whipp Appeals.

We hear from Mr. J. Rayner, the C.B.U. secretary, that Mr. W. Whipp has entered an appeal against the disqualification of his Lizards at Rochdale Show, and that, therefore, the decision already published (of the District Committee) will he reviewed by the Council.

Welsh C.B.C. & Swansea Show.

"Welsh cage hird club members. Swansea not complying with classification, patronage withdrawn. Members please note.—JONES, Secretary."—The above telegram reached CAGE BIRDS' office late on Wednesday evening.—EDITOR.

A Record at Blaydon.

As we are closing for press the following pleasing telegram reaches us from Mr. Havvor, the secretary of Blaydon-on-Tyne Show: "Record entry of six hundred and eighty hirds." Thus there promises to be another treat this week-end for Tyneside fanciers.

Starlings Eating Sparrows.

I have seen in my home in Northamptonshire, writes Mr. S. S. Smith to the "Scotsman," a pair of Starlings take the unfledged young out of a House Sparrow's nest. I have no douht in my own mind that the Starlings ate the young Sparrows, or gave them to their own young to eat.

Lost, Stolen or Strayed.

The 1st prize yellow Border cock at Galston Show on Saturday last was stolen, along with the model card and drinker, writes Mr. A. Frew, the secretary (26, Duke Street, Galston), and any information regarding same will be thankfully received hy your humhle servant.

Rough on the Birds.

In one of Sir S. Baker's interesting books on Africa, he tells how the artful crocodiles manage to catch hirds. These little creatures come in thousands to drink at the rivers, and perching upon the slender overhanging boughs bend them down hy their weight to the surface of the water, when they each drink in turn. If a crocodile is seen, they will not go near, but wait until he has floated down the stream, which he does in full view, returning at once under water, and with a sudden rush sweeps off a dozen or so into his jaws.

GRAND RESULTS.

More Testimony from Advertisers.

It was utterly impossible for me to answer all inquiries in reply to my advertisement in "Cage Birds," of October 23rd.—W. CARR (Mansfield).

I had grand results from my advertisement in "Cage Birds," and I wished to thank all who wrote to me; but it was impossible for me to answer them all, they were so numerous.—H. STERLING (Dorset).

As the result of advertising in "Cage Birds," I have just sent off the third consignment of Norwich to Mexico. My experience teaches me that "Cage Birds" is the best advertising medium.—T. W. QUARMAN (Bristol).

Kindly thank all who replied to my advertisement in "Cage Birds." The replies were too numerous for me to answer all—it would cost me nearly five shillings in stamps. I wish "Cage Birds" all the success it deserves.—F. J. CHILD (Leeds).

After I cleared my stock through the splendid advertisement columns of "Cage Birds," I had a holiday, and on returning I purchased the whole stock of Yorkshires of a fellow fancier, which I am again selling. "Cage Birds" is the only paper I advertise in, and I find I don't require any other.—A. BROWN (Wood Green, London, N.).

OUR COLOURED PLATE.

A STUDY IN CANARIES.

With their copies of this week's colossal double number, readers should make certain that they receive the coloured plate and art supplement which accompany it.

We venture to think that the very accurate group of Canarics which our versatile artist, Mr. Norman, has painted for this issue, will appeal to a wide circle of readers. In addition to being effective from the artistic standpoint, it has also the great merit of being instructive. Readers not well versed in the exhibition points of the various Canarics depicted, will find this plate very valuable and educative.

The Lizard Canary shown is that technically known as a "clear cap gold." The term gold has the same meaning as yellow, or jonque, applied to other varieties—the "silver" Lizard corresponds to the buff. By clear cap is meant that the crown of the head shall be free from any dark marking, while the edge of the cap has to follow the lines seen in the plate—if it breaks in towards the crown, then the bird becomes a "broken cap," while if the clear space extends too far the other way, the bird is termed "over-capped," this being, of course, a defect.

The clear buff Norwich Plainhead shows the "meal" or "frosting" on the back, which is the chief distinguishing characteristic 'twixt those perplexing (to some) terms, yellow and buff. In the clear Yorkshire (which bird, by the way, will be seen to carry a marking ring on its leg) this meal is absent—the colour extends right to the tips of the feathers.

The Clear Crest seen here is a grand bird—it has a really wonderful crest, large, round, beautifully drooped, and thickly built up of broad feather; further, the bird is of the true Norwich type. The Cinnamon is a yellow, and what is known as a "self," that is, without any break of light-coloured (white) plumage. A Cinnamon with light feathers is termed "pied" or "foul." The Border Fancy is unevenly marked, and curiously marked, too. It would be known as a "three-pointed" bird, owing to the markings falling on one or other of the three technical places—eyes, wings, and tail. Were the three markings duplicated on the left-hand side of the bird, it would become an "even-mark" (i.e., six-pointed) and a real beauty, too.

The Young Naturalist.

Prizes of 1s. and two of 6d. each will be given weekly for the best three anecdotes about birds written on postcards. Competitors must be under sixteen years of age, and state whence stories are taken. Two stars indicate the Winning Contribution; one star the runners up.

*The Story of a Thrush.

Last year I had a Thrush, and one day it pecked at the wool that tied the cage door and flew away. At seven o'clock at night on the same day it came back, and flew into a damson tree in the garden. Mother came and held her hand out, and the bird immediately hopped on to it. Then the bird was put into the cage again. It has flown away several times since, and has come back in the same way.—From the School newspaper, and sent by Marjory Edith Waymouth (age 13), L'Islet Post Office, St. Sampson's, Guernsey.

The Wren's Nest Making.

Wrens gather little bits of wool,
And warm and fluffy stuff,
And odds and ends of hay and straw,
And when they have enough
They weave it all with loving care
Into a little nest,
Where they at evening may repair,
And take their nightly rest.

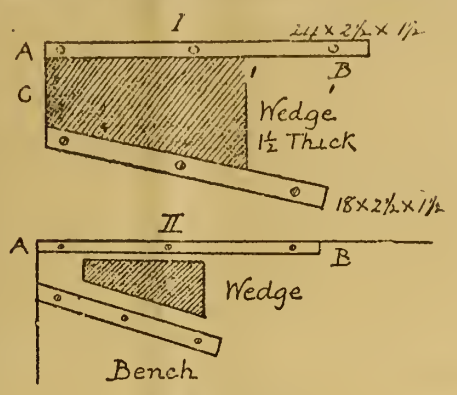
Sent by Albert Armes (age 11), 1, back of 62, Ladywood Road, Birmingham.

A Tame Greenfinch.

My father had a tame Greenfinch, which he did not require, so he though he would let it have its freedom. He opened the door, and the bird flew out and perched upon an open window, and after having a look around it flew right back in its cage again.—Sent by E. Badcott (age 13), 13, Elmbank Road, Paignton, Devon.

*A Shouting Thrush.

Our Thrush that we had when quite young has now grown to a good sized bird, and tries to imitate all that we say. We used to let it fly about the room for a little while, but although it is very tame we do not think it safe to do so now, as it is so much stronger. It does not sing very loudly, but if we are making a noise, it shouts out as loud as it can.—Sent by Florence Tanner (age 13), 2, India Road, Diamond Road, Slough.



Nests of birds, Poultry, etc., should be regularly sprinkled with KEATING'S POWDER, especially when hens are sitting. Don't forget to do this just previous to the eggs hatching, to destroy the Red Mite. It kills all insects, harmless to everything else.

No. 358.
A Simple Vice for Cage Makers
Sent by J. A. Ainsley, Langdale House, Clifton Avenue, West Hartlepool.

I am sending particulars of a vice, of use to bird fanciers, etc., when cage-making. The accompanying sketch is the plan of a wooden vice which costs practically nothing, and is very useful when making cages, etc. Screw the piece 2ft. long, near the edge of your bench, narrow side down. Then place the wedge C against it, and screw the remaining piece of wood on the other side of it (broad side down), as in Fig. I. The wood to be planed, etc., is placed between the wedge and A, B, and the wedge knocked tightly in. Red wood is most suitable for it.—JOHN A. AINSLEY.

No. 359.
Inside Fittings for Breeding Cage.
Sent by Miss Latham, Park Hill House, Croyden.

Inside fittings for breeding cage, useful in conjunction with ⅜-in. mesh wires, where birdroom is infested with mice. Two doors (front and back view shown in sketch), 6ins. by 2ins., cut out of a 4½-in. board, and replaced with a piece of wire run through the centre from top to bottom, forming a pivot, on which the door turns. Each half of the door is fitted with two more staples on which to hang a tin drinker, to contain the seed or water. The door is fastened with a small brass or wire hook. Perches are made to hang on two wire hooks, allowing 3-inch space for door to turn in. They are easier to clean than fixed ones. For those not skilled in cage-making, it is easier to cut the 4½-in. board into strips, one 1½ins. wide for front of sand trays, two ½in. wide for top and bottom strips, one 2ins. wide for centre. The latter is cut in lengths to suit front, and spaces left for the doors, which are added after the other pieces are nailed together.—MISS M. LATHAM.

Under the White Rose.

LAISTERDYKE Show, held Saturday last, hardly came up to the expectations of the promoters. It was the fifth show of the season, and the previous four had all averaged over 18 entries per class, but at this fixture they suddenly dropped down to slightly over 15. The cause is hard to find. The biggest drop appeared to be amongst the yellow hens and the marked birds, none of the latter classes filling at all well.

THE novice cinnamon-marks, appeared to be the only classes in the show that kept up to the last two weeks' standard, these containing 45 birds, several fresh faces being noted amongst the winners.

BRADFORD City are going strong. They have had a romping show, with a good balance on the right side (some of the members don't forget to let you know they worked hard for it), and now I hear that Sir G. Scott Robertson, K.C.S.I., M.P., for Central Bradford, has accepted the position of president.

GT. HORTON "G.I." O.S. had the pleasure of listening to a lecture on Saturday evening from Mr. F. Armstrong, of Halifax. the subject being, "The Preparation and Treatment of Birds during the Exhibition Season" which imparted much valuable information. Those who attended were very pleased with the points so freely given.

"STRAIGHT 'UN."

Rough Weather and the Birds.

For wild creatures out in the open, constantly exposed to changes in the weather, the last few days, with heavy rains and boisterous cutting winds must have been exceptionally trying. In most cases their natural instinct causes them to seek every available shelter, although many birds appear to us to expose themselves unnecessarily. The Skylark flits about the fields, and makes attempts to soar in the roughest weather; the Robin perches upon the garden fence looking dull and mopy, his back and breast feathers blown the wrong way by the wind; but the brainy Sparrow is snugly sitting upon the ornamental brickwork on the sheltered side of the house, and there I have seen the Sparrows during the greater part of an exceptionally bad day, scarcely leaving their snug quarters to obtain a little food. Upon one day when the wind blew strong and cold across the downs and higher ground, not a bird was to be seen; but as we reached the sheltered valley by Chipstead there was no scarcity of feathered life. It appeared as though all the wild birds for miles around had gathered to this cosy spot, and almost every species usually seen at this time of the year were easily identified. The Rooks had left the neighbourhood of the trees on the higher ground, and were quietly foraging upon the sheltered slopes in company of a few hundred Starlings from everywhere. Flocks of brightly coloured Greenbirds frequented the hedgerows by the roadway; companies of twittering Linnets searched the stubble. The Yellow Buntings and gaily coloured Chaffinches were not easily missed, while a few dainty Wagtails had deserted the recently ploughed lands for the warmth of the valley.

Arrival of Redwings.

A few Redwings have been seen upon the uplands in the south, feeding out in the open among the sheep. No douht, larger flocks will be detected as winter approaches.

Bird Song in the Fields.

Occasional snatches of song may be heard proceeding from the flocks of Finches roaming the fields. The Linnet is an especially tuneful fellow, and is always ready to pipe a few notes when the wind blows or the sun shines.

Robin and Bat Fight.

Some one wrote to a daily paper saying that he found a bat and a Robin dead in his garden, and signs of a battle, both being severely torn and cut. If this encounter actually took place, it must have been a most interesting affair. Which commenced the attack?

A Canary with One Wing.

SIR,—I, too, had a green cock Canary which had one wing. It was a very plucky bird, and no matter how many times it was overbalanced by the other birds, it would always make for the top perch. I kept it a year, and then sold it as a singing bird.

E. M. FLEMONS.

Late Nesting of the Blackbird.

SIR,—Is this a very common occurrence? A friend of mine this morning, November 1st, took a Blackbird's nest of three eggs, and he tells me that the bird was sitting, and that she sat very close. Considering the very bad weather we have had in this part of Sussex (Uckfield), I thought it was very uncommon. I wonder if your readers know of a later occurrence?

The Crested Canary Club.

SIR,—Will you please announce that the C.C.C. book of rules and list of members has been sent out. Any member not having received same will oblige by communicating with me. Also that the word "June" appearing on the front page is a freak of the printers. Further, that Robt. Rhodes, Esq., is again very generously offering a silver cup, value 42s. for the most points scored by a novice member at all shows providing at least two novice classes. In view that this is a somewhat belated notice, points gained at shows already held that have complied with the provisions made, will count. Lastly, will members who have not already paid their subscription, please do so?

Railway Delays Exhibits.

A Claim Made.

SIR,—Owing to the delay by G.W. Rly. Co. my exhibits were too late for judging at Clapham Show. I may say my birds were sent away on Tuesday morning by the 11.40 train, due Paddington 4.30 p.m., and in the ordinary course should have been delivered at the show on Tuesday evening, but through neglect on the part of the railway company, they were not delivered in the show until 2.40 Wednesday afternoon, when they were too late for judging. I have sent a claim in to the railway company, and shall do my best to get some recompense from them. As my exhibits were not marked "absent" in catalogue, or in your report, I would esteem it a favour if you would make a note of same.

Readers will no doubt be very pleased to hear the result of Mr. Longden's claim.—EDITOR.

My Bramblefinch at the City of Glasgow Show.

SIR,—You can imagine my surprise and delight to find my Bramblefinch figured so life-like on the frontispiece of CAGE BIRDS last week; it does the artist, Mr. Aitken, great credit. I have pleasure in sending you a few notes on the bird's history. I caught it in the spring of 1908, and at first, when I put it in a cage, it stood up and looked me in the face with the utmost unconcern. I saw at once from its great size and fine proportions, together with its even spangling, that it had the making of a winner, but as it appeared to be a young bird of the previous year, it was not up in colour. I did not colour-feed it last season, and exhibited it first at the City of Glasgow Show, where it was placed 4th (the same position as this year), and I refused several tempting offers for it that day. I next showed it at the Glasgow and West of Scotland Show, a month later, where it was placed first. I exhibited it at several other shows in the Hardbill class, and it was not beaten again by a Bramblefinch till the Scottish National. A few days before this show we had a furious blizzard, and snow drifted into my outdoor birdroom underneath the door, and next morning the British birds' cages were lined with about an inch of snow. The Bramblefinch was so bedraggled that I hesitated over sending it to Edinburgh, and as it was a shy bather, it was some time before it again got into condition. This season I colour-fed it, and it was only just through the moult at Glasgow and not in really fit condition. For size and symmetry, it will probably never meet its equal; I have never seen so fine a chest on a Bramblefinch, and with good keeping it should have a great future before it. A non-fancier to whom I was once showing it remarked, "It is a fine fowl," and this, after all, is a fitting description. The plucky purchaser declined to leave his name with the City secretary, but apparently thought it would be too cruel to serve me in the same manner; but I think it may be contrary to his desire to disclose it. I was sorry to see him take the bird away, but wished him success from the very bottom of my heart.

Alleged Unfair Treatment at Hanley Show.

SIR,—I sent four entries to Hanley Show, but when I received my tickets I found the secretary had only entered two in the correct classes—the other two he entered wrongly. I wrote to him when I sent my exhibits—one he corrected, but the other he allowed to remain in the wrong class, viz., one, which should have been in class 7. I have written to him since, asking him to return me my entry fee, as the bird was disqualified owing to his fault (thus getting no chance of being judged), but he has not had the courtesy to reply. By the time this is published a fortnight will have elapsed, so my complaint cannot be called hasty. Have any other exhibitors received similar treatment?

Bristol F.A. Show & the C.B.U.

SIR,—When reading my "C.B." this week I was rather interested to find a letter from the secretary of the C.B.U., to the effect that Bournemouth Show was not entitled to any entries from the members of the C.B.U., on account of their subscription not being paid. I have no wish to enter into any controversy, but I would like to ask him why he allowed the C.B.U. members to be misled into entering at the non-licensed show held by the Bristol F.A., they having advertised and posed as a C.B.U. fixture, after being refused a license on account of shifting their date and clashing with the Gloucester and District Cage Bird Show? The former, I may say, is a mixed exhibition (poultry, etc.). The Gloucester Show has been held on the same date for four seasons. Readers will understand that some explanation should be forthcoming, when I say that it is only about 30 miles from Gloucester, and got an entry of 600 (including many C.B.U. members' entries). It will be seen at once how Gloucester suffered, when I say that they only received the miserable entry of 300 in about the same number of classes. It will be interesting to know if these rule breakers of the C.B.U. will have to suffer the penalty. In my humble opinion they are not to blame. I have always been a firm believer in the C.B.U., but must confess I have altered my mind considerably of late.

Rare Mules and Hybrids.

SIR,—I was very much interested on reading the letter on the above in CAGE BIRDS. For the past five years I have been trying my hand at Mule breeding. I have had several hatch out, but could never get any reared. I have tried with Goldfinch and Canary, and Goldfinch and Linnet. This season I am pleased to say I have been successful in rearing four Goldfinch-Linnet Hybrids, reared by the Linnet herself in a small box cage. I do not know if these are very rare or not, as I am a novice. I have also five Goldfinch-Canary Mules. These I know are not rare. I am pleased to say they are all doing well.

A. W. RALPH.

Goldfinch-Linnet Hybrids are not particularly rare, but it is uncommon for the hen Linnet to successfully bring up her young in a small cage.—EDITOR.

SIR,—I have some Goldfinch Mules almost black, excepting a few light feathers between the legs. They have nearly moulted, and are four months old.

A WIMBLEDON READER.

SIR,—Having been a reader of "C.B." from the commencement, and a breeder of birds for over 25 years, I should like to ask through your valuable paper if ever a fancier has bred a Black Mule from a British Goldfinch, and a yellow hen Norwich Canary? I have got one nearly black, bred in my aviary. It is a very nice bird, and can be seen by anyone at any time. I have bred Mules and Hybrids, also I have brod Thrushes in my aviary, but as for this Black Mule (as I term it) I have never in all my experience seen one before. I have had nearly clears, but never before a black one. I must say that it has come darker since moulting. I wish CAGE BIRDS every success in the future.

An Appeal from Glasgow and West of Scotland Show.

SIR,—As secretary of the above open show, kindly allow me to appeal to fanciers for their support. Our loss of £50 last season was a blow that many a club would find difficulty in overcoming. This loss was chiefly owing to the now famous circular that was issued against the club on the eve of our last show. Yet in spite of this loss, we paid over £100 in prize money within eight days of the show, and in less than two months from date of show the whole of the club's liabilities were paid in full. The guarantee fund raised by the members to cover any possible loss has placed the club in a strong financial position, so that fanciers need not listen to any idle rumours that may be circulated. To the fanciers who have patronised the show in the past, I need not appeal, as I am confident of their support, but to those fanciers who withhold their entries owing to this circular, I must appeal, if only to prove to them the falsity of the statements it contained. I especially invite them to visit the show and see for themselves the ideal way it is conducted. I would like to draw the attention of the Border Fancy men to a mistake in the schedule. The clear classes should read "clear or ticked," and ticked birds will be eligible to compete in these classes.

How to Catch Birds out of an Aviary.

SIR,—Your readers may be interested to know my method of catching birds in an aviary. Cut a hole in the aviary wire about 3½ins. by 3ins. (or to suit the door of any old cage) about a quarter of an inch above the end of the aviary perch. Then fix the cage door over the hole by means of two bent wire hinges on one side and have another piece of bent wire to use, as shown in the sketch, as a catch or latch. Then get a strip of ½in. wire netting, 24ins. long by 6ins. wide, and bend this into four to make the sides of a cage, joining the two ends at "A." You will then have the cage (marked "B" in sketch). The cage can be fixed by twisting the wire ends round the wires of the aviary. The trap-door "C" is a piece of ½in. mesh wire, 6ins. square, and is stiffened up round the edges by means of ordinary cage wire threaded in; or the wire edges may be bent round the cage-wire. And "D" indicates a piece cut out of this trap-door, so that the door will clear the aviary perch, above which the cage is immediately situated. The apparatus is then complete. To work it the operator must stand a short distance from the aviary, and must have hold of a string (E), which, fastened to the little trap-door by the one end, passes (to the operator) outside the aviary. A tit-bit should be placed on the door E. When this is done the required bird will soon be caught, as once it has entered the cage by the trap door you have only to let go the string by which the trap-door has been held up, and so let the door down, and you have secured your bird. A light spring or weight on "C" will prevent any bird from forcing the trap-door open, and thus getting free again. I have this apparatus fixed in my own aviary, and I find it very useful. I hope it will prove equally helpful and useful to other readers of CAGE BIRDS.

Garden Birds and their Ways.

SIR,—I thought that probably your readers would be interested in the following birdy items. A friend of mine has a large garden which is the home of many small birds. This year a pair of Linnets built their nest in an evergreen shrub, and a sweet little nest it was. The birds were very tame, the hen sitting quite still when stroked while on the nest by the mistress of the house. When the eggs hatched (five in number), the little hen resented being caressed, and pecked fiercely at any hand that ventured near her pretty home. But as the young grew she became more docile, and even condescended to take bits of egg from my friend's fingers and pop them into the hungry mouths of her little ones. This continued every day until the young Linnets were fledged. Then my friend had the pleasure of seeing papa Linnet teaching his babies to fly. How proud he was of them! He would sit on a twig puffing out his little red breast, his tiny throat swelling with joyous song. Or he would take quick little flights calling his children to follow him, chirruping excitedly the while. Then came a day when the whole family flew right round the garden, and a few days after the parents disappeared, probably to find a new nesting site. The young Linnets remained in the garden. "Susanna" was a very tame little hen Sparrow. In the summer tea was taken in the garden, and "Susanna" always came to tea. At about half-past four she would come flying down and hop round my friend's chair. If tea was later than usual, she would become impatient and fly upon my friend's shoulder or knee and sit with her beak wide open, making a funny squeaky noise, positively begging, in fact. She would eat anything—bread and butter, cake, jam; and nothing came amiss. This year "Susanna" took a mate and they built a nest in the ivy on the house, and very soon had a large family to feed. A pet Canary hung in the cage on the wall during the day, and he struck up a violent flirtation with Mrs. "Susanna." He talked to her prettily in Sparrow language, which he imitated perfectly. And she comes and sits on the end of his perch which projects from his cage, while he feeds and sings to her. I often wonder what Mr. Sparrow could have been about to have allowed such behaviour. It would be interesting to know if these two would breed and produce Hybrids. I must not forget "Bobbie," a dear wee Robin. Unlike "Susanna," he would stay in the garden with us all day, only hopping off now and then to catch an unwary worm or grub, which he killed and swallowed with great gusto. He was also very fond of bread and scraps of meat. He would sit quietly on my friend's chair-back for hours at a time, with all but his pretty head and large bright eyes motionless. I really think he was far more affectionate than "Susanna," and not half so greedy.

The Modern Norwich Plainhead.

SIR,—On looking through CAGE BIRDS of October 16th, I could not help but greatly admire the picture of the Greenfinches therein. But what struck me most were their beautiful compact wings and tail—perfection in themselves—and I thought what a pity it was that they could not be transferred on to some of the present-day winning Norwich Plainheads. What an improvement it would make in them. After looking that number through I laid it down on the bed (I am a sick man at the time of writing), and picked up last week's number of October 23rd (containing report of our Hyson Green Show—sorry I could not be there), and on looking through this amazing double number, it certainly did astonish me to see the Scottish Norwich Plainhead depicted; it tickled me, and I certainly had to smile, sick as I was. Surely if this is a picture of what the Scotchman calls a "true Norwich," then Heaven help the Scotch Norwich Plainheads.

Bramblefinch-Hybrids Bred this Season.

SIR,—"Hybrid," in issue of October 30th, is anxious to know if any Bramblefinch-Hybrids have been bred this season. I would inform him that I had a cock Bramblefinch with two hen Chaffinches. These hens nested and had three good eggs each. One egg I broke, with a live chick in it nearly ready to hatch. The other two in the nests hatched out strong and healthy. The hen Chaffinch sat and hatched them, also fed the young for a little time. One lived to be four days old, the other eight days. The second nested and had four eggs, three good. I sat one egg under a Canary hen with her own eggs. The Hybrid hatched out in eleven days, Canaries two days later. The Canaries were fed and lived; the Hybrid died. The next two eggs I put under a paid of good feeding Canaries, having the Hybrid eggs only. These also hatched out in eleven days. The birds were fed well with specially prepared insectivorous food. I saw the old birds on the edge of nest feeding one each in earnest. But two days later they were almost in a pulp under the hen. The British birds were kept with other birds in the garden, the small aviary being about 8½ft. long, 6ft. high, and 5ft. wide. One hen Greenfinch laid 15 eggs; but I could not get them near the right time for the Bramble-Chaffinch eggs. She fed and reared 10 young birds without any assistance, three being Greenfinches and seven Goldie-Greenfinches. I am keeping them all in the same aviary in hopes of doing better next time, if all is well.

The Birds of the Belgian Sand Dunes.

SIR,—A few years ago we used to live at a place called Middelkuke, halfway between Ostend and Nieuport, on the Belgian coast. When I came home for the holidays I had ample time to follow my favourite pursuit, viz., to watch the habits of the different species of birds. In the Spring and Summer, if the season is a warm one, insect life abounds, and naturally insectivorous birds are very common. Here the Nightingale breeds. One very hot summer I found a nest of this species containing four eggs about the middle of August. The Shorelark is very common, and its song can be heard from one individual or another during the whole course of a spring ramble. I once found three nests of this species in a morning's walk. My favourite walks were taken on the Dunes, the Nieuport side of the Middelkuke, as these are less frequented, and therefore bird life is more prevalent. The Yellowhammer is common, and I have found its nest on very many occasions, generally situated on the ground at the base of a small bush containing, as a rule, from four to five eggs. The Stonechat is as common as the Yellowhammer, its nest being situated often in like localities; but I have also found it in open ground behind a huge tuft of coarse grass. This latter is a round stalk grass, very useful here, as the roots are very long and strong, and serve to bind the sand, and thus keep it from blowing away. The Wheatear and Whinchat are to be met with, too. I have never found the nest of the former, but I once found one of the latter containing four young almost ready to fly. I visited it two days later, and they had gone. The Cuckoo is very common, but curiously enough I have never found its egg nor a young bird. Thrushes, Chaffinches, Robins, Hedge Sparrows and Blackbirds are almost unknown. The first two and the last-named are much prized as cage birds by the peasants on account of their scarcity. I have never seen a wild Chaffinch or Thrush in this district, and not more than half a dozen Blackbirds in as many years. I have never noticed the species, not being on the look-out for them, but I feel sure that the Dartford Warbler might be met with here. Blackcaps are to be seen. They are about as common as the Wheatear and Whinchat. I was once walking along a lonely lane having a high hedge on one side, when I was suddenly disturbed by the loud chirping of a small flock of Sparrows, who flew away at great speed. Looking up, I saw a Red-backed Shrike perched within a few yards of me, and it was a very handsome bird. When walking along the bank of one of the numerous dykes in this neighbourhood, I saw a Willow Wren caught in an eel net which had been hung up to dry; it had passed through each hole until it found itself in the last cavity. In the winter Wild Ducks, Geese, Carrion Crows and Hooded Crows are numerous on the beach feeding on the refuse and shellfish cast up by the sea. Hooded Crows are especially numerous, vieing almost with the Gulls for supremacy of numbers. Some of the former remain to breed in the plantations near the river at Nieuport. I once saw a very large Gull indeed; I saw the name of the species somewhere, but I have now forgotten it. Starlings are here in immense flocks at this season of the year. A birdcatcher told me he once caught 500, according to his judgment (as he did not count them) in one morning. He said, however, that they taste bitter unless their heads are cut off. One day I found a fine specimen of the Short-eared Owl frozen as hard as a stone. It had no marks of injuries, so I could not understand how it met its death. A few days later I saw several of this species flying about the Dunes. They did not seem to relish it, however, and would fly about 30 yards and then come to ground. They could see quite distinctly enough to evade capture. At this season of the year the cries of the various sea birds are very distinct and loud at night, and, to my ears, also very fascinating. One bright frosty morning I saw a small flock of Cornbuntings hunting for food at the water line on the beach, a favourite resort also of the Shorelarks. I once caught what I took to be a hen Black Redstart in the garden of a market gardener. The next spring a pair of these birds bred in the same garden; the young were hatched, and on the point of flying when they were destroyed by a cat. "Black Redstart" sounds something like "White Blackbird," but we must give them their names until others are invented. I have seen the Redstart here. A pair used to breed every year in an outhouse at the back of our house. Cats being, happily, more uncommon here than in England, the peasants eat them when hard up for food, and say that a young cat is as good as a rabbit. Greenfinches are caught here in late Autumn and Winter, and fetch about the same price as in this country. Jackdaws breed here in the chimneys, as most of the houses are uninhabited during the greater part of the year. I once purchased a young bird for 5d., and brought it up on bread and milk. I always whistled the same note on going to feed it, and it became accustomed to this call. Although remarkably tame when in my company, it was not so even in that of the other members of the family. I taught it to say a few short words. I heard a great chirping one morning, and there was my Jackdaw holding a Sparrow firmly by the leg. Another day I found a dead Sparrow almost completely plucked. This 'Daw I allowed at liberty except at night. It would fly about, but always returned when I whistled. There being other Jackdaws about I was not surprised to see one day that it had disappeared. I hunted about, however, and on a roof about half a mile from home, I espied what I took to be my bird. I whistled, and it flew down and perched on my shoulder. After this I cut the feathers of one wing. I happened to be away for six months, and on my return, to my great disappointment and surprise it had become wild and hardly knew me. I whistled, however, and it turned its head first to one side and then the other, as if trying to remember the sound; but it never recovered its former gentle and pleasing manner. A villager once had the good fortune to shoot a wild Swan; he invited all his intimate friends, and they had a grand feast, and it was pronounced excellent by all. I was informed by the natives that certain of the sea birds sometimes bred in the Dunes, but most of these birds seek nesting places elsewhere. The Magpie is to be met with more inland, but I have only found its nest on one occasion. The Stork is sometimes met with in murky land near the canals. I have seen it on very few occasions; it does not breed in this neighbourhood. The beach shooting in winter is very good; but now the whole stretch from Middelkuke to Nieuport has been let to a private society.

Mr. J. E. Reeves. The Drying Cage. Mr. A. Mallett.

A Drying Cage for which High Claims are Made.

SIR,—I enclose photos of Mr. A. Mallett (West Ham), and myself, Mr. J. E. Reeves (Canning Town), inventors and makers of a drying cage (photo enclosed) for birds after being washed for the show-bench. Many designs have been brought out at the Palace and other places, some large and clumsy, others smaller and attractive to the eye, but none seem to have been what is required. The usual method is to dry in a cage before a fire, where, however, no regular heat can be guaranteed. Good judgment often has to be used in front of a fierce fire, to keep the feathers from curling by drying too quickly. The birds are then put into an ordinary cage and left for the night, but when the fire is gone out (especially in cold weather) the change is too sudden, and gives a chill to the bird so that it is no good for show purposes, and is often fatal. As enthusiastic fanciers, who do not object to trouble, time, or expense (as far as our pockets will comfortably allow), we have tried many experiments to get an ideal drying cage, and until another that proves better is put before us, we think this one equal to any yet seen. It is convenient, and well answers the purpose it is intended for. We have thought and worked together in harmony (as fanciers ought to work) and after a final test, I have come to the conclusion that the idea is a success, and it has been thought out for the Fancy at large, as well as for ourselves. As this useful appliance is neither protected nor patented we as fanciers ask all who are interested in the hobby, and can use tools, to make one. If you cannot wash your own birds, have the necessary appliance by you, to save your friends carrying their own about, which some kind-hearted old fanciers have to do for many miles. After the birds have been washed, the case can be stood on the table; the tank in the bottom is filled with boiling water. The birds after being rolled in the flannel are laid on the perforated tray over the tank, and after they have been there the necessary time, they are taken out of the flannel, and put into the flight above, with a perforated tray over where they had been laying. This is repeated till all the birds are washed. The flight has a glass front, which protects the birds from draught. The heat from the tank and the vapour from the birds can be regulated by a thermometer inside, and two 2-inch discs on the top. The birds can remain in this state till the next day without any fear of their getting a chill, or of the feathers drying too quickly, as before a fire. My idea is that, after the birds have been washed, and allowed to remain in a space where there is a moist heat, by flying about and preening themselves, the feathers gradually dry and retain their natural sheen and tight position. Anyhow, it has proved so after the many successful trials we have made. Work worth doing is worth doing well. The following are the dimensions: Inside measurements, case 21 inches square, and 10 inches deep; flight, 12 inches high, with perforated zinc bottom tray; drying compartment, 5 inches high, with tray as above, which is direct over the tank; tank space, 4 inches high. The tank is made of copper, and covered with flannel to retain the heat. It slides in at the back, on 1 inch blocks screwed to the bottom of the case, and has 1 inch space all round, so as not to come into contact with the case; it also gives a good surface of heat. The back of flight is 11¼ inches, with a 4 inch round hole for the door in the centre, with two stump perches screwed on from the back, the ¾ inch perforated tray, which slides in from the back, making it up to 12 inches for flight, and acting as a block for the two doors of the drying compartment, where another tray slides in, acting the same as a block for the two doors for the tank space. There are two folding doors, hinged, and opening outwards for the drying compartments; also two more for the tank space, which can be opened singly if required. When cleaning, the doors are opened and the trays taken out, giving the whole a clear space. As this appliance is left entirely in Mr. Mallett's charge, we have agreed to show and explain the working to any fanciers (local especially), wherever it can be arranged. After the boxing contest between Summers and Welsh, on November 8th, I am leaving England on the 12th to take Summers out to Australia and India, and I hope to make a few fancier friends on the other side of the water before I return home, when I hope to bring back in Johnny Summers the light-weight champion of the world. I have handed my valuable stock over till my return, and their showing, to the care or Mr. Mallett, who has proved himself a thorough fancier not only of Canaries and British and foreign birds, but of such interesting soft-bills as the Hoopoe, Woodcock, Snipe, Nightingales, Redstart and Grey Wagtails. A visit by fanciers to his bird-room, which is styled by some, "Perfection," would be found very interesting. I wish all the fancy a successful show season, and on my return in 1910 I hope to hear of its having been a good breeding season.

A Library For Bird-Lovers.

Brief particulars of some of "Cage Birds" SPECIAL PUBLICATIONS for keepers of birds, with post free prices.

THE HYGIENE OF BIRD-KEEPING, 1/1.—By W. Geo. Creswell, M.D. Thoroughly treats of modern hygiene (the science of health) in bird-keeping.

SEPTIC FEVER OR CANARY PLAGUE, 7d.—By R. H. Clarke, M.D. The only booklet published concerning this dread disease, which Dr. Clarke has given very special study.

THE NORWICH PLAINHEAD CANARY, 1½d.—By J. H. Payne. Pronounced by all experts to be a most valuable pamphlet concerning the breeding of the variety; written by one of our leading judges.

CANARY BREEDING FOR BEGINNERS, 7d.—By Claude St. John. A Practical, up-to-date guide to Canary breeding, designed specially for the use of the beginner. Deals very fully with the choice, sexing, and mating of the birds, feeding for condition, the cages and their fittings, the bird-room, egg-food, nest-building, rearing and moulting the young, colour-feeding, training for show, and all the difficulties likely to confront the breeder.

MEATING-OFF AND FEEDING SOFTBILLS, 6½d.—By John Frostick. No fancier of Insectivorous Birds who wishes to succeed in his hobby can afford to be without a copy. It also contains notes on Bird Trapping, Cages, etc.

SEEDS, FOODS, AND WILD PLANTS FOR CAGE BIRDS, 1/2. — By various leading authors. Full information on the seeds suitable for all cage birds, their food values, uses, etc., with descriptions and illustrations of the wild plants indispensable to the successful keeping of British and other birds.

HOUSE'S CANARY MANUAL, 1/2.—By C. A. House. A thorough, practical guide to the general management and breeding of Canaries, dealing fully with the breeding, etc., of every member of the Canary family, including the Roller (or Singing) Canary. An illustration of each bird, by the master Canary artist, Mr. H. Norman; exhaustive chapters on aviaries and cages, breeding procedure, moulting, exhibiting, diseases, and seeds—a compendium of knowledge.

BUDGERIGARS AND COCKATEELS, 6d.—By C. P. Arthur. The breeding of Budgerigars and Cockateels is recognised as one of the most profitable and pleasure-giving sides of foreign bird-keeping. This eminent authority gives very full details upon how to keep, feed, breed, tame, and teach them to talk.

FOREIGN BIRDS FOR BEGINNERS, 1/1.—By W. T. Page, F.Z.S., etc., Foreign Bird Expert to "Cage Birds." A highly instructive Manual. It contains a magnificent coloured plate and a number of black and white illustrations. Indispensable to all keepers of Foreign Birds. Replete with useful hints.

BRITISH BIRD MANUAL, 2/3 (cloth bound).—By H. Norman; or may be had in two parts. Part 1: "Hardbills," and Part 2: "Softbills." Either Part, price 1/1, post free. Each part contains a beautiful and life-like coloured plate and numerous illustrations of birds and cages. Up-to-date information on the keeping of British Birds; full of extremely valuable hints.

COLOUR FEEDING OF CANARIES AND OTHER BIRDS, 3½d.—By J. W. Ramsden. Tells you how to mix the colour-food, and how to moult the birds to get the richest possible colour.

THE STOCK BOOK, 7d.—By G. E. Weston. Of our invaluable "Breeding Room Register" a well-known fancier has said:—"It makes bird-breeding easy." No breeder of birds can possibly afford to be without it. It simplifies the operations in the bird-room and makes it possible for everyone, even the veriest novice, to breed his birds as they should be bred. Contains both Pedigree, Breeding, Young Bird, and Show Registers of simple and unique character, in addition to useful account pages, and many invaluable "Hints for Emergencies."

AVIARIES, BIRD-ROOMS, AND CAGES, 2/3 (cloth gilt).—By H. Norman. Contains ten lovely full-page photographic plates. A practical guide which deals thoroughly with the proper Building, Fitting, and Management of Aviaries and Bird-rooms, and the making of Cages.

YORKSHIRE CANARIES, 1/1½.—By H. W. Battye (Past President of the Yorkshire Union). Absolutely the very best Handbook dealing with the Yorkshire and its sub-varieties. Contains complete instructions upon Pairing, Breeding, Moulting, and successful Exhibiting, also how to treat in both health and disease.

NORWICH CANARIES, 1/1.—By C. A. House. Tells the fancier all that he needs to know to enable him to become successful as a breeder, and exhibitor of the Norwich Plainhead. The chapters on "Forming a Stud," and "How to Produce the Ideal" are worth the cost of the whole book many times over.

BIRDS OF THE COUNTRYSIDE, 5/4.—By Frank Finn, B.A., F.Z.S. A handbook to the wild life of all our familiar British birds; their appearance and habits accurately described. With 12 beautiful coloured plates, and 118 photographic illustrations. A charming gift book.

PETS, AND HOW TO KEEP THEM, 5/4.—By Frank Finn, B.A., F.Z.S. Gives the correct method of housing, feeding, and managing every kind of pet; all sorts of animals are dealt with—monkeys, dogs, cats, lizards, tortoises, also gold and other fancy fish, while there is a large section devoted to birds. Contains many coloured plates and illustrations from photographs. Another charming gift book.

FANCIERS' PRINTING.—Fanciers requiring business notepaper, postcards, trade envelopes, etc., should write us for a quotation. We are now in a position to supply these at specially low rates combined with first-class work. Artistic memos., with block of any desired bird, and fancier's name, address, and 12 words of description, 25s 2/-, 500 2/6, carriage paid.

A Goldfinch with a White Cap.

SIR,—I have taken your valuable papor, CAGE BIRDS, for a very long period, and should very much like you to ask if any of my brother fanciers have over seen or heard of a White-capped cock Goldfinch. He is a beautiful bird, just got through the moult. He has always had a white cap on the head, about the size of a threepenny-bit.

A FANCIER.

A Cage Bird Union Matter.

SIR,—May I through tho medium of your valuable paper ask, why should it be possible for a C.B.U. delegate to be in the position to stop the secretary of the Alnwick Society from paying his prize money to an exhibitor who is alleged to be under suspension, although the said society accepted this party's entries? My contention is that the society are liable, and that they are bound to pay. I might add that the same delegate is this week showing at an unregistered or unaffiliated show, that is, the Derwent Valley Show. Numerous comments were heard all over the show room, such as: Why should such a party be allowed to act as a delegate when he so very deliberately breaks the rules himself, yet reports all who do likewise? Surely the C.B.U. Executive will not in the interests of fairness sanction such inconsistency. Many in the North of England will be glad to know how the delegate himself answers the above.

Delay in Returning Birds from Shows.

SIR,—At a recent show, birds have been shamefully delayed in being returned, being held up till Monday. The secretary blames the railway company, and the railway company, on being appealed to, the officials hold that the management knew, or ought to have known, that they do not accept parcel traffic after eight o'clock, and that they do not take live stock, which they are unable to deliver on the evening of the day on which it is despatched. In the case which came under notice lately, the exhibits were not passed into the possession of the railway company till 4 p.m. on the Monday. The disappointment of the Saturday was embittered by the greater disappointment of the Monday. Your readers can imagine the chagrin of the working man losing a day's work and tramping five or six times to learn that his birds had not arrived, and then having to go away without satisfaction. It is not good enough, and I hope the show managers will explain the delay through your columns, so that exhibitors may know what to do and what to expect. I have seen every bird packed up and ready for dispatch by 6 p.m. Why was that not done this year?

A WILD BIRD FANCIER.

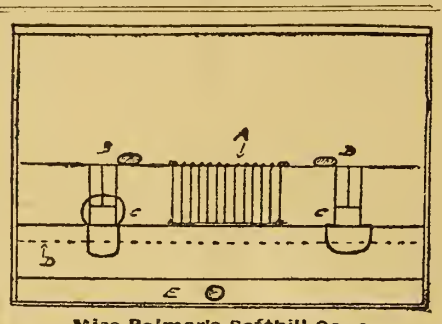
Bournemouth Show and the Cage Bird Union.

SIR,—In reply to the letter from the secretary of the C.B.U., I regret the paragraph to which Mr. J. Raynes refers was included in the schedule through an oversight. At the same time, I would like to point out to him that every fancier is eligible to exhibit at the Bournemouth Show, it being open to everybody. We are running our show this year free from any Union control, our experience being that the Union as at present constituted has not achieved its object in helping the Fancy.

MONTAGUE E. FELTHAM, hon. sec.

SIR,—May I trespass on your kindness to insert this reply to the letter you published in your last issue from the Secretary of the Cage Bird Union? I would like to give a few of the reasons why the Bournemouth and Dist. C.B.A. have withdrawn from the Union. I may say, in passing, that it is not the inability to pay their subscriptions (which the C.B.U. letter seems to imply), and the collecting of which appears to be the main object of the Union. Our action has been taken as a protest against the Union, and I would ask the Union officials to state what good they have ever yet done for the Fancy. The members of the B. and D.C.B.A., are as good fanciers as others, and they are ready to support the Union if it can show it is now doing, or has ever done, any good to the Cage Bird Fancy. Our experience is the reverse. At present its preference is given to the non-affiliated exhibitor. He is encouraged to show at Union Shows, whilst also exhibiting at non-licensed shows, without incuring the slightest penalty. But should the unfortunate affiliated member retaliate by doing the same, he is promptly suspended by the Union he supports, the effect being that it pays best to belong to no society whatever. Thus the Union is working directly against all Cage Bird Societies, by encouraging exhibitors to desert from their societies and become free agents. Another experience we have suffered is that the C.B.U. by its many and almost unintelligible rules, has given the death-blow to the small mixed show. A few years ago a number of these shows were held annually in this district, their cage bird support being derived almost entirely from the B. and D. C.B.A., but rather than be worried by restrictions they did not understand, they have dropped cage birds entirely, and to-day in a radius of nearly 50 miles the only open show of cage birds is Bournemouth, which the C.B.U. with its plea of helping forward the Fancy is trying to wreck.

G. W. JONES,
Chairman Bournemouth Show Committee.



Birds Without Water at Shows.

SIR,—I notice your Mr. Weston, in one of his replies to a correspondent, says, "Birds are watered as soon as they reach the show." I wish this were true, but unfortunately I have often seen birds that have been without water until quite late in the afternoon; in fact, until after the judge had made the awards. This means that some of the birds had been without water for 24 hours, or even more, as many of them being sent long distances had to be despatched at least by midday on the day previous to the show. I do think that stewards should give all birds (Crests excepted) at least one-third, or not more than half, a tinful of water before judging, as I am satisfied that many valuable birds are lost through the neglect of this. I know some exhibitors are foolish enough to send their birds without water tins, and are probably surprised when their birds reach home half dead, but this, of course, is their own fault. With regard to Crests, I think these should always be judged first, and then they could be watered at the commencement of judging, and not late in the afternoon.

How to Keep Large Softbills Successfully.

SIR,—I have always found Softbills a great deal more docile and far tamer than Hardbills, but when kept in a cage they are more difficult to cater for, though they are worth the little extra trouble bestowed upon them. When keeping Softbills don't forget that a large cage is required. I have found exercise to be almost as important as food to them. I have often seen Blackbirds and Thrushes imprisoned in tiny cages only suitable for a Canary, and oh! how stunted in form, and what ragged plumage these poor little songsters have, not to mention their dirty feet. I know that a large Softbill cage is an expensive luxury. Well, don't buy one. Get a nice large box from your grocer, say about three feet long, two feet high, and one foot deep, and distemper it a nice pale blue or green (you can get Hall's distemper at any oilman's at about 3d. per lb.). When you have painted your box inside, get a piece of wood and nail it across the front. You will find a piece about four inches wide will do nicely. Of course, see it is long enough to fit inside your cage (see sketch). Take care to leave about an inch and a-half at the bottom for the sand tray, which you can easily have made for you at a small cost. Have the tray of zinc. Now get a punch-bar wire front, which you can get made for you very cheaply, and fix this in, and you have a splendid cage at very little cost. The cage is suitable for any Softbill up to the size of a Blackbird.

Advice to those Starting Canary Breeding.

SIR,—Some little advice to novices on the way to attain success in Canary breeding may prove helpful, so I pen the following. In the first place, the novice should remember not to start Canary breeding too early; the last week in March is quite soon enough, and if the birds with which he intends commencing are fed through the winter on plenty of good Spanish Canary seed as a staple diet, with a little maw and rape seeds (mixed) added twice a week, and a piece of boiled carrot or sweet apple, they will be in tight condition by this time. The breeding cage should be nicely enamelled inside to help keep away the red mites which are pretty sure to be about before the end of the summer. The first rule that must be consistently acted upon is that both birds must be in brooding condition before pairing up, that is, the cock must be in full song, and the hen jumping excitedly from perch to perch flapping her wings. At this time do not worry your birds. Fishermen are careful not to disturb the fish they are after, and the huntsman takes care not to frighten the game; the bird breeder must likewise be equally careful not to intrude at untimely moments. When the pair of birds are first put into the breeding cage, they should be separated for a day or two by a wire partition, and the food must be changed to Canary seed with a little hemp and a pinch of rape, the rape being previously boiled for about three minutes and then rubbed in a cloth until dry. Then when the cock bird is seen feeding the hen through the wires, draw the partition away and put a nest-pan or box in the cage, together, with material for the making of the nest. Should Hyde's medicated nest bags be used, give only a little material at first, as the hen usually plays about with it for a day or so; and should the whole bag be used, it will get dirty on the bottom of the cage, and be wasted. Be careful to place the nest about an inch above the perch, and not in an out of the way corner; it is impossible for the cock to fertilise eggs when the nest is near the top of the cage. Half a teaspoonful of egg food (equal quantity of finely chopped hard boiled egg and bread crumbs) should be given to the cock bird daily as a tit-bit; he will share this with his mate and she will soon want to lay. Take the first and second eggs away when laid and substitute "pot" ones. When the third egg is laid, take the substitute away and put all the eggs together in the nest. On the fourteenth day the hen may be expected to hatch them. Now, the novice should be warned against being too eager to see the young ones. When he listens in the morning he will have no difficulty in hearing them. When the young are hatched, give one teaspoonful of egg food fresh three times a day in the cage. Particular attention should be paid to this point. After the third day a little green food—watercress, lettuce, or shepherd's purse—may be given as well; the last mentioned is best, as there is no fear of one's giving too much of it. Leave the young ones entirely alone until they hop out of the nest of their own accord, which will be when they are three weeks old. It is most difficult to get them to remain in the nest after they have once been out, and the longer they remain in, the healthier they will be. As soon as the young are on the perches, partition them off and let the parents feed them through the wires for about a week, after which they will be old enough to be put into the flight cage. They should then be fed on crushed hemp and egg food, until they are gradually got on to plain Spanish Canary seed. The dropping on the bottom of the cage should be covered over daily with a good gritty sand, and the feeding and drinking vessels kept absolutely clean. A little cuttlefish bone placed between the wires will keep the youngsters strong and happy. When the youngsters are about eight or ten weeks old, they will commence to moult. Great care will have to be used to distinguish the moult from inflammation of the bowels. When any bird gets puffy and mopes about the bottom of the cage aimlessly, it must at once be seen to. Place the bird in your left hand with its head between the thumb and first finger and turn your hand round so that the bird is lying on its back; then blow the feathers up gently from the tail, and should the stomach appear red (a healthy bird's stomach is yellow), you may be sure it has eaten too much egg food. Put the bird on to a diet of milk sop (that is, a piece of stale bread soaked in boiling milk and pressed nearly dry), and give six drops of tincture of rhubarb in its drinking water. Take extra care to keep it away from all draughts. By way of a tonic, give a little sulphate of iron occasionally, just sufficient to colour the water. Lastly, do not forget to buy CAGE BIRDS with its fund of knowledge, every week.

Alleged Mutilation of Exhibition Birds.

SIR,—While sympathising with Mr. Hall in the way his bird (third at Longton, but out of the cards at Peterboro') was received home, viz., minus of feathers, I think it hardly fair to blame the officials at Peterborough Show, without having some ground. I happened to be a visitor from Spalding, and was in the hall from 3 o'clock until 8.30 (a half-hour before the close of the show) with the exception of a few minutes I left for some tea. During this time—and one must speak as one finds things—the arrangements, care of the birds, and courtesy from officials and stewards, were all that could be desired. I saw nothing wrong with a single bird. I am sorry for Mr. Cocks, the secretary; also his fellow-workers, that some of them should be accused, or even suspected, of such a trick; but I was not an hon. sec. to the Spalding and District Society for two years without having my eyes opened to the fact that there are a great number of exhibitors who are always ready to throw stones and blame the officials at the show for anything that has gone wrong, even if this has happened in transit. My last word to Mr. Hall is—that should anything go wrong in the future, would it not be better to write to the secretary in the first instance (who, I am sure, if approached in a gentlemanly and true fancier's spirit, would make enquiries on the quiet to try and find the culprit) and not rush to the Press, and "expose" a society which—as Mr. Rowles puts it in his letter—holds a world-wide reputation, and is second to none for its management?

George: The Pet Rook.

Sharp Stones as an Aid to Health.

SIR,—I forward you the enclosed letter, which I recently read in my weekly paper, for I believe it will greatly interest CAGE BIRDS' readers, especially the part about the giving of sharp stones. The writer, who signs himself "E. B. P.," says:—When George first made his appearance in the family circle he consisted of a most forbidding-looking, unctuous, small black spongy mass, incapable of any movement save that of opening his mouth for food. He was found almost unconscious beneath an elm where his parent Rooks had built a nest. At first he was only fed on sop, but after a time a light diet of worms was recommended. Then came the turning point of George's existence. A friend who had had some experience with birds, happened to be staying in the same house and, to the horror of George's guardians, he deliberately dropped down the ever-gaping beak eight small, sharp stones. From that remarkable day George ceased to be a fledgeling and became a Rook. Shortly his appetite increased by leaps and bounds, and I have known him devour in one morning forty-eight worms, some of which resembled small snakes. This, with a stone diet, brought him on at a great pace, and soon the coarse fluff which had covered his black body was replaced by short quills, each feather neatly wrapped up in its paper-like sheath. The glossy black plumage, with its iridescent colour, soon followed, and from an ugly, shapeless mass George became a fine, handsome bird. Curiously, his tail has never grown, and he remains a "Manx" Rook. Unfortunately, owing to his severe fall in early life, George's hip had become dislocated, but Nature made, as usual, the best of the job, and he soon was able to get about well; in fact, his adoring family circle thought the curious hop-and-go-one action rather added to his charm. Though now becoming very fierce with strangers, George was still devoted to his young mistress, and it was an amusing sight to see him sitting on the back of her chair, his head on one side and beak wide open, holding long and affectionate conversation with her, and, as a great treat, at intervals being allowed to swallow her finger. As he grew older his taste for worms seemed to wane, and he much preferred woodlice, earwigs and spiders as meat diet, while taking his regular meals of sop, plain milk pudding (to which he was devoted) and a slice or two of bread-and-butter at tea. The cat and dog, who before had ruled the roost, were now completely routed, and if they dared approach too near to the tea-table, George invariably lobbed out and, with raised crest and flashing eyes, drove them into the bushes, pursuing them for some distance. They developed a wholesome respect for that powerful beak, which was driven with a hammer-like stroke into his opponent.

The Liverpool and District Amalgamation Show.

SIR,—Delegates representing the Liverpool, Wallasey, Birkenhead, Garston and Bootle Societies attended the first meeting in connection with the Liverpool and District Amalgamation Show, at 28, Pembroke-place, Liverpool, by the kind permission of Mr. S. Hadwin. Mr. Frank Hawkes acted as chairman, and opened the proceedings with a few well-chosen remarks, inviting the hearty co-operation (on the Secretary's behalf) of the gentlemen present, who responded with offers of every assistance to make this show a big success. One of the Garston delegates gave a full and complete explanation, along with his society's regrets, for not holding the show in Garston last year (which was unanimously accepted). The meeting then proceeded with the business of the evening, with the following results:—Mr. S. Hadwin (Liverpool) is to judge the Yorkshire and Border Classes, and Mr. J. W. Bancroft (Cheshire) the Norwich and British bird classes, with the same classification as at the last amalgamation show. The show will be held in St. Leonard's Hall, Peel Road, Bootle, on January 1st. Members belonging to any of the above-mentioned societies, who have not paid their subscriptions for 1909, will not be allowed to compete at this show. I beg to tender my sincere thanks to the gentlemen concerned, for the able and expeditious manner in which they handled the business.

THE SHOWS.

WEYBRIDGE.

A capital collection of birds was got together at the show of the Weybridge Fanciers Society on November 2nd and 3rd. The show was under the patronage of the Southern Yorks C.C., and some magnificent birds were shown by its members. Mr. Rennie had quite a field day, winning four firsts and two specials, besides other honours in the six classes. Messrs. Howes Bros. won the two specials for cocks, with a magnificent variegated yell., one of the finest Yorkies we have handled this season. Mr. Rennie captured both the specials given for hens with a regular little charmer. The novice section was hardly so good as we expected it, yet some capital birds were shown, amongst the best being those of Messrs. Buckingham, Underwood, Silverthorne, Found and Whittome. The two classes for Borders brought together some very typical birds, several of them being equal to holding their own in far more extended competition. We would, however, remind exhibitors of these "wee gems" that these birds must be put down in absolutely the pink of condition. In the British section Mr. Jupe, of Petersfield, put down a Goldfinch and Bullfinch, which excel anything we have seen in the South this season. Mr. H. E. Parrott secured the cup for the best bird shown by a member, and also the special for the second best, the two birds being the second in yellow and fourth in buff Yorkshires, two very creditable specimens indeed. Mr. Parrott broke out in a fresh place and scored first and special with a Parrot (no pun)—one of the best Greys we have seen shown for some time. The whole of the arrangements were most excellently carried out by the committee, at the head of which was Mr. R. Ellwood, who had a good "vice" in Mr. W. Hodges, and their colleagues being Messrs. W. J. Randall, H. Jennings, C. Benstead, A. Marchant, W. Fogwell, E. Squire, G. Gillingham, W. Robbins, H. Parrott, F. Foster, T. Underwood, F. W. Wells and A. Potter. The birds were staged in a room by themselves, and were as snug and comfortable as if they were at home. Mr. H. E. Parrott, the secretary, had all the details of his office in apple-pie order, and, thanks to his enthusiasm, energy and courtesy, everything went smoothly and expeditiously. Mr. C. A. House judged.

BARNSTAPLE.

Barnstaple held their annual cage bird show on November 2nd and 3rd in the Market Hall. The room as usual was an ideal one, with plenty of top light, was free from draughts, and was heated with Carbotron stoves, which made it very comfortable for the exhibits. A feature here are the Belgians, and, as usual, a good number were staged. The quality throughout was good, and an improvement was noticeable, especially in the young bird class. Four new members have joined the Belgian ranks, and some real good birds they staged. Mr. W. Baker won the novice special, also the bowl for best young bird; Mr. Horrill, points special for the Reddiough cup, also Gream's memorial challenge trophy in Belgian classes. Crests and Crest-breds were especially good; what was lacking in quantity was made up in quality. Some grand birds were staged by Messrs. Mills and Piper, and Bale. Norwich and Yorkshires were cancelled. The selling classes contained some good cheap birds. Local and novice birds came up well. Some nice Goldfinches were staged. Two sets of winners could easily have been found. Mr. Harris makes an ideal secretary, and was most courteous and obliging. The arrangements were all that could be desired, and there was a good working committee, consisting of Messrs. Horrill, Stevens, Piper, and Dix. The feeding and watering were soon got over, and cards were up in good time. In the unavoidable absence of Mr. Norman, the appointed judge, who, having met with an accident, was prevented from travelling, Mr. Tope judged Crests and Crest-breds, Norwich, and British and Foreign, while Mr. R. Blackmore, jun., made his debut as a Belgian judge.

A NOTED GREEN CARDINAL.

NORTHERN YORKSHIRE C.C.

First table show of the season was held at Lockhart's Cafe, 65, Granger-street, Newcastle, on Oct. 27th, when Mr. J. Shepherd placed the cards. There was not such a large turn out of birds, doubtless because several of the birds had been washed for Shields Show, and the members did not care to risk soiling them before that event.

HADDINGTON

The 23rd annual show of the Haddington O.S. was held in the Corn Exchange, on October 30. The cage birds were well staged, and their comforts were attended to by the obliging secretary, Mr. D. Cockburn, and an energetic committee. Scotch Fancies were rather short of entries, but quality was all there. The "wee gems" were in force, including a grand team shown by Mr. Bennet, which took premier honours. Crests were well represented, and some lovely birds were shown. The Plainheads were rather weakly represented, but the British and foreign birds were lovely specimens. Mr. Kean, of Edinburgh, judged the Scotch Fancy sections, and Mr. Neil, of Kelso, the Borders, etc., and both gave every satisfaction.

Manchester Makes Two Good Moves.

The new show-room at Belle Vue Gardens proves a Great Success, and the total entry is over 300 above that achieved last season.

The 27th Annual Exhibition of the Manchester and Northern Counties O.S. took place on October 29th and 30th. The Hulme Town Hall, which has been the venue for a good number of years, was vacated on this occasion on account of being somewhat inadequate as regards space, and the fixture transferred to the well-known "Northern Zoo," the Belle Vue Gardens. A fine and spacious room (nearly 300 square feet larger than the old room), provided capital accommodation for the huge entry of 1,550 exhibits; this being an advance on last year's total by a matter of 300 birds. The specimens could be seen with every comfort, there being ample space between each aisle, with a magnificent light, while the room was nicely warmed with hot-water pipes. It was freely spoken of by the majority present as being far in advance of the Hulme Town Hall, both as regards the comfort of exhibits, exhibitors and visitors. This move we think a good one, and it strikes us very forcibly that when the balance-sheet is read out, the financial side will come out all serene and rosy. Belle Vue is a draw in itself, and the "gate" takings should exceed those of past occasions. We were extremely pleased to see a good number of visitors at this very popular fixture.

A Word for the Management.

The management throughout was of a highly satisfactory character. Our Lancashire friends know how to manipulate a show, so as to attain success in that great essential, the smooth running of every wheel, so to speak. That most genial of funciers, Mr. W. A. Bladon, is the President. He is heart and soul in the welfare of the society, and is not content to be a figure-head only, but a right down genuine, hard worker. The committee, too, consists of well-known and well-tried fanciers in Messrs. Aspinall, Atkinson, Boothman, Bruce, Cook, Creasy, Clayton, Davies, Fryer, Hill, Hughes, Jackson, McCann, Parker, Raynes, Riley, Smith, and J. Spencer. With such an array of "talent," can one wonder at Manchester being always progressive, and always to the front? Great praise is due to every one of them. The hon. treasurer, Mr. J. Coulson, is also a true fancier, and a proved official. The show managers were Messrs. Jones and Gray, who work well together, are ever on the go, keep right on top of their work, and are always courteous and obliging, while being most business-like in their methods. The Stewards were Messrs. J. Spencer, E. Fulcher, E. Fuller, F. W. Hill, H. Boothman, J. Raynes, W. Harding, S. Cook, R. Parker, G. Bleach, W. R. Robinson, J. Coulson, J. Hughes, W. Broughton, J. Smith, J. Lees, and H. Harding; a very capable body indeed. Mr. Geo. W. F. Lythgoe, the hon. secretary, is an expert in this oft-times onerous position. His methods are A1, and his equals in this post are few and far between, much of the success of the show being certainly due to his untiring efforts. Mr. J. Raynes, the worthy sec. of the C.B.U., also rendered capital assistance. No matter when we had occasion to visit the "Secretarial Sanctum," there he was, pen or pencil in hand, "up to the neck" in work.

The County Favourites.

Lancashires opened the catalogue, and were truly a very fine collection, one of the best as regards merit, we have met for a very lengthy period. The Clear Yellow Coppy owned by Mr. E. T. Turner, was voted a stormer, likewise the Clear Buff Coppy staged by Mr. J. Oldham. Mr. G. Fittou was also represented by a marvellous Clear Yellow Plainhead, a giant of giants. Other notable exhibits in this section were those staged by Messrs. A. Beattie, F. Fish, J. Vickers, Dr. McGonoghey and W. Lee.

Next came the Lizards, as pretty as paint, and fairly good classes were the order of the day. Mr. J. Dewsnap's Clear Cap Gold was a "stunner," closely pressed by Mr. Rukin's nomination. Messrs. H. Oliver and J. Hampshire also had some beauties. The Novice Section contained few of the right stamp, most of the spoil being captured by Messrs. Ollerenshaw, W. Dewsnap, Hargreaves, Martin and Thompson.

The Yorkshire Section came up in good numbers, many of the leading exhibitors being represented by very meritorious birds. The winning Clear Yell, the property of Mr. W. Binns, claimed many friends; as also did Messrs. Thornton and Bower's Clear Buff. Mr. J. Bailey won well with his noted Ticked Buff, and Mr. A. Ambler's 1st Yellow heu was voted a gem; likewise, the Buff hen owned by Mr. R. Schofield. Very taking specimens were staged by Messrs. Stebbings, Wilkinson, Ogden Bros., E. Radley, Broughton, Hartley and Allen, and amongst the amateurs Messrs. T. Brennan, Dewsnap, Jeffreys, Stirrup and Pipe. The Yorkshire Greens were a grand collection, 109 in the four classes provided! One very pronounced feature was the improvement as regards colour and quality, while these birds are better in position than what they were a few seasons ago. Magnificent specimens were shown by Messrs. Clayton (Self Yellow, a gem), J. W. Vernon, T. Wardale, T. Rowlands, Atherton, Gore, Radley, Hawkes and Butterworth.

The Chubby Ones.

The four classes provided for Norwich Greens brought together a grand lot. Messrs. Deacon, Harrison, and Baker and Abbott were represented by real classical specimens, which were everything that could be desired. The Buff hen exhibited by Messrs. Barker and Abbott, is a stormer, and will take some beating. The Norwich Plainheads, as usual at Manchester, were a show in themselves, every class (both champion and amateur) containing birds teeming with quality, short and thick-set, and ablaze with colour—in fact, in our opinion living models of the standard of the Norwich Plainhead Club, the long-sided, slack-feathered, Crest-bred type we hear about being conspicuous by their absence.

The Belgians were a nice lot. Mr. J. Fairley took premier honours in the yellow cocks, with a rattling Clear, full of action, and possessing the correct, straight legs, one of the greatest essentials in a true Belgian. The leading Buff (same owner) was, however, about the best in the section. The 1909 winner, owned by Mr. J. Greig, should develop into a good one with time.

Headpiece, Colour and Size.

Crests did not quite come up to our expectations as regards numbers, and we cannot understand where all the Crest breeders got to, as the classification certainly deserved better support. The quality however of the exhibits was of the highest. Mr. T. Taylor sent down a strong team from the North, and we fancy it will be a long time before we meet anything we like better than his young Crest, which is without doubt one of the best we have ever seen. It is truly magnificent.

It is some time since we saw a better collection of Cinnamons at any show, and think Mr. Godley must be highly pleased at the manner in which they turned up for adjudication under him. We were very pleased to see that veteran Cinnamon breeder, and President of Manchester Society, Mr. Bladon, again come out on top, with his Yellow Cinnamon, and his unflighted Yellow, two grand birds, well worthy of occupying the places they did. Mrs. Deacon had a field day in the novice Cinnamons, winning in three out of the four classes provided, and we believe she will now be entitled to show amongst all the cracks.

The Borders came up in very good numbers, and some beautiful birds were staged, especially in the buffs. The Yellow Greens were a splendid class, the winner being a bird of all-round superior excellence, and colour. Some good Buff Greens, too, were staged, but as a class they did not equal the Yellows.

A Fine Display.

The Hybrid Section was represented by some very choice specimens, although we missed the "Clear and Ticked Birds" this time. The dark Canary Hybrids were strong, and the A.O.V. Hybrid class was led by an excellent conditioned specimen of the Greenfinch-Bullfinch cross, followed by a smart Goldie-Bullie and a Redpoll-Goldie. The British Section was a treat, quality and condition running strongly in every class. Goldfinches were a good all-round lot, but several very fine birds had to stand down through not being quite ready. The winner was a gem all over, and very forward, reflecting much credit on its owner. Bullfinches were better than has been seen out so early for some years, and the winner is a superb specimen. Bramble-finches were grand, and there was not a poor one in all the lot, a bit of condition making all the difference between first and last. It is a pity some birds arrive so late—many are unpacked almost immediately before being judged, which does not give the birds time to condition themselves, and they have to take lower place in consequence. Chaffinches were remarkably strong; the winner is a real first-rater. A very smart Hawfinch led the A.O.S. Seed-eater class, much like Midland Chief, though not quite so rich in bloom yet as last year, but we think him that bird all the same. The small Soft-bills were grand, and two sets of winners were here easily. The Foreign birds were the best all-round specimens ever seen in the North of England. Some of the rarest and most perfect specimens were shown, and they proved most attractive to the crowds of visitors. Nearly 300 Hybrids, British and Foreign birds were staged, and this must be counted amongst the best displays seen in Manchester.

Amongst the many visitors, we noticed Messrs. E. Baker (all the way from the Isle of Wight), Booth (Hyde), Sandiford (Preston), Davies (Stockport), Bailey (Bradford), Metcalfe (Liverpool), Brotherton (Bolton), A. Watson (Kilmarnock), and H. W. Sheldon (Llandudno) and many others.

Some of the special winners were: Hyde's, S. Cook; best Yellow Yorks. Nov., W. C. Drew; best Buff, J. Stirrup; best Yellow hen, T. Atkinson; best vhc, Yorks. Green, J. Davis; best Nov. (medal) Lancs., A. Hardern; best Lizard, Nov., E. Ollerenshaw.

The judges were Messrs. J. Garner (Lancs. and Liz.), H. W. Battye (Yorks.), J. H. Roe (Nor.), E. Godley (Cinns. and Crests), W. B. Cobb (Scots and Belg.), S. Hadwin (Bord), and C. Houlton (Hyb. Brit. and For). They were all faced by stiff tasks, but we heard very few adverse comments after the cards had gone up, a point upon which these gentlemen are to be congratulated.

Mr. Garner's Classes.

Norwich : A Good Show in this Famous City.

The Norwich Alliance (All England) C.B.A. secures an entry of over 800 birds, and the quality is the best seen for many years.

A very nice collection of birds the Norwich Alliance C.B.A. gathered together within the venerable walls of the Blackfriars Hall on October 30th and November 1st. The total was just over 800, and the quality, in the opinion of all the judges, was quite the best seen at Norwich since the days when the Eastern City was accounted the greatest force in Canarydom.

The Olden Times.

One cannot visit or write of a Norwich show without thinking of those giants of the days that are past, and living over again, in memory 'tis true, the doings of such old-time hands as Pitt, Otty, Ray, Cooper, Frost, . ecohee, Yallop, Havers, Mallett, Frost, Winter, Andrews, Mays, Wones, Howard, Self, Crisp, Spelman, Greeves, to say nothing of the famous Mackley Bros. Some of these are still with us, others have long since passed away, but their names, and the remembrance of their doings linger yet. In those days Norwich was the biggest show outside the Crystal Palace, and annually was the rendezvous of fanciers from North, South, East and West, who were seeking, and usually found, a number of winners to take away into distant parts of the country. The old-time glory of Norwich has departed, but it is not beyond the power of her younger sons to bring it back, and for the Norwich of the twentieth century to emulate the deeds of Norwich of the nineteenth.

Among the Champions.

As usual the Norwich Plainheads opened the schedule, and a nice lot they were. It would be idle to say they were the best on record, but, in the opinion of those qualified to judge, they were the best lot seen in Norwich of recent years. The majority showed that the Eastern breeders are getting back to the standard type and quality. Mr. Morris (from London) netted a fair share of the spoils, winning under Mr. Robson in the old birds, and Mr. House in the youngsters. Amongst the local birds we much admired the winning exhibit of Messrs. Payne and Son in the ticked Buffs, a remarkably fine bird, beautifully frosted upon rich deep undercolour, and as close and even as wax. Messrs. Howard and Son's yellow hen was also a most charming exhibit.

The Crests and Crest-breds were splendid, and Mr. Greeves had no easy task in deciding upon his winners in some of the classes, the quality being above the average, and the competitors very close together. The local studs were present in strong force, and they held their own well amongst the birds which came from a distance. We may mention here that Mr. T. J. King's team did not arrive until after judging was finished. Hard lines! It must have been a close thing in clear bodies between Nottingham and Norwich. Mr. Ley's exhibit had it in size and width, but in radiation and droop Mr. Gowing's was superior, whilst it had also a slight pull in quality. It was a near thing either way; quite a case of "You pays your money and takes your choice." The genial "Jimmy" had his revenge in the next class, where Mr. Ley split his two gems. These two birds are son and sire. It was in finish that Norwich gained the verdict here. The hens of Messrs. Smith and Gaze were two gems for quality and radiation. Mr. Drake followed up his win in yellow Crests with another in Crest-breds. It was a rare quality bird. Messrs. Gowing and Howard and Son staged two grand birds in the Buff class, as did Mrs. Crow in the hens.

Praise for the Amateurs.

The amateurs turned out well so far as the quality of their exhibits was concerned, but the numbers surely should have been greater. In the olden days it used to take two judges to deal with the amateur section, and one often saw classes of from thirty to fifty, whilst we remember on one occasion two classes contained over 160 exhibits. On this occasion the highest figure was fourteen, which was reached by the ticked yellows. Still, Mr. Robson, who judged, said that he was as surprised as he was delighted with the marked advance which the section had made in type and quality. In the Plainheads, Messrs. Piggin, Oulten, Brundel, Campling, Mitchell, Martin, Park, Harl, J. J. Smith, and Schulen each staged birds which were equal, if not superior, to many in the champion section. Mr. Schulen won each of the cups offered for birds fed on Spratt's Colour Food. Curiously enough, the birds each took second prize, were each No. 7 in their classes, and are two brothers out of the same nest! It does not fall to the lot of every breeder to produce a couple of cup winners in one nest. Mr. Schulen was heartily congratulated. In the Crest section the quality was splendid, and Messrs. Russell, Whitlock, Cowan, Parsons, Corke, Goodman, A. Thompson, Durrant, Mason, W. Thompson, Mayhew and Piggin each staged birds of lovely shape with well-arranged head-pieces.

A Grand Lot of Youngsters.

The young Crests and Crest-breds, like the Plainheads, were open to all, and in them the amateurs more than held their own. All the classes were well supported, and in point of merit they were superior to the adults; especially was this so in the Plainheads, in which over sixty birds competed in the three classes, and gave Mr. House a warm task in sorting them.

The Cinnamons were about the best seen at Norwich since the palmy days of Quinton and Wones, whilst the even marks were a very nice little lot, and it gave us much pleasure to see one of the veterans, Mr. W. J. Sadd, leading the way with those old Norwich favourites. Mules, British and Foreign were good without being exceptional, the best classes being those for the British Softbills, which were indeed of high merit.

Old Traditions Upheld.

In the way of management and arrangement of a show Norwich has high traditions, and in this respect the men of to-day are as jealous of the good name of their city as the fanciers of old. The birds and their needs are the first, as they are the last, thought of the Norwich Alliance committee, and the gentlemen who were responsible for this year's fixture did all that could be done to make things work smoothly and with dispatch. Mr. R. Roll once again acted as secretary, and right well did he marshal his forces, and to his tact and urbanity not a little of the success achieved was due. In the work of the secretariat he was most ably assisted by Mr. J. Freeman, and the show committee was composed of the following excellent fanciers:—Messrs. W. W. Freestone (chairman), J. Parsons (vice-chairman), F. Cullington (treasurer), W. Burrage, J. Carlton, A. Claphim, J. Cutmore, W. Daynes, C. Hobart, W. A. Johnston, J. Mawson, A. Payne, H. Piggin, E. Revell, S. Roberts A. W. Russell, F. Schulen, H. Smith, T. Smith, J. Stark, and J. Thompson.

The inter-club competition for the Deuchar challenge cup, presented by Mr. J. J. W. Deuchar (the president), resulted in a runaway victory of the Hand-in-Hand Society, which scored 203 points, the runners-up being the City of Norwich, with 161 points. The judges were Messrs. W. E. Greeves, all Crests and Crest-breds; J. Robson, Champ. and Amat. Plainheads, Mules and British; J. Stark, the County Novice classes; and C. A. House, the remainder, and the awards of each were most generously received.

Mr. J. Robson's Classes.

Mr. W. E. Greeves's Classes.

The Crest and Crest-bred classes contained birds of exceptional merit, and, in our opinion, were the best collection seen in the ancient city for many years. The Yellows, both in Crests and Crest-breds, were far in advance of anything previously seen, and reminded one of the old Nottingham Yellows. We were more than pleased to see such an improvement here.

CREST YELL. (11): 1, 3, Drake, noted yellow, heavily varieg., with large crest, perfect formation, grand quality feather; 3rd, wing and tail mkd., nice made crest; 2, Shearman, dark tail, in nice condition, thick heavy frontal, crest of nice formation; 4, Ley, heavy green, light tail, nice crest, will improve; vhc, Crow, Clapham; hc, Howard and Son; c, A. H. Smith. CL. BODY CL. GREY, ETC., CREST (9): 1, Ley, Grey, large perfectly-formed crest on a stout body, quite a gem; 2, Gowing, close up, more dipping crest, but not so expansive, had two feathers lifting in the centre, well shown, really fine bird; 3, 4, Gaze, both clear bodies and dark crests, former large crest of beautiful quality, other similar but not quite so large in crest, specimens any breeder might be proud of; vhc, Clapham; hc, Mitchell; c, Evins Bros., Howard and Sons. CREST CK., BUFF (except clear bodies) (7): 1, J. Gowing, big bird, stout neck and body, very large, beautiful drooping crest, mkd. one wing; 2, Ley, close up, very similar, two grand specimens; 3, vhc, J. Gowing, wing mkd., big crest; 4, Gaze, very heavy frontal, crest centre a bit too far back, nice wing mkd.; vhc, J. Calver. HEN (6): 1, Shearman, heavy green bird, shapely crest of nice quality; 2, Gaze, wing mkd., good quality feather, nice sized crest nicely formed; 3, Evins Bros., heavy green bird, plenty of feather; 4, Cullington, heavily varieg., neat crest. CRESTED-BRED YELL. (9): 1, Drake, for a yell. a bird of great merit, well made head, with an abundance of head feather; 2, A. H. Smith, varieg., nice cushion-shaped head, with good length of head feather; 3, Ley, heavily varieg. big bird; 4, Crow, not quite the size of the others, but nice quality of feather, should make a useful breeder; vhc, Drake, Clapham; c, Crow. BUFF: 1, Gowing, heavily varieg., immense head with heaps of feather, short beak, thick neck, breeder's ideal; 2, Howard and Son, varieg., big bird, with good head feather; 3, Shearman, grand one; 4, Gaze, another good one, both very heavily varieg. BUFF HEN (5): 1, Crow, varieg., nice quality feather, well browed head; 2, Revell, varieg., large bird, nice head feather; c, Evins Bros., Cullington. PAIRS, MATCHED FOR BREEDING (5): 1, J. Gowing, varieg. buff cock, plenty of head feather of superb quality, with green hen, with large veiny crest of perfect formation, win well; 2, 3, Revell, former Grey Crest, big body, Yellow C.B. hen, nice quality, well made, latter var. C.B. buff and varieg. Crest; 4, Calver and Son, varieg. C.B. buff hen, heavily varieg. Crest buff cock. AMAT. CLASSES.—YELL. CREST (12): 1, A. W. Russell, heavily varieg., nice quality of feather, crest of good size, very neat; 2, Whitlock, slightly open in centre, but very good; 3, Cowan, neat well-made crest; 4, Cowan, one dark feather in wing, dark crest; vhc, hc, Thompson; c, M. Alden. CREST CL. BODY, CL. ETC. DK. CREST (11): 1, Cowan, cl. crest, very neat and shapely, good quality; 2, Parsons, cl. body dark, nicely veined feather; 3, Piggin, cl. crest, plenty of feather and shapely; 4, Huson, Grey Crest, but on small side; vhc, (2) Carlton; hc, Cowan; c, Alden, Parsons. SOUTH SHIELDS.

We have seen some splendid shows held at Shields, both by the present society and the old South Shields Club, but we regret to say that the present South and North Shields C.B.S. has fallen on bad times; the members are not so full of enthusiasm and energy as they were, and the result was seen in the show which was held in the Congregational Schoolroom on October 29th and 30th. Last year's long-continued strike on Tyneside is, we are told, greatly to blame for this state of things, and the members are hoping for better times next year. The entry generally was poor, not only in one section, but all; the quality, however, excepting Crests, was splendid, and there is no reason why, if the members put a little more enthusiasm into next year's fixture, and offer a few good cash specials for most points in each section, the old-time glories of Shields will return. A few pounds given in points specials would make a big difference in the entry. With such a keen breeder as Mr. Dixon officiating upon the Norwich, it was very disappointing to find so few exhibitors supporting him. Mr. Dixon handled the section well, going in for good deep-chested birds with plenty of quality and style. We much admired the winners in clear and ticked yellows; they were, indeed, four beauties, and Mr. Cowling is to be congratulated upon owning such birds. Colour and quality was all there in cinnamons, and there was not much separating the various winners. Borders made a very nice display, quite the best average classes in the Canary section, and some beautifully feathered, neat shaped, well posed birds were to be seen amongst them. Mr. Dixon went in strongly for feather. Crests were not of Tyneside quality, neither were the Yorkshires, although a few really good ones were benched, one of the best being the four-pointed yellow, shown in the novice section by Mr. F. Johnson. The quality of the British was splendid, the winners in all the classes being of a very high standard of excellence. Exhibits which stood out were Mr. Telford's Thrush and Blackbird, Mr. Maddison's Goldfinch and Greenfinch, Mr. McVay's Chaffinch, and Mr. Forster's Wagtail. Mr. Maddison also held a very strong hand in Mules—this team was put down in magnificent form. The birds were nicely staged, and all the arrangements well carried out by the committee, amongst whom we noticed those good old fanciers, Messrs. Bennett, Duke, Winter, and Thompson, whilst Messrs. Barrass and Howdon, the hon. secs., were most eager and willing to do all they could to please exhibitors and further the welfare of the society. We hope that 1910 will bring better times to our friends on Tyneside. The judges were Messrs. T. Dixon and C. A. House, and their awards were most favourably received.

EDINBURGH SOUTHERN.

The Edinburgh Southern O.S. held their 18th annual show and competition in the Central Halls, Nicolson Street, on October 30th. Office bearers: President, Mr. J. Clark; vice-president, Mr. Baxter; secretary and treasurer, Mr. S. Hewitt; committee, Messrs. R. Martin, R. Stirling, and W. Thomson. Judges, Messrs. J. Cook (Cowdenbeath) and C. Miller (Leith). There was a fine muster of Norwich and Borders. The Scotch Fancy classes were back in numbers from last year, a good many of the members having had bad luck during the season; and owing to the extremely cold weather not a few were afraid to send their birds. But what was lacking in numbers was fully made up for in quality. Mr. Hewitt and his committee had made ample arrangements for a successful show, and they are deserving of much praise for the grand effort. In the Scotch Fancy section Mr. R. Menzies won the cup and gold badge with a buff pied hen of exceptional merit. Mr. J. Robertson's yellow pied ben was the runner-up. In the Norwich section Mr. R. Martin won the gold medal for best, with a clear buff cock, a fine model. Hyde's special was also won by Mr. Martin. There was a fair turn out of visitors and fanciers. The awards seemed to give all-round satisfaction.

HUCKNALL TORKARD.

The 16th Annual Exhibition was held in the Public Hall, on October 29th and 30th, and proved one of the best shows held in Hucknall for years past. Crests were a feature of the show, many champions being out, and consequently the quality of the exhibits was grand. The Norwich Plainheads were also quite a show in themselves; many grand birds were only carded, so competition was keen. Mr. W. R. Nutt's ticked buff (Burton winner), again stood out in the unlighted buff class. The Yorkshire classes did not fill to expectations, but the winning yellow was worthy of special note. Mr. Thorpe was unfortunate in having a buff in the yell. class, as he might have won in the buff. The Mules and Brit. were a fair lot. In the Softbill class it was noteworthy that a splendid Yellowhammer, staged in very nice style by Messrs. Tams and Sons, won. The selling classes contained some very cheap birds, both in Crest and Norwich Plainheads. Messrs. E. Mellers and H. Marshall, the joint secretaries, are to be congratulated, not only on the success of the show, but on their capable management, and the staging of the exhibits. We found every official most willing and obliging, and a hard-working committee consisted of Messrs. Jacklin Bros., H. Marshall, E. Pass, Severn Bros., A. Brown, A. Mason, J. Fnux, Twine Bros., J. Pepper, J. Richardson, H. Bruckner, F. Earp, J. Oakden, J. Gilbert, J. Nickolls, W. Wagg, W. Whyatt, etc. We think this society would be well advised to advertise their show a little more locally, as no one seemed to know there was to be a show, and our reporter was over an hour finding same. Mr. E. Fox won Sandiford's cup with a fine exhibit, Mr. James Wyatt the special for best Crest shown by a member, and Mr. J. Jacklin that for best unlighted Crest. Mr. E. Pass had a very fine show of cages, and appliances suitable for the Fancy, and business seemed brisk. Mr. R. Rhodes judged Crest and C.B., and Mr. W. Vardy the other classes, and their awards met with every satisfaction.

HERNE BAY.

The Herne Bay F. and F.S. held their 18th annual show on October 28. The cage birds were well staged in a fine room, well lighted and free from draughts. The entries came up well. Norwich were very strong, several birds being fit for the best of competition. Mr. W. A. Holness held the secretarial reins in a most able manner, backed up by a hard-working committee, consisting of Messrs. Blackwell, A. Carter, G. Mason, Hudson Bros., E. Horn, Blackwell, jun., F. Telfer, and H. E. Epps. Mr. F. J. Gibbs judged, and gave general satisfaction.

ARBROATH.

The Arbroath Scotch Fancy C.B.C. held their fifth annual show within the White Hart Hall, on 30th Oct., and, so far as number of entries is concerned, it must be written down as a disappointment. A total entry of a little under 200 is a very poor return for the labour ungrudgingly given by the executive, and as Arbroath is on the main line there is no reason why they should not get better support. Might we suggest that, next year, the show be advertised more fully and to better advantage in CAGE BIRDS, and the supply of prize lists (schedules) be greatly increased? Two classes had to be cancelled in the Scotch Fancy Section, and in the remaining eight classes 40 exhibits had to be handled by the judge, Mr. A. Stewart, who, naturally, got through his task in good time. The Norwich section turned out better, averaging nine per class over the twelve classes, some birds of real merit being forward in this section. The Open Top Cage is the one most favoured here, and we venture to think that if the fanciers would stage their exhibits in the Club Plainhead Cage they would find it do away with that great fault in a Plainhead—crossed wings. Six classes were introduced for Border Fancy Canaries, and entries averaged four per class, Mr. J. Greig (Brechin) having a fine team forward which accounted for most of the spoil. Two classes in the British section, and the Foreign class, were cancelled for lack of support. The remaining classes for British and Mules averaged six per class, and gave the judge, Mr. W. Sharp, very little trouble. The arrangements, which were in the capable hands of Mr. J. S. Napier, the secretary, and his willing band of assistants, left nothing to be desired, and we were pleased to notice that the show was well patronised during the day. The judges were: Scotch Fancy Canaries, Mr. A. Stewart (Dundee); Norwich and Border Fancies, Mr. J. Winter (Edinburgh); British and Mules, Mr. W. Sharp (Bathgate).

BONNYRIGG.

The first annual show of the Bonnyrigg and Dis. C.B.S., a newly-formed society, was held in the Public Hall on 30th October. The Society, which is composed mostly of young fanciers, with any amount of enthusiasm, put forth every effort to make their first show a grand success, and no doubt in another year their labours will be more amply rewarded. The Scotch Fancy section, although small, contained some really fine birds, and was judged by Mr. John Dalgleish (Leith), whose awards gave satisfaction. The Border Fancy section had a grand total of 108 in the eight classes provided, but the judge, Mr. John Tait (Galashiels) found the hall cold, and had great difficulty in getting the birds to show themselves. In the afternoon, when the hall became warmer, he could have reversed a lot of the cards, especially in the buff cock class, where the medal winner was found. Mr. W. R. Dunn (Portobello) had an easy task in the Norwich, etc., classes, and his awards gave entire satisfaction. The president, Mr. Alex. M'Vie, along with Mr. Geo. Harper, the capital hon. secretary, had everything in apple-pie order when judging commenced. The staging, too, was nicely lined with white cartridge paper, which kept the birds free from draughts and gave the show a nice, clean appearance. At the close, Mr. Jardine, of Loanhead, presented the medals to the respective winners, and in a neat speech complimented the Society on having had such a successful show.

WOLVERHAMPTON.

The third annual function of the Wolverhampton and Dis. C.B.S. took place on October 28th and 29th. The Co-operative Hall, in which the exhibits were housed, commends itself most highly, and is a very adaptable rendezvous, being of good light, well ventilated, spacious, centrally situated, and of a striking appearance. The entry proved a record one, the total number being over 500. In the Canary section 394 birds faced the judge, Mr. J. C. Barnes (Sheffield), providing him with a fairly heavy task. The quality was of great merit, almost in every class, and no doubt took some separating, so equal (or thereabouts) in character were many of the specimens. Mr. R. J. Howe adjudicated upon the British, Mules and Foreign, which consisted of many meritorious exhibits among the 110 that he went over. The staging was of a very neat description; every bird could be seen at a glance, credit being due to those responsible for such fine arrangements. Stewards: Messrs. Bishop, Bryan, Willoughby, Millincamp, Jones, and Rowley, each and everyone of whom worked judiciously and well. President, Mrs. Staveley Hill; the vice-presidents are Dr. J. O'Brien, M.D., S. H. Rhodes, Esq., A. Cupiss, Esq., and J. Baker, Esq., and help was rendered by all of these. The chairman, Mr. F. J. Weaver, controls excellently; the vice-chairmen are a couple of very enthusiastic fanciers, in Messrs. R. Willoughby and J. A. Tonks; the treasurer is Mr. F. Garfield, who is the right man in the right place. The committee consists of Messrs. J. Jones, Rowley, Barrett, Bryan, and Johnson, who all worked like Trojans, and have the welfare of the society at heart. Mr. J. Gibbons, the secretary, is a genuine tryer. This was his first venture at open show management, and we wish to compliment him on the exertions he put forth, and the manner in which he displayed his abilities, considering he was a "novice" at the work. Mr. R. Willoughby gave him capital help, officiating in capital style and proving himself a true fancier. The judges' awards appeared to be very well received. Hyde's special went to Mr. J. A. Tonks, a pretty Goldie-Greenie doing the trick; best Norwich, F. Weaver; second best, R. Willoughby; best Yorkie, J. Millincamp; second best, ditto; best Mule, best British, and second best Mule were all captured by Mr. J. A. Tonks; second best Britsh, Mr. J. Millincamp. Sandiford's fell to Mr. I. Jones, a very warm Yorkie answering to the call. Best members' Norwich, Mr. R. Willoughby; Yorkshire, Mr. I. Jones; and Members' Variety, Mr. F. J. Weaver.

GLASGOW SOUTHERN.

Glasgow (Confined) Southern O.A. annual show was held in the Grand National Halls on 30th October, and maintained its reputation and popularity. The entries were 237, about the same as in 1908. The quality was above the average, and a decided advance on last year's. It was remarked by more than one that it is a wonder the members keep their stock from open competition. It is not over-rating their exhibits to mention that they excel many open show winners. Mr. McLellan, the genial president, was in attendance, and took an active part in the proceedings. Along with the late Mr. Cunningham he was founder of the association. The members are fortunate in having Mr. Fleming as secretary. He has no equal, and is an able and thorough business man. For a long period he has kept the show in the foremost rank. The weather was cold and foggy, and at noon rain came on. But the judges handled the birds well. They were: Messrs. Paterson (Edinburgh), Webster (Greenock), Ward (Shettleston), and Watson (Glasgow). Mr. Montgomery, of Corkerhill, had both the cup winner and the runner-up, a buff cock and a huff hen—a pair of exceptional merit. The former won the silver cup and the gold medal.

ST. AUSTELL & DIS. F.A.

The third annual members' show, held on Oct. 28th, in the Public Rooms, which were admirably adapted for an exhibition of cage birds, being well lighted, spacious, and free from draughts. The birds were splendidly staged facing the light. The president is Arthur Coode, Esq., J.P., and this flourishing society can boast of several well known gentlemen as vice-presidents, including two M.P.'s. The Committee are well-known fanciers, who throw their heart and soul into the work; they are Messrs. Northey, Behuina, Box, Couth, M. V. Phillips, H. Phillips, Hancock, F. Thomas, Rowsear, Scott, Rev. F. Thomas, Mann, G. Carne, J. Carne, Warne, Mitchell, Harris, Kenyon, Watts, Whetter, Biddick, Davies, Lawry, Mewton, Nile, J. Thomas, and Dr. Jeffrey. The Secretary, Mr. T. Trevenna, was most courteous and obliging, and being himself a great fancier, did everything possible to make the show a success. The entries in cage birds totalled nearly 140, the number being just the same as last year, but there was a marked improvement in quality, and, taken all through, the cage birds made an exceptionally good show. Norwich were a very fine lot, whilst Yorkshires were undoubtedly a feature, quality and quantity being in evidence. Messrs. Rabey Bros. obtained the special for the best bird with a Crest. Mr. Clemence won Mr Sandiford's special with a well-fed Yellow Norwich, and the points prize by Mr. S. Gaved, with Mr. J. Thomas as runner-up. The awards were made by Mr. J. Davies, and seemed to give general satisfaction.

NORWICH CANARIES

By C. A. HOUSE.

Price - - 1s. 1d. post free.

This Handbook, complete and comprehensive in every detail, supplies in a concise manner all the information that it is necessary to know to become a successful breeder and exhibitor of Norwich Canaries.

FROM THE EGG TO THE SHOW BENCH.

It explains fully the best methods of pairing up the stock birds; how to feed and treat when the young are hatched; the art of colour feeding, and the best methods of washing and preparing for show. It contains a coloured plate and numerous illustrations of the different varieties, and is a veritable encyclopædia on the Norwich Canary, which no breeder, whether novice or old hand, can afford to be without.

How to Promote Your Hobby.

"CAGE BIRDS,"

Nov. 13th, 1909.

Three coupons of the same date entitle you to a free advertisement of 12 words in our "Sale and Exchange." All coupons of this date to be sent in by 1st post Friday, Nov. 19th (latest).

"SALE AND EXCHANGE" ADVERTISEMENTS FOR READERS WHO DISTRIBUTE TWO COPIES OF "CAGE BIRDS"

Novel Scheme to Benefit Our Readers and Ourselves.

Everyone at some time or another wants to sell some article for which he has no further use, or to exchange it for something he wants. Amongst the 50,000 other readers of "CAGE BIRDS" there must be some who are ready to buy from, or exchange with you.

To enable our readers to dispose of, purchase, or exchange various articles, we have decided to insert private advertisements free of charge for those who are willing to promote the circulation of "CAGE BIRDS." All you have to do is to get two extra copies of this week's issue, and give it to two friends who you know would be interested, tell them what your opinion of the paper is, and how much they too can benefit by the articles and advice contained in each issue. Send the coupon which appears on this page, from the two extra copies and your own—three coupons in all—together with the advertisement you want inserted. For three coupons sent bearing the same date, we will insert twelve words free of charge. Every additional word will be charged at 1d. per word. Not more than three coupons can be accepted for any single advertisement.

This plan benefits you by finding a market for anything you wish to dispose of, at a cost of only threepence, including postage, and benefits us by bringing "CAGE BIRDS" before new readers. We are helping you in return for your help towards the increase of our circulation.

If you have anything to Sell or Exchange fill in and post this Form, sending three coupons of the same date, for free insertion of twelve words, and stamps to cover additional words (½d. per word).

"CAGE BIRDS," 154, FLEET STREET, LONDON, E.C.

Coupon advertisers must have replies addressed direct to them and not to a box number at this office. Three coupons of the same date pay for twelve words. One halfpenny is charged for each additional word.

Not more than three coupons may be used for any single advertisement. Coupons cannot be accepted for Trade advertisements, the charge for these being 20 words for 1/-. The proprietor reserves the right to decline any advertisement that seems to him undesirable.

DEPOSIT SYSTEM.

We are not responsible for the statements made in advertisements, nor of the bona-fides of either buyers or sellers In all transactions the adoption of our Deposit System should be insistedupon.

IMPORTANT.

SEND THE FULL COMMISSION.—If the full commission does not accompany the deposit, the vendor will not be notified of its receipt until the amount deficient, plus the extra postage incurred, has been paid to us.

HOW TO REMIT.—Under no circumstances will Cheques or Post-dated Money Orders be accepted as deposits. Uncrossed Postal Orders must be sent and the numbers taken for safety.

RULES.

1.—PROCEDURE.—The intending purchaser should send to this office the amount of the purchase (our deposit fee included), and at the same time he should communicate with the seller, stating what it is he requires sent on approval. We acknowledge receipt of the deposit to both parties. In all cases the depositor should give his name and address, and also that of the vendor, and must write same clearly and distinctly.

2.—END OF TRANSACTION.—The deposit is retained by us until we hear from both parties that the transaction has been completed. If a sale has been effected, we hand the amount deposited to the seller. If a sale has not been effected, we return the amount to the depositor. The transaction must be conducted by the parties themselves. We merely hold the deposit.

3.—AMOUNT OF COMMISSION.—The fee is 6d. for each £1, or fraction of £1, and it must be sent at same time as the deposit.

4.—IMPORTANT POINTS.—The depositor must decide within forty-eight hours of the receipt of the goods whether he will keep or return the same, unless, that is, some other period of approval (of which we must be advised) is agreed upon by both parties. The depositor must at the same time notify us of the fact that he has returned the goods. If the goods are not returned within the said forty-eight hours, we reserve the right to send the deposit to the seller after the expiration of that period. And should the seller fail within three days to notify us of the receipt of his goods back again, the transaction will be treated as ended, and the deposit be returned to the depositor.

5.—A SATISFACTORY PURCHASE.—When a transaction has been completed to the satisfaction of both depositor and seller, both parties must at once return the deposit receipts as a guarantee of its completion. The depositor must at the same time instruct us to pay over the deposit to the seller.

6.—GOODS ALREADY SOLD.—If the goods are sold before our deposit note reaches the seller, or, if for any other reason he declines to do business, he must at once return the deposit note to us. Failing its receipt, we reserve the right to return the deposit to the sender after the expiration of three days.

7.—FRESH TRANSACTION.—In case no sale be effected, a deposit is available for purposes of a fresh transaction, provided another deposit fee be paid.

8.—GOODS IN TRANSIT.—Goods in transit are at the seller's risk, and any damage or loss sustained on the journey must be borne by the seller. But goods not approved of must be properly packed and returned by the same means as were used in sending the same.

9.—PAYMENT OF CARRIAGE.—The payment of carriage must be a matter for arrangement between the vendor and depositor. We do not undertake to settle disputes affecting questions of carriage. But in the absence of other arrangements the purchaser is liable for the carriage of the goods, and if the goods are sent on approval and returned, each party pays the carriage one way.

UNDISPLAYED.—Three Words a Penny up to eighteen words. One Halfpenny per Word for each word over eighteen. MINIMUM, 12 words, 4d.

IMPORTANT NOTE.—Two or more Advertisements coming from the same advertiser, even if sent in different names, are reckoned together, and, after the first eighteen words, are charged at two words a penny, but no single advertisement, even if accompanied by others, will be charged at less than the minimum price, viz., Fourpence.

Headlines or Footlines 6d., 9d., 1/-, 1/6 according to size.

Small prepaid advertisements of a general nature and not connected in any way with the Cage Bird Trade are inserted at the rate of ½d. per word throughout. Minimum 12 words 6d.

Advertisements must in all cases bear the bona fide name and address of the advertiser, and no advertisement will be inserted if addressed to a receiving office, or similar place of call.

Postal Orders must be sent as far as possible. All moneys should be made payable to F. CARL.

The Proprietor reserves the right to refuse any advertisement, or to cancel any advertisement ordered for a series, at any time, without assigning any reason for so doing.

Advertisements close Tuesdays first post in each week, and should be sent to the Advertisement Manager, CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet Street, London. Terms for Display Advertisements on application.

I WANT YOU

to particularly notice the entirely unsolicited letters given below. These testimonials are from professional catchers who depend upon the appliances they use for their living, and consequently will have nothing but the very best obtainable. You will see what they say, so if I can please them so well, surely I can give you the same satisfaction. A glance at my prices will show that they are far lower than others, and to prove that goods are better, I invite you to have anything you like on approval and test it side by side with a similar article from elsewhere, and if mine is not by far the best, return it and I will refund every penny of your money. Could I afford to say this unless I knew what I was talking about? Clap nets, made from ¾in. mesh, gennino thread netting, 3 yards long, 4/- pair, 4 yards long 5/-, 5 yards 6/-, 6 yards 7/-, 7 yards 8/-, 8 yards 9/-, 9 yards 10/- 10 yards 11/- per pair; all guaranteed 5½ft. deep and 4ft. fly; price includes two nets to the pair, pegs, poles, lines, etc., all complete ready for immediate use. Sparrow nets, fitted on 15ft. bamboo poles, 5/6 pair, ditto 17ft. 6/-, ditto 19ft. 6/6 pair. Loose thread netting, same as used in all my clap nets, ¾in. mesh, 7ft. deep, 3d. yard, ditto 9ft. deep, 4d. yard; ditto 12ft. deep, 5d. yard, post free. Lark netting, 1¼in. mesh, 10ft. deep, 4d. yard, post free. This netting is specially made for bird netting, and must not be confused with the cheap American cotton fishing netting often sold as bird netting for sake of extra profit. Self-acting spring net traps, 18in. long, 9d. each; ditto, 24in. long, 18in. wide, 1/- each. These net traps are by far largest and best traps on the market, and will catch and hold any bird from Wren to Rook without injury. They can be baited for Hard or Softbills at same time, and call bird can be used inside them if required. The only trap of its kind on the market. (Imitators please copy as usual.) Single trap cages, 6d. each, double ditto 1/- each, treble ditto 1/3 each, all with separate compartment for call bird, in addition to the one, two, or three traps as stated. Round-topped call cages, 3d. each, 2/6 dozen; square-topped ditto, 4d. each, 3/- dozen. All with all-wire tops and wood bottoms. The real Japanese birdlime, guaranteed absolutely strongest made, ½lb. 6d., ¼lb. 10d.; 1lb. 1/6; sample 3d., all post free. Kindly note, mine is the genuine Japanese lime, not merely a copied name. I guarantee it to hold in all weathers, even in rain or frost, and will leave birds' feathers as clean as a whistle; will hold any Hawk or Rook that flies. Bird brace swivels, three 3d., twelve 6d., post free. Pull lines, specially spun from soft Italian hemp, without snarl or hack twist, strong enough to pull a boat along, 68 yards long, 1/4 each, post free. Cheaper Russian hemp lines, 80 yards long, 1/- each post free. (These are not recommended for hard wear.) Hundreds upon hundreds of clap nets, Lark nets, Sparrow nets, side nets, and everything else required by catchers kept in stock. Send stamp for full printed list, which also gives hints on net-making. "Gedney, Holbeach, Lincs. Oct. 4th. Sir,—20 yard pair clap nets to hand. They are exactly right. I tried them to-day and they worked lovely, even although there was a big wind blowing. Please send a 12 yard pair same width.—Yours, C. Cubley." On Oct. 11th Mr. Cubley again writes: "Sir,—I received 12 yard clap nets safely and am highly pleased with them. Many thanks for sending so promptly. They are made of very fine thread, almost invisible when set, and just what are required for catching.—Yours, C. Cubley." "72, Denmark-rd., Beccles. Oct. 15th. Sir,—Nets, etc., to hand. I am exceedingly pleased with them, as they are excellent quality for price paid. I received them in perfect condition.—Yours, H. Barber." "Garrion Gill, Pit Cottage, Overtown. Oct. 16th. Sir,—Please send 2lbs. birdlime. I got 1lb. from you last year and found it best in frosty weather.—Yours, R. Wyper." "Church-st., Garmouth. Oct. 12th. Sir,—Please send ½lb. lime. I had some last season, and it was splendid stuff.—Yours, A. Clarke." "Waulkmills-by-Arbroath. Oct. 12th. Sir,—Please send ½lb. lime. I got some last year from ——, and it was just like syrup, it run off the sticks. —Yours, J. Smart." "Redding, Polmont Station. Oct. 11th. Sir,—Please send following. I had a pair clap nets from you 2½ years ago, and they are as good as ever, and have been out in all kinds of weather, so I know who I am dealing with.—Yours, Alex Rennie." "15, Bourne-rd., Bromley Common. Oct. 9th. Sir,—Please send following. The 20 yards netting pleased me very well.—Yours, A. Knott." "Holbrook-rd., Belper. Oct. 10th. Sir,—Please send ½lb. lime. I had some last year and found it best I ever had.—Yours, T Alton." "3, Hydney-st., Easthourne. Oct. 8th. Sir,—Lime to hand; it is best I ever had. Please send pair 12 yards clap nets.—Yours, G. Hunt." "Byards Leap, Sleaford. Oct. 5th. Sir,—Received trap cage, net trap, and birdlime all safe, and am very pleased with them all. Thanks for quick dispatch.—Yours, G. Christian." "35, Higher Bellevue, Redruth. Oct. 4th. Sir,—Trap cages are giving me every satisfaction.—Yours, F. Faulkner." "Brinsley Moor, nr. Eastwood. Oct. 1st. Sir,—Received clap nets quite safe and am very well pleased with them. Please send following. —Yours, C. Hewes." "20, Vernon-st., Shirebrook. Oct. 1st. Sir,—Please send following. I received netting all right and am quite satisfied.—Yours, G. Goodwin." Please note that I have sent to Editor of CAGE BIRDS sixty unsolicited testimonials received by me during past few days for his inspection to prove their genuineness. These letters prove without shadow of doubt who is the best man to supply anything in fanciers or catchers' line. All nets sent out are properly "armed" or "geared," not merely line run through the netting, and I have a staff of fully competent workmen making up nets. These are men who thoroughly understand exactly what is required for successful catching, and nothing is spared in order to make my appliances most useful and durable on the market. I send all on approval, and cordially invite customers to put them to any test within reason, and if not in every way satisfactory, return them to me. Terms: Cash or CAGE BIRDS deposit system. Send stamp for full list. See British Bird and Roller Canary columns for further advts.

CASSELL'S "Canaries and Cage Birds," bound, in fair condition, cost 35/-, accept 8/6, free.—Pettifer, Hussars' shoemaker, Colchester.

MEDICINES.

RESTORINE, the acknowledged remedy for diarrhœa, acts like magic, 7d., 1/-, 2/-, and 4/6.—William Bishop, Beeston Regis, Sheringham.

WELHAM'S Asthma Cure never fails to cure colds, asthma, wheezing; sample bottle, post free, 7d.—Welham and Co., 247, Coldharbour-lane, Brixton.

BRONCHORINE.

prevents, cures colds and wheezing in all cage birds, relieves asthma, ideal lung tonic, in moulting and breeding season, 7d. and 1/1; reg. 1506.—Dr. Rodgers, 123, Radford Boulevard, Nottingham. Read "Bronchorine is a splendid tonic and finest put on the market.—A. G. Hunt, 1151 High st., Blackwood, Mon., July 5th, 1909."

Have Your Birds a Cold?

If so, try "ASTHMARINE," whether you have tried other articles and failed, or not, and you will never regret it, or use anything else in future. True, it is not a cure-all, neither is anything else, but it is what is claimed for it, namely, the most marvellous remedy for wheezing, and all lung affections ever known, and without any exaggeration whatever, thousands of testimonials have been received for this one remedy only. "ASTHMARINE" is 5d. per bottle; large bottles 2/6 post free.

Rudd's Norwich Tonic Drops are the best pick-me-up and "Finisher" to plumage that has yet been discovered, prices same as Asthmarine. Inflammation remedy also same prices.

Please read this one convincing extract as example:—

"Rockingham, Uppingham, November 7th, 1909. Please send a bottle of Asthmarine, also one of Tonic Drops. I had some from you about twelve months ago, and it was used with splendid results. I had a cock which had not sung for six months, and now he sings lovely, and has done ever since I gave him a taste of your Asthmarine. J. H. Noble to W. Rudd."

W. RUDD, THE BIRD Specialist, NORWICH.

KELSO'S BRONCHOLIA.

Absolutely the safest, purest, and most effective remedy on the market for asthma, bronchitis, colds, wheezing, hoarseness, etc., in all cage birds. The remarkable curative properties of this remedy have placed it in the highest esteem amongst bird lovers; used by leading fanciers all over the world; bottles 7d. and 1s. 1d. post free.—Kelso and Co., 62, Western Hill, Durham.

why I am at all times willing to send birds on approval at my own risk. The reason is this. My birds are correctly described in advt., and are well on seed and in perfect health and condition; therefore customers not only expect what they get, but get exactly what they expect. My system of trading is this: I send everything on approval at my own risk, either on receipt of cash or deposit system of CAGE BIRDS, and unless perfect satisfaction is given, birds have only to be returned and back comes the whole of your money. Could you imagine more straightforward terms than these? I have grand lot cock Goldfinches, in perfect health and condition, at 1/6 each, three 4/-, six 7/-, twelve 12/-; specially selected larger cocks to moult for show or Muling, 2/- each, three 5/-, six 9/-, twelve 16/-; few extra special clean moulted cocks, in full colour and superb condition, fit for keen competition, 3/- each, three 7/6; hen Goldfinches, 1/- each, three 2/6, six 4/-, twelve 7/-. Grand lot cock Siskins, in perfect health and feather, 2/- each, three 5/-, six 9/-; few selected yellow exhibition specimens, with full bibs, 3/- each; hen Siskins, 1/- each, three 2/6, six 4/-. Splendid lot cock Bullfinches, in perfect health, 1/6 and 2/- each; exhibition specimens 2/6 each; hen Bullfinches, 1/- each; few extra large steady rich coloured hens, 1/6 each. Grand lot cock brown Linnets, everyone guaranteed to have nut brown backs and rose-red breasts, 8d. each, three 1/6, six 2/6, twelve 4/-; specially selected larger cocks for show, Muling, or contest, singing, 1/- each, three 2/6, six 3/6, twelve 6/-; scores of dozens of these Linnets sent every week to contest singers of Yorkshire, Lancashire, Durham, Northumberland, London, etc. Remember, I hold record for cheap contest winners, having supplied one for 4d. that won the cup in Yorkshire, beating, among others, a Leeds bird that cost nearly as many pounds as mine cost pence. Cock Chaffinches 8d. each, three 1/6, six 2/6, twelve 4/-; exhibition specimens 1/- each; cock Greenfinches 6d. each, three 1/-, six 1/6, twelve 2/-; exhibition specimens, 1/- each. Redpolls, 6d. each, three 1/-, six 1/6, twelve 2/6; exhibition specimens, 1/- each. Splendid lot cock Skylarks, 8d. each, three 1/6, six 2/6, twelve 3/6; few specially selected birds, very steady and in song, 1/6, 2/-, and 2/6 each. Hand-reared cock Song Thrush, 2/6. Two-year-old cock Blackbird, splendid songster, 2/-. Goldfinch, Linnet, or Bullfinch cages, 6d. each, 4/6 dozen. Lark runner cages, 6d., 8d., and 10d. each, 3/6, 4/6, and 7/- dozen. Dealers send stamp for wholesale cage list; price will astonish you. The following letters prove quality of birds sent out: "Water Works, Baltron Station. Sir,—Goldfinch arrived in pink of condition. Many thanks for despatching bird so quickly and such a good bird for money.—Yours, W. McAdam." "14, Temple-ter., Morriston. Sir,—Goldfinches arrived in pink or condition. They are a fine lot, and I am perfectly satisfied with my purchase.—Yours, T. Evans." "22, Union-ter., Clarence-st., York. Sir,—Goldfinches arrived safe, and am very much pleased with them. I am surprised at your turning out such nice birds so cheap as compared with other dealers.—Yours, H. Brough." "82, George-st., Whiteinch, Glasgow. Sir,—Linnets arrived in lovely condition and are the best Linnets I ever had sent. I have told all my friends to send to Gore for their birds. Please send me another dozen.—Yours, R. Rough." "12, Exeter-st., West Hartlepool. Oct. 15th. Sir,—Received Bullfinch and Goldfinch, and am very pleased with them. I have tried other dealers, but find yours are the best.—Yours, G. Robson." "5, Bellefield-ter., Ford Croft, St. Mary Cray, Oct. 16th. Sir,—Please send four Goldfinches as follows. I have spent 25/- on Goldfinches from other dealers this season, and only have one left, and that not worth 1/-. My cousin recommended me to you. He still has four left out of six he had from you three years ago, and two of those are prize winners.—Yours, F. Smith." "124, Southwoodside-rd., Glasgow. Oct. 13th. Sir,—Received birds in good order and am very pleased with them; they are good value. Our first deal being satisfactory, will lead to future business. For prompt attention and value for money you cannot be beaten, and deserve the confidence of all intending purchasers of birds.—Yours, R. J. Jago." "71, Amity Grove, Raynes Park. Oct. 13th. Sir,—Bullfinch arrived safe and am very pleased with it. Thanks for honest dealing; you set an example for others.—Yours, R Chastney." "40, Brunel-st., Ferryhill, Co. Durham, October 9th. Sir,—Received Linnets all right. I never had better for the money in my life. I was told you was an honest and upright man, and I am thankful to say you are. Please send another dozen cocks.—Yours, Fredcrick Curry." "48, Church-st., Seaham Harbour. Oct. 7th. Sir,—Linnets arrived in first-class health and condition. Many thanks for promptitude.—Yours, G. Craggs." "Broughton, Stokesley, Oct. 5th. Sir,—Received birds quite safe and am well pleased with both. The Linnet is a good call bird and knows his work. I am pleased to get hold of a straightforward man at last, having been taken down so much.—Yours, A. Jackson." "29, Handel-st., Halifax. Oct. 9th. Sir,—Received Lark safe and he is a grand bird. I am very proud of my two birds. No one need be afraid to send to you for birds; they will get what they pay for—good value for money. If all were like you we should want no approval with our birds.—Yours, B. Holmes." As some people may be doubtful of the genuineness of these letters, I have sent 60 unsolicited testimonials, including the above, all bearing Government postmarks, to Editor of CAGE BIRDS for his inspection, and will give £10 to anyone that can prove that any letter I publish is not genuine and entirely unsolicited. See Appliance column and also Roller Canary column for further statements of facts.

HARRY ALLEN. HERE WE ARE AGAIN.

with over 3,000 of the best British in the world. I give my very best thanks to Glasgow, S. Wales, and Surrey, for their kind patronage, and not forgetting my own town—Leeds—where again I sold 300 Linnets at my bird stall in Leeds Market, also 30 stone of my special Linnet mixture, and large quantities of Bullfinches and Goldfinches, and no wonder, for over 16 months I have not had a bird returned to me (proof, the Editor of this paper); is not this sufficient proof I attend to my business? Goldfinches, Goldfinches, real English peartree cock Goldfinches, the largest in England, with grand broad heads and beautiful square-cut scarlet blaze, with splendid wing bars and richly tanned on breasts, and beautifully buttoned; these prize-winners, 4/6; other grand Goldfinches, same size, beautiful colour, 3/6; very large Greypates, will make sure winners, 2/6 each; a few large Goldfinches, being used for catching, 2/6 each. I have over 200 of the nicest and largest cock Bullfinches in England, with beautiful black cap and bib, with double rich colour on breasts, ready at once for the show bench, these prize-winners 3/6 each; other grand Bullfinches, 2/6 and 3/-; beautiful hen Bullfinches, 1/6 and 2/-; they are in good condition; beautiful Greenfinches, the nicest I have seen this season, like paint, in show condition, 1/-; a few toppers, 1/6; full-coloured cock Chaffinches, 1/- each; red-breasted Redpolls, 1/- each; Linnets, my A1 specials can beat the world for steadiness, size, colour, and markings, 2/6 each; these birds are winning all over; Linnets, singing grand, with a beautiful polished contest cage, and my new book of secrets, and a packet of my special mixture, 3/- the lot, honestly worth double. Look, fierce singing cock Linnets, with blood-red breasts and extra loud voices, with cage, and my book of secrets, right for catching or contest singing, only 2/-. Linnets taught by the world's champion, will sing anywhere, only 1/6; a few special 2/-. Linnets from the same place as the champion Linnet of the world, only a 1/-, the same as I have supplied most of the leading Linnet clubs of England. I defy any dealer in the world to supply the same for the money. Deposit your money with the Editor of this paper for honest stuff, all on seven day's approval. Look, the finest cock Larks in England, singing daylight and gaslight, and as straight as arrows and as steady as rocks, 1/- and 1/6; a few singing extra loud, 2/6. Exhibition British show cages, 2/- each; my book of secrets, 9d., which I am the originator of; for proof of the above read what others say:—"204, Wingrove Avenue, Newcastle-on-Tyne.—Dear sir, I am exceedingly pleased with the Linnet you sent me.—Yours, etc., Geo. Taylor, to H. Allen." "Mid. Ry. Station, Chesterfield.—Sir, I received the bird quite safe, and I am highly satisfied with it.—Yours truly, J. Thompson, to H. Allen." "73, Grosvenor-rd., Eastwood Vale, Rotherham.—The Goldfinch and Lark I received from you are very good birds. I got 2nd prize with the Lark at Rotherham show; wishing you every success.—R. Kirk, to H. Allen." Please state wants; postcard sent before birds; no waiting; only honest dealing done with me.—Write with confidence to the largest British bird dealer in the world. Harry Allen, Bird Specialist and Judge, City Aviaries, 46, Beckett-st., Leeds.

Giant Siberian Hen Bullfinches.

These birds are entirely different to those offered by foreign dealers and others, as being Siberian birds. The birds imported by me are privately brought over by a friend, and can only be obtained by me. They are three times the size of any other foreign Bullfinches (and brighter in colour, offered which are Russians or Germans, and are not to be compared with these of mine.

I am receiving large consignments every fortnight. I sent over 600 into Scotland last year, and many of my customers have bad splendid results, and are repeating orders.

Siberian Hens, or cock Bullfinches, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/- each.

Siberian Siskins, Cocks, 3/6, 4/6, 5/6, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6 each; hens, 2/-, 3/-, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/-, 8/-, 10/- each.

Crossbills, cocks, 5/6, 7/6, 8/6, and 10/6.

Snowbuntings, cocks, 5/-, 6/-, and 7/6 each.

All in perfect health and condition, sent on approval, 24 hours; cash or deposit with Editor. Testimonials from all parts of the world.

A Truly Wonderful Collection of Norwich Plainheads, such as can nowhere else in Europe be seen, Some slashing Show Birds at prices that will astound those used to paying the "fancy figures" by some for only second and third-rate Birds.

LARGE BOUNCING COCKS AND HENS, in Norwich 10/6, 15/-, 20/-, 30/-, 40/-, 60/- each.

Read a few latest unsolicited opinions:—

"11, Middlesex Road, Southsea, November 3rd, 1909. Many thanks for prompt delivery of birds. I am pleased with them. E. J. Scarot to W. Rudd."

"Selsfield Place, East Grinstead, November 4th, 1909. The bird to hand. It gives perfect satisfaction. M. Head to W. Rudd."

"6, Cross Street, New Sheldon, R.S.O. November 4th, 1909. Just a line to thank you for your promptness. I am sure the birds are simply grand. I think I never saw birds sent out in better order. My friend, who they were for, is well satisfied, and he said he had a good reason for backing Mr. Rudd against all others. Birds previously ordered for friends elsewhere arrived, after a week, and two were dead. I sent them back, but nothing has come yet. I wanted them to get them from you, but they would have their own way, but after seeing our birds, don't they wish they had let me give you the order. C. C. Hodgson to W. Rudd."

"Batterstown, Co. Meath, November 2nd, 1909. The pair of Norwich arrived safely, in good condition, and are highly satisfactory. W. A. Mards to W. Rudd."

"Big Pagehurst Cottages, Staplehurst, Kent, Nov. 3rd, 1909. I received bird quite safe, and it gives me every satisfaction. At any time I am wanting another, I will favour you with the order. Mrs. Jones to W. Rudd."

"48, Cochrane Street, St. John's Wood, London, November 4th, 1909. The birds arrived safe. They are very good ones, and I am more than pleased with them. F. Vaughan to W. Rudd."

"16, Mysore Road, Clapham Junction, to W. Rudd, November 3rd, 1909. Many thanks for birds safely received. I must say they are much better than I had been looking for. P. A. Upcott to W. Rudd."

109, Harrison Road, Belgrave, Leicester, November 4th, 1909. Received birds safe, I think them beautiful. Thank you very much for sending such a good pair. Mr. Needham to W. Rudd."

"24, Aubrey Road, Cymner, Perth, November 5th, 1909. Bird to hand Tuesday, safe, and I thank you for sending. Both bird and cage give every satisfaction. S. James to W. Rudd."

"Leeds, November 4th, 1909. The show Norwich cock arrived safe. Iam very well satisfied with it M. D——. to W. Rudd."

when reading my advertisement last week, in which I said I frequently received letters from customers saying that my Leipzig Rollers were better birds than those that cost twice and even three times more money from elsewhere, would probably think I was drawing the long-bow, but among the testimonials given below is one that almost repeats my words. For years past I have said that nowhere else can be had the same value at the price I offer, and to prove this I ask all intending purchasers of a Roller to have one from me on a week's trial, and one from elsewhere at any higher price on same terms. Test them side by side for a week and keep the one that suits best. I shall be quite satisfied with result. I have a grand stock of the genuine Leipzig Rollers, all in full song day and gaslight, with long hollow and double rolls, sweet silvery trills, water bubble runs, soft roulades, hollow bell rolls, piccolo trils, jug-jug of Nightingale, harp gong and flute notes, etc., etc., guaranteed quite free from any harsh or chopping notes whatever. Price 6/- and 7/- each. I also have a splendid lot of loud-singing Hartz cocks in full, free, vigerous song, all real coiling lifters, at 4/6 each, seven 28/-. All birds properly packed free of extra charge and sent on full week's trial at my risk on receipt of cash or CAGE BIRDS deposit system, and if fullest satisfaction not given, money is promptly and cheerfully refunded in full. Now, please notice dates of following: "51, York-st., London. October 24th. Sir,—Many thanks for Canaries safely received and am very pleased with them.—Yours, T. Hollins." "Milber House, Highweek, Newton Abbot, October 23rd. Sir,—Many thanks for Leipzig Roller received on Thursday. It is a beauty. I have had many at higher prices from other dealers, and can say yours beats them all for purity of song. The Linnet I had from you is singing splendidly. I hope to get you many more orders.—Yours, W. Harris." "64, Hafod-y-coed, Llanbilleth. October 23rd. Sir,—Received Leipzig Roller in pink of condition, and a gem he is. Thanks for your promptness. As soon as he was on table and unpacked he started his music.—Yours, A. Morgan." "Inveresk, Bournemouth. Oct. 22nd. Sir,—Birds arrived quite safe and I am very pleased with them. —Yours, F. Bartlett." "11, Wade-avenue, Larklands, Ilkestone. Oct. 22nd. Sir,—Roller to hand; thanks for your selection he gives very satisfaction. I shall send for another shortly.—Yours, E. Aldred." "13, Brandwood-street, Daubhill. Oct. 25th. Sir,—Received Roller on Friday, and is giving every satisfaction. Thanking you for selecting me so good a bird. I shall most certainly deal with you again.—Yours, Tom Speakman." "140, High-st., Newry, Ireland. Oct. 23rd. Sir,—Received Canaries on 22nd, and must say that such value for money I never saw. They were in pink of condition, so please keep two more like them for next week. I must congratulate you on your splendid way of packing birds.—Yours, P. O'Reilly." "London-road, Alderley Edge. Oct. 23rd. Sir,—Roller arrived safe on Thursday and sang before it was unpacked. It is a good bird, and I am most satisfied with same. I have had several Rollers from you before and always found them good ones, and can recommend anyone wanting a good Roller to send to you. Thanking you for sending such a good bird.—Yours, G. Birkin." The above testimonials, with hundreds of others, open to inspection at any time. Don't forget, full week's trial allowed and all your money back if not fully satisfied. See British Bird and also Appliance column for further adverts.

I Have no MISS-taken Ideas

—I have the best value in Hartz Mountain Rollers to-day in England. Prices are 4/6, 5/3, 6/6, 7/5, 8/6, 10/6 12/6, 15- cocks; hens, 1/6, 2/-, 2/6; pairs, 6/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6. Cage, 3d. extra.

N.B.—Persons not liking much noise, and wanting low and sweet singing birds, can be supplied by mentioning the fact with order.

Now read a few up-to-date facts, unsolicited, from many, and allow me to send on approval. No fancy and meaningless names indulged in.

"Market Harborough, November 4th, 1909. The bird you sent me gives every satisfaction. He is a splendid songster. Allow me to thank you for sending such a splendid bird, and also for the attention you have given me. A. Meadows to W. Rudd."

"Euton Cottages, Halkin Street, Flint, November 1st, 1909. Bird arrived safe. Thanks for sending such a good songster. He is singing like a Briton whilst I am writing this letter. He sings late at night. I am very well pleased with it. J. Williams to W. Rudd."

"Mardy, Glam., November 1st, 1909. Roller Canary to hand, it has given me every satisfaction. I am pleased with your promptness. J. Williams to W. Rudd."

Queaks' latest machines in stock; also imported nickel flutes, as used by German trainers, 6d., 1/-, and 2/- each, with full printed instructions; anyone can play them. Also Rettiche's book, "Profitable Canary breeding," as practiced in Germany, price, 9d. in paper; in cloth, 1/3, post free.

Bear in mind, when you purchase from me, you know who you are dealing with, as I have no leaving out names, nor do I stoop to pose as a female to entice your innocent sympathy. Hard facts and open daylight in all transactions is what I strongly believe in, without cant or anything approaching it.

91, SCLATER-ST., SHOREDITCH, LONDON, E

SEE AND HEAR.

You must see the quality and style of my birds and hear the pure, high quality of their song, if you would really know the class of birds it is possible to get at low prices. I have bred, trained, and imported Rollers continually this last sixteen years, and supplied thousands of high-class songsters, and contest winning songsters, yet in all my experience I have never possessed better quality. Their soft, sweet rolls, trills, and water-bubble runs, combined with their hollow rolls and bass hollow rolls, are really marvellous to hear. If you require a high-class songster allow me to send you one or more of these birds, carriage paid to your door, on seven days' approval, at my sole risk. You can then compare the quality of their song, although I offer none but genuine high-class birds. My prices are within the reach of all. My genuine trained St. Andreasberg Rollers defy competition for purity and clearness of song by day and artificial light, free from all harsh or choppy notes. Cocks in full song, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/- each; hens to match, 2/6, 3/- each. My Hartz cocks are a marvel of cheapness. The real working-man's friend, the best and cheapest, loud, free songsters in the world. Cocks in full song, by day and gaslight, 5/3, 5/9, 6/3 each; matched pairs, 7/6, 8/6. I could fill the whole of this paper with unsolicited testimonials received from delighted customers. The following is a sample taken from the 30 received this week:—"Whitehaven, 1/11/09.—Received bird in first-class condition. It gives every satisfaction. Yours are the best I have ever had. I shall therefore in future send all my orders to you. Again thanking you for such good value.—R. Huggins, to Miss Storey." "Southport, 2/11/09. —Pleased to say Roller you rent me is quite satisfactory.—E. Hackett, to Miss Storey." If you require Roller, Yorkshire, or Norwich Canaries, cocks or hens, allow me to send you them on approval, carriage paid, for I guarantee to give every customer satisfaction. Send stamp for illustrated price-list and testimonials, and don't forget I pay carriage to your door, and send all birds on seven clear days' approval at my sole risk. Best quality birds; lowest possible prices.—Miss E. L. Storey, Practical Bird Specialist, Crowle, Doncaster.

Successor to

E. TAYLOR,

The Bradford Bird Specialist,

The Value I Offer You

is exceptionally good, my stock is large, varied and choice. I have no room for mongrel specimens, neither do I keep a team of birds for exhibition to enable me to advertise recent winnings. I prefer to let my clients do the winning, and for this reason I would emphasise the fact that every bird in my stock is for sale. I keep none in the background. I would remind clients that my aviaries are the most modern in the country, and contain no artificial heat, and are lighted throughout by electricity. Customers, therefore, can rest assured that only healthy, hardy, and robust specimens are sent out. Inspection invited. Splendid value.

Typical Yorkshires.

All of correct type and quality, including grand young cocks that can win at local or members' shows, at 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, and 25/-; buff and yellow Yorkshire cocks, for breeding or song, at 5/6, 6/6, 7/6, 10/-, 12/6, and 15/-; hens, 2/-, 3/-, 4/-, 6/- and 7/6 each; matched pairs, to breed winners, at 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/- and 21/-. Splendid value in Plainhead Norwich, at same prices as Yorkshires; also Crests, and Crest-Bred, Cinnamons, Lancashires, and Lizards.

Constant arrivals direct from the breeders of the genuine Scifert Rollers: cocks, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-. Remember, full week's approval, and satisfaction guaranteed. Travelling boxes, 3d. extra.

1st, Special, and Challenge Cup

Read the following from another customer:—"Castle Road, Chatham, Kent. Dear Sir, I received the yellow cock all safe, and I got 1st and special, and challenge cup for best bird shown by a member with the bird you sent me. I must thank you for sending me such a good bird for the money. J. Smith to Joe Thomas." This is only one out of many which can be seen any time.

The above needs no comment. If you want good birds, the right man to send to is Thomas, who makes a point of personally selecting each bird, and of sending the highest possible quality at very reasonable rates. (See winnings week by week). Grand exhibition specimens, ready for the bench, now in stock. Write, stating wants. Grand birds, that can win at members' shows, both Yorkshires and Norwich, at 10/-, 12/-, 15/-, 17/6, and 20/-. An exceptionally choice selection of Stock Birds, from noted strains, ready for immediate despatch, in Clears, Ticked, Cinnamons, Greens, or Marked, Yorkshire cocks, well on leg and full of quality, 6/-, 7/- 8/-, 10/-, 12/-, 15/-, 17/6, 20/-. Yorkshire hens, long, leggy, racy birds, in sound health and tight feather, 3/-, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 10/-, 15/- each.

If you want to breed your own winners, send for one of my Specially Matched Pairs, at 8/-, 10/-, 12/-, 15/-, 20/-, 25/- per pair. Every bird guaranteed unrelated and bred from winning stock.

LARGE COBBY NORWICH,

both show and stock birds, in beautiful feather, including some real gems, now ready for sale, at same price as Yorkshires.

Easy payments arranged with bona-fide fanciers, and every bird sent on 7 days' approval at my risk. COME AND SEE the birds for yourself on any day but Sunday, and if you cannot come, send a P.C. for my free illustrated catalogue of ALL VARIETIES. Established over 30 years.

YORKSHIRES.

Buy from the breeder and save money. A number of very choice typical birds now on hand in perfect condition; hardy, satisfaction assured; approval; cocks 7/6, hens 5/-. Correspondence invited.—W. Deans, Thorpe-rd., Selby.

does not profess to have the best Yorkshires living, but what he contends is, that when he shows, he troubles the best of them, as the following will prove: With 13 entries at 4 shows (Accrington, Dulwich, Clapham, and Rochdale), he won 7 firsts, 5 specials (two for best Yorkshires), one second, two thirds, one fourth, and has now a few to dispose of; hens from 5/-, cocks from 7/6.—27, Ryburn Building, Sowerby Bridge, Yorks.

CHAMPION WINNING YORKSHIRES.

As I am not competing for the Yorkshire Challenge Cup this season, I have for sale some real clinkers, none reserved except those required solely for stock. My strain needs no puff, and this is undoubtedly the chance of a lifetime to secure the cream of the Fancy. Properly matched pairs from 15/- per pair upwards; winners in keenest competition at prices according to quality; stamp for particulars.—W. H. Shackleton, Melrose House, Lytton-rd., Girlington, Bradford.

CHAMPION WINNING YORKSHIRES.

Direct from "Mr. Bates, Stoke," strain, which won for him thousands of prizes. I have sold from this strain to Mr. Blackhurst some toppers, and he won 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 1908, Crystal Palace; also 1sts, 2nds, 3rds at Bolton, Morecambe, etc., this season; also Mr. Banks, Cardiff, won 1sts, 2nds, etc., with this strain supplied by me. Some grand youngsters, same strain and models; cocks, Yellows or Buffs, from 6/-, 7s., 8/-, 10/-, 12/-, 15/-, 20/-; hens, Yellows or Buffs, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 10/-, 12/-; matched pairs, to breed winners, 12/-, 14/-, 16/-, 18/-, 20/- pair. Any I send on approval and guaranteed to please you, as I don't exhibit these myself. Order at once; breeder 25 years.—Sandiford, Canary Breeder and Judge, Preston, Lancashire.

WHAT HE THOUGHT

What he thought about other people's birds I could not tell you, but he had to openly confess that although he had in his travels at various places seen many large and varied stocks, the stock I possess is of such superior quality that it stands second to none. You see, I do not buy any wasters; all my birds are of the correct type and full of quality, birds that will bear examination, and defy criticism, and the prices are so low. Therefore, you will readily understand why my birds are the cheapest and best value obtainable. Let me send whatever you require, carriage paid to your door, on seven days' approval, at my sole risk. You will then be convinced that it is impossible to get such superior quality at anything like the prices elsewhere. Note the following prices: Yorkshire cocks, slim, upstanding, light feathered birds, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6 each; hens, 3/6, 4/6, 5/6 each; matched pairs for breeding, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6 per pair; Norwich cocks, cobby, typical birds, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6 each; hens, 3/-, 3/6, 4/6 each; matched pairs 8/6, 10/6, 12/6 pair. I send all my Canaries carriage paid on seven clear days' approval at my risk, that you may examine every detail before deciding to keep them. I always and still intend to give every customer the utmost satisfaction. Illustrated price list post free.—Miss E. L. Storey, Practical Bird Specialist, Crowle, Doncaster.

Winners! Winners!

Read these testimonials, from "Denham Fishery, November 8th, 1909. The Yorkshire show bird won 1st and special at Bristol, in a class of 26. Please send another for enclosed amount. G. Alford to L. Dykes."

Another from "Elliott St., Glasgow, November 5th, 1909. Thanks very much for Yorkshire hen, which arrived in grand condition. I am also pleased to inform you that the two Yorkshire cocks I had from you got 1st and 2nd, both in one class, at Dysart, on Saturday last. Thanking you very much for your kind treatment, prompt attention, and straightforward dealings. Robt. Heggie to L. Dykes."

Still another, from "Church Street, Shildon, November 3, —The buff cock, I am pleased to inform you, won 1st and special at Hartlepool in open class. He looks extra now. Will write you again later for some good ones. J. H. Elwell to L. Dykes."

If you want to procure a show bird, or stock birds to breed own winners, or a good songster, then all I ask for is a fair trial. Deposit your money with Editor, and have them sent on approval, and try some from elsewhere, and compare them together. You will then be able to test the various statements made by certain other advertisers, whose advertisements are full of empty bounce, and copied matter.

Champion, long, typical Yorkshires cocks, at 6/-, 7/6, 8/8, 10/8, 12/6, 15/- each.

Grand, racy, tight feathered hens, at 3/6, 4/6, 6/6, 8/8, 10/6, 12/8 each.

Properly matched pairs (cock and hen), to breed own winners, at 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/- pair. In clears, ticked, green marked., cinn. marked, and a few even marks. Colour-fed to perfection, or natural colour; all guaranteed cold-room bred, and kept, and all cocks on full song. All sent on seven days' approval at my risk. Travelling cages, with proper food for journey, 3d. extra. Illustrated price list post free.

Exhibition cocks or hens, fit for keenest competition, or for local or members' shows, at very moderate prices, and can soon win back their own cost on the show bench.

NORWICH. NORWICH.

Some extra good large cobby birds, at same prices as Yorkshires. Place your orders with the old reliable breeder, exhibitor, and judge, and don't be led astray by those who are copying my advertisement in style and word. But they cannot follow when it comes to putting them on the show bench, as my Yorkshires win wherever put down, and have won over 60 cash prizes, and numerous specials, including several for best birds during last few weeks. See show reports all through season. Inspection and enquiries invited; state wants.

AMBLERS CHAMPION

Yorkshires are again bang at the top. For 30 years we have bred, sold, and exhibited some of the biggest champions that have ever graced the show bench; the most reliable strain in the world for length, type, quality, and that bit of breed so much admired in a Yorkshire; see reports Bulwich, Newcastle, and Gloucester, where we won special for best Yorkshire in show. We offer for sale a few clinkers, just the sort to breed champions, long racy cocks, straight as a rush, grand feather and position; slim, stylish hens, perfect type and feathered like wax; also a few real toppers than can win in any company; approval; satisfaction guaranteed.—Messrs. Amblers, late of Bradford, 133, Westminster-rd., Morecambe.

Disposal of My Entire Stock.

For business reasons, I am most reluctantly compelled to dispose of my stock of high-class Yorkshires, including my winning birds. This stud has been got together from some of the best exhibitors' rooms, and has been bred up to its present perfection regardless of expense. I wish a quick clearance, and will forward birds at half their original cost. First come, first pick. None reserved, all for sale. See my winnings at Burnley, Peterboro', Glasgow, Newcastle, Alnwick, Shields, Blaydon, and Derwent Valley; different judges every time. Write early, as the best go first. All prices, from 5/- to £5, according to quality; state price prepared to give. Terms, cash or deposit; three days' approval.

Easy Payments, and Honest Value.

WITHOUT YOUR BEING IN DEBT.

Take this from me:—Never get in debt if you can avoid it. Just remember that in such cases, those who do pay, have also to pay the price to cover the losses from those who do not. This is an undeniable commercial fact.

Notice this, but do not believe me without you like; I have the largest collection in the world today; hence, I say COME AND SEE (but wire or write, that I may be at home), as I am not made up of excuses. Approval, cash or deposit.

BOOKLET FREE.

Finest Talking Parrots. I only deal in Parrots that will make first-class talkers; no rubbish. I am willing at all time to send my Parrots on four week's trial and three months' talking guarantee. Why? Because all my Parrots are young, strong, and reliable. My lifetime has been spent among Grey Parrots, both at home and abroad. I guarantee every customer every satisfaction. Grey Parrots are my special fancy. I have trained them, know their wants, and can give every purchaser a bird that will please him in every way. I can supply grey talkers, not thinkers, that will say almost anything, at reasonable prices. Before you purchase a grey or green Parrot, send for my Booklet, entitled "Talking Parrots." All my birds are sent on four weeks' trial, at my risk. Send postcard for catalogue.—Mrs. Forster, Princes Park Aviaries, Violet Street, Liverpool.

If you want some of the best, send for my illustrated list, and the Parrot trick exposed. Don't be gulled into taking a Parrakeet, or a Rosy Cockatoo, neither worth more than a few shillings, but often sold as "Talking Parrots," "Grey-coloured Parrots," etc. Read one opinion out of hundreds:—

"20, Forester Road, Bath, November 6th, 1909. The blue Amazon Parrot arrived this morning, and I should like to express my entire satisfaction with the prompt and businesslike way in which you replied to my letter. I must also state that I should say the bird is, in the opinion of my wife and daughter, 'a perfect beauty,' and I quite share their opinion. S. White to W. Rudd."

solved. For full proofs send postcard at once for my large book, "Parrot Prattle," now containing 168 pages. This is the most wonderful book ever offered free of all charge to all Parrot fanciers. (This "Parrot Prattle" is registered copyright, and all infringers and imitators will be prosecuted against). It contains hundreds of testimonials from all parts with full names and addresses, many interesting facts, and gives valuable advice and hints to all Parrot buyers. Full details of our original system of selling Parrots on four weeks' trial, at our risk, which we were the first to introduce. We sell Parrots of all descriptions on four weeks' trial, at our risk, before settlement. Cheapest and best in the Kingdom, and any Parrot sold by us and not giving full satisfaction, will be exchanged any time within twelve months. Remember we lead and others try to follow. Write to other dealers as well as us, and judge for yourselves. Lists of Parrots for sale and above book post free on receipt of postcard.

NORTHERN YORKSHIRE C.C.

The annual excitement reached its climax on November 5th and 6th, when at Blaydon show the annual competition for the best young birds bred by a member was held. The trophy is the members' challenge cup, which is held for the year, to be won twice in succession or three times in all before it becomes the member's own. The first competition was at Wallsend two years ago, when Mr. Cuthbertson, of Heighington, won the coveted prize with a splendid wing tkd. yell.; last year it was won at Gateshead by our vice-president, Dr. O'Neal, of Sunderland; this year Mr. Hutler, of Jarrow, is the fortunate winner, with a grand young buff. He was closely pressed by Mr. Stewart, of Whitehaven, who had the honour of winning first in both young cock classes. Mr. Hutler was the recipient of many hearty congratulations, especially as he is a novice of only two or three years' standing. Mr. Battye was the judge this year, and last year he judged at Gateshead. The novice competition has now reached midway-house; it has been very keen this season, and the individual tastes of the various judges are prominent. Birds which won at one show and were declared fit to win amongst champions, have to take a back seat at the next show. Mr. Cockburn (Wallsend), has a good lead, with 27 points; Mr. Fred Johnson (Jesmond) runs second with 20 points; then comes a tie, Messrs. Dix Tindale and Hutler, 19 each. Mr. Davison, last year's novice winner, follows with 17, Mr. Mather next, 15. Everyone is speculating as to the final result. Mr. Cockburn has only one more first to win before leaving the novices for champion competition. Will he do it at Wallsend? In the champion competition not so many are running, and only two shows have been held. Mr. Cuthbertson leads with 35 points; Mr. Stewart follows a good second with 32, while I follow with 29. But business prevents my following up the competition, and most reluctantly I am compelled to dispose of my entire stock. Mr. Wigglesworth follows with 19; then there is a drop to 9, won by our good friend at Shields, Mr. W. Thompson. Mr. Cockburn, who is not content with his good things in the novice classes, has 8 points, and Mr. Bright 5. I should like to see some keener competition in the champion section, but I have no doubt ere long a few more novices will be taking the final plunge in their own section, and making things hot for the old stagers. Members please remember the table show on November 24th; four classes; secretary judges.—T. C. CRAWHALL, Sec.

DEANS AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

A largely attended meeting, under the chairmanship of Mr. John Brown, was held in the Dean's Institute, on Nov. 2. The final arrangements were made for the first annual show, to be held Nov. 13; a very encouraging number of entries had been received.—J. KAY, Sec.

SUNDERLAND C.B.A.

Usual meeting held October 30th, at Fawcett-st. Cafe. There was a fair attendance, presided over by Mr. W. F. Swan. The evening was principally taken up with the making of arrangements for annual show, November 19th and 20th, which we are hoping will be a huge success, and we trust that when exhibitors read our schedule and see the good things provided for them, they will do their best to give us a record entry.—W. REID, Sec.

KENT COUNTY C.B.A.

The following points have been gained at Dover show in the above Association. "Bowls and cups" competition.—Norwich Plainheads: Jordon 5, Gibbs 4, Meades 6, Taylor 13; Crests and Crest-breds; Broad 13, Campany 9; Yorkshires: Lockett 6, Eade 7, Reeve 3, Gibbs 0. Border Fancy: Weaver 8, Dr. J. A. Bowes 15; Lizards: Wood 12; Mules: Eade 5, H. E. Taylor 7. British: Jordon 11, Austen 9, Wickham 13, Brett 9.—GEO. SANDERSON, Hon. Sec., 17, Beaconsfield Avenue, Dover.

BELFAST N.C. AND Y.C.C.

Usual monthly meeting held in Avenue Hall, October 2nd. The president, Mr. James Adams, in the chair. The following classes were arranged:—Crests 2, C.-B. 2, Plainheads 12, two more classes being added for Yorkshires, making eight:—3 for matched old birds, 1 for Mules, and 2 for British, viz., Goldfinches and Linnets; all Canaries to be bred by members in 1909, except old pairs. Thirteen specials were promised by members present, and a full list will appear later on. The show is to be held on November 28th, and Mr. A. Hirst (Accrington), will judge, this being his second time during the history of the club, which is eight years old.—A. SOUTH, Assist. Sec.

EDINBURGH WESTERN O.S.

Annual meeting held in Riego Street Hall, on Nov. 4th. The President, Mr. Whitfield, presided. A number of new members were enrolled, and after several of the members had referred to the success of our show on Oct. 9th, the financial statement was read, showing a considerable balance to be divided. The election of office bearers was then proceeded with. Mr. Whitefield was re-elected President; Mr. George Stewart, Vice-President; Messrs. Gillanders and Todd, Committee; and Messrs. Bowman and Ardrew auditors; R. Lile, Sec. Mr. Ballantine tabled a motion that we add two more classes for Norwich. Intending members are invited to join early.—ROBERT LILE, Sec., 9, McLaren Terrace, Edinburgh.

MIDLAND COUNTIES YORKS. C.C.

NORTHERN YORKSHIRE C.C.

Meeting held October 27th, Mr. J. Curry in the chair. It was proposed hy Mr. Tomlinson, and seconded by Mr. Grieve, that a novice May show in both champion classes and novice classes, the points gained in champion classes to count for Sandiford's special, the points gained in novice classes for Dr. O'Neal's special. Carried.—It was proposed by Mr. Tindale, and seconded hy Mr. Grieve, that the points gained by Mr. Cuthberston at Newcastle Show be allowed to count for specials, as he had notified both the Newcastle secretaries and the N.Y.C.C. secretary of his omission to put the club's initial after his entries, previous to judging taking place.—A vote of thanks to Mr. Shepherd for judging was proposed and carried unanimously.—The date for the next table show was fixed for Nov. 24th; judge, Mr. T. C. Crawhall, four classes. Will fanciers please remember the date, and come in big numbers. The champion medals up to present have been won by: Newcastle, G. W. Cuthbertson; South Shields, T. C. Crawhall. Novice medals—Newcastle: W. Cockburn; Shields, Fred Johnson.—T. C. CRAWHALL, secretary.

CINNAMON-MARKED Y.C.C.

Committee meeting held on October 23rd, at Shipley. Mr. James Hartley (vice-president) occupied the chair. The correspondence in connection with our patronage at the Crystal Palace show was read and fully discussed. As the Palace authorities were unable to supply a judge who had not previously judged a show under our patronage, as per rule No. 13, the secretaries' action was confirmed in transferring the patronage to Huddersfield, the reserve show. Mr. L. Hodgson's bill for the hand hooks, amounting to £3 13s., was passed for payment. A letter was read from Mr. A. Frankland, of Guiseley, an old and respected member, who is retiring from the Fancy owing to a serious illness. A resolution of sympathy with Mr. Frankland was unanimously passed, and the secretaries were instructed to forward same. Reports on the Sandy Lane, Accrington, and Bradford City shows, were received. A number of members having omitted to mark their entry forms "C.M.Y.," it was decided that they should be asked to do so at all future shows under our patronage. It was decided to withdraw our guarantee on novice classes at Laisterdyke show, the officials not having complied with our rules in regard to these classes, and the secretaries were instructed to write Laisterdyke asking them to insert a note in catalogue to the effect that these classes were open to anyone who has not won a first prize in open competition previous to the current year, and that they are unlimited in price. It was also decided that the secretaries of all future shows should be written to, explaining how the schedule should be worded, so as to prevent confusion with the Yorkshire Union novice classes as far as possible. A further contribution of 5/- has been made to the special fund by Mr. H. Simonett. The following new members were elected:—Messrs. H. Hadwin (Gomersal); S. Bateman (Wibsey); J. Chapman (Wibsey).—GARNETT AND TOWERS, Hon. Secs, 8, Colne Road, Glusburn, Crosshills, near Keighley.

LEEDS C.B.S.

Monthly meeting held Nov. 6th, at Lockhart's, Briggate, Mr. Harry Smith in the chair. Eight new members were elected. It was decided to take the full schoolroom at St. George's for our show on Nov. 13th, as we are expecting a much larger entry even than at last show, which obtained 210 birds. A discussion was then started on "Birdroom Requisites," which proved very interesting.—J. CHAMBERS, Hon. Sec.

QUEEN'S PARK AND DISTRICT (Glasgow) C.B.S.

Monthly meeting held in Marie Stuart Hall, Langside Road, on 29th October. Members please return special sheets at once, to allow of allocation of specials. Special prizes to be brought to show, Nov. 20th. Mr. Young carried through an instructive washing exhibition. It was a splendid meeting, bringing us four new members.—N. THOMSON, 328, Allison-st., Govanhill, Glasgow.

GREAT HORTON (Good Intent) O.S

On Saturday, October 30th, Church Schools, Southfield Lane. Mr. F. Armstrong, of Halifax, gave us a lecture, on "The Preparation and Treatment of Birds during the Exhibition Season." He gave his method of colour-feeding, training, selection of show specimens, and told us how and when to wash birds. He also gave some advice on getting birds into condition and keeping them up to show pitch. Mr. Armstrong then invited questions, and, having answered many, all in an able manner, a vote of thanks, proposed by Mr. Ketteringham and seconded by Mr. Bartle. Mr. Armstrong replied in a true fancier's spirit, and said he would be only too glad to come again, which was received with applause.—H. SCHOFIELD, Hon. Sec.

SOUTH-WEST LONDON C.B.S.

On October 21st we held a very successful and interesting washing and judging exhibition. Three medals were competed for, one for the best washed yellow Norwich or Yorks, one for best washed buff Norwich or Yorkshire, and one for the member nearest points to the judge. Mr. Harris judged, and his awards generally were well received. The winners are as follows:—Mr. MacGregor, medal for being nearest the judge's awards; Mr. Burgess, for best washed yellow; Mr. Graham, for best washed buff. The last-named member handles his birds in quite a professional manner, and could hold his own in much greater competition. But washing and judging in one evening is too great a task unless members make a very early start, as the birds take a long time to dry to enable one to judge them properly. A very hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the judge, also for officiating as chairman.—LILLEY, Secretary.

PLUMSTEAD & WOOLWICH C.B.S.

Meeting held October 26th. The washing competition had to be withdrawn on account of the weather, and it was proposed to hold this at the next meeting. It was proposed that the secretary write to Mr. Birchley asking for date of his London lecture. It was also decided that Mr. Newnham be appointed correspondent-secretary to the Fancy Press, on account of Mr. Pawley's time being fully occupied at present. A committee meeting is to be called prior to our next general meeting to draw up schedule and show rules for annual open show, Jan. 6th and 7th, to be presented to general meeting. It was further proposed to hold our next meeting November 23rd instead of November 18th, as the majority of members wish to visit Greenwich and Deptford show on that date (and will include washing competition). Proposed that Mr. Pawley write to secretary of R.S.P.C.A. on behalf of members, thanking him for taking up the case of the blinding of Chaffinches for singing contests.—H. T. NEWNHAM, Hon. Assist. Sec.

WIMBLEDON & DISTRICT C.B.S.

A well attended meeting was held at Mr. Johnston's Rooms, 6, The Broadway, on Nov. 1st. The president (Mr. F. Piper) occupied the chair, and the Secretary announced that owing to the pressure of work in connection with election matters Mr. Stoakley was unable to be present. Eight new members were nominated at the last meeting and were duly elected, and the rule relating to nomination of members being suspended, five new members were elected, and thus rendered eligible to show at the forthcoming annual show. A silver medal for best bird shown by a novice at the young bird show was presented to Mr. T. Brown. The Secretary reported that the Southern Norwich P.C. had made application for the society to have the championship section as well as the novice, and the committee had decided to accept it. Owing to this, the issue of schedules had been delayed, but they were now issued to the members, and it was decided to extend the time of entry till the first post November 13th. A washing competition then took place, four members competing, Mr. Warley acting as final judge. A silver spoon was the first prize, and the successful competitor was Mr. A. W. Reader.—H. SMITH, hon. sec.

LANCASHIRE AND LIZARD F.A.

A well attended meeting was held in the Parish Church Schools, Rochdale, the room being kindly lent us by the Society. We had a good muster, but owing to the meeting being an hour before advertised time, it was not as large as was expected. However, under the able chairmanship of genial John Garner, we made good progress. Ramsden's Cruet: It was settled for each competitor to nominate two birds for the special, such to have R.P. at end of each entry. Will members kindly see to this when marking entries, as we want to put everyone on a fair footing. The special for best Lizard at Rochdale, presented hy Mrs. Rukin, and won by J. Rukin, was passed on to Mr. Jos. Humphries, Broken Silver, 1st in its class, Mr. House deciding this was second best in show. Mr. J. Lee, Castleton, won Ramsden's special, and therefore counts one point towards the same. A vote of thanks to chairman concluded the meeting. The language on Rochdale platform at night was more energetic than polite, owing to the railway officials having charged the majority with carriage for the cases they were carrying. There is nothing like brown paper to pull you through, at any rate it pulled one or two through on Saturday last, but 'nuff said. Will members kindly compare notes with the points for cup and medals, and any mistake I have made, I will rectify it as soon as possible.—Points: Lancs. Champions: W. Adams 73, W. Lee 67, J. Vickers 32, J. Oldham 23. Novice: A. Hordern 19, W. Ridgard 11. Liz. Champions: J. Dewsnap 78, J. Rukin 65, J. Hampshire 42, W. P. Barnes 35. Novice: A. Martin 28, W. Dewsnap 26, J. Lee 19, A. Bosworth 3, W. Bacon 2, B. Salway 2. The above tables are number of points gained by our members at Rochdale, Manchester, and Rochdale Good Intent, for our challenge cups and medals, and for Ramsden's Cruet, Messrs. Lee, Rukin, and Dewsnap each score one point.—JOHN RUKIN, Hon. Sec.

CITY AND SUBURBAN A.C.B.

A Presentation.

Meeting October 25th, with Mr. A. C. Burn in the chair. Mr. Murton Gill (Caterham) was nominated for membership. Result of Plainhead judging competition: Champ.: J. Buckman, 23 points; Am.: A. W. Hart, 24 points; Novice: W. Large, 25 points. Silver medals were presented to the above. The quarterly statement of accounts, showing cash balance £28 0s. 4d., was confirmed. A silver plated rose bowl was presented by Miss Louisa Jolliffe for competition at the annual show, which was highly appreciated. Also specials from Mr. and Mrs. Morrison, Mr. and Mrs. Page, and Messrs. Withers Bros. A judging competition in Yorkshires took place, with two classes containing 29 birds, and Mr. R. L. Crisp as final judge. The secretary read from the "Evening News" an account of a conviction for bird blinding; it was placed on record that this Association strongly protests against this gross cruelty, and instructs the secretary to convey their appreciation to the judge for the example set in stamping out this barbarous practice. It was agreed that, for the comfort of the birds at the annual show, members be asked to abstain from smoking as far as possible. The judging being finished, Mr. Crisp proceeded to explain in detail his awards. Mr. Crisp then made a few observations upon the "mad" topic of pedigree breeding and selection, amounting to a very fine and instructive lecture. At the close a very hearty vote of thanks was accorded Mr. Crisp. Mr. W. Knight was then presented with a peck of Canary seed for making the most entries. The chairman announced that he had a very pleasant duty to perform, and that was to congratulate Mr. P. Adamthwaite upon his marriage; he hoped that he would have a prosperous life. They (the Association) were going to recognise the services that he had rendered to them at a critical time, when they were full of anxieties. Handsome as this present before him was, it was a small token in comparison with his great services to us. On behalf of the Association, he asked him to accept this silver-plated cut-glass six-bottle cruet, with the following engraved inscription on a shield:—"Presented to Mr. P. Adamthwaite by the members of the City and Suburban A.C.B., upon the occasion of his marriage, September 4th, 1909." In supporting the chairman, Mr. Tringham said he could endorse all that had been said. The Federation hoped that they would have his services for many a long day. Mr. Crisp also added a tribute. Mr. Curtis could not leave without expressing his delight that Mr. Adamthwaite's services were recognised, and he said that, judging by the appearance of this present, whoever made the selection made a good choice, and he hoped that they who used it would have plenty. With emotion Mr. Adamthwaite thanked the members for their kindness. This very handsome cruet both he and his wife would always appreciate. Whatever he could do for the Association he should always look upon as a great pleasure, and when he looked at that present it would always remind him of his many bird friends.—V. WYNN, Hon. Sec.

The Shows.

PEMBROKE DOCK.

The 20th annual show was held in the Market Hall, on Nov. 10th. The classification was meagre, and entries turned up indifferently, which we attribute to the fact that the show was not sufficiently advertised, while a sliding scale rule dealing with the prize money has a tendency to frighten exhibitors away. The exhibits were nicely staged, at a good height and in a nice light, and the committee looked well after them. Mr. J. N. Harrison judged, and his awards seemed to give every satisfaction. The special for best bird in the show fell to a very good Crested Norwich, shown in faultless condition. CREST OR C.B. (4): 1, spl, 3, Evans, winner grand crest and rare quality feather; 3rd, nicely feathered yell.; 2, Llewellyn, nice, but smaller in crest; res, Gwyther. NOR. (6): 1, Evans, grand quality cl. yell., nice type, style, and wing carriage; 2, 3, Hughes, good bird, fine condition, close up; 3rd, another very taking bird, in good feather. YORKS. MULE (4): 1, Faithful, grand Goldie-Can., well placed; absent, Thomas (2). BRIT. GOLDFINCH (15): 1, spl, Jenkins, rare blaze, splendid col. and shape, wins; 2, Ray, good head, moons and type 3 (no name), nice col., shapely, and in good condition; res, Twigg; vhc, Lewis, Evans. A.O.V. BRIT. (9): 1, Jenkins, very pretty Thrush, fine condition; 2, Davies, sweet Bullfinch, good cap and body col.; 3, Johns, splendid Snow Bunting, rather wild; res, Twigg; vhc, Davies. SELL. (10/6) (9): 1, Llewellyn; 2, Ray; 3, Andrews; res, Twigg. FOR. (2): 1, Martin; 2, Jacobs.

BODMIN.

The seventeenth annual open show of the Bodmin and District C.B., etc., Association, was held in the Public Rooms and Market House, on Nov. 10th. The entry in the Cage Bird Section was just the same in number as the previous year. The society, on the whole is undoubtedly one of the most flourishing in the county, and can boast of a membership of nearly 400, and every one seems to take a special interest in it, so that it is always carried to a successful issue. The committee, which is a large one, comprises Messrs. T. H. Spear, Adams, Bartlett, Bray, Brewer, Brown, G. Buscombe, R. T. Buscombe, Dale, Edyvian, Hards, Harris, Jane, Hender, W. Hender, jun., Horc, Kendall, Kistler, Lean, Liddell, May, Northcott, Perkins, Scott, Shelly, F. H. Spear, G. Spear, W. Spear, Stevenson, Tickell, Treverton, Verran, and West. The Norwich classes filled well, and were undoubtedly a feature of the show, containing many typical specimens. The exhibition was opened by the president, W. H. L. Shadwell, Esq. The secretary, Mr. E. A. Jago, is an ideal one, and had made admirable arrangements, and well merited the success which crowned his efforts. The show was well patronised, being thronged all through the afternoon and evening, when over £100 was taken as gate money. Mr. C. E. Silk made the awards, which were well received.

LOWESTOFT.

The Lowestoft F.S. held their 22nd annual show in the Public Hall, on Nov. 10th and 11th. The hall is well known, and is very suitable for the purpose; light is good, and draughts absent. Mr. E. L. A. Crow, the hon. sec., is a brick. The society has been in very low water, but (thanks to Mr. Crow's persistency), things are going on well again. Amongst others we noticed doing their bit, were Messrs. Rackham, Linder, Kirk, and Lang. The show was opened by the Mayoress, who wished the society success. That popular judge, Mr. W. E. Greeves, placed the cards, and left very little to find fault with, although he had some very hot stuff to sift to find the winners.

The Critique.

NOR. CL. YELL. (6): 1, 2, Hart, winner smart bird, full colour, neat all over; 2nd, very similar, just a wee bit longer, A1 colour; 3, Rackham, rare stock bird, not quite finished; 4, Rackham; hc, Crow. Kindly note my change of address, from Bell Place, to 20, North Street, writes Mr. W. Grewar, secretary of the Forfar and Dis. C.B.I.S.

The Clapham and Dis. C.B.A. specials, won at the recent show, writes Mr. A. C. Askew, the hon. secretary, will be sent out in due course.

Our entries close, writes Mr. J. A. Botchley, hon. secretary of the Henfield and Dis. F.F.S., on November 17th.

Splendid classification at Dundalk Show, November 17th and 18th.—See show advertisement. P. J. Gaskin, secretary.—(Advt.)

I have removed to 6, Regent Street, Blackburn, from Whalley Old Road, writes Mr. James Lyons.

Splendid classification at Ilkeston Show. Fanciers will do well in sending for schedule.—(Advt.)

I have opened a bird shop here, writes Mr. T. G. Jeffery, "The Aviaries," 2, Station Approach, Southall, Middlesex.

I have purchased Mr. R. J. Howe's Bullfinch, 1st Peterborough, etc., writes Mr. P. H. Harris (London, W.C.).

Will fanciers please note that I have removed from Reform Street to 22, Portland Street, Newport, Barnstaple, writes Mr. W. Baker.

At the recent Eastfield Side Show a special prize was awarded to Mrs. Bradbury's Parrot, which, on being uncovered, proved to be a "Teddy Bear."

We have made an application to hold our show under Cage Bird Union License, writes Mr. W. Lightfoot, secretary of the Wandsworth F.S.

Our entries are extended to November 13th, first post, writes Mr. Thos. Duffield, hon. secretary of the West Bromwich C.B.S., as we have only three entries to time of writing.

Gloucester and Cheltenham Show reports in the Border Fancy classes give the name of Harrison, instead of Harinson.—A. Harinson (Carlisle).

The 1909 balance-sheet of the Bangor and Dis. F.S., sent us by the hon. secretary, Mr. W. Aitken, is entirely satisfactory, there being a favourable balance of £4 17s. The annual show resulted in a profit of £5 16s. 6d.

The secretary of the London Federation of C.B.S., Mr. P. Adamthwaite, asks us to request his friends and correspondents to kindly note his new address, viz., 83, Hartland Road, Kilburn, N.W.

We hear that Mr. J. Rukin (Rawtenstall) won Mr. Ramsden's special for best in Lizard section, and Mr. Ramsden's special for best fed bird in show, fed on Ramsden's Pepper, at Manchester Show.

Norwich Alliance Show report credits Dash with winning 3rd in class 22, whereas it was my pair that took that honour. My name is spelled wrong in class 18.—A. Parke (Lowestoft).

My thanks to Rochdale "Good Intent" Society, writes Mr. W. F. Swarbrick (Tideswell). My birds arrived home from the show safely, and I received my prize money the following Monday evening.

We were first and special with a Siskin, and second with a Yellow Norwich hen, at the Carlisle Show, in the catalogue of which our name reads McMann Bros.—McMinn Bros (Castle Douglas).

Permit me to thank you for putting the picture of my bird in Cage Birds, which I more than appreciate. I think great credit is due to your artist for his life-like drawing of the bird. J. Best (Battersea, S.W.)

The schedules for Ilkeston C.B. Show on November 27th and 29th, have been sent out, and any exhibitor having been missed may have one on application to me, writes Mr. T. Smith, hon. secretary, 5, King Street, Ilkeston.

Mr. Livingstone's special prize for most points with four birds, in Mule and British sections, at our late show, was won by Dr. A. R. Galloway, of Aberdeen, with his grand team of Mules, viz., two first and two second prizes.—John Young, secretary, City of Glasgow O.A.

The entries for the annual members' show of the Highgate, Hampstead and Dis. C.B.S., at the Spencer Hall, Dartmouth Park Hill, N.W., held this Friday and Saturday, November 12th and 13th, have reached the grand total of 350, writes Mr. C. W. Law, the hon. secretary. There will be a grand display, and it will repay all bird lovers to pay us a visit.

Class 52, in our schedule, writes Mr. W. Reid, hon. sec., Sunderland C.B.A., should read: "British bird, any other variety not mentioned."

I omitted to include the name of the L.C.B.A. in last week's list of Cage Bird Union fixtures. They are affiliated to the Union, and their fixture is November 26th, 27th, and 29th. Also Morriston and District, November 8th.—J. Ravnes (hon. secretary, C.B.U.).

Will you please thank all exhibitors at our recent contest for the grand support they gave us, which resulted in 167 entries? And 165 birds arrived to be judged. Needless to say, we were highly gratified at such a fine entry.—J. H. Willows, hon. secretary, Midland Roller C.C.

The prize money at our show in the selling class British and foreign, should be 8s., 4s., 2s., not 12s., 8s., 4s., 2s., as printed in the schedule, writes Mr. J. B. Y. Murdoch, hon. secretary of the Kilmarnock O.C.B.S. All other classes are 12s., 8s., 4s., 2s.

We have fixed our show, write Messrs. Boncey and Watt, hon. secretaries of the Isle of Thanet F.S., for January 26th and 27th, 1910, to be held at the Grand Hall by the Sea, Margate. Specials are coming in first-rate. Mr. J. Robson will judge cage birds.

We have to extend date of entries closing to November 14th, writes Mr. E. W. Radford, hon. secretary, Glastonbury Show, owing to entries not averaging one per class. Fanciers, do not forget our show which gives a fine classification.

The Reading and District C.B.S. hold their members' show at the Palmer Hall, West Street, on November 17th, writes Mr. W. H. Pyke, the hon. secretary, and entries are very good indeed. All fanciers in this district are invited.

I shall be glad to send schedules of our show, November 25th and 26th, to any who wish for them, and who have not received them yet. There will be no extension of date for the receiving of entries.—J. R. Hyland, hon. secretary of the Yorkshire C.C. of Ireland.

We rely upon fanciers to support us, writes Mr. H. Smith, hon. secretary of the Wimbledon and Dis. C.B.S. Entries in open classes are very short, average about two per class. I will accept entries till first post Saturday morning, November 13th.

From Mr. J. Jones (17, Cranbourne Street, Brighton), we have received what is termed a "sevenpenny sample of 'Dreadnought' mealworms," and very fine value it appears to be, both as regards number and size of the mealworms.

The London and Counties O.A., on November 15th, at the Session House Hotel, Clerkenwell Road, E.C., are to be favoured, by that well-known old fancier, Mr. W. Shakespeare, with a washing exhibition, writes Mr. W. Gilbert, the hon. sec. All fanciers welcomed.

The Marske-by-the-Sea and Dis. F.C. have appointed us as secretaries in place of Mr. T. Kirby. We intend holding our annual show on January 15th, 1910, schedules for which will be out shortly.—Crunstead and Clegg, hon secretaries.

I am sorry to inform you, writes Mr. J. W. Papple, secretary, Hartlepools C.B.S., that we had a loss of £4 4s. on the classes at our show; but we paid all open prize money within four days. We thank you for the good report you gave of our show.

Extra specials, in connection with the Pendleton and Salford Show, are as follows, writes Mr. J. Rukin, hon. secretary, Lancashire and Lizard F.A.: Mr. John Dewsnap, 2s. 6d. for best gold Lizard; Mr. W. Dewsnap, 2s. 6d. for best silver Lizard, shown by a member of the L. and L.F.A.

In your "Guide to the Shows," writes Mr. Geo. Goulden (Langwathby, Carlisle), my name is omitted from the Carlisle Show, held January 11th next, as judge. I was elected to judge the Crests as early as February last, and all being well I hope to fulfil my appointment and have good classes to judge.

Derwent Valley Show report in the Border Fancy hen class states: 1st and special, no name; this should read Henderson. In the buff Border cock class, v.h.c. is credited to Lindsay, whereas I won that ticket. I had four entries here, and had a ticket with each.—G. R. Henderson (Ashington).

We are holding a good three-day show of cage birds on November 13th, 14th, and 15th, writes Mr. J. N. Elwell, hon. secretary of the Old Shildon Workmen's Club C.B.S. The admission will be free, but a collection will be taken at the door. We are giving £60 in prizes in 12 classes.

In the schedule of the Grand United Metropolitan Show, writes Mr. A. Watson, the hon. secretary, classes 120 to 123 should read Norwich clear or ticked, classes 127 to 130 Yorkshire clear or ticked. Five specials of 5s. each are offered to the member of each society scoring most points.

We hope fanciers will not forget the Hayle Show on November 17th and 18th, writes Mr. H. Ware, the hon. secretary. We have four money prizes for a low entry fee of 1s. 6d., with a cash special for nearly every class. Entries are very short, so we will accept up to November 13th last post. Prize money will be paid in three days.

I have just forwarded, writes Mr. B. Hollins, the well-known dealer, of Hull, 50 cases of stuffed birds to a customer (who has seen my name in Cage Birds), at Wellington, New Zealand. The weight of same was about 4 cwt. I have just purchased one of the finest collections of rare British birds and others (total value close upon £1,000), which it has taken 45 years to collect (many of the birds are extinct now). If any fanciers wish to complete their collection I am willing to separate birds, as in most cases there are two or three of each kind.

Will secretaries kindly note that I have moved from Wotton, my address being now 52, High Street, Aylesbury.—F. Inch.

We are offering the following specials at our show, writes Mr. A. J. Notley, hon. secretary of the Hetton-le-Hole and Dis. C.B.S., viz., 5s. (cash) for most points in Norwich section, and again in the Yorkshire and British bird sections, 2s. 6d. cash in Cinnamon section, and again in the Crest and C.B., and the Border Fancy sections.

I am very sorry to inform you that I am compelled, through lack of time, to part with all my Yorkshires, writes Mr. T. C. Crawhall (Newcastle). It is a great wrench parting with my birds, especially after working them up to their present state of efficiency, but it cannot be helped. I hope to take them up again in two or three years' time if business and health permit.

The Leyton and Dis. C.B.A. is still going as strong as ever, writes Mr. B. F. Forse, the hon. secretary. Our membership is now fast approaching the century, and we have no less than fifty specials, besides the six challenge cups, for our annual members' show. Any fanciers desirous of joining to be eligible to compete for all, except cups, can do so, providing application is made not later than November 13th.

We learn that Mr. F. Wardleworth (late of Altrincham), the Border Fancy enthusiast, has taken up the Fancy again with Mr. H. Wadsworth, in Borders and Yorkshires, and that they intend showing immediately. Schedules of any forthcoming shows (they write) we shall be pleased to receive, addressed, Messrs. Wardleworth and Wadsworth, 68, Leng Road, Newton Heath, Manchester.

An error has been made in the printing of our schedule, writes Mr. R. Gibbie, hon. secretary of the St. Helen's O.S. Class 22 should read A.O.V. Canary, not previously mentioned. Mr. J. Sandiford, of Preston, has promised a medal for Hottest-fed bird on his Royal Red. This notification was received too late to be inserted in schedule. The show is being held on Nov. 19 and 20, and not Nov. 19 only, as in our last week's advertisement.

OBITUARY.

Mr. DAVID YOUNG (Reston).

I deeply regret to have to notify the sad death of my dear friend, Mr. David Young (Reston, Berwickshire), who died on November 8th, writes Mr. J. Patterson (Chirnside). Deceased, although not a prominent fancier, was gradually climbing to the top, having this season bred some champion Border Fancies. When I saw his stock just previous to our club show, I remarked to him that he would clear all before him in the marked classes. But "man proposes, God disposes," and such was not to be. Two of his boys became ill, and he could not show; then, just when they recovered, typhoid fever claimed him as its victim. His birds were always uppermost in his thoughts. The Fancy has indeed lost a rising man, and I a true friend. He was a constable in the Berwickshire force, and one and all esteemed his kindly, obliging disposition. All in this district (I don't think he ever had an enemy), extend to his wife and family and to his aged parents their heartfelt sympathy.

My society's show does not seem to be getting the support it deserves, considering that prize money is guaranteed, and will be paid within three days. I make this appeal to fanciers to rally round and help us make our show a success. Up to date entries only average one per class, and I am therefore compelled to extend closing time until November 15th, when I must close down, to comply with the London Federation rules.—F. W. Hamer, hon. secretary, Greenwich and Deptford C.B.S.

I am sorry to say we are receiving poor support at Maesteg, writes Mr. C. Richards, chairman of the Maesteg and Dis. C.B.S. Up to the present we have had only 9 entries, and unless we receive better support by Sunday we shall be obliged to cancel our show. We have a grand lot of specials, mostly cash, waiting to be won, and we guarantee to pay all prize money as soon as possible after show. We did pay and send out specials in ten days after our last show, and hope to do the same this year.

Kindly allow me through your columns to thank exhibitors for their splendid response to our appeal, which made it possible for us to have a show at Cambridge. As a matter of fact, more than two-thirds of the entries received were the result of sending out no fewer than 575 appeal cards, as at the closing of entries the total barely averaged two per class. Our only disappointment were the Border classes, which were poorly patronised, notwithstanding that we gave the full club classification.—T. S. Moore, hon. secretary, Cambridge C.B.S.

The special prize offered by the Lancaster Primrose C.B.A. for competition on November 19th and 20th, will be for most points for three nominated birds shown in any class, writes Mr. J. H. Nayler, the hon. secretary. This valuable prize was on view for the first time on November 5th at Mr. Marsden's, Stonewell, and will remain there until day of show. It consists of a tray elaborately engraved, with two birds in the centre. A teapot and coffee pot are elaborately embossed, and the cream jug and sugar basin are lined with 9 carat gold. The prize is to be won twice in succession, or three times in all before coming the absolute property of any exhibitor.

A Record at Preston.

"Great show: record entry." So reads a telegram from Mr. Taylor, the secretary of Preston Show, which we received late on Wednesday last. Such a result must be very gratifying to the officials concerned.

I think your double numbers are really excellent. I wish Cage Birds every success.—J. Best (Battersea, S. W.)

I wish your paper, Cage Birds, and its staff every luck. The plate with the November 6th issue was a treat.—Jno. H. Jones (Merthyr Tydfil).

A friend of mine gave me a copy of Cage Birds, and I have taken it ever since. I think the last coloured plate a treat.—R. Winterburn (Boston, Spa).

I was highly delighted with the coloured plate of Canaries. How I always look forward for Cage Birds! I can hardly keep my eyes off it. W. Clough (Sutton Mill).

The grand coloured plate issued on November 6th, is, I think, like your valuable paper, Cage Birds, a treat to all bird lovers.—J. W. Papple (West Hartlepool).

Your illustrated sermon in six varieties (I refer to your last coloured plate) is grand, and better still in a frame; thanks to Mr. Norman. W. Pavey (London, S.E.).

I think your paper Cage Birds is the most valuable and interesting paper to bird lovers in the kingdom. The last Double Number is a marvel.—S. R. Pechy (Liverpool).

I gave a copy of Cage Birds to a novice, and he is delighted with the plate, and is going to have it framed. I wish Cage Birds every success.—G. Buck (Gateshead-on-Tyne).

I must thank you for the splendid plate you gave us on November 6th. I think this must have reached the standard mark; it gives all fanciers a treat alike.—H. Simmons (Peterboro').

Your coloured plate with Cage Birds of November 6th I think a treat. It gives a novice a bit of an idea of what to breed to be near the ideal thing for the show bench.—J. H. Elwell (Shildon).

I must again congratulate you on your colossal number, which I think is splendid. The valuable information and beautiful plates are unsurpassed by any paper of to-day.—John Tipton (Wellington).

I was exceedingly well pleased with Cage Birds' (November 6th) Double Number, and the magnificent plate accompanying same. Cage Birds has my good wishes.—J. B. Y. Murdoch (Kilmarnock).

I thank you for the help derived from Cage Birds, which I recommend to all fanciers here; also for this week's grand number with its lovely plate. I have all the plates posted up where I work, and they are the talk of all.—J. Paul (Barry Dock).

NEXT WEEK

ANOTHER ASTONISHING SHOW SEASON . . DOUBLE NUMBER . .

With a Novel and Particularly Attractive Coloured Plate.

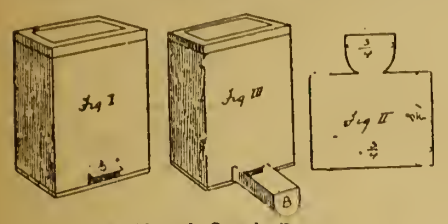
Another astonishing Special Double Number of Cage Birds will be issued next week. These numbers have always been met with a very generous measure of approbation by our readers, and this forthcoming special issue will, we venture to think, command a more than ordinarily delighted welcome. We have had specially prepared for it a charming coloured plate, in which the work of the oldest bird artist of the day is contrasted in a novel and pleasing manner with a product of the brush of probably the youngest artist who to-day devotes her talents to the portrayal of birds. The result is a picture of such attractive character as will ensure it a place on the wall of many a fancier's home.

The number will also contain a special selection of topical and instructive articles and a host of illustrations. The reports of the many shows will be given with that thoroughness which it has always been the policy of Cage Birds to ensure, despite the huge amount of labour and heavy cost attaching to it—a thoroughness which, without such double numbers as the one under notice, it would be impossible to attain, and hopeless to attempt.

Some of the difficulties which confront us during the show season can be gauged from the present issue, in which, despite no fewer than 11 crowded pages of show reports, we have been unable to publish all the reports which have reached us, much though we regret their omission. The growth of the Fancy, with its attendant multiplication of cage-bird exhibitions, and the ever-increasing classification offered thereat, makes the problem of adequately reporting them a very difficult one, and comes perilously near to involving the "crowding out" of much other interesting matter — a position, however, which is fortunately saved by our show-season double numbers.

Readers should order their copies of next week's grand issue at once.

TO ADVERTISERS.



Advertisers should bear in mind that the latest date for the receipt of announcements intended for this great Special is Tuesday next, November 16. Post them in time.

No. 360.
A Novel Seed Box.
Sent by Mr. Jas. Stankley, 55, Elwick Road, West Hartlepool.

The enclosed sketch shows a novel and cheap seed hopper made from ¼-lb. cocoa or mustard tins; when it is painted or enamelled to match the cage, it looks well. The seed box can be fitted to the existing holes in cage fronts. Fig. 1 shows the outlet for seed cut at the bottom of the tin ¾in. wide by 5-16in. deep, the cut piece being turned up. Fig. 2 shows a piece of tin for the receiver B before being bent into shape; and Fig. 3 shows the seed-hopper complete with B soldered on. The idea is very useful. The contrivance is dustproof, allowing no waste and preventing ruffled and soiled feathers round the neck of the bird, which are caused by the bird reaching through the wires for seed.—James Stankley.

No. 361.
An Easy Way to Fill Glasses.
Sent by Mr. H. H. Bulcock, Riverside, Clitheroe.

To make the article illustrated, get an ordinary whiskey bottle, two pieces of glass tubing, and a cork. Burn two holes in the cork the size of the glass tubing, as seen at C. The long tube A is for letting air in and to force the water out at B. I have between 30 and 40 glass drinkers to clean and fill daily, and find this the easiest and best method of doing so, as each vessel can be filled exactly to the top without any running over or shortness.—H. H. Bulcock.

In the Courts.

A Magisterial Warning at Woolwich.

James Todman, of Eastney Street, Greenwich, was summoned at Woolwich Police Court on November 2nd, for unlawfully using certain nets for the purpose of taking a protected wild bird, viz., a Thrush. He was further summoned for causing unnecessary suffering to the bird while in captivity.—Prisoner burst into a fit of weeping, and pleading that he was unwell, the case was adjourned for a week.

Alfred Attwood, of Old Woolwich Road, Greenwich, was similarly summoned in respect of a Blackbird.

Police Constable Williams stated that on the night of October 15th he saw prisoner at Shooter's Hill, in company with the other man who had just left the court. He noticed a bag attached to prisoner's belt, and on examining it found it contained a Blackbird. He told prisoner that such birds were protected, and prisoner said he thought it was an open time for catching them. The bird was in an exhausted condition when he took it out of the bag. Prisoner said that if he had done anything wrong he would liberate the bird.

The excuse offered by the prisoner to the magistrate was that he was asked to go bird catching, and he did not know he was doing wrong.

On the first summons Attwood was fined 2s., but in the second case Mr. Hutton told prisoner that anybody who had any feeling must have known he was causing considerable pain to the unfortunate bird. The practice of trapping wild birds had to be stopped, and if any other persons came before him for a similar offence they would be severely punished. If a man went to a foreign country he never heard the birds singing, because they were trapped, but in England it was different.—Prisoner was fined 10s., and 2s. costs, or seven days.

A Case from Ireland.

At the Kingstown Police Court, Denis Kenny was summoned on November 4th by Sergeant Cooney for a breach of the Wild Birds' Protection Act by using birdlime to catch Linnets at Castlepollard Road.

The sergeant stated that between 8 and 9 a.m. on October 4th he found defendant in a field with two decoy Linnets and 16 twigs set with birdlime on them. He had 8 Linnets in a cage, and admitted that he had caught them on the twigs.

Mr. Mahony: What have you to say?—Defendant: I thought it was no harm.—Mr. Mahony: Neither did I, until now. You can only be admonished for the first offence, and I accordingly admonish you, and you may go away.

Notes from Erin.

SOME little time ago it was thought that the Irish Fancy was on the decline; as a matter of fact, it was surmised that Irish shows could not possibly be a success financially this year owing to so many of the old exhibitors having retired from the ranks. But it is pleasing to find that this season has opened with the dark threatening clouds completely vanished—or, at least, there is nothing visible to-day but its silver lining. In addition to many recruits, several of our old champion exhibitors have re-enlisted, and we now find them taking up arms again.

WE have also five new societies and show fixtures added to the list this year, under the rules of our specialist clubs. We have now 12 shows to be held between November (present month) and January next. Thus, on an average, we have a show every week, and it is to be hoped that they will all be huge successes. We must put our shoulders to the wheel and come forward as sportsmen with a bumping entry, and thus assist in furthering and promoting our hobby in Ireland.

THE first show of the season was opened on Nov. 4th. The Yorkshire C.B. Society of Ireland was only founded some few months ago, and the promoters deserve great credit for the progress it has made. Those who had the good fortune to visit the Central Hall, Westmoreland Street, Dublin, on Thursday and Friday last went away well satisfied. There was a good gate, and a splendid entry.

NEEDLESS to say, Yorkshires opened the schedule. They came up in goodly numbers, and very meritorious birds, some of which are not far behind the ideal depicted on the last week's beautiful plate, "A Study in Canaries." There were some nice Norwich Plainheads, but the Crests did not come up to expectations as regards numbers. The Hybrids and British birds were beauties and created much interest amongst the visitors. Mr. Mundell, the judge, had a busy and difficult time, but seemed to please one and all.

THERE was a raffle at the close of the show, Mr. Hawkins holding the winning number. Sales were brisk, and many birds changed owners, some at a good price. There was also an auction of birds at the close, and one of the new members to our ranks acted as auctioneer, and performed his duty well.

Questions and Answers.

DOUBTS AND DIFFICULTIES SOLVED BY SPECIALISTS.

Queries will be answered under the following Conditions:—

(1)—All questions must be clearly written in ink (or typewritten) on one side only of paper, and must conclude with either the correct name of querist, or a pseudonym, or initials

(2)—The proper name and address in full of querist must always be written on a separate sheet of paper and enclosed with the query. In no case must this address appear on the query.

(4)—Queries must not include or be included in orders for books, instructions re advertisements, or any other matter for publication.

(5)—The department to which the queries refer must be stated in bold letters on the left-hand corner of the query.

(6)—If an answer in the same week's issue is desired, queries must be posted to reach us by Monday's first post at latest. Queries will be dealt with in the order in which they are received, and only as space permits. The earlier queries are received the better attention they are likely to have.

(7)—Queries relating to illnesses of birds, except enquiries as to cause of death (for which see Post Mortems) will be answered by return of post on receipt of a postal order for sixpence and an addressed stamped envelope. Queries of an ordinary nature will be answered by post, if desired, on receipt of a postal order for one shilling and a stamped addressed envelope.

(8)—All who require letters of complaints written to advertisers must state grounds for doing so clearly and fully, and enclose a fee of sixpence, otherwise their letters will not receive attention. All the fees received from this source will be handed over in full to the "Referee's" Poor Children's Dinner Fund (London).

(9)—All queries must be addressed the Editor, "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C. Only queries so sent will be answered. Postcards are not admissible.

THE following gentlemen represent CAGE BIRDS staff of ADVISORY EXPERTS. Queries must in no case be addressed to any of them individually, but to the Editor.

NOTE.—If an answer is required concerning the proper mating, etc. of Norwich, Yorkshires, Crests, Cinnamons, Greens, Borders, Lizards, Scotch or any other variety of the Canary family, we shall, should the querist desire us to do so, be pleased to submit his question for answer to some leading specialist of the day on the variety concerned.

CANARY QUERIES.

Deformed Feet.

Novice.—Unfortunately, by waiting to see if the feet improved with time you have, I fear, quite destroyed the last chance of doing anything to improve them. These cases cannot be attended to too early, as they quickly get beyond relief. If the toes are rigid any attempt to cure them will be quite fruitless, and only cause the bird great pain; therefore, all I would advise you to do is to provide it with fairly wide, flat, and slightly roughed perches on which it can stand with comfort without gripping them. Trim off all sharp edges, and round off the end of one perch for an inch or two to about the size of a lead pencil, to give the bird an opportunity of acquiring a grip if it can do so. But if the toes are fairly flexible, and the bird occasionally gets them over a perch in the proper way, give it only perches about the size and shape of an ordinary lead pencil, varying a little in thickness, similar to a tapered penholder. Make these perches of soft pine, and rub them lengthwise with a piece of very coarse sandpaper to give a roughed surface to assist the bird in getting a good grip. Leave these perches in until you see that the bird often keeps the toes out straight when hopping on a flat surface, when larger ones may be given. A wire contrivance for holding out the toes was shown in our "Illustrated Ideas" a few months ago, to which you may be able to refer. But, candidly, I think this case is beyond all help.

Another Window Case.

Puzzled.—There is no enigma at all about your bird's condition, unless it is that it has survived so long. Its position in the kitchen window is one great cause of its illness, and its diet, which is extremely bad, is another. See reply under heading "Misplaced Efforts," and act upon the advice given there as to the necessity of removing causes before attempting to cure effects, and also follow the instructions about removing bird at once to a more favourable position. Feed it on a mixture of three parts Canary to one part summer rape as a staple. Every second day for a fortnight give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion well mixed in it, and on the alternate days give a small piece of banana, varied occasionally with a spray of green food. Limit the diet solely to these items for a month. In the drinking water give six drops each of syrup of rhubarb and syrup of buckthorn every second day for a week, and on the alternate days six drops of tincture of gentian and four of aromatic sulphuric acid, and in the second week give six drops of tincture of steel and three of tincture of quinine. Then miss a week, and if the feathers have not ceased dropping, repeat the two week's treatment in the same order, except that you omit the rhubarb and buckthorn this time. See that the bird is not troubled with red mites.

Roller's Song, etc.

Brownlow.—I really cannot tell you definitely whether the Roller's song would be affected by the presence of a Goldfinch or Linnet in the adjoining compartment, but there is certainly a great risk that it would. It is, however, just one of those things which depend upon the individual bird, and they vary so greatly that only the actual test could decide such a question with certainty. Some birds are very prone to drop their acquired song for anything they hear of a lower grade, whilst others are much less easily corrupted. As you attach first value to the Roller's song, I would advise you to run no risks, and not try the experiment. The song is also very liable to deteriorate when the birds are used for breeding, so you will still have this risk to contend with. If you wish to avoid this, and still desire to go in for breeding, your best plan is to get a well-trained good singing Roller, and keep him separate in a proper singing cage of the box type, for singing alone. You could then run one or two pairs of Rollers for breeding, and as soon as the young cocks were able to do for themselves, cage them off separately to be tutored by the special singing bird. In this way you would be able to both enjoy and utilise the song. There would be no objection to keeping another Roller cock, or a Roller hen, in the adjoining compartment of the cage as you suggest, provided you kept the solid wood slide in during the winter months.

Yorkshire with Cough.

R. Driver.—You ought to have said how and where you keep the bird. The most probable cause of its "kind of a cough," is being exposed to draughts, or to great and sudden variations of temperature. In either case remove this cause. Keep the bird in a fairly comfortable place, not necessarily very warm, but where there is little variation, and no draughts at all. Feed as advised to "H. Boyce," for a month, except the bread and milk, which you should omit, and give instead about half-a-teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with two drops each of sherry and cod liver oil emulsion, well mixed in it every second day. Continue this for a fortnight, and give the same green food or fruit also. In the drinking water give twenty drops of whiskey, ten of oxymel of squills, and two of eucalyptus oil, well shaken together, two days in every three for a week, and every second day for another week, if necessary.

Swelling Under Ear.

Anxious.—It is just probable the swelling may be due to a peck from another bird, or some similar injury, in which case it should have almost, or quite disappeared by the time this reply appears. If this is not the case, gently remove a few feathers from the top of swollen part so as to leave the skin bare, then if it appears to have formed a "head," bathe it a little in warm water by holding a small wad of cotton wool well charged with water against it, and dipping the wad in hot water as soon as it begins to cool. After bathing a minute or two, prick the swelling with a clean needle, press out all pus, wash clean, dry, and anoint with a little carbolised vaselino. A few drops of extract of wych hazel would be a good addition to the water for bathing. If there appears no head on the swelling, instead of the above treatment, paint it with a small feather dipped in tincture of iodine, and repeat the painting once after an interval of a week. Continue your present diet until ths bird is well, but give the bread and milk every second day only, and sprinkle it with a little soft sugar, and on the alternate days give half a teaspoonful of summer rape. A few grains of Epsom Salts and sarsaparilla in the water for a day or two would be helpful.

Sore on Beak.

A.B.—I suspect there is a constitutional cause for the condition you describe, and the loss of flesh lends colour to this supposition. Therefore, you should attend well to the general treatment of ths bird as a first necessity towards recovery. Keep it under the best possible hygienic conditions, in a pure atmosphere, but beware of draughts, and keep the cage floor strewn with clean gritty sand, and th eperches quite clean. Feed on a staple of three parts canary to one summer rape, and twice a week give half a teaspoonful of a mixture of hemp, inga, and gold of pleasure. Every second day, for a month, give about half a teaspoonful of soft food, giving alternately a little bread and milk, sprinkled with maw seed, and crushed sponge cake, with two or three drops of cod liver oil emulsion mixed in it. Continue giving fruit or green food as you are now doing. In the drinking water give ten drops of dandelion juice, and as much Epsom Salts as will cover a sixpence every second day for a week, and after this, give twenty drops of Parrish's Chemical Food four times a week for two or three weeks. Wash the sore clean with warm water, dry carefully, and then drop into it off the end of a knitting needle one drop of Tincture of Benzoin. Repeat this twice a week for a fortnight. If bird is not quite recovered by the end of a month's treatment, write again and report progress, referring to this reply.

Loss of Voice.

H. Boyce.—Before attempting a cure for this or any other ailment, try first to discover and remove the cause. At this season also, take into account the fact that numbers of birds have not recovered the temporary loss of singing powers due to the moult, and in this case all that is needful is to get the bird through the moult, tone up its system, and its voice will return naturally. If, however, the loss is due to colds, chill, or draughts, these causes must be removed at once, and strictly guarded against in future. Feed the bird on a staple diet of three parts canary to one part summer rape seed, twice a week give a pinch of a mixture of equal parts of inga and gold of pleasure seed; and every second day give a piece of bread and milk the size of a hazel nut, sprinkled with a little soft sugar. On the alternate days between giving bread and milk, give a spray of watercress, tender top of inner stalk of celery, or a bit of banana. Continue this treatment for a month, except the bread and milk, which reduce to twice a week after the first fortnight. In the drinking water give ten drops each of glycerine and oxymel of squills, and as much chlorate of potash as will cover a sixpence, two days in every three for a week, then omit the chlorate of potash, and substitute two drops of eucalyptus oil, shake well, and give this every second day for another week.

Misplaced Efforts.

A. Heron.—So long as you keep your birds hanging in the window of the living room you must not expect any treatment to be of any avail. It is about the worst possible position to keep them, and is undoubtedly the cause of their condition, and, as you must know, I am constantly pointing out the uselessness of treating birds for any ailment without first removing the cause. I am afraid your birds are now too badly affected for you to do much for them. However, try what a few weeks of the following treatment will do. First of all, move them out of the window, and keep them in box cages hanging on the wall further in the room. Choose a place not too near a fire, so that the temperature may be fairly equable; but let it be comfortable, quite free from draughts, and out of reach of the fumes of any lights that burn in the evenings. See the cages are quite free from red mites, and keep them strewn with clean, gritty sand. Feed for a month the same as advised to "W.B.," but omit the sulphur and potash from the bread and milk, except in the case of the one that is going bald. Give it to this bird, and anoint the bare skin once a week with carbolised vaseline. In the drinking water give six drops each of syrup of rhubarb and dandelion juice, and as much Epsom salts as will cover a sixpence, every second day for a week, and on the alternate days give six drops of tincture of gentian and four of aromatic sulphuric acid. Continue giving the latter for a fortnight, and on the alternate days during the second week give twenty drops of whiskey, six of oxymel of squills, and two of eucalyptus oil, well shaken together. Shall be glad to hear how the birds are progressing at the end of the month, with a reference to this reply.

Teaching the Young Idea, etc.

M. M.—You kept the Rollers rather too long without a tutor. The sooner they are placed under tuition, after they are able to look after themselves, ths better, and if they can have the advantage of hearing a good schoolmaster before they leave the nest, that is better still. What you require now is a fair stock of patience, and if the birds are cocks they will undoubtedly come on to "rolls" more or less in due course, but you must not despair if they are another two months before opening out in full song. After all, it is not really late yet for birds to begin their full song after moulting. Probably very few, except such as got through the moult, very early, are yet in full song again. Do you keep these young birds in open cages, and uncovered always? If you do, this would, to a certain extent, account for their backwardness. For the first few weeks, or until they begin to attempt to record their song, the cages should be covered over closely enough to keep the birds fairly still and quiet, but not closely enough to prevent them finding their way about comfortably, in order to concentrate their attention upon the singing of the tutor. When they begin recording, remove the covers for an hour or two each evening, and gradually increase the freedom as the birds get stronger in song. But should any of these put too much energy into the song, and show signs of becoming "screechers," replace the covers for a time, and keep them partly covered until the song is well established, if necessary.

Brevities.

Still Losing Feathers (Worried).—First satisfy yourself the bird is not exposed to draughts, or to extreme fluctuations of heat. Give half a teaspoonful of summer rape each day. Every second day give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion well mixed in it, and on the alternate days give a few grains of hemp. Give a small piece of banana four times a week. In the drinking water give six drops of tincture of gentian and four of tincture of steel every second day until the feathers cease dropping. Continue this treatment for a fortnight or so, when the bird should be all right.

Heat and Diet (Amateur).—If your birdroom is in a fairly well sheltered situation it is quite possible the birds may get along very nicely without artificial heat, especially as they have already been well acclimatised to the present conditions. However, see reply to "Ready to Start." You can judge best yourself from the appearance of the birds, whether they suffer from cold, but as long as the temperature keeps above 45 degrees, there should be no necessity whatever to increase it. As staple diet, give a mixture of three parts canary to one part summer rape. Twice a week give a little hemp, on two other days a little egg food, or crushed biscuit, and occasionally when weather is very cold a few split groats, coarse oatmeal, cracked sunflower seeds, inga, and gold of pleasure, with occasional pieces of sweet apple and banana.

Drooping Wing (Rugbeian).—It is possible the drooping wing is due to some injury caused by the bird fluttering about, or getting a claw fast in wires. As he occasionally gets tripped up, I think overgrown claws are really the indirect cause. Examine claws, and cut them back if much overgrown. The wing might be supported in its natural position by a bit of very narrow tape or wool passed round the first three flights crossed underneath the wing, carried over back with a second crossing, and then tied underneath the other wing. As these bindings require some deftness, I would not advise you to attempt them if you have had no previous practice. It is far better to leave the cure to Nature. Give the bird a small piece of bread and milk sprinkled with soft sugar every second day for a fortnight, and in its drinking water twenty drops chemical food every second day, and on the alternate days six drops tincture of gentian and four tincture of steel. Give this for a week, then miss a week, and give again for another week. The wing will probably resume the normal position as the bird gets in better condition.

The Lowest Temperature ("Ready to Start").—It is not possible to say what is the lowest temperature which any particular strain can be kept in with safety. It depends solely upon the hardihood and previous history of the strain. It is quite possible for them to be kept in an open air aviary all the year round, with perfect safety; on the other hand, it would be foolish to attempt to keep others thus. I am no advocate of experiments to see how much cold they can bear. Therefore, taking the season into consideration, the apparent frailty of your shed, and the fact that the birds are coming from a warmer room than yours, I advise you to be prepared to warm it a little, if you find the birds appear to feel the cold. Do not go too much for the cheapest form of heating, but rather get the best and safest. A system of flow and return hot water pipes, with a small boiler and furnace under a separate cover outside the room, would not cost a great deal, and would be an excellent investment.

Too Hoarse to Sing (New Beginner).—Keep bird in a comfortable temperature and out of draughts. Feed on a staple of three parts canary to one part summer rape, and twice a week give separately a pinch of a mixture of equal parts inga and gold of pleasure seed. On two other days give a small piece of bread and milk, sprinkled with soft sugar, and on each of the remaining days a bit of banana or scrap of green food. Continue for a month, if necessary, and at same time keep a small cube of fat boiled bacon in wires, or, as an excellent substitute, a mealworm each day. In place of plain water for drinking give the following concoction two days in every three for a week or fortnight as appears necessary. Place a small teaspoonful of linseed in a teacup, add a piece of spanish liquorice the size of a large pea, half a teaspoonful of honey, and as much chlorate of potash as will cover a sixpence; fill cup a little over half full with boiling water, stir well until all is dissolved, cover, and allow to stand until cold. Then strain, and give in the drinker instead of pure water, as mentioned above.

Laconic (E.C.).—Your queries are very fine examples of brevity, but so much so that it is impossible to form any opinion as to what is amiss. Try following, and if birds are not better in a fortnight, write again, and give a few particulars as to how they have been kept and treated hitherto. (1) Give this bird a small piece of bread and milk sprinkled with soft sugar twice a week, and in the drinking water give six drops of syrup of rhubarb and a pinch of Epsom salts every second day for a week, and in the second week give six drops of tincture of gentian and four of aromatic sulphuric acid every second day. (2) Give the hens a bit of bread and milk as above every second day for one week, and in the water give twenty drops of whisky, six of paregoric, and two of eucalyptus oil, well shaken together, two days in every three for a week.

Difficult Moulting (W.B.).—I suspect she has left her youth some distance behind her. Remove her into a room with a fire, and keep her in a fairly warm place, with a light cover over cage. But bs careful not to put it where it is very warm by day, and correspondingly cold at night. Let the warmth be equable, and if you can keep it so, let it be quite on the warm side. Feed on a staple of plain Canary only, and give separately half a teaspoonful of summer rape every second day, and on the alternate days a small piece of bred sopped in milk, pressed nearly dry, and sprinkled with soft sugar. Twice a week for a fortnight dust the bread and milk with a mixture of two parts flowers of sulphur to one part chlorato of potash. Give a pinch of a mixture of maw, inga, and gold of pleasure twice a week, and a little green food or fruit three times a week. In the drinking water give six drops of syrup of buckthorn and a few shreds of saffron every second day for a week, and afterwards six drops of tincture of gentian and four of aromatic sulphuric acid three times a week for a fortnight. Moisten the bare places a few times with strong vinegar by means of a feather.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

Answered by WESLEY T. PAGE, F.Z.S., M.B.N.H.S., etc.

A Feather Puller.

Dunlop.—It is difficult to cure the Parrot tribe of this annoying habit once it is really taken up; your best course will be to give a dose of Dinneford's magnesia every third day, dose: one teaspoonful of D.'s magnesia to each ounce of the drinking water. To each quart of your present seed mixture add one quart of Canary and white millet seed in equal parts, well mix both mixtures together before supplying to the bird—ripe fruit, nuts, and plain biscuit should also be given at intervals. When not giving the magnesia, well colour the drinking water with Parrish's chemical food. Note: The magnesia must be stopped for a short time if the bird becomes at all scoured. Do not give tea, coffee, or milk sops, table scraps, or any kind of animal food whatever. If the bird is sufficiently tame, let it out of the cage for exercise at such intervals as you can keep it under observation. Carry out above treatment carefully, and report progress a month hence.

Feeding Budgerigars.

Foreigner.—(1) Yes, put in four husks, equi-distant one from the other, and plenty of twiggy branches along back of cage. (2) Providing they can get light and air without draught, they will do well in the room, they do not need artificial heat. (3) They should do; I have known them breed in much smaller quarters, but the young must be removed as soon as they can feed themselves. I have known the parents maltreat the young in confined quarters. (4) Yellows command a little better price than the Greens, otherwise it is a matter of personal choice. (5) I should not encourage winter breeding, but the best way will be to leave them to themselves. (6) Yellows, 8/6 to 10/6, and Greens 5/6 to 7/6 per pair. (7) Canary, white and spray millet seed; green-food, few oats, cuttlefish, and a few pieces of plain biscuit may be given when they have young to feed. (8) Isolate the bird in a separate cage, make the drinking water just saline with Epsom salts for one day. Procure from your chemist the following mixture:—Ipecacuanha wine, oxymel of squills and glycerine in equal parts; for a few days let its drinking water consist of two parts water and one part of the mixture. Budgerigars are small drinkers, so only a small drinker will be needed, which must be a crockery-ware.

A Young Grey Parrot.

Mrs. B. S.—The Indian corn will answer well enough as part of its diet; boil about a tablespoonful till soft (the corns should be left whole), drain off the surplus water and dust with flowers of sulphur—the corn must be boiled fresh daily, as it soon turns sour. Also keep a tin of the following seed mixture in its cage:—1 quart each Canary and white millet seed, and 1 pint each rice, hemp, dari, wheat, and sunflower seeds; well mix the whole together and you will find it a cheap and wholesome mixture. When the bird is eating the dry seed heartily, gradually wean it from the boiled maize. Also supply ripe fruit, plain biscuit, and a few nuts; keep a piece of clean cuttlefish hanging in the cage. For a couple of months at least lightly colour the drinking water with Parrish's chemical food. At first do not leave water in the cage, but let it satisfy its thrist three times a day; after a few weeks the water may be left in the cage continually. I should only give a bath on warm, sunny days; omit it in severe weather. Do not on any account give tea, coffee, or milk sops, table scraps, or any kind of animal food whatever.

Foreign Bird Querists will find in our handbook, "Foreign Birds for Beginners," 1/1, and "Budgerigars and Cockatiels," 6d. post free; a mine of information of use and interest.

Waxbills in Cage.

E.H.L.W.—The hay should be changed, say, monthly; if it gets fouled it should be changed at once. Waxbills are better kept in pairs, and I should buy pairs of these. I do not suppose they will attempt to breed in your cage, and I am of opinion that they are happier, or rather, shall I say more contented, when kept in pairs. Cover the present holes up, and have seed hoppers inside cage. I have kept these birds out of doors all the year round, but they have had a large flight for wing exercise; when confined in cages in a room I consider they are the better for a minimum temperature of from 45 to 50 degrees F., and I should aim at keeping the temperature as equable as possible—50 degrees is ample. They will take but little harm, if any, from dry cold; it is damp, draught and extremes of temperature you must guard against. A certain percentage of losses seems to be unavoidable with purchases of newly-imported foreign birds and the lowest in price are often the dearest in the end.

Brevities.

Breeding Parrakeets in Cage (Fancier).—Fancier must give me a little more information before I can help him. Budgerigars are about the only Parrakeets to breed in medium-sized cages. Parrakeets are mostly bred in outdoor aviaries, furnished with hollow logs. You would want a cage 4ft. long by 1ft. deep by 2 to 2½ft. high for such as Red rumps, Rosellas, Many-colours, and such like, and only one pair to each cage. A log or nest box with concave bottom must be securely fixed in the most private corner of cage, and the birds left to themselves.

What Parrot? (Skelby).—I am of opinion it is a Yellow fronted Amazon; it should yet talk and mimic various sounds and calls. There is not sufficient variety with your diet. Get, say, a quart each of Canary, white millet, hemp, small Indian corn, rice, dari, and sunflower seeds, well mix and keep a supply continually in cage. Also give ripe fruit, nuts and plain biscuits; keep a piece of clean cuttlefish in the cage, and while it is in the moult well colour its drinking water with Parrish's chemical food. Keep a watch on the bird, and note if it is pulling its feathers; if so, spray the parts it is plucking with quassia solution; also dust with pyrethrum powder, so as to exterminate parasites if there are any. I opine its contortions round top of cage and scream are merely play and excitement.

Building an Aviary (C.F.P.).—By far the best paint for the interior is Hall's washable distemper, and I should not advise you to use white lead, for that is what most white paints are composed of; failing Hall's distemper, I should advise you to use ordinary limewash; for the outside of open flight use any paint you please, but for the inside of woodwork there is nothing to equal Brunswick black; the wire netting should receive a coat of Brunswick black every other year. If you prefer it, you can paint the inside woodwork of flight, but it must be put on evenly, and when once hard, seed-eaters are not likely to take any harm from it, but I swear by Brunswick black. About 50 to 60, but if you wish to try and breed, do not put in more than 12 to 15 pairs. Hope you will have luck with the birds.

Grey Parrot Ill (W. L.).—You give me no particulars how you have been treating, and I fear you have let the case go too long before asking advice. Repeat your query, giving full particulars as to how you have been dieting the bird, and as to the preliminary symptoms, and I will try to help you. In the meantime, give one teaspoonful of Dinneford's Magnesia to each ounce of the drinking water for one day, and after an interval of three days. On the day you are not giving the magnesia, well colour the drinking water with Parrish's Chemical Food, and continue this till you see further reply. If you can handle the bird foment the swelling round eye with a hot decoction of camomile flowers, drying the feathers afterwards with a towel or duster. The solution must not be hot enough to occasion the bird any discomfort. There was no address, or I should have sent you a post-card.

Breeding Budgerigars (F. J. C.).—The bird, if a male, is not in breeding condition; the colour of the cere is variable in adult birds. For a portion of every year all birds cease from breeding (they soon wear out if they do not), and during this period there is very little difference between the ceres of male and female, both being pale blue, but that of the hen always slightly tinged with brown. When in breeding condition the cere of the male is dark blue, that of the female dark brown. (1) Probably; cannot be definite, but a couple of months will show. I cannot give you any idea of its age, very probably, though, a young bird of the year, just through the moult. It is not in breeding condition. Very probably in the early spring it will be so, if all goes well. Leave them together for the winter; don't attempt to encourage breeding till the spring, though I advise leaving the husks up. The entrance to husks should face the light.

Alexandrine off its Food (Avis).—Prepare following, and feed regularly on same: Two parts each canary and white millet and one part each hemp, wheat, oats, paddy rice, and sunflower seeds; well mix before supplying to the bird. Ripe fruit and plain biscuit can both be given for variety. The potato can be given, providing it is unseasoned and free from fat. For one day only put one teaspoonful of Dinneford's Magnesia to each ounce of the drinking water—follow this by well colouring the drinking water with Parrish's Chemical Food, and continue same for about a month. While the looseness lasts give a few sips two or three times a day of very weak brandy and water. Keep a piece of clean cuttlefish hanging in the cage. A few nuts (shelled walnuts preferably) may be given occasionally. Keep where it will get light and air, but strictly out of draught.

Budgerigars Changing Colour (Enquirer).—The Yellow has sprung from the Green, and it is a case of reverting back to the original stock. In a friend's aviary this summer several pure Yellow youngsters have been bred from Green parents, and I am waiting to hear how these moult out. I expect what has happened in your case is that the birds have been bred from cross-bred Greens; the Yellow strain has temporarily asserted itself, but at the moult they have reverted to the original colour. What usually happens with the Yellow variety is that unless you keep introducing new blood they gradually get greener and greener, and in the course of a comparatively few generations revert back to the original colour, viz., green. The probability is from such birds you will get occasional yellow specimens among the young, some of which may remain yellow, but the majority will, I expect, moult out green.

What Parrakeet? (J. R. M.).—I am of opinion your birds are Sun or Yellow Conures. If so, and you are the fortunate possessor of a true pair, you are to be congratulated indeed. I should certainly advise you to try and give them an outdoor aviary in the spring, furnished with one or two logs, and give them an opportunity to breed if they will. If they are Sun Conures, they are worth £8, and your description certainly points to their being such. To your present seed mixture add an equal bulk of canary and white millet in equal parts—thus, one part canary and white millet mixed, and one part present mixture. Give also a little of such ripe fruit as it will take, also a little plain biscuit and an occasional nut. Keep free from draught, yet where it can get light and air.

The Colour Feeding of Canaries

Taxing Tits Abroad.

Tom Tit.—You could not hope to send out with success 25 Great Tits to Tasmania all in the same cage. They can be very vicious, and kill one another in regular blood-thirsty fashion. If by "Tom-Tit" you mean the Blue Tit, however, you stand a better chance; they are not so murderous. They would be better caged in small parties, however, in cages with as great a floor space as you can conveniently provide for. Blue Tits are not at any time easy birds to keep alive for long periods, and the fact that the person accompanying them knows nothing about birds does not help matters. You must certainly get them well on food (artificial) before they start, or they will not stand the proverbial dog's chance of landing alive. A good quality insectivorous mixture must be their staple food, while a little hemp seed would be certain to be appreciated, and, of course, a supply of meal worms to see the voyage through must accompany them.

About a Book.

J. H.—I do not know of any book which gives all the information you mention and coloured plates at the same time. To get coloured plates of all the British birds you would have to buy a copy of a rather expensive work, such as that compiled by the Rev. Morris, which costs from three to four pounds. It contains, of course, nothing relating to the keeping of birds in captivity. The feeding you will find dealt with by Mr. Norman in the "British Bird Manual" (the species more generally kept by fanciers), who also describes the sexes. If you write to the publisher at CAGE BIRDS' Office (154, Fleet Street, London), he could supply you with back numbers of CAGE BIRDS containing articles by practical catchers, which deal with the catching of wild birds; they also have something to say about sexing and feeding. I think you would find a lesson or two from a catcher (if you know one who will take you out with him) of great service in putting you "up to the ropes." To become an expert in all the things you mention means the best part of a life-time's work.

A Brace.

Hulme.—1. It is rare for a Greypate to acquire a full-coloured blaze before the spring. It is always "very amber-coloured," as you put it, at first. And so is the blaze of old Goldfinches (the great majority of them) for a more or less lengthy period of time after the moult. The blaze takes time to get up in colour (i.e., become crimson). Some Finches (the rich-coloured Jonques) "come up in blaze" more quickly, as a rule, than the buffs.

British Bird Queriists should purchase our "British Bird Manual," published in two parts, "Hard-bills" and "Softbills," price 1/- each, or in cloth cover together, 2/3 post free.

I expect you will soon begin to see a vast difference in the appearance of your birds. 2. I do not understand the failure of the Linnets to sing, assuming them to be well over the moult. My own Linnets are stout in song—even my hen, which I use to breed with, is singing well. Your feeding methods are excellent. Are you sure you have cock birds, and that they are in good health and thoroughly over their moult? It is rather a dangerous practice in the winter to hang birds outside "on suitable days" if they are afterwards removed indoors to a warm room.

Feathers Falling Out.

E. P. (Anxious).—It is the time of the year for birds to be moulting (though getting late now), and so the feathers falling need cause you no anxiety. You must keep the Goldfinch out of draughts and feed him well, allowing a little niger, maw, and thistle seeds daily, with a few cracked sunflower seeds now and again (separate from the stock mixture). Medicine is really not needed, unless the bird shows decided signs of being ill (the feathers falling is not a sign of illness exactly, for the moult is, of course, a quite natural and inevitable process). A little Parrish's Chemical Food twice a week would doubtless be helpful. Get it from a good-class chemist and mix a teaspoonful with two tablespoonfuls of drinking water.

A Trio.

E.C.—Have you tried any remedies for the Goldfinch "stuck in the moult"? A very good one is to give a hand-wash in water considerably hotter than is used in the ordinary way, and not to afterwards use cold water for rinsing purposes (it can be given without soap, if you like). There is a danger of the bird catching cold afterwards unless great care be taken. The cage should be covered up until he is thoroughly dry, and be kept in a warmed room. This is an almost unfailing remedy for "stuck in the moult." Sometimes a change from a hot room to a cold one (or vice-versa) will have the desired effect very quickly. (2) A good stock mixture for a Siskin would be: Canary three parts, teazle two parts, charlock and summer rape one part each, and just a very light sprinkling of linseed. They like the "tit-bits" and wild seeds usually given to Linnets, also a bit of hemp now and again, with a little maw (they are very fond of this), and a few cracked sunflower seeds. They are apt to get too fat, so that the dainties should not be overdone. (3) Boxing Skylarks is a very hard job for the novice, as the plumage is alike in both sexes. But the great majority of cocks are very much bigger birds than the hens—thus, to pick an extra large Skylark is a sure way to get a male bird.

In an Outdoor Birdroom.

Wilton.—I don't quite understand your query. You ask how many birds the place will hold "in exhibition cages"; then later on, "will they breed?" Well, exhibition cages are useless to keep birds in as a regular thing. They are too small, and only fit for the purpose their name implies. Stock cages are necessary for everyday use. You can keep as many birds in the place as you can find room for cages. If housed separately, you cannot overcrowd, providing, of course, you leave a reasonable space to allow for your own movements in the building. Such a place as you sketch should answer admirably for Mule breeding—the fact that it is outdoors is certainly no detriment; many would hold that it is very much to the contrary. I cannot advise you to have a paraffin lamp in it, however, unless you have a wide flue pipe over it leading to the outside of the building. Oil lamps have an element of grave danger in their use. If you had been a reader of "C. B." long you would have read of the painfully frequent accidents due to oil lamps going wrong—the smoke and fumes killing the birds. Dry cold does little harm to British seed-eaters, unless of exceptional severity, when they are well fed.

Brevities.

A Hybrid (A. Jay).—Sorry I did not have the pleasure of seeing your Hybrid at the show.

A Linnet Matter (H. G. B.).—A Linnet could not possibly have the diarrhœa for six months and still keep well and sing well. It is just a little peculiarity of the bird, take my word for it, and you are unwise to try the effect of drugs upon him; the latter may leave you no Linnet at all. You can safely add two or three drops of tincture of gentian to the drinking water (only just enough to make it taste bitter), which should stop any excessive consumption of water. Let him have daily a small teaspoonful of plantain, lettuce, mustard and dandelion seeds, mixed together in equal parts, by measure.

Refractory Feathers (T. Richards).—Have you tried a hand-wash, and afterwards grooming the feathers into position? If this has no good result, then I am afraid that the feathers have grown wrong (twisted), and the only remedy is to extract them. Could you send a rough sketch showing exactly the extent of the trouble?

Light Muling Hens (J. S. Dumfries).—My own experience goes to show that the hens affording one the best chance of breeding exhibition (good sized) light Mules are Lancashire Plainheads from an old-established strain, or pink-eyed clear Yorkshire hens, coming from stock as clear-bred as possible. The best of all, of course, are genuine inbred light muling hens, if they can be obtained.

A Thrush; and Others (A. C. Y.).—There is some danger in putting a Thrush with small birds. My own, for instance, will not tolerate any other bird within reach. But individuals differ strangely in disposition, and it is quite possible your own Thrush might pay no attention to his companions, and especially so, seeing the spacious character of the aviary into which you purpose turning him. You could, anyway, keep an eye on him for a time.

A Blackbird (Bristol).—You do not tell me for what it is you require the "remedy," unless, that is, you refer to the "dull plumage." The remedy for the latter is a free use of the bath; I never saw a Blackbird with a dull coat if it were allowed regular opportunity of indulging in a tub. By-the-way, have you got hold of a bird? A "black beak" sounds henny, and hens, of course, are a dirty blackish-brown tone of colour.

PARK AND LAKE AVICULTURE.

Answered by Frank Finn, B.A., F.Z.S.

Silver Pheasant.

"Puvero."—Feed Silver Pheasants like poultry, on grain of various kinds—avoiding maize, except in very cold weather—green food, and table scraps. See that they have a good supply of grit and a dust bath. They always will roost outside if they possibly can, in spite of having a shelter shed, and it seems to do them no harm. But you might try the effect of having no high perches outside, and thus getting them to go in if they want to roost high; it must be better for birds which have not unlimited exercise to be sheltered from wet and wind at night.

GENERAL.

Answered by the Editor.

An Article (A. Chilcott).—We are endeavouring to arrange this.

An Article (W.R.H.).—We are exceedingly obliged to you. You have our sincere sympathy in the trouble you have passed through.

Belgian Woodlarks (Italian, Dudley).—If by "Belgian Woodlark" you mean Lullula arborea (the only species of Woodlark), then we have no reason to suppose that the song differs at all in England and in Belgium.

Two Questions (Constant Reader).—1. The secretary of the Wood Green Society is Mr. T. Callegari, 17, Gladstone-avenue, Wood Green. 2. If you clearly arranged that there was to be "mutual approval," then you can recover the two pipes, provided you at once notified the other party of your dissatisfaction after the birds reached you.

A Variety (A.B.C.).—1. Have posted you a German paper. 2. Most of these Latin names will be found in CAGE BIRDS' ANNUAL for 1909. The Many-Colour, Psephotus multicolor. 3. Longtail Grassfinch, Poephila acuticauda. 4. Peach-faced Lovebird, Agapornis roseicollis; 5. Red-faced, A. pullaria. 6 and 7. We don't know of either a French or American paper devoted solely to cage birds.

Illustrated Ideas (G. Mander).—We are afraid this is too difficult for the average fancier to make. (William Bolt). The same remark applies to your bottle holder. J. J. Coutts). We have dealt with this detachable perch before. (Master Sykes, W. Jamieson, H. J. Cleminson). These, or very similar ideas, have been previously given. (E. Butterfield). We recently dealt with frames for making wire-fronts.

The Novice Question (B.H.).—At a members' show the definition of a novice is governed by the rules of the society holding the said show; that is to say, the number of firsts he can win before becoming either amateur or champion, varies in the different societies. Be guided by the show rules. The Cage Bird Union definition applies only to open shows held under C.B.U. rules.

A List (J. Pane).—We will consider your suggestion, but we are afraid it is not a practicable one. A list of the protected birds can always be had on application at the local police station or town hall. Messrs. Trower and Company publish a "Bird-Catchers' Guide"; we can supply you with a copy, post free, 7d. No one can come into your house and "compel" you to let loose a purchased Goldfinch. It is, of course, "asking for trouble" to go out catching without knowing what birds are protected in the district.

PENZANCE.

Held in the Corn Exchange, on November 10th and 11th, and, notwithstanding the clashing with Bodmin, it received a good measure of support, the entry being a record for Penzance. Taking the show generally, the merit of the exhibits was distinctly high-class. Norwich, which opens the ball, are a feature of the Far West shows, and Penzance was no exception to the rule. For type and plumage they were just splendid. Yorkshires are a breed which have made most rapid advance in the Duchy of Cornwall, and the local breeders have a true conception of what constitutes a good up to date typical Yorkshire. Our Cornish friends are no lovers of the big, stout-bodied birds. This is perhaps due to the fact that not so very long ago the King of the Fancy was held in high esteem down West, and thus a Yorkshire with a bit of style and swagger appeals to the Western mind. Mules made a nice display, but as the Camborne string is known to be top-dog, one can hardly expect large entries in the neighbourhood, which Mr. Collins exploits. The British came up fairly well, and the quality right through was splendid. The members' section contained a grand lot of birds. The Corn Exchange is a splendid building for a show, being very lofty, well ventilated, and splendidly lighted. An excellent committee had charge of the arrangements, and they worked most earnestly and zealously to make the venture a success. The officials, Messrs. E. Mitchell (chairman), J. C. Rogers (vice-chairman), G. H. Hall (treasurer), and J. Pearce Sampson, are indeed a grand quartette, and whilst the Penzance fanciers are led by such earnest, tactful and courteous officials the society is bound to prosper. Mr. C. A. House judged.

The Norwich Plainhead Club.

SIR,—Kindly announce that there will be a general meeting of members of the above club at Pendleton Show, on Saturday, the 20th inst., at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. I should be glad if as many members as possible will attend, as there are several important items coming up for discussion which will materially affect the club's workings.

To Clear Mice Out of Birdrooms.

SIR,—I have seen several warnings about mice in your very interesting paper. Get 2d. worth of essence of peppermint bought at a good chemist (not the cheaper ones, as theirs is not so good). Put a few drops on a piece of cottonwool, and put into the mouse holes with a piece of stick—so that it goes well in, I mean. This will clear away all mice for two or three months. Renewed again as occasion arises, it will quite clear them out.

MISS LIMAN.

The Welsh Cage Bird Club Show.

SIR,—Kindly publish that we sent all birds belonging to members living outside Merthyr away with trains leaving not later than 7 p.m. night of show, and that all prize money was paid three days after show. I am pleased to inform the members that we have cleared a nice little sum on this show (about £9), which will go to the club fund. One thing we are sorry for is that one of our local members, in taking his birds home, had the misfortune to upset his trap; but I understand that his birds are all the better for it!

The Modern Norwich Plainhead

SIR,—On looking through my CAGE BIRDS I noticed a letter from a Mr. Bertie on the above. I take him to be the same fancier who showed some birds at Accrington a few weeks ago, and if they are a sample of what he calls a Norwich, then I think he is talking over something that he knows nothing about, for I never saw such a sample of Norwich on the show table in all my twenty years' keeping of that breed. You talk about quality, and size, and type; it fairly tickles me. Are they the sort he terms a Modern Norwich Plainhead? I agreed with him on some of the points he talked about a few weeks ago. But, lo and behold! what did I see at Accrington? I was fairly tickled. I hope to hear from someone else who saw them.

A "Wrong Classed" Exhibit at Hucknall Torkard.

SIR,—I notice your reporter at the above show states that I was unfortunate in having a buff Yorkshire in the yellow class, which might have won in its proper class. I beg to contradict this. The bird being a yellow hen, was therefore in its right class; but Judge Vardy thought different and wrong-classed her. On receiving my catalogue, I at once journeyed to the show and lodged a protest on the ground that the bird was in its proper class, but not judged. The protest has been upheld, and entrance fee returned. I fail to understand why Mr. Vardy should have wrong-classed her, as there is nothing about the bird to cause any doubt, she being very good in colour. This same hen stood 3rd at Bolton in the yellow hen class. There are also four youngsters from her this season.

The C.B.U. and the Bristol Fanciers' Association Show.

SIR,—Referring to Mr. A. E. Wasley's letter in your last issue, the Bristol F.A. have not, as he says, been refused a license on account of shifting their date and clashing with the Gloucester Show. Our subscription having been paid and accepted by the C.B.U., we are an affiliated society, and as such are bound to hold our show under C.B.U. rules. The only objection against us under the new rule, giving first choice of dates to purely cage bird societies, was withdrawn some time ago. Mr. Wasley's reference to our show as "a mixed exhibition (poultry, etc.)," is merely an appeal to prejudice. Our cage bird section is a purely cage bird show, staged in a separate room, equal to any in the kingdom, and as little affected by the "poultry, etc.," as if the latter had been at Gloucester. Further, such an appeal to prejudice is not in good taste, for in 1906 and 1907 Mr. Wasley was himself an exhibitor at our show, and although our losses on those shows (largely due to the C.B. section) were nearly £60, he, with others, was paid his prize money in full, such being made possible by a subscription amongst our members, to which poultry, pigeon, and rabbit fanciers generously contributed. In our case, at any rate, cage bird fanciers have lost nothing by the combination of all sections.

Goldfinch with a Pure White Head.

SIR,—In answer to "A Brother Fancier," I have in my possession a white-headed pure cock Goldfinch, the white running half-way down the chest. This bird was caught near Pontdolgoch last season, and shown at Oswestry Show last year. Can anyone beat this?

The Breeding of Pin-tailed Whydahs.

SIR,—I should be glad if any of your readers know of any authentic record of Pin-tailed Whydahs having bred in this country, if they would record same. The late Herr Wiener says in his book, "said to have been bred," but this is altogether too vague, and if any reader knows of any instance of young having been successfully reared, I shall be extremely obliged if they will record same in your pages.

The Destruction of Red Mite.

SIR,—Having seen in your querist column of last week's issue, an inquiry as to the best means of destroying red mite in cages, etc., I may say that for years I tried painting and washing the crevices with paraffin and carbolic soap, but after a few days I still found them there. I procured a barber's sprayer (price 1s. 9d.) and sprayed all the crevices and walls, etc., with paraffin, and very soon dislodged master red mite; then I sprayed them, and in a few seconds there were no more. I may add that since doing this I have seen no trace of them. I trust this will help others.

Suggested Open Cage Bird Show at Brighton.

SIR,—Kindly allow me a few remarks through CAGE BIRDS with regard to the Brighton F. and F.S. show on Nov. 2 and 3. They had a splendid lot of cage birds, but the classes did not fill. I understand the small prize money has a lot to do with this (and that on a sliding scale). I suggest, therefore, that if some of the cage bird members of the society were to call a meeting to float an Open Cage Bird Show, it would give better results than a mixed show. I consider that the other sections of the exhibition take an unfair share of the working expenses, etc., for cage birds require no penning or feeding arrangements, and yet they rarely get the larger prizes open to the whole show. I hope to know some other fanciers' opinion.

A VISITOR.

The Grimsby and District O.S. Annual Open Show.

SIR,—At the monthly meeting held at Foresters' Hall, on Nov 8th, Mr. W. H. Moore presiding, the Secretary read the financial report of the annual open show, which again shows a loss of a few pounds, but it is satisfactory to know that notwithstanding this adverse balance, there will be a nice sum standing to the credit of the society at the end of the year. All prize-money won and accounts owing have already been paid, and numerous congratulatory letters have been received from exhibitors for prompt settlements, careful packing and dispatch of birds. Special votes of thanks to the secretary, committee, stewards, and all workers at the show, concluded the proceedings. It is proposed to hold the annual half-day members' show on the 1st January next. Mr. W. Clews (Grimsby) will be asked to judge, and a capital classification has been arranged.

The Habits of the Blackbird.

SIR,—The Blackbird is too well-known to require a description, but a word or two on its habits may not be misplaced. There are not wanting those who praise the Song-Thrush at the expense of the Blackbird, alleging that, though the former commits depredation in our fruit gardens in summer, it makes amends by its destruction of the shell-snails, whereas the Blackbird is a most notorious fruit-eater, and without any such redeeming quality. That the Thrush does this service is certainly most true, but it is not less true that the Blackbird is particularly fond of the shell-snail, which it devours in the same way as the Thrush. In truth, small slugs and shell-snails, to use the expression of the gardener, form "the chief of its living." The Thrush is equally fond of fruit in the season; but the plumage of the Thrush is in its favour, and it is often pecking away at the fruit without being seen. When disturbed it glides away without noise; but the Blackbird's sharp cry of alarm as it escapes, generally strikes the ear, if its black coat and yellow bill have not arrested the eye. Thus much in justice to the Blackbirds, for I have known of instances where a war of extermination has been waged against them, while the Thrushes have been held sacred. Early in the spring the Blackbird begins to build its nest; a thick-set hedgerow, an isolated, close bush, a low, ivied tree, are all favourite places. Moss, small sticks, root-fibres, are the materials, with an internal coat of mud-plaster, over which is a lining of fine, dry grass. Four or five eggs of a bluish-green, variegated with darker markings, are here deposited. The early season at which it begins to lay is often so cold as to destroy the first brood; moreover, the leafless state of the hedge or bush at that period makes the nest an easy prey to the school-boy. The Blackbird is in general shy, but there are exceptions to the remark, as will be seen by the following:—In the spring of 1894, a pair of Blackbirds built their nest close to our kitchen garden in a pile of wood, where we were passing backwards and forwards at all times of the day. The nest was built among some dead thorns and wood piled up there, and so low, that when passing by we could look into it; it was very much exposed. But the parents, notwithstanding our curiosity, brought up their nestlings. This was a late brood, and as many early nests had been taken in the neighbouring hedgerows, it is not impossible that the birds, disappointed of their first brood, might have been driven to choose a spot nearer the house for security. Albinos occur frequently among these birds, many instances being recorded from time to time. The voice of the Blackbird is so strong that it can be heard a considerable distance away. Its memory is so good that it can retain, without mixing them, several airs at once. It is a great favourite with lovers of a plaintive, clear, and musical song; and it is well-known what a good specimen can do on the show bench.

The Breeding and Exhibiting of Crests and Crestbreds.

SIR,—Kindly spare me a small space in your valuable paper to thank Mr. W. Hardie for the very instructive article appearing in your issue of November 6th? Each week, as the postman brings my CAGE BIRDS, I have a quick run through it, to see if there is anything about the King of Canaries, the Crest, or at least that is the King of the Fancy in my opinion, and we are each allowed our own. I have spent several pounds lately in trying to obtain some good stock birds, and I must say that Mr. Hardie's article is the best I have seen for a very long time, for the novice, and I am one. It appears the old hands who know, like to keep the knowledge they have to themselves. I hope I am not asking too much, but I wonder if Mr. Hardie would give us a little more in the shape of what sort of seeds he uses, and when he uses them, if he uses the Lancashire cross and in what way, and his general line of treatment?

The Late Dispatch of Exhibits from Shows.

SIR,—I see a letter in last week's issue of CAGE BIRDS re the late return of birds from Perth Show, in which the writer, after wandering about as to what the railway companies would or would not accept in the way of traffic, says that the birds were not handed to the railway company till 4 o'clock on the Monday after the show. Now this is not a mistake on his part, but a deliberately untruthful statement, as if he could find out so much on his enquiries, he would also have known that the birds went straight from my house to the station at 7.30, and I was at work by 8 o'clock. I may also say that I have met a number of those exhibitors at Arbroath and Brechin Shows who did not get their birds till Monday, and every one was pleased (apart from the anxiety of not getting their birds as expected) with the state their birds were in when they received them (I believe in every case before 4 o'clock). I have already explained how the birds came to be detained, and I do not believe "Wild Bird Lover" was an exhibitor at Perth at all, but just one of those people who are not fanciers, but pests to the Fancy, continually gloating over any society unlucky enough to make a slip and give them a chance. I have no wish to pose as a letter writer, but I could not allow such a statement to pass; and hope "A Bird Lover" will sign his name (if not ashamed of it) in future, or he will get no reply from

J. KERR.

Our correspondent, Mr. Kerr, is under a misapprehension. We have looked up the original of a "Wild Bird Lover's" letter, and find that it was not Perth Show at which his remarks were aimed; so that Mr. Kerr's assumption that "Wild Bird Lover" was not an exhibitor at Perth at all, is quite correct.—EDITOR.

The Victorian C.S. (Australia) and the Crystal Palace Show.

SIR,—It is with great pleasure that I announce I have received £3 3s. from the Victorian Canary Society (Australia), per Mr. F. The Victorian Canary Society would like the acknowledgement of the above to appear in your columns.

A Question of Parentage.

SIR,—Last week, at the Bristol Fanciers' Show, I exhibited a Linnet-Canary Mule. My bird was by the judge placed cardless aside, and no reason for doing so was given. I have had to write to the judge to find out the reason for myself. He replies that, in his opinion, the bird is a Canary and not a Mule. During the two days of the show great interest was manifested towards my bird by large numbers of fanciers; most of the time quite a crowd was gathered around it. Opinion was divided as to what it was; some thought it a Canary, others thought it to be as I represent it to be, a Linnet Mule. Among those who examined it were several well-known judges, who considered it to be a Linnet Mule. One of them, a specialist in this variety of Mule, said that, in his opinion, it was a Mule bred from a Brown Linnet and Norwich Plainhead Canary. Now, I think I have a grievance. When a fancier exhibits a bird and it is disqualified, I think the judge ought to give a reason, so that the question may at once be dealt with. It ought not to be necessary to have to write to the judge. I may state that the bird was very carefully bred by myself from a Brown Linnet and a Norwich Plainhead Canary, and I am quite prepared to submit it for examination to any known specialist judge of the Linnet Mule.

Alleged Unfair Treatment at Hanley Show.

The Amalgamation of Classes.

SIR,—At the recent Hanley Show, I made one entry in Class 33. A.O.V., Hardbill. According to the schedule and classification, they had provided classes for the following: Class 28, Goldfinch; 29, Linnet; 30, Siskin, Redpoll, or Twite; 31, Greenfinch; 32, Hawfinch; 33, A.O.V., Hardbill. I went to the show (a journey of 50 miles), and I found on arrival that the 1st prize was given to a Hawfinch. I went to the secretary and protested against the amalgamation of classes 32 and 33, seeing that they had not reserved the right to amalgamate in their rules. In rule No. 2 it says: "And if less than five entries, the class will be cancelled, and entrance fee returned before date of show." Now, my contention is this, they ought to have returned this one entry, and not pushed it in another class. The society had no published rules relating to protests, so the secretary asked me to forward a protest in writing, and he would put the matter before his committee. I received no information about it until this morning (November 8th), and then not until I had written for a definite answer to my protest. The following is the reply:—

DEAR SIR,—The matter you refer to was investigated by the C.B.U. officer chosen for our show, and found there was nothing to stop Mr. Jones showing in that class. I had it before the committee, and they came to the conclusion there was no wrong done. Hoping this will end the protest.

B. PEAKE.

I consider the above treatment is unfair to exhibitors, and no society should amalgamate classes, unless stated clearly in the regulations governing the show.

A White Linnet.

SIR,—I read the many little "tit bits" of great interest to fanciers in the correspondence columns of your valuable paper. I should like to ask if any of my brother-fanciers possess or have ever seen, a white Linnet? I caught one on November 1st. He is pure white, with white beak and legs, and dark eyes. He was very wild at first, but has tamed down since, and looks a picture.

Railways and the Treatment of Exhibits.

SIR,—Having seen Mr. D. A. S. Longden's complaint against the Great Western Railway, I may say that I had to complain against the same company regarding birds I sent to Bristol. They were booked with care, and my son remained on the station as instructed to see them safely off by the one o'clock train. An ignorant porter deliberately threw them on to a two-wheel truck, which was standing quite slanting at the time. You can imagine the state of the birds going over and over. Everything was shaken out of the cages into the carrying case. They arrived home on Friday looking very bad. The superintendent of the parcels office called upon me, and I was pleased to invite him into the birdroom to show him that I had good cause for complaint. The carrying case was knocked about, which I showed him, and I also showed him two other cases with their sides knocked in, just to show him what the fanciers have to put up with when they send their birds any distance. It gave me quite a shock when they arrived home in such a condition. Cannot this state of affairs be brought to the notice of some proper railway authorities, or notices be hung up in parcels offices? My case is black, and "live birds" in large type is printed on the top in white. I am writing to the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and hope to receive a favourable reply. The superintendent referred to assured me that it would not occur again, and that the offender would be punished.

*Feeding a Young Sparrow.

A little while ago I found a nest of five young Sparrows on the ground. Four of the birds were dead. I took the live one home, but could not get it to feed. So having an old stuffed Starling, I put the food on the bill of this and made a hissing noise. The Sparrow then opened its mouth and took the food. It is now a big bird.—Sent by B. Mitchell, 139, Regency Street, Westminster, London, S.W.

Artful Bullies.

I have some Bullies, and one day one of them was so artful as to watch how I undid the cage door, and when I had gone he must have opened the door with his beak, for he flew into the room. I watched him another time and saw him do it. I now keep the cage door tied. When he hears my voice in the morning, he pipes till I give him his bath, which he very much enjoys. He will fly on to my finger, and take seeds from my lips, when I stand in the middle of the room.—Sent by Gladys Harris (age 11), Milber House, Highweek, Newton Abbot, S. Devon.

*A Cunning Jay.

Not only in fables are Jays spoken of as being very cunning birds, but in reality they are second to none, or at least in my eye. I have one, and when I get the tin to give him a mealworm, he quits his more lofty perch in his cage, and comes at once to the one nearest me. The other day I was determined not to give him a worm unless he took it from my hand in the cage. This he was loth to do, for he thought this new method spelt danger. But now he is just as much at home with this new way of taking mealworms as in the old way.—Sent by Fred Steels (age 14), 168. Westwood Street, Peterborough. [Master Steels also sends me a clever pen and ink sketch of his Jay. —UNCLE PETER.]

I began once more to seriously examine these birds, to see if I could discover a lady. I found it most puzzling. I was reminded of how Brahms had said: "It is as hard to find a wife as to write an opera. —I shall attempt neither." I was quite with him so far as opera writing was concerned, but I determined to do my best to spot the hen Bibfinch. After hours of anxious watching, during which I think I selected every single bird in turn as the hen, I at last thought I had succeeded. I caught the "suspect," and placed her in another cage with a supposed gentleman, and possessed my soul in patience for the advent of Spring. I often thought of the words of Josh Billings: "We sometimes hit the thing right the first blow, but most always a success is the result of many failures."

I hoped I was right in my choice. I was as a matter of fact, and subsequent events proved it; but Hope is a hen that lays more eggs sometimes than she can hatch out. About this time I had several birdy friends come to see me, and I asked them to give me their candid opinion. It only made confusion worse confounded. One said I had two males, another that they were two hens, another wasn't sure whether they were either! I listened in silence, for opinions are like vegetables. worth just what they will fetch, and the market value of their opinions was distinctly low.

Fond Lovers.

My next difficulty was to find out where Bibfinches bred. Did they build open nests, or prefer the shelter of a hole? Time alone would show.

I determined to put them into a fair-sized garden aviary, full of growing bushes, and with husks and boxes placed about in tempting and eligible sites. I eagerly watched the Bibs for signs of love-making. It was very pretty to see how fond they were of each other. They would sit side by side on a branch and the little cock would just raise his head and gently warble some pretty compliment, and the little hen would snuggle up to him and tell him not to be so stupid, but all the time you could tell she liked it.

At last I saw that my Bibs had fixed upon a cocoanut husk for their future home that was hung up at the top of an elder bush. The little hen carried as much hay and litter into it as would have satisfied a London Sparrow, and then warmly lined it with feathers. She then disappeared into the husk, and for a fortnight I saw her no more. In the meanwhile her mate wandered about from group to group after the manner of a dissatisfied beetle, or like some restless beast at the Zoo. Some people, akin to Paul Pry, would have felt inside the husk, with an "I hope I don't intrude," or like the celebrated little Jack Horner, have popped in a thumb into the Bib pie. I believe in following Prudence. I run no risks with my birds. I have skirted too close to the rocks of death to enjoy the sensation. Whenever I saw these Bibfinches away from the nest during the next ten days, my heart played postman at my ribs.

At the end of about 16 days I had occasion to pass near the husk for something. Mind you, I was not trying to look into the nest, but accidentally I just touched the husk with my arm, and out bounced two young Bibs, completely fledged, and quite able to fend for themselves. They were exactly like the old birds, save that they were a trifle lighter in colour, and had no bibs.

I was so surprised that for the moment the world was fixed in its orbit. Time itself stood still. Then I realised my own greatness. I had done what nobody else had ever done, I had found the North Pole, and there was no one to dispute my claims. I also had my proofs, which some explorers seem to lack, for there were the young Bibs flying about in all their perfect beauty. All this happened before the days of medals; so that though I was actually the first in the field, no laurels adorn my brow, but still those two little birds were my recompense.

AIDS TO SUCCESSFUL BREEDING.

A Lecture delivered by Mr. Wm. Cruise before the Bradford East O.S. on Nov. 2.

Mr. W. Cruise gave a lecture before the members that was brimful of interesting items. The ground had been traversed, he said, many times previously by lectures of this description, but I think the members and friends who assembled will agree with me, that the information he gave us, as the result of his own experience, cannot be too frequently drilled into us, if we are desirous of attaining anything like the success that Mr. Cruise has so far enjoyed. The lecturer said that the hobby itself was not necessarily an expensive one, in fact, if the fancier would only study more the welfare of his stock, he felt sure one could turn it to good account.

Some Useful Hints.

If anyone wishes to take up this hobby, I should advise them to buy a few decent birds to start with, he continued, and then try to improve the stock each year, as you go on. If you can do this, you are doing well, and you will certainly get to the front; but you must be prepared for a few set-backs. Getting the birds to start with is not everything; attention to their wants, and getting to know their likes and dislikes, plays a more important part than a lot of fanciers are ready to admit. You can try one method, that is altogether unsuccessful, while another far more simple than the first is just what you were aiming at. This is just where the interest of the hobby comes in, for there is no hard and fast rule to attain success, and the man who comes nearest to it, is he who pays attention to the little things. If there is one time more than another when I pay strict attention to my stock, it is just before breeding time. You have all a good idea how essential it is we should try to counteract the faults in our stock. This is just the opportunity for doing it; study your stock carefully, weigh up the good points and the bad ones, and if you can rectify some of these the year following, you are making headway. I always let my birds fly out in the attic for about a month before breeding time, and I think they are the more vigorous for the exercise they get, and they don't flag when it gets to the third round; in fact, they seem to be stronger altogether. Some people do not believe in giving greens to feeding hens, until the young are a few days old. I give them a spray of watercress or lettuce as soon as I see they are hatched, and I think it has a beneficial effect on the young ones. I also feed my stock when breeding, four times each day, and it is surprising how this induces the hen to feed. The birds are not long as a rule, when they see you have put something into the egg-glass, before they are down to it, and I think this will get a hen to feed when other things fail. If I have a hen that is not feeding to my liking, I try all kinds of tricks, until I find something that she shows a partiality for, and I then have but little difficulty in getting her to bring the young ones up. I don't believe in disturbing them too much, especially young hens, as I find they don't like it as a rule, and to persist in it is only to court failure. You want to try and get the confidence of your birds; it goes a long way towards success, and although there are birds whose confidence it seems an impossibility to obtain, still show kindness to them, and you will go a long way towards winning them over.

Another thing I pay attention to, is to run my birds out frequently into the show cage, and if this has not the desired effect, I cage them in it for a few days; it is bound to steady them a little bit, at any rate. Then with regard to getting my birds into condition; I am a firm believer in letting them come into condition naturally, not forcing them, and a bit of egg and biscuit, and a bit of mixed seed occasionally, and niga seed, in my opinion, are all that is necessary. The whole theme of my lecture is to get you to pay more attention to the little details in our hobby, that seem to a host of fanciers of little moment, but which to me have made all the difference between a successful and an unsuccessful breeder of Yorkshires.

The chairman, Mr. G. White, then called for questions, and the members availed themselves in no half-hearted fashion. Many important questions were asked, and these were answered in a highly instructive manner. Mr. W. Greenwood proposed, and Mr. J. Lightowler seconded, a vote of thanks, which was heartily carried. Mr. Cruise responding, thanked the members for their kind attention.—H. HILL, secretary.

Return of the Wagtails.

Up to the present we have had very little frost, although the wind has been strong and cold; consequently leaves still hang yet upon the trees and hedgerows. But the leaves are quickly changing colour, and are so slightly attached that the smallest bird alighting on or leaving a branch causes quite a shower of them to fall. Under these conditions, birds are difficult to identify, for the continual dropping of leaves disturbs the sight, and when one is watching a bird there are generally two or three other birds flitting about.

Among the winter visitors staying in this district during the short days, the most graceful are the Grey Wagtails. There are several sheets of water in the village and just outside that appear to afford them sustenance. This autumn there is evidence of an increase in their number. At present they are rather shy and flighty—one can hardly say wild—flitting from place to place; they watch the intruder with evident mistrust. These are possibly the young of the year, who, reared upon the hillside, on the banks of some rocky stream, have seen little of humanity, excepting a stray angler or a solitary shepherd. As the winter advances and these birds find they are not maliciously disturbed, they will soon settle down. They are in lovely feather now, so soon after the moult; but just before they leave us in the early spring, when they have commenced to acquire the breeding plumage, some of the more forward birds are particularly rich in colouring. In habits and movements, there appears to be very little difference in all the Wagtails. The grey bird possibly perches a trifle more than the others, but he has the same curving flight, spreading his long tail as he alights. He has the true Wagtail walk, the nod of the head and jerk of the tail. He is, too, as large as any of them, and is easily identified in the winter by his yellowish underparts, the only other bird having yellow in the plumage (the Yellow Wagtail), being now away in some favourite spot in Western Africa, for he is only a summer migrant.

Birds of Queensland.

Queensland is quite a Paradise of birds of plumage. It has Yellow-breasted Flycatchers, Fire-backed Wrens, Tree Creepers, and Honey Eaters, Pied and Yellow Chats, and Red-tailed Finches, besides gorgeous-coloured Cockatoos, Parrots, and Parrakeets, and the more soberly clad but equally beautiful Pigeons and Doves.

Range of the Nuthatch.

That interesting bird, the common Nuthatch, is spread over Central and Southern Europe, and as far eastwards as Asia Minor and Palestine. Further eastward there appears to be a species with white under-parts; and other variations in plumage occur throughout Siberia and Japan. Some well-known naturalists affirm that intermediate forms occur between all of them.

Flight of Wild Ducks.

As is well known, Wild Duck fly in triangular form. This formation is so different to that of a flock of common birds, say Sparrows or Pigeons, that one wonders why it is done. No doubt instinct teaches the birds that this form is the best for cleaving the air in quick flight, and less exhausting upon long journeys, and possibly is some kind of protection from birds of prey.

Singing Contests.

LEEDS.

Usual contest held at King's Head, Shannon-st., October 30th, when 15 birds sang, judged by Messrs. W. H. Topping (Blackburn), and W. Naylor. 1, Stead; 2, Wigfield; 3, Hardcastle. Also on October 31st, when 20 birds sang. 1, 2, Hardcastle; 3, Wigfield; judges, Merrs. Topping, Naylor, and Jennings.—WILSON NAYLOR, Hon. Sec.

Usual contest, held at King's Head, Shannon Street, Nov. 6th, when 12 birds sang: 1, 2, Hardcastle; 3, Stead; judges, Messrs. Jennings and Naylor. Also on Nov. 7th, when 18 birds faced the judges, Messrs. Jennings and Naylor: 1, 2, Hardcastle; 3, shared by Stead and Richardson.—WILSON NAYLOR, Hon. Sec.

Usual quality Linnet singing contest, held at Plasterers' Arms, Skinner Lane, North Street, Nov. 6th. Result: 1st and 2nd prize, Duffy; 3rd, Butler. Twenty-three birds faced the judges, R. Madden and Whitaker. We had a large entry on Nov. 7th, and among them birds from some of the outlying villages. The judges had to be on their merits, but did their duty to the satisfaction of all. 1st prize, Butler; 2nd, Mrs. Kendall; 3rd, Soloman; 4th, Sissons. Judges, J. Clark, C. Lorriman, and A. Lorriman. A white Linnet was caught by Mr. Butler on Nov. 8th, and can be seen at the above house.—JOE HARGREAVES, Hon. Sec.

A LEEDS CHALLENGE.

I saw in your valuable paper, CAGE BIRDS, a challenge from Mr. N. Solomon to sing any bird in England, for one hour's quality Linnet singing. I went to meet Mr. N. Solomon to sing him on his own conditions, and he would not hear of it. He wants to sing in the house and at the hour he names, and to pick his own judges. These are my terms, straightforward. Let strange Linnet judges take both the birds in a private house, and judge them for one hour, for the best quality Linnet. One bird shall hang half an hour at the top, and then reverse to the other bird; draw for the bird who has the top hang first. I am willing to meet Mr. Solomon any time on these terms.—(Signed) A. HARDCASTLE.

SHOWS.

LIVERPOOL.

The second annual show of the Liverpool O.S. was held on Nov. 5th and 6th, in the St. Martin's Hall. The society secured a splendid entry on the whole, though one or two of the sections were somewhat disappointing, so far as numbers went. So far as concerns the quality of the birds, however, one can only speak in very high terms. It was, in fact, a magnificent show for quality; there were many birds of the highest merit in every class, and each of the three judges remarked upon the keenness of the competition, and the excellence of the exhibits. The latter found themselves housed in a truly grand room. In a competition for the best hall in the kingdom (if such were feasible), we venture the opinion that the one the Liverpool fanciers are fortunate enough to be able to command would just about head the poll. A prettier room cannot well be imagined, while it adds every solid comfort that the fancier or his birds could desire. The light is grand, both day and night, while nothing in the shape of draught can possibly enter. The staging was admirably arranged, and the effect obtained was very beautiful and striking. We can well understand the eulogistic remarks passed upon the exhibition and the management by that genial gentleman, Sykes H. Gibson, Esq., who officiated at the opening ceremony. Mr. Gibson has a leaning towards the hobby himself, and made an admirable speech, during the course of which he expressed the hope that the society would provide a class for children, just to encourage them in the proper keeping of their pets.

The exhibits received all possible attention from the committee and stewards, who are fanciers themselves above all things, and so take a pride in the work. It has always been their ambition to rank Liverpool amongst the best shows in the kingdom, and taking this effort (only the second) as a sample, we have no hesitation in saying that they have got right there, even at this early stage in their career. In the chairman, Mr. G. B. Daniels, and vice-chairman, Mr. W. Hales, the society is fortunate, for they are fanciers to the backbone, and work very hard for the good of its cause. Messrs. J. W. Cutmore, and T. H. Davies (the auditors), and Mr. R. Irwin (the hon. treas), also lent willing aid, and got through a heap of routine business Of the excellence of the committee we have already hinted, and truth to tell, we have never met their superiors as "stickers" and quick workers. The cards were up almost before the birds were removed from the judging tables, and the show was spick and span, and exhibits in admirable order, before the time the public were admitted. We raise our hats to Messrs. G. Benson, V. H. Deacon, J. Gore, J. H. Isaacs, E. Lawson, Murray Jones, H. A. Nimmo, T. Rowlands, and W. Walker. They were led in splendid fashion by the hon. sec., Mr. J. W. Metcalfe. This gentleman has a breezy, high-spirited style about him that would put heart into the most depressed. The way he flies around and "does things" is a sight for the gods. No wonder difficulties melt away and all runs smoothly under his strenuous guidance. The late hours and piles of work inseparable from the running of a big show, affect him as little as water does a duck! He is a valuable asset to the Liverpool O.S., and his comrades well know his worth. With so good a lot of fanciers taking an interest in its welfare, we have no doubt that the society will achieve still greater things in the future at its shows. All the prize money was ready for paying out on the Friday night, and the special winners known; very smart work. The judges on the present occasion were Messrs. J. C. Barnes (Nor., Cinns., and Borders), W. Mundell (Yorks), and G. E. Weston (the remainder).

K Jones, really good; hc, Beaty; c, Hurst. BULLFINCH (8): 1, Jones, Junr., we liked Immensely, best we have seen this year, grand size and shape, A1 cap and bars, finished off with lovely breast and back col., a gem; 2, Howe, clinking good bird, grand shape, rich bright col., well polished, wants heating, but got it here to-day; 3, Walsh, A1 shape and style, very tight, good col. and markings, but lacks polish; 4, Hurst, bouncing bird, grand head and shape, but also somewhat dull; vhc, Coffey; hc, Spinks; c, Crane. LINNET (16): 1, Spinks, just wins on condition, nice cobby, stylish bird, sound, rich col., very well pencilled, good flights and head, carries a grand polish; 2, J. M. Walsh, we preferred for shape and markings, but not yet up in col. and sheen, paler and duller than leader, grand Linnet, though, which will win some prizes; 3, Dawson, bouncing big, cone shaped bird, nicely pencilled, good condition; 4, Young, best in class for size and shape, nice warm col., but very short of work; vhc, Fox and Thompson, nice stamp of bird; hc, Coffey; c, Jones, Junr. No. 4, good, but frightfully unsteady; No. 12, all flights gone; No. 2 has white feathers at throat; No. 16 absent. GREENFINCH (11): 1, Coffey, a Jonque, beauty, grand size and shape, very steady and stylish, rich col., like wax in feather, very bold head, will want some stopping; 2, 3, Howe, 2nd, another topper in every respect, but loses in quality to leader; 3rd, also a rattling fine Finch, great size, not quite fined down on head, two beauties; 4, A. K. Jones, very stylish bird, excellent shape, fed a nice col., grand quality; vhc, Royden, spanking big buff, very shapely and tight in feather, real cheap at catalogue price, 10/-; hc, Johnson Bros.; c, Beaty, bonny big Greenie, seemed dull and listless. No. 3, absent. SISKIN, ETC. (16): 1, 3, Coffey, leader very large, stylish Twite, good head and wings, splendidly mkd., sound, warm col.; 3rd, bonny Lesser Redpoll, fine size and shape, full of markings, good head and bib, lovely condition, two grand exhibits; 2, Blackburn, Siskin, good body, nicely laced cap, excellent col. and quality, in fine form; 4, Hurst, another charming Siskin, very close on the heels of second, little too fat at back of neck; vhc, Lover, Redpoll—splendid specimen, too; hc, Hurst; c, Bond and Son. No. 4, flights gone; No. 14, fine bird, very unsteady, climbs the wires too much. BRAMBLE (14): 1, Coffey, we heard was the Clapham, etc., winner, good bird, very well built and shapely, beautifully spangled, lovely rich col. throughout, in great form; 2, hc, Hurst, equal to any for col. and condition, latter trifle too small, also fine in head; 2nd, good size, A1 build and style, superb col. and bloom, grandly mkd.; 3, Beaty, real gem for size, shape, and style, lovely quality, not so forward in col., being still rather brown on head and back, will make winners gallop later on; 4, Kay, good stamp of bird, fine chest and head, rich col., hardly so silky in feather as leaders; vhc, Longden, another splendid Bramble, will improve; c, Jones. CHAFFINCH (5): 1, 2, Hurst, leader a champion, magnificent size, shape and col., looks like last year's Palace winner, 2nd also a real bonny bird; 3, Crane, grand shape and style, loses somewhat in col.; 4, Wellings, fine stylish, bold bird; vhc, Kay. BUNTING (6): 1, Beaty, exceptionally good Corn, very massive and well mkd., grand bloom; 2, 3, Hurst, another extra good Corn, richer tone of col., not quite so polished or so sharply mkd.; 3rd, very nice Reed: 4, Walsh, pretty Meadow, fine condition; vhc, Horne; hc, Bond and Son. A.O.V. (6): All fine Hawfinches: 1, A. K. Jones, gem for col., very rich and sound all over, beautifully mkd., extra good head and bib, will take beating; 2, 4, Mrs. Cotton, leader exceptionally broad chest, a bouncing, good coloured bird, fine bib and other markings: 4th, smaller, good col., lucky to be alive, for waterbole too small to allow bird to drink; 3, Beaty, magnificent hird for size, shape and style, large, well-cut hib, little pale yet, in col., may peg back the leaders in a few weeks' time; vhc, Castle; hc, Johnson Bros.

MAIDSTONE.

A record cage bird entry, some nice quality exhibits and a capital attendance combined to make the 20th show of the Maidstone F.S., held on November 5th and 6th, a noteworthy event. The committee responsible for this successful venture were Messrs. J. Barney (chairman), P. F. Lancaster (vice-chairman), R. Woodhams, E. F. Frond, A. Stanley, H. Lott, H. Harden, F. J. Whibley, A. Morris, and S. C. Court, and a most energetic, enthusiastic lot of workers they proved themselves, whilst Messrs. Day and Hayman, the hon. secs., proved themselves to be quite the right men in the right place. Mr. C. A. House judged.

The Critique.

NOR. (9): 1, spl, 3, hc, Hills, rattling good buff, stout and chubby, rare col. and feather, and a capital yell., which was hardly ready; 2, Hyde's spl, Mrs. Andrews, grand shaped, nicely feathered yell., hardly level in col.; r, vhc, Wells; c, Lambert. YELL. NON-FED (4): All passed as wrong class; one was thought too high in col. for non-fed, and the other three were buffs. BUFF (3): 2, Ellis; 3, Slater, just a nice pair; one exhibit was passed as fed, but Mr. Gooding, the exhibitor, assured us that neither this nor his yell. in previous class had ever been fed; such are the fortunes of war. TKD. (8): 1, spl, c, Harvey, rattling, good-shaped, close-feathered buff, neat and compact; 2, Whibley, an other good buff, rare feather and quality, not so stout; 3, Carter, pretty three-pointed buff; r, Lambert; vhc, Boorer; hc, Andrews. CREST, ETC. (13): 1, spl, Curd, neat green, nice shaped drooping crest, well centred; 2, vhc, Jenner, well feathered pied C.B., nice shape; 3, Andrews, nicely feathered grey Crest, good quality and droop; r, Harvey; hc, c, Whiffen. YORKS. YELL. (11): 1, 2, c, spl, Andrews, very long, slim variegated, grand wings and tail; 2nd, neat, close-feathered cl., loses in length; 3, Harvey, another stylish, nicely-feathered cl.; r, Lambert; vhc, Gooding; hc, Boorer. BUFF (8): 1, Harvey, grand little cl. hen, rare shape, style, and feather; 2, 3, Andrews, wing tkd. and cl., nice length and carriage; r, Lambert; vhc, hc, Hughes; c, Whiffen. A.O.V. (5): 1, 2, 3, spl, Jenner, very nice trio of cinns., the leader a grand-shaped, even-coloured, close feathered yell., followed by a large, good-coloured buff; r, Wells. PAIRS (14): 1, spl, Gooding, very nice, shapely, close feathered Nor.; 2, Jenner, cl. yell. Crest and green C.B., a useful pair; 3, Hills, again a nice pair of Nor.; r, Hills; vhc, Carter; hc, Whiffen; c, Lambert. MULE (9): 1, spl, Hill, very pretty, four-pointed buff, lovely feather and shape, neat markings; 2, 3, Curd, dark jonque of rare shape, col. and feather, and a nice five-pointed buff; r, Harvey; vhc, hc, c, Lambert. BRIT GOLD., ETC. (8): 1, spl, Curd, rattling good Bullie, rare shape, feather, and marking, nice col., cage-moulted; 2, Whibley, rich coloured, nicely-mkd. Bullie, wild; 3, r, Bennett, nicely mkd. Goldie, but not ready; vhc, Andrews; hc, Jenner; c, Boublen. LINNET, ETC. (6): 1, 3, Jenner, capital Mealy Redpoll and a Siskin, nice shape, feather and marking; 2, Bennett, Lesser Redpoll, lovely col. and markings; r, vhc, Curd; hc, Andrews. A.O.V. (6): 1, vhc, spl, Jenner, well mkd., nice feathered, good coloured Jay; 2, r, Neale, neatly mkd., rich-coloured Chaffinch; 3, Andrews, fine, large, grand-coloured Greenfinch; hc, Whibley. FOR. (6): 1, spl, Mrs. Barson, very handsome Alexandrine, beautifully mkd., in rare feather; 2, Oliphant, very handsome pair of Cordon Bleus; 3, Curd, splendid Goldfinch gorgeous col., beautifully mkd.; r, Tong; vhc, Usmar; hc, Drake. SELL. (10/-) (9): 1, Whibley; 2, Hills; 3, r, c, Jenner; vhc, Lambert; hc, Carter.

SWANSEA.

Ninth annual show of the Swansea C.B.A. was held on November 10th and 11th, in the Working Men's Institute, once more, this being excellently adapted for a cage bird show. It is with the greatest pleasure that we have to chronicle a record show for this Society, 700 entries turning up. The Norwich section was an eye-opener, eight classes averaging 17 per class, and quality was there in abundance as well. Yorkshires totalled over 14 per class in eight classes. The Border section was very stiff, and Mr. Payne, the judge, had his work cut out to spot the winners. The average of over 14 per class in ten classes for Borders speaks volumes. There was a good display in the Hybrid section—some 40 exhibits. Britishers were a treat and worth going miles to see; close upon 200 turned up in 14 classes. Competition all through the show was of the keenest, and both Mr. Payne and Mr. Houlton, the judges, had stiff tasks, but generally they appeared to get through very well. Quite a nice lot of specials were offered, and our Welsh friends were as keen as mustard, so to speak, to try and secure these. The officials are past masters at managing, and no wonder they receive such liberal entries and support. The officials are as follows: Mr. W. T. Kirby (Chairman), Mr. H. Jenkins (Vice-Chairman), Committee: Messrs. Phil Jenkins (who is a host in himself), J. W. Ford, J. Richards, J. Gay, W. R. Taylor, Wm. Hyett, W. J. Jenkins, J. Watkins, Wm. Love, A. E. Taylor; Show Managers, Messrs. J. Hocking and F. Heal; Assistant Sec., Mr. J. H. Ford; Hon. Sec. and Treas., Mr. Alf Hitchings. All worked together with a will, and so matters are kept going promptly. Mr. Hitchings is the right man in the right place. Mr. Hammacott and Mr. D. A. S. Longden also gave valuable assistance. The light was very good for judging, and the work was got through in good time.

Mr. J. H. Payne's Classes.

Fine lot of specials over every class, and section specials and best bird specials were awarded, but a full list was not to hand when we sent these notes off. Marked catalogues were on sale one hour after judging was over, and gave visitors every chance to get full information.

LEEK (Staffs).

Fifth annual exhibiton held in the Co-operative Hall on Nov. 10th, and proved a success. Norwich were a feature of the show, many good birds being out. The Yorkshire classes did not fill up to expectations, and three were cancelled, quite unusual for Leek, as Yorkshires are generally very strong here. The Crests and Crest-breds were nice classes. Mules and Hybrids were a capital show, although not numerous. British were also nice, but three classes were cancelled. Mr. W. William's Waxwing was quite the sensation of the show, and took special for best British. The amateurs turned out well. The management and arrangements were capital; every bird was nicely staged, and all were well looked after. Mr. R. Hall once again acted as secretary, and right well did he carry out the duties. Everything was in A1 order, and cards were on as the slips were handed in. The show committee was composed of the following excellent fanciers: Messrs. Whetstone, Bowyer, Yates, Clowes and Sons, Lomas, Morris, Oliver, Rowley Bros., Sherrett, Stockton, Stayner, Tatlow, and Wilkinson, etc., etc. The hall is a splendid place for a show of its kind, being well lighted and free from draughts, and everything was in A1 order. Mr. W. Vardy judged, and his awards met with every satisfaction.

Allow me to thank all supporters of our late show who helped us to have a record entry and "gate," writes Mr. J. W. Metcalfe, hon. secretary of the Liverpool O.S. All railway birds left the hall before 6 p.m. This caused us considerable expense, as the railways combined, and would not collect after 4 p.m. All specials and prize money will be in the hands of the winners by this time; anyone overlooked please apply at once to me.

I am pleased to inform you, writes Mr. W. Adams, hon. secretary of the Roehdale "Good Intent" C.B.S., that our late show was a great success. We had a record entry, close on 100 more than at last year's, and I desire to thank all who helped us to make the show a success, as when a few accounts are settled I believe we shall have a balance in hand. All prize money was paid to exhibitors attending show, and the remainder would have received theirs by Monday noon; should anyone have been overlooked will they write to me? All exhibits were cleared out of the room by 9.30. Next year we shall endeavour to beat this.

KILMARNOCK.

The Kilmarnock C.B.F.C. held their 35th annual show on November 6th in the Co-operative Hall. The hall is large and well lighted, with plenty of ventilation, and heated throughout with hot water pipes—an ideal place for an affair of the kind. This club is well patronised by local gentlemen, and is in a flourishing condition. The secretary is Mr. R. McCaw, and for a hard worker and courteous, and one with the whole interest of the Fancy at heart, it would be difficult to fill his place. The Kilmarnock fanciers appreciate his good qualities, and this remark applies to the president, Mr. Wm. Guthrie, who was there the whole day, keeping everything well in hand. Mr. P. Holden (Muirkirk) and Mr. Hood placed the awards in the Scotch Fancy section; Mr. Hood for the Crests and Norwich section, Mr. Holden for the Border section, and Mr. Gavin Alston (Darvel) Mules, British, and Foreign. Their awards in most cases met with approval, but, of course, there are always a few grumblers, who cannot see past their own birds. Munroe gold medal, most points over show, J. B. Y. Murdoch; runner up, J. Hutchins; silver cup, most points Scotch Fancy,, A. Paton; silver cup, most points Crests, G. F. Adamson; silver cup, most points Norwich, Jas. Hutchison; silver cup, most points Borders, J. B. Y. Murdoch; silver cup, most points Mules, R. McCaw; silver cup, most points British and Foreign, A. Mackie; silver cup, best bird in show, A. Watson (variegated buff Norwich hen); runner up, J. B. Y. Murdoch (clear buff Border hen)

EASTFIELD SIDE.

Eastfield Side C.B.S. (Sutton-in-Ashfield) third annual show was held on November 6th, at headquarters, the Mason's Arms. The host, Mr. J. J. Bradbury, was most attentive in looking after the comfort of visitors, and the best was made of the space at command. Mr. J. T. Tudsbury is president and Mr. J. Allsop vice-president, and the comfort of the birds and the management of the show were looked after by a good working committee in Messrs. G. Hall, J. G. Wright, S. Wooley, J. L. Wright, H. Hall, J. Smedley, S. Hawksley, and A. H. Wright. The hon. secretary, Mr. J. Carlin, had the work well in hand, and cards were up and the birds watered early. Mr. J. Bertie (Nottingham) made the awards, and with few exceptions his verdicts gave satisfaction. Some classes were badly filled, owing, no doubt, to the number of shows on the same date.

L. & P.O.S. & DULWICH & PECKHAM (Combined.)

Held in Prince's Hall, Lambeth Baths, on Nov. 4th and 5th. These two societies held their shows jointly and so far as entries, quality, and management were concerned, the effort may be pronounced a decided success, while Prince's Hall is undoubtedly a splendid room for this purpose. In such a hall and with such a past master at show management in their ranks as Mr. J. W. Ramsden, the joint committee could not fail to have every arrangement complete. To give the names of the committee will suffice to convey an adequate impression of the forces at work to command success. They were Messrs. J. W. Ramsden, J. Hodder, C. T. Maxwell, and H. E. Tringham (hon. sec.), for the L. and P. O.S.; Messrs. E. S. Lugg, J. W. Norris, L. J. Richardson, and W. Hodson (hon. sec.) for the Dulwich and Peckham Society. The staging was conveniently high and well arranged, while the display of palms and ferns gave a pleasing effect to the whole. The judges were Messrs. H. Broadley for Yorks. and Linnet classes; Mr. J. Robson for all other Canaries and For.; and Mr. A. Silver for Brit. and Mules. The competition in the champion section was very keen. The Norwich were a show in themselves, and for a purely members' effort, did the combined societies great credit. There were 90 birds in five classes, the unlighted class topping the list with 26. One of the pleasant features of the gathering was the presence of that veteran friend of the L. and P. O.S. (and of all that pertains to the Cage Bird Fancy), Mr. Geo. Crabb.

The proceedings were opened by Mr. Crabb, who introduced the Mayor and Mayoress of Lambeth, and thanked them for officiating. The Mayor said it gave himself and the Mayoress great pleasure to be present and to open the exhibition. He thought the Borough of Lambeth ought to feel honoured at having such an interesting event in its midst. What he had seen was a great surprise to him, and was totally different to what he had expected to see. The idea of the general public as to a bird fancier was very different to what the fancier was in reality, he said; and he hoped to spend an hour or so making himself better acquainted with the birds. The Mayoress was presented with a lovely colour-fed Norwich Canary in a handsome drawing-room cage by the little daughter of the esteemed Hon. Sec., Mr. Tringham. There seems some possibility of adding the names of the Mayor and Mayoress to the Fancy, as we heard it rumoured that they were investing largely in the various books of instruction on bird-keeping that were on sale in the hall.

The winners of most important specials were:—L.P. O.S. Norwich Challenge Cup, E. Baker (Cowes); Yorkshire, ditto, J. Wilcock (Bradford); Mules, ditto, Mrs. Askham; British, ditto, C. T. Maxwell; Foreign, ditto, C. T. Maxwell; Crest and Crest-Bred, ditto, J. Dobson. Ramsden's Cruets: Champion Section, S. Harris; Novice, J. Billington. Dulwich and Peckham Young Bird Bowl, J. Hodder; Points Cup, C. T. Maxwell. Mr. Mabey runs up for this cup, and wins gold medal for doing so.

PARTICK.

Eleventh annual show and prize drawing of the Partick and Dis. O.A was held in the Subway Halls on Saturday, 6th November. President, Mr. W. Anthony Maxwell; Vice-President, Mr. Robert Anderson; treasurer, Mr. John Kidd; secretary, Mr. J. Henderson; committee, Messrs. A. Miller, D. Aitkenhead, A. Cochrane, W. Priest, T. Sheridan, P. Henry. Judges: Mr. C. Campbell (Glasgow), the Canaries; and Mr. J. Brown, the Mules, British and Foreign. The club were happy in their selection of the Subway Halls, these being well adapted for show purposes in every way. There was a large turn out of visitors. The largest entry in the association's experience was obtained—over 350, quite a creditable number. Sec. Henderson and his committee had worked hard to have all arrangements made to ensure success, and the ready response made by exhibitors on this occasion was much appreciated. The staging was perfect. We were glad to see the name of a lady in the prize list, Mrs. Rowan, who takes a deep interest in the society. Mr. A. Miller was again successful in winning the cup; this is the fourth time he has occupied this position. The runner-up was Mr. W. Griffiths, winning cup for best second bird; Mr. A. Maxwell, with a lovely clear Plainhead, winning Hyde's special. The judging was a heavy task; the awards, however, seemed to meet with general satisfaction.

BRECHIN.

Brechin C.B.S. held their 46th annual show in the Temperance Hall, on November 6th. The entries numbered 350, slightly lower than last year's, due, no doubt, to the very changeable weather, which is keeping a great many birds back in the moult. Too much credit cannot be given to the management for the way they carried the event through, and with such well-known fanciers as Mr. Wm. Hampton as President, Mr. T. Brown as Vice-President, Mr. Geo. Mitchell secretary and treasurer, and Mr. George Davidson his assistant, and a hard-working committee, consisting of Messrs. Pirrie, Harrison, Skinner, Douglas, Burnett, Taylor, Aikenhead, Crabb, Steven, Stirling, Christian, Smith, Lyall, and Sandiman, it is no wonder the show was a success. The entries in Norwich were not up to the usual, but the quality was very good. Borders were out in strong force, and the type and quality were to perfection. British birds, too, were not up to their usual number; fanciers will have to buck up and send their British bird exhibits North, or else societies will not cater for them. The judges got through in good time, and marked catalogues were on sale by 2.30—very smart indeed. The challenge cup for the best bird in show was won by Mr. Geo. Mitchell (Brechin). We overheard it was related to the Glasgow winner. The medal presented by the B.F.C.C. for the best bird belonging to a member, was won by Mr. Henry Bennet (Kelso). The novice medal was won by Mr. T. Spence (Methil). Sandiford's medal for best coloured bird was won by a dark yell. Linnet Mule. The judges were: for Norwich, Mr. D. Gowans (Glasgow), for Borders, Mr. Wm. Shearer (Hamilton), and for British and Foreign birds, Mr. J. Lyon (Aberdeen), and their awards were well received.

BLACKBURN.

The thirteenth annual show of the Blackburn and Dis. C.B.S. was held on Nov. 5th and 6th, in the Unity Club, Blackburn, a very good room for the purpose. Entries came up fairly well, considering that there were several other shows held on the same day in Lancashire, and we trust that the show will be a success financially. The exhibits were of the highest merit, and consequently competition was very keen. In the Norwich section Messrs. Sandiford, Curwen, Seed, Dormer and F. Turner put down grand teams, whilst Messrs. Binns and Lane accounted for the principal prizes in the Yorkshire Section. British, Mules and Foreign were quite a show in themselves, and here Messrs. Jeffrey Walsh, J. M. Walsh, Hunt, Hunter, Almond, Kilver, and Nichols captured the 1st prizes. The secretary, Mr. J. W. Marsden, and the assistant secretary, Mr. J. Dobson, are both very well up in the art of show management, and had everything in admirable order. They were ably supported by the Chairman, Mr. J. Lyons, the treasurer, Mr. S. Tweddle, and a hard-working committee. Mr. A. Wellings placed the cards and we did not hear any complaints.

WIGAN.

Wigan and Dist. C.B.S. held their annual show on Nov. 5th and 6th, in Victoria Hall, an ideal room for a bird show, being lofty, well lighted from the roof, and free from draught. Mr. W. Massey (Bolton) judged the Roller Singing Contest, and Mr. H. Tams (Longton) all other classes, and their awards seemed to be well received. The entry was a great disappointment, no less than 18 classes having unfortunately to be cancelled. The C.B.U., we heard, were blamed for allowing four shows to be held in Lancashire, on the same day, as some were sure to suffer, and that Wigan fanciers were the unfortunate ones. The show was opened by Councillor James Lowe. The society's amateur challenge cup was won by Mr. P. Vickers; special prize for best Norwich in Members' Classes, Mr. E. Ball; Hyde's special, Mr. P. Vickers. The officers of the society are to be congratulated on their successful management of affairs, and upon having at the helm such a capable hon. sec. as Mr. W. Ridge, who did all in his power to make the show a success. The Chairman is Mr. J. Roberts, the Vice-Chairman Mr. J. Richards, the treasurer Mr. J. Sharrock, the assistant secretary Mr. W. Dyer, and the committee Messrs. J. Webster, P. Vickers, E. Ball, J. Bennett, H. Young, J. Large, J. Livesey, T. Berry, W. Hodkinson, G. Rhoid, Jas. Ball, T. Summers, H. Baldwin, L. J. Thorley, R. Williams, J. Lomax, F. Reid, R. Holden, W. Winstanley; E. Fairhurst, and C. Crabtree. Teas and light refreshments were provided in the room for visitors, amongst whom we noticed several fanciers from other towns.

CAMBORNE.

The Camborne F.A. held their annual show in the Market Hall, on Nov. 4th, in good weather; taken all over it was a great success, there being nearly 300 birds, several of which could hold their own in many of the All England shows. The quality of the exhibits was quite as high as has been seen for several years. All sections were well filled, and in every respect a magnificent display. Norwich all over were good, and here we must congratulate the judge, who went throughout for birds of the pure Norwich type. Crests and crest-breds made quite a nice show, and the Yorks. were well represented. The Mule and Hybrid classes had a good entry, including some choice exhibits, while the British and Foreign were much admired. The silver cup for most points was won by F. Collins, with 75 points; it being the second year in succession, this now becomes his own property. The same exhibitor won Sandiford's medal for hottest fed Canary or Mule, with a yellow Norwich. The attendance was very satisfactory, especially in the evening, where the Camborne Church military band made their first appearance. The general secretary, Mr. Allen, and Mr. Collins, the chairman, were at the helm, and looked well after the comfort of the birds, and they were ably assisted by a most enthusiastic committee. Mr. W. G. Poole (Stratford-on-Avon) judged, and his awards gave every satisfaction.

BO'NESS.

Bo'ness, N.B., held their 5th annual show on 6th November, and it proved a success. The Canary sees on the whole were good, but the exceptive I not get the response they expected in the Nor- h section, after engaging the services of a well- own English judge and breeder, but what were aged were exceedingly carefully handled, and Mr. ndiford left very little to be commented upon. judged the Norwich, Crests and C.B.'s, and rkshires. Borders were a nice all-round collection, d contained some high-class specimens, competi- on in many of the classes being very keen. They me under the eye of Mr. J. Thomson, and he refully selected the winners to the satisfaction of majority. British and Mules, however, were the ature of the show—a grand classification and a od response. There were 30 classes, and all were presented. The hen British class was a hot one, me gems being on view, and here was found the st British in show, the well-known Thrush, "Bor- r Queen." The committee were fortunate in hav- g secured the services of two veteran British bird dges, Messrs. Geo. Marlin and Wm. Cullen, who refully summed up the various points, and were appy in their selections. Great competition reigned nong local exhibitors for the custody of three sil- r cups, but here the well-known British bird ex- bitors, Messrs. McGillivray Bros., captured the t, being closely followed by Messrs. Bell and ewar. The management was A1, the committee eing composed of real genuine fanciers, and every ossible care was taken of the exhibits from a stance. The hall is suitable for a show, but a ade on the dark side. The secretarial duties were the hands of Mr. F. McGillivray, and right well id he manage them; he got through an immense mount of work speedily, and without much ado. he show was well patronised.

CLEATOR MOOR.

The sixth annual exhibition of the Cleator Moor F.S. was held on Nov. 6th. The Market Hall, in which the show was held, is well adapted for the purposes of a show, being very roomy, well lighted from the roof, free from draught and clean. The Canary section, though not as well represented numerically as it might have been, contained many birds that could well hold their own in stronger competition. The features of the show were the Linnets, invariably strong here. This class contained 21 entries, and was headed by a grand bird in lovely fettle, belonging to Mr. G. Wilson, which also won at Harrington. The committee, who worked hard for the success of the show, consisted of Messrs. Jas. Rigg (chairman), B. Gray (vice-chairman), J. G. Sumpton, J. Sumpton, jun., Jos. Whalley, John Fisher, Thos. Kearton, Wm. Whalley, Rob. Fowler, Peter Branney, Enoch Jones, with Mr. J. G. Sumpton (treasurer), and Mr. Jas. E. Bryne, the capable and courteous secretary. Prize money was paid out to successful exhibitors present, a plan we heartily recommend in these pressing times. The judge for our section was Mr. A. Bentley (Great Harwood), who appeared to give every satisfaction.

BLAYDON-ON-TYNE.

Another Tyneside Record.

The sixth annual show of the Blaydon-on-Tyne Society was held on Nov. 5th and 6th. The venue was the Co-operative Hall, a grand place in every respect, being lofty and well lighted, and entirely free from draught. Entries came up splendidly, totalling 691, which constitutes a record for the society, and is 140 more than last year. Yorkshires made a grand display, averaging 15 per class in nine classes, while the quality of the exhibits was exceptionally good, and reflects great credit on the work done by the Northern Yorkshire Canary Club. The members of this club secured most of the principal awards. The N.A.C.C. Cup and medal for best Yorkshire, went to Mr. Ralph Butler (Jarrow) with a grand buff of exceptional merit. Norwich averaged 12 per class, and contained many grand birds, notably the mulighted yellow hen "Queen of Queens," exhibited by Mr. Geo. Harland, looking even better than when we saw her at Newcastle. Borders contained 39 in three classes, and here again quality and type predominated. Crests did not come up so well, 61 birds in eight classes—just over six per class, yet in this section was found the winner of the Challenge Prize (a pair of bronzes) for the best bird in the show, the honour going to Mr. R. Armstrong's well-known "King of Kings," now at his best. This bird secured the bronzes last year, and Mr. Armstrong now becomes the final possessor of this splendid prize. We were sorry to see Mr. T. Taylor's young Crest, "Emperor," in such a bad state, and we hope he will not be so unfortunate as to lose him. Mules and British were also very good, and the lightly ticked Celtic Mule shown by Mr. J. Maddison, of Newcastle, is indeed a beauty. Truly this exhibitor knows how to stage a bird to perfection. The management was all that could be desired, every member doing his very best in looking after the comfort of the exhibits. In Mr. Geo. Havver the society possesses a splendid secretary, hard-working, courteous, and most obliging to all, besides having a thorough knowledge of everything that is required in the running of such a large show. It must have been very gratifying to him to find his efforts so well rewarded by such a good entry. We cannot omit a word of praise for the chairman of the society, Mr. John Hands, who was continually on the move, giving advice and lending a hand wherever required. These two gentlemen were well supported by a band of hard-working fanciers, consisting of Messrs. J. Davidson, G. T. Ellwood, J. Bean, T. Brown, G. Johnson, J. Carr, W. Bousfield, J. Clark, J. Lee, C. Vallans, W. Blaylock, J. Tyson, Jos. Carr, J. Crass, T. Fletcher, J. W. Dixon, and J. McGuinness. Grand weather favoured the event, and we were very pleased to see such a large attendance of the public, the showroom being quite crowded on the Saturday afternoon. The silver cup and medal presented by Messrs. W. Willson, Ltd., for most points gained by a member with three nominated birds, was won by Mr. F. Leck; Hyde's special went to Mr. W. Scott, while Sandiford's medal was secured by Mr. J. McGuinness. The judges were: Messrs. J. Robson (London), and H. W. Battye (Huddersfield).
